Billie Eilish made her fans go crazy with the latest music video of 'Lost Cause'

The premiere of the latest music video of 'Lost Cause' is certainly creating a huge buzz among Billie's fans and followers.

Keeping everyone hot and bothered, the music video features Billie and her girl gang enjoying in a setting that appears to be an in-house 'only girls' party.

The visual and lyrical representation emphasizes the central theme of the lost cause of life. It shows the girl squad enjoying themselves throwing darts to a dartboard with "MEN" clearly written on it. Some fans even think she released this track in June since it is Pride month.

Visually aesthetic and lyrically poignant, the track has already gathered a lot of attention from the listeners and around 19 million views in just 2 days.

The track 'Lost Cause' is showing some transformation with a different sound and look which appears to more sassy and intoxicating. It is quite different than her last Billboard Hot 100 top 10 single "Your Power".

Thanks to Kerrice Brooks, Ashley Nickole, Joya Jackson, Lexee Smith, Yuliana Maldonado, and Nataly Santiago for joining forces with Billie and complimenting her aura.

Billie's new platinum blonde hair goes perfectly with the woody color palette and a semi gloomy ambiance in her tracks even when she seems to enjoy it. This is the first time that the artist could actually being seen without tears, goth treatment, or even a giant snake. It is more like a fun time with the 'gals' that feels soothing to the heart and cleansing to the soul. Currently, she is preparing for her highly anticipated sophomore album named 'Happier Than Ever'. The album is scheduled to be released on 30th June.

She is also gearing up for the next year's Happier Than Ever world arena tour and already selling out dates in North American, Europe, and the U.K.

Pop idol Taylor Swift expressed her "magical and mystical" side of songwriting on NMPA Icon Award

Taylor Swift received the National Music Publishers Association's Songwriter Icon Award as an honor. The honor was given on Wednesday, June 9th at the trade organization's annual membership meeting. While presenting the award, NMPA President/CEO David Israelite praised her not only for musical creativity and songwriting skills but for being a true advocate for creators and royalty issues.

Taylor has plucked out her music for three years from Spotify which was an effective action that eventually improved its royalty system. She has also voiced against Apple Music for its policies regarding royalty for artists who are on trial subscriptions, and it was reversed.

However, the magical part of the event was Swift's acceptance speech. It was followed by Sara Bareilles's performance on Taylor's 2014 anthem 'Clean'. She also shared a touching story of how she met Taylor and couldn't stop thanking her for her kindness; a true Swiftie. With gratitude towards David for the introduction, Taylor expressed "I'm really, really honored to be receiving this award because it honors the part of my job that is so magical and mystical to me, still."

She added, "I love songwriting so much because there's an element to it that is still really mysterious — like I think any songwriter will tell you, when you get an idea you're not quite sure where it floated down from, but if you can grab onto that idea and turn it into something, a piece of music". The artist showed her gratitude to everyone, saying, "I want to take a moment to thank the people who were my professors, my teachers, of the craft of songwriting."

She thanked a bunch of people from the industry, her pen friends, and last but not the least, her very loving fans. She mentioned Liz Rose, Max

Martin, Johan Shellback, Jack Antonoff, Aaron Dessner, Troy Tomlinson, and Jody Gerson who has been always supportive and motivating her with new creations.

Taylor ended her speech with immense respect to the amazing fellow songwriters as well the emerging writers in the industry.

The 18-year-old singer took the Brit Awards stage on fire with the song ‘Drivers License’ performed before an incredible butterfly projection. Her debut single is about a delicate heartbreak that is a relatable saga in the life of a teenager. Both Carpenter and Basset came out with response songs and the whole chapter looked like something out of a freshly prepared drama. However, coming back to Rodrigo and her precious new release, she discussed the technicalities involved in production and songwriting. She is all for suspended notes, sevenths, and ascending chords and hence, knows her craft very well. Her debut album seems to be a blend of influences and exposure from some of the greatest artists in pop in recent times like Lorde and Taylor Swift. The young artist takes inspiration from her 21st century adolescent years and transforms them into beautiful, nurturing, and enthralling songs that are empathetic and relatable. Her debut album speaks of artistic independence through its scattered emotions, organic instruments, and the tendency to speak the creative truth. It emerges with an identity that is getting widely praised and acknowledged by critics. Sour is produced by Dan Nigro who is also the co-author of ‘Drivers License’ alongside Rodrigo. The title of the album is also inspired by her life that is filled with surprises and changes in relationships between people with time. The album opens with ‘Brutal’ an explosive note of mall-grunge as the artist takes on the responsibility to expressing her emotional outburst at the time through her music. She remains invested and modest to the music and takes the audience along in this journey of lyrical expressions. A disarming honesty prevails through the record that constantly reminds the audience that they are not alone.

Next in the record comes ‘Traitor’ that talks about a messy break-up. The song is thematically for the teenagers but if you are willing to let your guards down for a few odd minutes, you will not regret it. Following that is ‘Drivers License’ and its piano-backed arrangement. This song is about a girl who drives through the suburban roads and thinks about the ex. The audience is instantly drawn to her whispering voice that has a flutter in it. It may be because she was singing it from a place of empathy. She may be the protagonist but who knows? But the caring whisper does not last long as she rips open with a squalling chorus where she finally finds closure. ‘Déjà Vu’ comprises Olivia’s sweet singing and a chiming rhythm where she is judging a guy as she reuses his moves with a new girl after he has been with the protagonist. ‘Good 4 U’ is a spicy mix with electric guitars where she renders her ex as ‘a damn sociopath’. ‘Jealousy, Jealousy’ constitutes a pacing bass and a rhythmic groove to take you to your own journey of contemplation.

Ed Sheeran Visits the Audience as a Glamorous Vampire in the Video of His Newest Single 'Bad Habits'

Artist Ed Sheeran recently came out with his single, 'Bad Habits' that marks his official comeback to the music industry after a hiatus of two years. For the song that he co-produced and co-wrote, he collaborates with FRED of No.6 Collaborations Project and Johnny McDaid of 'Shape of You'. The video for the song is directed by Dave Meyers. The video has Sheeran come alive on the screen as his alter-ego, the vampire as he sets out to paint the town red with his accompaniments, ghouls, and goblins. The singer said in a statement, "Feels great to be back with my new single."

I wanted the video for 'BadHabits' to play on the nature of habits in a fantastical way so I decided on vampires. It was mega fun getting into character except for the heights (that wasn't so fun). Enjoy x"

The song 'Bad Habits' will be featuring in his upcoming 5th studio album. This song also marks the first release following the No.6 Collaborations Project release back in July 2019. Sheeran decided to take a break from music following his 260-show Divide Tour. In August 2020, he became a proud father of his first child. Ed Sheeran has been inspiring the youth as one of the most celebrated pop artists in the world for the past decade now. His music has always surprised everyone with its new avatars and compelled the audience to accept his songs with more love. His new song, 'Bad Habits' also portrays a musical lineage close to the artist's creative legacy but with a twist. Especially, the video will definitely make you look at Sheeran differently as he hones the identity of a glamorous, modern-day vampire complete with black nails and high cheeks.

GET LOST IN THE RICHNESS OF SOUTH-AMERICAN ROCK MUSIC WITH LABIA

Recreating the rock flavors of all eras and genres, LABIA is showing a new path to rock music. This Colombia-based musical project is made of prolific music artists after detailed research of their skills and creativity. Different kinds of musicians working under the common shade of music; is the best thing and the main reason for its musical diversity even though it focuses on the prime genre, Rock. With a long history and musical studies, the musicians could come up with any genre ranging from, rock, progressive rock, to jazz, blues, and a bit of classical too.

Origin

LABIA is based in Colombia, established in 2019, in the city of Bogotá DC. By uniting the empirical musicians with common passion music, this musical project became the most successful one to recreate the essence of rock with a musical individuality. This South American rock proposal created a huge buzz by connecting the retro-rock flavors with the new age. It is one of the modern pioneers of Spanish rock music.

Musical Contributions

This musical group has started performing only for around two years now already made significant progress through the industry.

Combining the classic 'rock n roll' with modern alternative rock, progressive rock, and indie rock elements, it has come up with its latest track 'Estigma' or 'Stigma' in English along with Prepromotional Music Video with lyrics. Infectious electric guitar skills, blistering percussion, and meandering vocal skills have made the track one of the greatest musical contributions by LABIA.

However, this is just the promo video of the track and the official video will be releasing soon. The quarantine has been the greatest obstacle in the path of its music career but the indomitable spirit of the artist kept the music alive. Labia (from Home) did 'Háblame (Cover - BETO CUEVAS)', Vuelvo (Cover - Beto Cuevas) and last but not the least 'Love of my life (Cover - Queen)'.

There is a bilingual approach of Spanish and English that captivates numerous listeners around the world. Filled with depth and gritty, the energetic symbolism, mysticisms, dazzling blend of different rock elements; everything shines brightly with a beat that connects everyone.

Upcoming Music

With the quarantine being over now, the artists are making brisk moves through each of the musical offerings. The musical powerhouse is looking forward to its upcoming projects and the premiere of 'Stigma's official music video. Follow LABIA on YouTube, Instagram, and Facebook to get more updates.

It also holds the record for the most-streamed album in a single day by any British female artist till now. The official music video release of 'Love Again' is helping Dua to reach the peak of success again with her talent, skill, and pure love for the listeners.

influenced by the flavors of Latin bop which instantly gets the audience to hit the dance floor.

The artist has beautifully presented her exotic and sensual aura in creating 'Love in the Elevator'. She has let her creative ideas flow into the song and sing about what her heart desires. Showing great promise and ever-increasing energy, she has made the song what it is with her power as well as her sultriness.

The artist was born in Latvian and raised in London and later moved to New York. Her music explores her sexuality without any hindrance and inspires others to tread the same path. Some of her early influences include Aretha Franklin, Whitney Houston, Ray Charles, Beyonce, and Mariah Carey. The vibrancy of her personality oozes into her music that builds up on the sensuality.

MUSIC ARTIST KEEANA KEE'S NEW SINGLE 'LOVE IN THE ELEVATOR' PRESENTS A CONTEMPORARY STREAK OF EXOTIC POP

Music artist Keeana Kee's new song, 'Love in the Elevator' creates an intoxicating strain of exotic and sensual pop with an edge of electronic productions.

Songstress Keeana Kee presents a sensual and exotic scope of modern-day musical flavors in her pop-induced soundscape. She recently came out with her single, 'Love in the Elevator' which stands as a benchmark of the future of pop. The idea for the song was conceived by the artist while she was in the middle of writing another song and following a night in Miami.

The spontaneity was natural and the outcome was a creative vision that would later turn into a milestone track of her career. The thematic element of the song speaks about encouraging one's wildest fantasies and always choosing their dreams. The song is uplifting, energetic, and produces an instant dose of mood-elevating rush. The song is Singer Keeana Kee has a wide experience working with some of the leading producers, DJs, and remixers of the world. Some of her other songs include, 'You're Real', 'Coconut Rum and Coke', 'Ride with Me', and 'Let's Make Love'. Her music is inspirational as it symbolizes liberation. Beyond the glamor of her music lies a deep meaning that motivates people to be free.

Her sense and knowledge of contemporary pop add to her personality that prepares her to release more music. With pop, she also uses extensive electronic modulations in her production that makes for the ideal sound of the modern musical wave. She is outgoing and spontaneous that allows her to be herself unapologetically.

Music is just a way of expressing and accepting who she is from within alongside a creative streak. Indulge in this frowning soundscape by following her work on Spotify, Twitter, Instagram, Facebook, and YouTube.

Popstar Lady Gaga Announces the Release of Upcoming Album Born This Way the Tenth Anniversary

Music artist Lady Gaga recently announced the upcoming release of her album, Born This Way on the occasion of its tenth anniversary set to hit the stands on June 18. Music artist and visionary creative Lady Gaga are all set to celebrate the 10th anniversary of her extremely successful album, Born This Way. She announced the release date to be on June 18 calling it the Born This Way The Tenth Anniversary Edition. The album will be featuring all of the 14 tracks that featured on her 2011 album by the same name. The record also exclusively comprises six additional tracks which are alternate versions of songs reimagined by advocates and artists belonging to the LGBTQIA+ community. The project will be released via Interscope Records and will mark yet another milestone in her career.

The alternate versions of various songs include a reimagined version of the hit song 'Judas', this time by Big Freedia who is a leader in the Bounce music genre and community. She has also shared her gratitude for being a part of the project saying, "Judas was my favorite song when it came out originally, so I wanted to cover it. I am beyond excited that it's the first to drop from this project! To me, Judas is a love song about when someone does you dirty. I've sure had my experience with that. Who can't relate?" While this song is already released and available, the other five featuring artists are yet to be announced.

However, the selected songs in the forthcoming album include "Marry The Night," Highway Unicorn (Road To Love)," "You and I," "The Edge of Glory" and "Born This Way (The Country Road Version)." It was only last week that West Hollywood Mayor Lindsey P. Horvath named May 23 Born This Way Day where Lady Gaga was presented with a key to the city. The multi-platinum selling artist shared in her acceptance speech the source of inspiration and motivation behind the making of the album and the title track. The title track has continued to be an empowering slogan often used across the LGBTQIA+ community over the years since it was released back in 2011. Lady Gaga shared, "Born This Way, my song and album, was inspired by Carl Bean, a gay black religious activist who preached, sung, and wrote about being 'Born This Way.' Notably, his early work was in 1975, 11 years before I was born. Thank you for decades of relentless love, bravery, and a reason to sing. So we can all feel joy because we deserve joy. Because we deserve the right to inspire tolerance, acceptance, and freedom for all." Stay tuned for yet another creative milestone.

Taylor Swift has announced her latest re-recorded album titled 'Red (Taylor's Version)'

Taylor Swift has now confirmed that her next re-recorded album that is going to be released by her will be a new version of 'Red'. The record is aptly titled 'Red (Taylor's Version)' and it is going to arrive on 19th November. As part of the announcement, Swift has written that 'Musically and lyrically, Red resembled a heartbroken person,'. She also added that 'Like trying on pieces of a new life, I went into the studio and experimented with different sounds and collaborators.'

She further went on to write that there will be 30 songs in 'Red (Taylor's Version)' and it will also have a track of 10 minutes. The original version of 'Red' was released in 2012 in October as Taylor Swift was recording songs that are more deliberately focused on pop. The album has housed some of the biggest tracks by Swift and that includes tracks like 'We Are Never Ever Getting Back Together' and 'I Knew You Were Trouble.'

The standard and original edition of Red has got 16 tracks in all.

Taylor Swift has announced plans for re-recording all her albums that are termed as Big Machine back in 2019 so that she could take control of all her masters. She went on to release her maiden entry in re-recording titled 'Fearless (Taylor's Version)' last April.

Savage's new music release 'Rob who' is not a shoddy production

With his new music video 'Rob who', the upcoming hip hop artist Savage offers more classic hip hop production that becomes less harsh with trippy reverbs.

The eccentric rap singer Savage's latest endeavor displays his unique ideas on how he wants to live his life in a fresh way. For a talented rapper like him, it's neither too dark nor too sunny. The rising American hip hop musician is still working hard on his career and refers to now as a time of changes. Despite the fact that he has been in a visible transformation for quite some time, his new music video 'Rob who' tells a different tale. With the historic triumph of the new video, the portion of severely striving for highlighting his strong individuality in the music scene comes to an end. He is most known for his skilled rap flow, which is infused with the characteristics of a native American hustler. He emphasizes the burgeoning hip hop culture in his area. The moods of the locals, as well as their stories, had a significant role in the creation of the new music video. It was posted on YouTube on June 16, and his followers have demonstrated the power of fandom by showering him with love from all around the wor ld. It has some extremely creative and strong words throughout, as well as some amazing vocals from the rapper. Its opener has the same kind of lyrical force; he is definitely a very brilliant storyteller, and a really inspirational musician; people had never heard of any hip hop track with this much depth in a long time.

Musical journey:

Savage, a veteran hip hop artist, has explained that there is no other way than working hard for your goals. Hustling for your big goals will lead to the proper road to choose because the constant transformation truly help you earn some precious life experiences.

He is not a normal hustler who motivates new artists and his fans to believe in their life choices. For the last few years, he has been working in the music industry. Nothing could so far prevent him from producing music for his rock-ribbed fan base, who disclosed a new ambition in life by getting over the bad days and accepting new challenges so that he can enjoy his time for the better days. Things might get bitter at times, and the toxic atmosphere may suffocate you, but hope is the only flint that fires the deep passion to surpass any limitations.

The new music release:

The latest song video, 'Rob who,' is a stark depiction of his affluent lifestyle. His life has not been simple and easy; he has worked hard via his actions in order to reach the stars. The new rapper produces inventive sound design, which is interwoven with razor-sharp lyrics. His distinct style of combining local words with dreamy melodies is an impressive creative feat. His attention is drawn to the poetic flow of keywords and the magnificent trap beats that fill the vacuum. More tracks may be found by following him on YouTube.

‘Will tomorrow ever come’ by Will is a breath of fresh air for the music-loving audience

Artist Will makes a strong debut with his latest album ‘Will tomorrow ever come’ which shows he is more than ready to take over the scene with his vocal creativity.

Taking a different approach than most of the upcoming artists, Will makes a unique entry into the scene with his stunning melodies that is sure to resonate with the audience the very first time. Growing up in an environment that was dominated by music, the South African artist was always fascinated by rap music from the United States. With time he developed a strong passion for experimenting with melodies and grew up to create some amazing artwork himself. Daring to beat against all odds and follow the path of his heart, the artist has dropped his debut project, an album that comprises ten solid melodic songs. So far, it's his biggest achievement and the artist is sure to grab the audience's attention with his prolific style and sound. On his latest album ‘Will tomorrow ever come’, the artist has gone beyond the stereotypic expectations of the audience and has incorporated unusual elements to strike a chord with the listener. Integrating a brief introduction in the form of storytelling before he sings adds a fascinating charm to his exclusive album. The album comprises of songs like ‘We Meet’, ‘Tonight Is Forever’, ‘We Meet Again’, and ‘Home (DJ’S Lost Letter)’ where the singer gives an impressive detailing about his songs before he takes on the mic. The stories are deeply emotional and relatable and make it easy for the listener to embrace his creativity. The songs are groovy, danceable, and the lyrics make it imperative to engage at every level. The artist has focused on eliciting emotions from the listeners and hence, has provided a series of melodic rhythms to inject a great vibe to each song. His catchy, melodious voice takes the listener on an emotional roller-coaster, igniting all sorts of mushy feelings.

It was after Will heard Dr. The Dre 2001 record and the 2Pac All Eyez On Me projects that he started creating music.

He started mixing and creating beats in 2008 and it was in 2019 when he finally felt confident to showcase his talent to the world.

‘Will tomorrow ever come’ is his first step towards his long bright career and the artist feels that it's just the tip of the iceberg. Driving with a genuine passion and love for creating music, the gorgeous singer is sure to make his space in the hearts of the audience for his extraordinary skill set both lyrically and melodically.

Hear him on Soundcloud and YouTube, and follow him on Instagram, Twitter, and Facebook for more details.

After achieving her viral status in 2018, LA rapper-singer Doja Cat has enthralled the audience with her gorgeous performances. Recently, the iconic singer has done a bold experiment with her new album ‘Planet Her’ that has already dragged a lot of attention towards her. The album sheds light on Doja’s multiple sides as she consumes the attention entirely with her sense of versatility. Few songs like ‘Woman’, ‘Naked’, ‘Payday (feat. Young Thug)’, and ‘Get Into It (Yuh)’ are perfectly baked melodies with catchy beats and vocals. Her voice sounds like a breath of fresh air amidst the heavenly harmonies.

The songs of the new album are best suited for any dance challenge as its zingy rhythms and catchy beats are sure to overwhelm the listener. Doja Cat is a queen of her own world and the album ‘Planet Her’ seems like a conceptualized album that is based on a fictional planet, self-discovered by the singer herself. The planet consists of races and species of all kinds, where all of them co-exist in harmony. Over the years, Doja has proved herself to be very much of a 21st century kind of artist whose themes, music, and concepts are extremely all uring. Her ability to curate tracks that quickly turn into sensational hits makes her a favorite of millions. Starting from the opening track to the other followed-up songs; the album is composed with clear, hitting sounds and styles that expand as the album progresses. Her voice is very much like Afropop and the singer’s unique feminine touch leads it all with great proficiency. The songs are poppy and when combined with the buzzing chorus feels like a new life has been breathed into the songs. Doja Cat often prefers to create songs that are graphic oriented and the latest album seems like a safe bet. High on energy that elevates the potential of each song, the singer hooks all with her twisting lines that certainly suit the purpose. All the 14 songs are done within 45 minutes and the tunes surely hang around to engage the listeners.

The album has the kind of music that Doja Cat loves to explore and she genuinely raps and sings at par.

Overall it seems that The Cat is back with another trail of completely upbeat pop songs enveloped with the lace of rap prowess that claims attention from the very beginning. Despite all not-so-important controversies, Doja Cat has lived up to the expectations of her fans with ‘Planet Her’ that impressively upholds her unpredictable taste, exciting style, and also her versatile vocal ability as she switches from buttery and honey-dipped sweetness to hardcore cutting rap verses seamlessly.

‘Planet Her’ is surely going to be a commercially hit project as Doja literally nails the 2021 version of pop with her eccentric style. With the liveliness of the tracks and the celestial kind of mid-tempo pop and R&B sounds, the songs can certainly rescue the audience from a bad day. So far in 2021, it’s a nice, easy-breezy, and pleasant arrangement of songs that perfectly makes for an effective summer record. After all, Doja certainly makes the album better with her compelling presence!

Lil Durk is a legend in his own world, having successfully transitioned from his Chicago drilling days to a superstar rapper in a blink of an eye, where he's featured on tunes with big personalities like Drake and garnered massive Billboard 100 positions. Lil Baby, the voice of a generation that precedes the spark of future nostalgia in hip hop music, has also fought hard for his laurels, achieving one of the highest-selling albums of 2020 with 'My Turn' while supporting Black Lives Matter with common brothers and sisters of his community on the streets. Finally collaborating for 'The Voice of The Heroes,' the two attempt to demonstrate their talents and create an album that would be declared Six years after his debut with 'I'm a Hitta,' he relocated once more, this time he moved to Atlanta, which had emerged as the undisputed epicenter of the hip-hop business. The other young rapper had finally joined the picture around this time. The lead record from the platinum album 'The Voice of The Heroes', for example, is a letdown. With Durk as a drill icon whose diction is electrifying every time, we hear him and Lil Baby as everyone's darling rapper, you'd think that they would employ with a definite love and aptitude for the art form, melding ambient 'Who I Want' is an excellent illustration of all of the grind they took on their shoulder. The three-minute composition includes a lot of sonic information, layers and structure, melody, and rap, and it all comes together to create something that seems planned and far greater than its typical time span should allow. The album has met the expectations of their large slew of fans. They have come with eighteen songs filtered with different moods. Elsewhere on the long record, gorgeous voices and a diverse cast of characters contribute to the album's dynamic and capture your attention; yet, the musicianship alone progresses brilliantly towards the same aim. As the famous song 'Make It Out', for example, offers pleasantly unique and ambiently dreamy riffs that work beautifully. At the same time, it clearly fits inside their unique concept. These strands of uniqueness run throughout, with the rappers keeping things diversified in terms of energy and color, but also allowing these familiar splashes of 'knowing' that help you stay connected and immersed all the way through.

Ariana Grande mesmerizes the audience with her official live performance video of the single 'pov'

Ariana Grande drops a live rendition of her latest single 'pov' on Monday, 21st June on YouTube with Vevo. The incredible strength and depth of her voice are at their peak. In just a few hours, the music video has gained more than 2.9 million views. The 27-year-old superstar marked her first performance from her sixth studio album last year, 'Positions' that was a turning point in her musical career. Her enchanting voice has captured the hearts of the audience leaving a permanent mark in their minds. The music video features the artist performing on a stage that looks like a meadow with colorful blooming flowers and glowing and pleasant lavender light in the backdrop. The bright light behind her showcases different effects to highlight her outstanding performance and presence. Grande is backed by subtle yet brilliant instrumentation that enhances her naturally blissful and flawless vocal performance. She is almost like a fairy casting her magical spells, in this case, acoustic spells, over the audience.

Ariana Grande recently got married in the quarantine with her real-estate agent boyfriend Dalton Gomez in May. This music video marks her comeback after taking some time off. The latest performance is her first one in the exclusive live series with Vevo. The programming and marketing for Vevo, JP Evangelista said that they feel privileged to work with Ariana and watch her artistry grow. He also said that her stunning skills and efforts merged with the visual kicks and presented beautifully onscreen. As per the official press releases, the live performance video of 'pov' is 'rooted in the concept of duality'.

The heart-warming lyrical illustration along with the blissful R&B rhythmic flow and the picturesque visuals creates a dreamy atmosphere. The music video is currently available on YouTube.

Celebrate legend RD Burman's birth anniversary by tuning to his 15 most desired songs

Renowned late musician RD Burman has etched his name in the hearts of millions with his timeless music. His songs are not just relevant until now but continue to touch the hearts with the same love and happiness as before. The legendary singer had composed some evergreen songs like 'Aap Ki Ankhon Mein' or 'Tujhse Naraaz Nahi Zindagi' with his music that made his fans feel all kinds of emotions at once. Be it hurt, pain, happiness, or love. And, a couple of his songs like 'Dum Maro Dum', 'Mehbooba Mehbooba', or 'Piya Tu Ab Toh Aaja', the singer even made everyone groove to his music. The phenomenal composer, who would have turned 82 today, got his first movie as a music director in 1966 with actor Shammi Kapoor's Teesri Manzil. During the 1970s, RD Burman became highly renowned with Kishore Kumar songs that were featured in Rajesh Khannastarrer movies.

In total, the composer composed music for nearly 40 movies starring Rajesh Khanna, and later on, Burman went ahead to compose multiple popular songs where the vocals were lent by Mohammed Rafi, Lata Mangeshkar, and Asha Bhosle. RD Burman received his first-ever Filmfare Award nomination for Caravan.

Aside from Caravan, Burman is also popular for his remarkable contribution to movies like Kati Patang, Hare Rama Hare Krishna, Amar Prem, Seeta Aur Geeta, Mere Jeevan Saathi, Rampur Ka Lakshman, Bombay To Goa, Yaadon Ki Baaraat, Apna Desh, Sholay, and Aap Ki Kasam amongst many others.

Most of his fans are not aware of the fact that after RD Burman's father SD Burman went into a coma, it was him who completed the music for the Jaya Bachchan-starrer film, Mili, which was released in 1975.

Unfortunately, the legendary musician's life was short-lived. RD Burman left for his heavenly abode on January 4, 1994, at the age of 54. The last movie for which Burman composed music was Anil Kapoor's 1942: A Love Story. The music of the film was released after the saddening death of the music composer.

The songs became an instant hit and went on to win Burman his third and the very last Filmfare Award.

Remembering, India's iconic singer RD Burman, on his 82nd birth anniversary by listing out 15 of his most loved songs that still resonates with all.

PLAY THE HYPNOTIC RAP FLOW WITH SMOKESTKZ'S LATEST MUSIC VIDEO 'PLUG MI AMOR'

SMOKESTKZ's unusual musical taste demands our attention. This hip-hop musician from Dallas has released a new rap music video called 'Plug Mi Amor' on YouTube.

With his latest listicle of hip hop and rap tracks with a different style of swag, fresh and raw talent SMOKESTKZ made his debut in the limelight. With the most recent release, a music video 'Plug Mi Amor', the Dallas-based hip-hop artist is attempting to get into the mainstream of music. His melodies, all the way from the basic hustle on the streets, offer the panache. His music is heavily influenced by the various culture and his upbringing, which has resulted in some mature musical work on Soundcloud and Youtube thus far.

The latest music video:

SMOKESTKZ is fast to make an impression with this recent record, beautifully merging a well-known, bassline ambience with a smooth yet scratchy, breezy vocal delivery, skirting the line between indie-pop and hip hop.

The music video, on the other hand, showcases an artist who clearly has a passion for both poetry and musical creativity.

'Plug Mi Amor' has a delectable addicting quality. It lifts the energy and excitement to a fanciful and reflective state, which matches the tone of the music and the lyrics perfectly. Hinting at a touch of sway from the street rap styles of famous names in recent years, but keeping close to a much more option in contrast, danceable, and euphoric presentation, the video lifts the energy in the room to a dreamlike ambience with striking hooks and his personal reconciliations.

He released numerous songs and videos a few months ago, and his music has become extremely popular since then. His commitment to his music will go a long way. The new music video is the show-stopper record from this musical genius. The verses were newly composed and unique in that they were inspired by current events in life. It gives you access to his life and allows you to see what he is made of.

His journey so far:

The Dallas-based hip-hop artist has been rocking the stage with his unadulterated passion for hip hop since 2012. He has set new records with the help of his Soundcloud clout and Youtube followers. In 2015, he released his popular mixtape "UGLY". Things went in a little unplanned way when he was refrained from making music since he was held up in the Texas Department of Corrections for 2 years.

He didn't waste a single minute after he was released and immediately met the producer @HussOnTheBeat to make some outrageous music videos and unique sound productions. Follow him on his website, Youtube, Soundcloud, Instagram, linktree, and Twitter for all the latest projects he is unwinding.

Artist Chris Ruggiero Presents a Reinvented Scope of Old-school Rock and Roll with 'I Am Chris Ruggiero'

Artist Chris Ruggiero's album, 'I Am Chris Ruggiero' delivers a scope of 12 refreshed songs belonging to the golden era of rock and roll. The album consists of some of the greatest hits from the iconic age with a twist. Some of the songs include 'Run to Me', 'Betcha by Golly Wow', and 'My Cherie Amour'.

Daily Music Roll: Do you think reimagining an old song that was also an iconic hit is more difficult than creating your own music?

Chris Ruggiero: I think all singers who are singing someone else's lyrics or actors who are reading lines have a mountain to climb, but I think that, as a singer, we have more of a challenge because people are already associating that song with someone else's voice. So, what I tried to do on this album was to forget the original recordings as much as possible, and read the lyrics and interpret the lyrics in a way that told my story, about my hurt, or about my excitement about being in love, or about my loneliness. Of course there's always a little bit of fear that people might not like what you did with a particular song or people might hear your voice and decide they prefer the guy's voice who sang it originally. So, my way of doing this going forward is always going to be to not try to out-do the original. It's always going to be about me finding my way of interpreting the lyrics and telling the story.

Daily Music Roll: How do you gather the confidence to record tunes which were already big hits during their times?

Chris Ruggiero: Well, that's only something that happened recently, and thank you for using the word confidence. I was pushed out on stage early on and heard the applause. That was my first vote of confidence. I didn't have the confidence originally, but I heard the audience voting with their applause and they weren't throwing tomatoes. Some of them even stood up to applaud, so I knew that I was touching a nerve. The route that I went from there was to surround myself with people who I knew would be honest with me, so that I didn't have to rely on my own ear to know if what I was doing was worthwhile. I had Clint Holmes, a guy who Las Vegas entertainer of the years more times than anyone I know, I had my manager, Joe Mirrione, who produces the original recording artists of the 50s, 60s and 70s in concert, I had Bucky Heard and Bill Medley of the Righteous Brothers and then, the kicker, I had Charlie Calello to produce the album. Charlie has had more hits as an arranger and producer than anyone in history. He worked with Sinatra, Streisand, Humperdinck, Paul Anka, Bobby Vinton, Barry Manilow, Neil Diamond... So, when guys like the guys I had around me are saying, "Yeah, I think you've got something here," you listen, and it's easier to have confidence when you've got a cheering section of legendary guys like that.

Daily Music Roll: Do you think music is timeless?

Chris Ruggiero: I do, and I think that people - we all - are timeless too. I try to remind my audience that the little wrinkles or gray hairs do not define them. Look at it this way, if you play "Wouldn't it Be Nice" for a 16-year-old who has no idea that that song came out in 1966 and doesn't know Pet Sounds from a pet turtle, chances are they're going to love that song because of what it says and because the melody is just amazing. It's going to resonate with them because the idea of being in love and wanting to be older so you can sleepover or so you can spend more time with those ideas - and the sentimentality about all of it - those things are truly timeless, and if there's any doubt, then look at TikTok, which is primarily a teenage platform, and find any other explanation why "Put Your Head on My Shoulder" is one of the biggest songs on there. These songs are timeless and I don't think they're going anywhere.

Daily Music Roll: Who are some of your biggest musical influences?

Chris Ruggiero: Paul Anka for his tone, Frankie Valli for his falsetto, Clint Holmes for his ability to interpret a song and Jerry Vale for how smooth he was.

Daily Music Roll: Are there any contemporary artists whose work you follow?

Chris Ruggiero: Shawn Mendes and Bruno Mars are two artists who I'd say I try to listen to everything they put out and certainly any time Bruno is performing on TV or there's any chance to see him live - I want to absorb as much of the energy as possible.

Daily Music Roll: Do you think the music of the golden era still finds relevance and engagement in modern times?

Chris Ruggiero: Watch any movie, or watch a few hours of TV and you'll see a commercial or an episode of a show that's using some song from the 50s, 60s or 70s and I think that's the answer. The songs are used to enhance these scenes or to sell a minivan, or to make you feel a certain way about a couple of characters' relationships. So, they're not only still relevant, they're effective. Come to one of my concerts and you see 2 or sometimes 3 generations there. I have people in their 50s coming and bringing a parent who's in their 70s or even 80s because the music connects them. It's a meeting place, it transcends age and it gives them something to bond over. I had someone come to my show in Cleveland a few months ago and she brought her grandchildren because they were going through a tragedy in the family and she knew it would be therapeutic for them. I think this music is healing in a way that only the real classics can be.

Daily Music Roll: Everyone says rock and roll is getting replaced in the modern history of music by other dynamic genres. Do you think it is true?

Chris Ruggiero: Well, it's certainly possible for it to be sidelined, but I don't know about replaced. I think artists like Harry Styles and certainly Bruno Mars, will make sure that there's always a place in the Top Ten for a real rock and roll song. And of course, who were they all inspired by? All of the artists and songwriters whose songs I'm re-booting - all of the guys and girls who did it in the 60s and 70s.

Daily Music Roll: Would you consider giving your audience a taste of modern-day rock and roll?

Chris Ruggiero: Well, on the album, I did "And I Love Her" and kind of segued into "Every Little Thing She Does is Magic" which came out in 1981. That's modern day to me! But seriously, I don't have any desire to shock anyone or to say to a concert audience, "I know you came to hear this kind of music, but I'm gonna do this other thing instead." However, I do, in my show, sing a little of Bruno Mars "Nothin' on You" and weave it into "I Only Have Eyes for You" and, speaking of Bruno, I put a little bit of "Just the Way You Are" into "This Magic Moment." I do that because there's a connection between the songwriters of the 50s and 60s to the guys who wrote all of the Philly soul and pop-rock of the 70s and 80s, right to the people who are still writing strong melodies and lyrics today. I think Finneas, Billie Eilish's songwriting partner, has put out some great music and there's a really good chance I'm going to do one of his songs on my next album. So, what's the difference between modern-day or vintage? If it's got good lyrics and a strong melody - if it's got good bones - it's fair game.

Daily Music Roll: Do you have an interest in songwriting?

Chris Ruggiero: I do and I don't know that God gave me that gift where you just sit down and it pours out onto paper, but I am trying. I'm blessed that 2 different teams of professional songwriters have given me a chance to collaborate with them and so I'm trying. I can't say what will come of it, but the fact that there is a ton of good material begging to be rearranged and re-recorded seems like a good insurance policy for my future.

What Olivia Rodrigo has to say about the hints that Taylor Swift gave about her "Red" Re-Release

Taylor Swift's major announcement for Red (Taylor's Version) astonished her large slew of fans, but it turns out they wouldn't have been surprised if they had been careful about the words that Swift posted a few days ago on her social media. Fans should know about the nuke she is about to drop because she may have hinted at it before - with the help of a friend. Olivia Rodrigo's fans are recalling a recent interview in which the singer said that she received a ring from the pop diva Taylor Swift that resembled one she wore during her Red phase. "Last night — like literally 12 hours ago — I got a package from her with this handwritten note," Olivia previously revealed back in March while on SiriusXM. "She gave me this ring because she said she wore one just like it when she wrote Red and she wanted me to have one like it." Taylor is seen donning a similar ring that has been significantly modified on the new album cover for Red (Taylor's Version). The previous version of Olivia and Taylor's ring said "love," but this revised version says "red" for the album's name.

As the news of the planned re-release turned out to be a massive surprise, fans on Twitter couldn't want anything else but to know if it was a coincidence or just another one of Taylor's easter eggs.

On the other hand, Taylor posted on her Instagram, "I've always said that the world is a different place for the heartbroken. It moves on a different axis, at a different speed. Time skips backwards and forwards fleetingly. The heartbroken might go through thousands of micro-emotions a day trying to figure out how to get through it without picking up the phone to hear that old familiar voice. In the land of heartbreak, moments of strength, independence, and devil-may-care rebellion are intricately woven together with grief, paralyzing vulnerability, and hopelessness. Imagining your future might always take you on a detour back to the past. And this is all to say, that the next album I'll be releasing is my version of Red."

"Musically and lyrically, Red resembled a heartbroken person. It was all over the place, a fractured mosaic of feelings that somehow all fit together in the end. Happy, free, confused, lonely, devastated, euphoric, wild, and tortured by memories past. Like trying on pieces of a new life, I went into the studio and experimented with different sounds and collaborators. And I'm not sure if it was pouring my thoughts into this album, hearing thousands of your voices sing the lyrics back to me in passionate solidarity, or if it was simply time, but something was healed along the way."

Olivia already worked with BFF Conan Gray to preview some tracks for Taylor's Fearless (Taylor's Version), so it wouldn't be surprising if she hinted at this as well.

Because of fresh new stuff sold at Taylor's shop before she revealed her upcoming album, many fans assumed it would be a 1989 re-release.

Pop and Country Artist Emily Coupe's Song 'I See Only You' is a Sweet Melodic Journey of Relatable Sagas

Upcoming popstar and country music artist Emily Coupe recently came out with her single, 'I See Only You'. The song is about the emotional and hormonal gurgles and giggles within us when we fall in love for the first time. Through her lyrical and melodic composition, she takes the audience on a heartfelt, thematic journey of relatable elements.

Q. Which name would you like to promote your work in?

A. Emily Coupe

Q. Describe the thematic and musical linearity of your soundscape.

A. It's very soft, gentle and romantic. It has a very intimate sound, hence the minimal instruments, and captures the essence of two people falling in love.

Q. What are your new releases?

A. 'Quarantine Christmas' in 2020, and 'Nursery Rhyme (Lullaby Version)' in early 2021. I also released my first album 'Revolution' in 2019. You can check out all of these songs on Spotify.

Q. Where do you hail from?

A. I was born in Australia, and now currently live in L.A.

Q. What is the responsibility of the audience in the expansion of music and artists around the world?

A. I think that it's important for all music listeners to continue to expand their reach, and to try out and experiment with new genres, artists and countries. I know with myself I am always sticking to my fave artists, so try to brand out as much as possible. That's why the playlist 'discover weekly' is so great!

Q. Which old-school and new-school musicians inspire your work the most?

A. Some old school musicians which I love are; Jewel, The Eagles, The Beatles, Fleetwoodmac, Sheryl Crowe and Alanis Morissette. Some newer artists are Taylor Swift, Maren Morris, Colbie Caillat, Ed Sheeran, Miley Cyrus, Selena Gomez etc.

Q. Do you think the music industry will change its course post-2020?

A. I think it will. As we went from the extreme of lots of gigs, to none, and then artists finding more ways to monetize and connect online, I believe that we will bounce back and find a happy medium. It will be a balance of connecting virtually, finding new ways to promote and market music, and also continue to gig too.

American musician Mad Gallica's latest single, 'Souls on Fire' enchants the listeners with its grand resonance

Seasoned classical singer Mad Gallica takes the audience on a journey into instrumental majesty along with her mesmerizing singing in her new song, 'Souls on Fire'.

The magnetic allure of classical music has been brought back to life once again through the epic soundscape of singer-pianist-composer from Los Angeles and Nashville, Mad Gallica. The brilliant multi-instrumentalist has recently released another masterpiece, 'Souls on Fire'.

It transports the listeners to a world surrounded by versatile rhythmic magnificence. The track opens with a smooth and serene piano tune that blends flawlessly into her dreamy and blissful vocal performance. She depicts human consciousness and the same old cycle of life that still feels like new through the articulate lyrical illustration. The classical tunes blended with an epic rock and theatrical creates an ambiance of pure acoustic perfection.

The thriving musician has been surrounded by music all her life. She used to tour with her family in the southeast of the country, nostalgic Appalachian music, and songs written by her parents. She sang harmony and mastered the art of playing ukulele at a very young age. She continued to sharpen her skills by studying classical piano and training her vocal prowess.

Deeply influenced by famous composers like Beethoven, Rachmaninoff, Danny Elfman, Andrew Lloyd Webber, and artists she has established a unique and polished musical form that she refers to as Rock Popera.

The hard-working musician had been blessed enough to tour the world with System Of A Down, Guns N' Roses, Metallica, Ozzy, and more. She even formed a one-woman band and created five different characters to play as band members. The band released a multi-instrumental cover of 'Bohemian Rhapsody' as a tribute to Queen.

She has shown incredible dexterity over different instruments played by the five characters she had composed. She has never liked to be branded by a single genre.

That is why she always experiments with different elements from other musical forms in the hope to bring something new to the plate.

Working independently, Mad Gallica has been delivering back-to-back hits imparting her positive vibes. The incredible appeal in her voice is enough to captivate the mind and the souls of the audience. The newly released single, 'Souls on Fire' showcases her power-packed vocals breathing life into the thought-provoking and heart-warming lyrical narration.

The sublime words presented through her charming singing penetrate the thoughts and lingers in the mind for a long time. It generates true emotional reactions among the listeners. Listen to her on Spotify and YouTube. Visit her website and follow her on Twitter, Facebook, and Instagram more updates.
