Post Malone has recently released the special track 'Only Wanna Be With You (Pokémon 25 Version)'

This morning on Thursday, a very special song is released by Post Malone. It is the cover of Hootie and the Blowfish 'Only Wanna Be With You (Pokémon 25 Version)'. This is released as part of the 25th Anniversary of Pokémon. Post Malone is going to perform this song this Saturday, and also on other songs at a virtual concert of Pokémon on the Twitch channels and Pokémon YouTube. But quite, unfortunately, no Pokémon references are inserted by Post Malone into the track 'Only Wanna Be With You (Pokémon 25 Version)'. There is not even a single mention related to Pikachu. The cover still looks very good even though it is more like a missed opportunity. This is very much a faithful rendition of the track with game samples that are Pokémon-esque. But one reference is changed which is a football thing that says the Miami Dolphins to the Dallas Cowboys, which is the favorite team of Post Malone.

The question is raised about Hootie and the Blowfish.

One can easily guess that the track 'Only Wanna Be With You' released for the first time in the year 1995 and the very next year 1996, Pokémon was released. This has honestly built up a great connection with the fans. The CDs that are owned as a child by the fans are the ones of the Grammy compilation. This has also created a nostalgic fondness for Hootie and the Blowfish. The 1995 album, 'Cracked Rear View' by the American rock band Hootie and the Blowfish included the track.

'Only Wanna Be With You' by Hootie and the Blowfish was not on the Grammy CD in 1996 but one can easily find the track 'Let Her Cry'.

On Thursday morning, it is announced by The Pokémon Company that along with the new track by Post Malone it is going to broadcast a video called Pokémon Presents on Friday sharp at 10 am ET. Real details are still not announced about what is expected but there are a lot of them who are speculating that the company is soon going to announce the remakes of Pearl and Pokémon Diamond. The live stream concert by Post Malone is the maiden musical sample as part of the 'P25 Music'.

The song is the perfect remake of Shamur's 2004 hit party song 'Let The Music Play'. The film-maker of Ruhi has decided to bring back the excitement of the song by embedding different rhythmic elements into it. The song is bound to give the audience the perfect entertainment in the film. 'Roohi' is the second installment of the 2018 Rajkummar Rao-starred film 'Stree' franchise. The trailer of the film released two weeks ago has impressed the audience with its storyline, polished cinematography, and witty dialogs.

'Roohi' has been the center of many speculations for weeks for being the second installment of 'Stree' and its several name changes. It was first supposed to be named Rooh Afza, and then Roohi Afzana. The makers finally settled on the current name after weeks. The movie is produced by Dinesh Vijan and Mrighdeep Singh Lamba. It is the first time they are working with Rajkummar Rao and Janhvi. Rajkummar and Varun have previously worked together in 'Dolly Ki Doli'.

The song has reached a higher level with the remixed beats and the performance of all the artists, especially Rashmeet Kaur. Janhvi Kapoor looks absolutely gorgeous in the shadowy and sandy setting of the video. She is dressed in a gold two-piece flaunting her beautiful physique. Her remarkable dance moves line up perfectly with the killer beats of the track. The remixed version of the song is composed by and Sachin- Jigar. 'Roohi' will be releasing on March 11 in theaters.

In the middle of the show, Zara pauses from her non-stop pop ballad and shares a few words on the empowerment of women and the importance of equity. The ambiance changes as she starts singing 'Need Love' with First Aid Kit with her blissful vocals.

“Money in the bank” Ft Trapanechik & Pt mullah by Yung X unleashes surprising melodic hooks

Yung X drops his latest hit record “Money in the bank” Ft Trapanechik & Pt mullah that upholds his lovable style and satisfies listeners with its groovy essentials.

It’s hard not to groove when Yung X gets in the mood to create something melodic yet something that matches his style. His music is beyond the reach of the mediocre and the rapper is pushing it hard to get through to the top. The high-rated rapper switches between emo rap and intricate melody-driven soundscape to hit the listener’s attention with impact.

His signature style to narrate the rap with a hooking groove is mind-blowing. The artist’s raw vocals embody a punk kind-of attitude, but the sound lives up to the aesthetics to comfort the demands of the new-age listeners. At such a young age, the artist shows how versatile he could be and the best introduction to his caliber is his latest music video “Money in the bank” Ft Trapanechik & Pt mullah that confirms his superiority in the genre.

His strong songwriting, memorable hooks, and ability to strike a genuine connection with the audience seem to be his greatest strength and just shows how abundant is his potential in the field. The artist’s music is more of a modern melodic hip-hop anthem that combines a catchy hook, well-sung, and well-infused melodies, and stylistic rapping over hitting infectious beats. As the track keeps growing melodically, a female voice pours in seamlessly and the blend of both the vocal tonality completely steer the mood of the track.

It sounds like the perfect concoction of diverse rap styles as each individual presents their unique version of rap that draws and captivates the attention permanently. The songwriting is raw and oozes a sensuous vibe with every verse. The overall theme builds up the mood and the quickly impressive hook melody evolves into something highly addictive.

Yung X has received a wonderful response from the crowd for his tremendous potential and the sonic elements he brings to the table with much perfection. The clarity and the devotion with which the rapper executes his genuine musical pieces preserve the very raw essence of hip-hop. The latest single “Money in the bank” Ft Trapanechik & Pt mullah celebrates his creativity most profoundly and the other featuring artists contribute their best to make the composition far more unsettling.

All of it, which includes the intriguing concept, the new way of playing with the sound arrangement, the personal details, and the refreshing attitude to deal with hip-hop, speaks volumes on behalf of his quirky musicality. Hear it on YouTube now.

BLACKPINK's ROSÉ has premiered her highly-anticipated solo debut single 'On The Ground'

Top Korean Girl band BLACKPINK's ROSÉ has come up with her debut solo single, titled 'On The Ground'. The official music video premiered today on 12th March, at 2 p.m. KST. It is the title track of her first solo album, named "R". The music video is produced by Teddy, 24, and many other producers like Jon Bellion, Jorgen Odegard, ojivolta, etc. The music video features ROSÉ in various fashionable outfits and vibrant colors, starting with Black and Pink. Meanwhile, the fanatics are guessing whether it's a metaphorical link to her band, the pop track proceeds with a grunge-like ambiance with burning cars, falling chandeliers, fire, and flashes in an abandoned amusement park-like setting. The series of destruction is well balanced with creativity, aesthetic and soothing color palette. At the end of the video, The artist could be seen performing and levitating in a field full of white and pink flowers to the horizon. The climax is a soothing relief after the destruction. This track is completely English and the subject matter revolves around realizing the importance within oneself. Dealing with self-reflection and self-love, the cinematography of the video perfectly portrays the narrative and puts a deeper impact on the listeners and viewers as well. Visit ROSÉ's YouTube channel to witness.

ROSÉ is a multifaceted artist from New Zealand who has garnered a lot of attention and world recognition while performing with her band BLACKPINK and that is why her solo project has been standing at the epitome of anticipation. Usually, the followers and listeners fall in great doubt that the artist might have left the band whenever a member starts performing solo. Well, guess what? K-pop is breaking the norms as ROSÉ is not going to leave the group and she is a former member of the band. And most importantly, she is not the first member to make a solo project. Her fellow bandmate Jennie has previously released a project, named 'Solo' in 2018. As a matter of fact, these solo efforts by the members are pretty common in K-pop that boosts the band's popularity as well. The K-pop culture, their brand, and music collaboration have enriched western culture as well. However, most of the listeners can only remember the group's name but fail to name a member from there.

She is born in New Zealand and raised in Australia which makes her a native English speaker. As a solo artist, her musical works are completely different than what most listeners seek from a K-pop artist. The latest track 'On The Ground' provides a more intimate and intriguing English pop ballad-like musical experience than a sugary dance-pop number. So do not expect any exciting choreography here. Not to emphasize the solo debut, but ROSÉ's solo venture of the musical journey is initiating a new chapter in the history of K-pop music and their quest for musical world domination.

'Heights', 'Spaceman', and '2Drnk' among others. Artist Nick Jonas bears it all about his trials in the opening song of the album. The songs from 'Spaceman' show individuality in terms of production and collective composition. There is a subtle strain of the Eighties pop glory all across the album that makes it fit as a dance floor record. In one word, it can be called atmospheric as the sound matures into a deep creative understanding by the end of the record. Smooth, experimental, and new-age, the album instantly captures the young crowd. Although they use sounds to form the 90s and the 80s, the result is more like an evolved sound that emerged from the foundation rather than an outright copy. The vocal harmony blends with the vintage production with the traces of saxophone making the song elevate into a soul-rendering piece. 'Sexual' is about the tension that reflects in its pulsating percussion patterns. Each song imbibes an assortment of influences and cuts their own identities through the process. The artist is clearly at the high-end side of creative skills with his latest record. Listen to his new album on repeat on Spotify right now.

The artist has a fantastic vocal appeal and ensures that her songs hold a deeper meaning to resonate with a wider audience group. She is fierce, independent, and is navigating with unwavering confidence to rule the hearts of her fans.

Rapper Cardi B’s debut major-label single, ‘Bodak Yellow’ has been attributed with a diamond certificate recognized by the Recording Industry Association of America. The artist who hails from New York City has now become the very first female rapper to have achieved the Diamond status as per RIAA. Her single, ‘Bodak Yellow’ has crossed the 10 million cut-off mark. RIAA has revealed that one equivalent song unit corresponds to a single digital sale. In other words, it accounts for 150 on-demand audio or video streams.

The artist accomplished this historic milestone last Monday. Her other latest single ‘WAP’ that features Megan Thee Stallion has also reached halfway with a 5x multi-platinum status as per statistics estimated on March 3.

The artist posted a video and explained how the label, Atlantic Records surprised her with the plaque and that too at a restaurant. All this took place after a day of long and exhausting rehearsals. She thanked her team and gave them the credit for her feat. In the video, she could not hold her disbelief and admitted that it made her day and uplifted her spirits. Many of her peers and contemporaries congratulated her for this unparalleled feat including artists such as G-Eazy, Lil Yachty, City Girls’ JT, and Kodak Black. Kodak Black’s debut 2015 single, ‘No Flockin’ was the original inspiration behind the song that took her to the epitome of this accomplishment. She also clapped back at one Twitter user who claimed that she was not giving enough credit to Black for this stupendous success and writing. She tweeted saying that Black got all the credit for the song as they are both earning a lot from its popularity.

She also said that the name of the song also resonates with that of Black.

The artist also made another history for ‘Bodak Yellow’ on the Billboard Hot 100 charts. The single not only hit the No.1 spot in the list back in October 2017 but she also became the very first female rapper to top the charts without any other credited artists in over 20 years. The same feat was accomplished by Lauryn Hill with her first solo entry, ‘Doo Wop (That Thing)’ when it debuted at NO. 1 on November 14, 1998. Cardi’s single was released in 2017 that stayed in the US Billboard Top 100 chart for straight three weeks. That time, the excited fan took to Instagram to post her heartfelt thankfulness and gratefulness for this acknowledgment. She is always in the limelight for her straightforward opinions of various socio-political issues. She cuts to the chase in her views that often pushes her to face controversy. This feat, however, will expand her career into never-before-known boundaries.

'Behind This Door' by Chris Maragoth celebrates unrequited love with the perfect dose of classic rock music

Chris Maragoth's 'Behind This Door' is everything your heart needs after a painful breakup. Filled with massive rock bars, the song is perfect for multiple listens.

Even if the genre of rock has gone through filtration over the years but few things remain unwaveringly untouched. Bringing back the eccentricity and the power of core rock sound with his music, artist Chris Maragoth presents the perfect blend of alt-rock with classic rock in the most profuse manner. Occasionally the artist collaborates with other musicians, rather than builds his records to make a significant mark. His music style comes from the direct influence of modern rock and melodic metal, and also amalgamates fluent hints from various other genres of rock and metal music. It's rather impossible to categorize his music and the melodic bars sound infectious throughout.

'Behind This Door' represents the musicianship of this very talented rock star. The kind of versatility the artist has poured in, in terms of the melodies is a striking affair. Openly emotive, unafraid to speak with honesty, and passionate about what he brings to the table, the singer connects with high melodic satisfaction and the nature of songwriting. The song is a powerful ballad that the singer had penned down while he was going through a painful breakup. The lyrics hint at his vulnerability and the crisis through which the artist went through. The song speaks everything about what happens after a relationship ends and the artist churns out the best of emotions with his anthem-like vocals and sound arrangement. Being an excellent guitarist, Chris Maragoth gives the song

'Behind This Door' the most impressive sound design with the help of unending guitar plunges. The song allows everyone to put themselves in their shoes and the artist speaks everything about what happens after a relationship ends. He has churned out the best of emotions with his anthem-like vocals and sound arrangement. Listen to him on Spotify, YouTube, and Apple Music, and follow him on Facebook and Instagram for more details.

MAJOR GERMAN FESTIVALS HAVE CANCELED THEIR EDITIONS IN 2021 AND THERE WILL BE NO 'SUMMER OF REUNION'

Many German Festivals are slated for 2021 to have been canceled. The ongoing restrictions brought about the announcements of cancellations for this year's editions.

Greenfield, Rock im Park, SonneMondSterne, Rock am Ring, Hurricane, Southside, and Deichbrand. These are all names of some of the major German Festivals. The Eventim Live companies promote all these festivals but they came up with the announcement for cancellation of the editions that are slated to take place in 2021. The coronavirus pandemic has resulted in restrictions in any kind of gatherings and there are uncertainties about the time when these restrictions are going to be lifted.

Those who have bought the ticket will get a chance to attend the editions of the festivals next year in 2022.

The CEO of CTS Eventim, Klaus-Peter Schulenberg has said that they very much regret the cancellations that were made, and the disappointments are shared with everyone who is involved. But, of course, he has given most importance to precedence, to protect and safeguard the health of performers, fans, partners, and festival teams. He further added that nevertheless, it is pretty clear that the uncertainty that is continuing is further aggravating the financial situation that is dramatic and the live music industry is finding them in the problem.

They have already started work on various levels and it has ensured that the live culture will return to the stage with utmost safety and as quick as possible.

Dr. Frithjof Pils, the managing director of Eventim Live has said that the organizers of the festival have invested a whole lot of energy and time in infection and sanitary control concepts to make sure that the event is held this summer possibly and this summer is meant to be 'the summer of reunions'.

Pils has also said that there is a continuing epidemiological situation and the restrictions that are associated with it are in force. One has to accept this fact with a heavy heart that the festivals that are of this magnitude are not at all feasible at this moment. Therefore, they are trying to focus on the summer festivals of 2022 and want to create an unforgettable experience for the fans.

The German live professionals have confirmed this and they have been saying this for quite a few weeks. At the ILMC, held last week, the CEO of FKP Scorpio, Stephan Thanschmidt has said that very few have been buying tickets for this year's summer events. He also added that there is little chance for festivals to take place in continental Europe this June or July.

The twin festivals usually are slated for June along with Deichbrand.

Several territories are in a new lockdown as part of Continental Europe and it is a pretty different story than in the UK, where the major festivals are taking place with sell-out and on sales in no time.

The roadmap for lockdown is announced by the UK government and there is an increase in optimism as the restrictions are lifted on social gatherings by 21st June.

The ever-changing situation due to coronavirus announcements hardly has any significance and the entire industry knows it.

A Complete Cookbook to the 2021 Grammys

Grammy Awards 2021 is all set and in full swing to celebrate the ceremony at last. Delaying from January, the show is finally scheduled to be held on this 14th March, Sunday. As the schedules are finalized, the performers are busy with their preparations in a socially-distanced stage to keep things safe from COVID. While the global audience is waiting for the Sunday Mega event, here is a look through what performances, controversies, and snubs you can expect of.

How will the show look?

Yes, that is the foremost curiosity that has popped into everybody's mind since this would be different due to the COVID situation. The Recording Academy is trying to keep things safe and soundly with regards to COVID- safe presentation and stage. They said that the artists would "be coming together, while still safely apart, to play music for each other as a community." In simple words, the gala and grand platform will include a mix of live and digital performances in-person and pre-taped, video-linked appearances. In a recent interaction with the Rolling Stone, Ben Winston said that the Grammy will be filmed in "an undisclosed building in Los Angeles." Ben is the executive producer of his first Grammy telecast. He further said that the event will not take place at STAPLES Center, which was last year's venue. There is a chance that the platform will be consisting four stages for the performers and one for the presenters of the ceremony. Ben said, "People will perform while the other three or four artists watch, applaud, and enjoy". He further added, "As soon as that one finishes, the next one goes, the next one goes, and the next one goes. Every 45 minutes, you change out those stages, and you bring another four megastars into the room." So the audience can expect a series of ground-breaking performances also on a continuous seamless motion like a non-stop musical ballad. Excited enough already? Well, here comes the performer's list! The show has a huge slate of performers for the evening featuring, Billie Eilish, Cardi B, Taylor Swift, Harry Styles, Doja Cat, Megan Thee Stallion, Bad Bunny, Da Baby, BTS, Post Malone, Chris Martin from Coldplay, John Mayer, Roddy Rich, Brittany Howard, Lil Baby, Dua Lipa, Maren Morris, and the list still continues. Some of the late additions include Bruno Mars and Anderson.Paak for their unwavering performance in their latest project 'Silk Sonic'.

It is heard that host Trevor Noah will be introducing workers from different independent venues to present the award in recognition of the financial struggle of the decaying live music industry due to the global pandemic.

Landmark achievements

The 2021 Grammy is making history by including Mickey Guyton. The artist has been nominated as a solo country artist as the first Black Woman. Like the best country solo performance, 'Black Like Me' is correcting an unwritten rule. The artist said, women are "only allowed to sing about heartbreak and cute, fun songs, but God forbid we have other feelings." By winning four awards she can break the record of Alison Krauss who is the record holder as the female artist. If she can garner five awards, she will be able to beat Quincy Jones who has a record of having most Grammys as a living music artist. The record for most Grammys is occupied by classical conductor Sir Georg Solti. If the artist wants to break that record, she has to win at least eight awards.

There are some unusual entries this year who have never performed in Grammy before, like The Strokes. Travis Scott, Jay Electronica, Freddie Gibbs, and Harry Styles stand alone to get their trophy back home. On the other hand, BTS has doubled its stake with ‘Dynamite’ for the Best Pop Group Performance category. BTS would be the first K-pop group to win a Grammy Award.

Controversies

The nomination of Lukasz “Dr. Luke” Gottwald has generated some deep controversy as the producer was blamed for sexual abuse against Kesha. However, Luke denied Kesha’s allegations and threaten to sue her for defamation. While Kesha was asked whether she wants to smash any award before calling all the ladies on the stage, she replied, “My second thought,” she added, “was I wonder if I can get all these ladies to boycott this shit because of Dr. Luke.”

Deborah Dugan was hired to settle down all the rising controversies as the first woman president and CEO of the Recording Academy. But she ended up filing a complaint against the academy for discrimination. In her complaint letter, she addressed the academy as a “boy’s club” mentality that lacks diversity and sensibility. The protest can be seen in the young people and performers as five of the three children nominations have urged to rescind their nominations and stated, “a process that has—both this year and historically—so overlooked women, performers of color, and most especially Black performers.”

Perhaps Justin Bieber deserves some sympathy as he has been very much disappointed with ‘Changes’ being nominated in the Best Pop Vocal category rather than R&B. He said, “Changes was and is an R&B album. It is not being acknowledged as an R&B album, which is very strange to me.”

Snubbed stories

Since the Superbowl HalfTime show, The Weeknd’s ‘Binding Lights’ have garnered a lot of attention but did not get any nomination for it even after the groundbreaking recognition for his album, ‘After Hours’. Apparently, the artist and Tesfaye have called the ceremony “corrupt”. On the other hand, Bob Dylan was absent from the list of nominees as well. His Billboard top charting track ‘Murder Most Foul’ and critically acclaimed studio album ‘Rough and Rowdy Ways’ could not assure a single nod for this 38-time Grammy nominee.

Last week, she announced that she will be releasing new songs soon. And this week the 'Meant to Be' kept her promise. She also finds another male vampire in the hospital and takes him to a club where it rains down blood on them. The girls dance like there is no tomorrow and have a bloody good time. The sheer grandness of the video has the fans go gaga over it.

Bebe Rexha had worked really hard on her music projects. She has recently said, 'My sophomore album is by far the most challenging yet fulfilling project I have ever worked on.' She put a lot of effort into her creations. She explained, 'I wrote, recorded, re-wrote, re-recorded and then repeated that process in order to deliver an album that truly reflects who I am as a singer, songwriter and most importantly as an artist.' She also stated, 'I want to give listeners a journey of pop paradise fused with elements of rock and hip-hop.'

She further said, 'It's important to me that my music continues to recognize ongoing themes of vulnerability, the cycle of self-destruction & self-realization, and female empowerment.'

On the YouTube Released episode, she has revealed some information on her upcoming album. This is going to be her second project after her debut LP 'Expectations' in 2018. She has not revealed the name and the release date of the new album. But she let out the fact that Travis Barker will be playing drum and teamed up with Lil Uzi Vert in the album. The theme of the album will be 'honesty and vulnerability. She also said that she will be talking about her insecurities in it as well. The song 'Sacrifice' and its music video are available on all major streaming platforms.
