Beyoncé was born in Houston, Texas in 1981 on September 4. This American singer, named Beyoncé Giselle Knowles developed her knack for music at a very young age

She began to gain more recognition in the late '90s as the lead singer of the girl band named 'Destiny Child'.

Musical Journey

Starting with the 'Destiny Child', the artist is gaining on a never-ending musical journey with several ecstatic milestones on the road. She is one of the best-selling music artists in the world who spread her creativity and musical aura across the world along with a huge record selling.

Destiny Child (1997-2002)

4 and Beyoncé (2011- 2015)

In the last decade, Beyoncé tried to explore herself in a more traditional R&B flavor with mellower singing style and emotive writing skills. The album '4' and her eponymous album 'Beyoncé' is the greatest example of that. These certified platinum albums are some of the most powerful elements from exquisite musical arsenal.

Lemonade (2016 – 2019)

DRAKE WITHDRAWS BOTH OF HIS NOMINATIONS FOR GRAMMY 2022

Drake got chosen for two Grammy nominations. And But he has withdrawn both of his nominations before the final round of the ballot. Drake himself and his management team made the decision collectively. The Grammy has honored this decision. Drake's 'Certified Lover Boy' was nominated for the Best Rap Album. His 'Way 2 Sexy' got nominated for Best Rap Performance. His motivation for this decision is not clear. But we have seen him before, refusing to send his album for Grammy's nomination in 2018. This is probably just a continuation of his previous actions. According to him, awards are the highest recognition that an artist could achieve. But getting the same award year after year can be discouraging for other artists. He goes further implying the fact that many singers and Rap artists are creating great songs. But they are not getting enough recognition. He says that when he hears a stadium packed with people reciting his verses, is an achievement for him. The excitement of that free chorus is much more than holding a golden statue in his hands. The artist posted on Instagram shortly after 2021 nominations were announced 'I think we should stop allowing ourselves to be shocked every year by the disconnect between impactful music and these awards and just accept that what once was the highest form of recognition may no longer matter to the artists that exist now and the ones that come after,'. This shows he is reluctant and frustrated by the treatment he is getting from the awarding authority. 'Maybe because I've rapped in the past or because I'm Black, I can't figure out why,' the hint he gave in some of his recent interviews. The racial aspect is very prominent according to him. And he continues by saying 'I feel almost like alienated or you're trying to purposely alienate me by making me win rap awards, or either just pacify me by handing me something, putting me in that category, cos it's the only place you can figure out where to put me,'. Whatever the reason is behind this decision, he will have his huge fan base by his side. Chanting his verses along with him with no music playing.

GET TO KNOW THE GLORIOUS SIDE OF TABLA AND ITS INFLUENCE ON MUSIC

Tabla is one of the most commonly played Indian percussion instruments that started with the North Indian Origin. It is widely used to accompany other instruments and vocal performances to add more gravity to it. Its primary purpose is to maintain the metric cycle in musical compositions. Though it is essentially an accompanying element, the diverse sound of the table is well utilized by the soloists. There are vast repertoires where tabla has proved its worth. Not only in traditional Indian music but Tabla has spread its influence across the world in the modern music industries too.

Origin

The history of tablas is still unclear however and there are many proofs that explain that the invention was made back in the 17th century. Tracing back to its indigenous origins, tabla has entered India with the Mughal conquerors who spread their dynasty in the Indian subcontinents. The term ‘Tabla’ is derived from the Arabic word ‘Tabl’ which means ‘a flat surface facing upwards’. Some say it is derived from the English term ‘table’ while some claim it came from the Latin term ‘Tabula’.

Structure

Tabla is a set of two drums that are not identical at all. There is a smaller drum named Dayan which is used to create sharp tonal beats and on the other hand, there is a bigger drum named Baya which helps to create bass. Made of a hollow wooden structure, the drums are tightly set with a thin skin membrane that helps to produce beats. The instrument is purely played by different techniques of slapping and poking with bare hands and extensive use of fingers as there is the use of sticks. Thus, the artists are capable of creating different rhythms and mnemonic syllables.

Use and influence

Though the use of tabla started with Classical Indian Music, it soon started enriching the folk, Sufi, kawali, and other traditional music in India. It soon became very popular among the common people.

Other percussion instruments like pakhavaj, rabab, etc lost their potential with the tabla being the most convenient percussion instrument that merges with every kind of soundscape. Different gharanas and kyadas took birth with the widespread influence of Tabla, such as Delhi Gharana, Lucknow Gharana, Benaras Gharana, and so on.

Each of these gharanas consists of a distinct essence and style that reflects more diversity in the compositions. The popularity of the instruments spread across the world as different bands and artists started using them to craft their tracks. From the golden era of The Beatles to the modern era of Tool, tabla has been a part of the pop to rock and everything. Both in Indian Music and Western music, the tabla is one of the most potent instruments in experimental and traditional music.

Some of the best Tabla Players of all time After the widespread usage of tabla in different music, some of the legendary artists have appeared in every decade to prove its importance to music enthusiasts worldwide.

Some of them are, Zakir Hussain

Son of Ustad Allah Rakha, Zakir Hussain has been one of the most influential tabla players of all time who pioneered contemporary styles. Studied at Indira Kala Sangit University and Berkley College of Music, he raised awareness for tabla and tabla players on an international level.

Rimpa Siva

Rimpa Siva is one of the most talented female tabla players around the world who embraced the Farukhabad Gharana with a bigger approach. Her creative compositions are well renowned and a French documentary film has also been released with the name ‘Rimpa Siva: Princess of Tabla’.

Tanmoy Bose

Keeping his name out there as a master Indian percussionist, this music player has toured around the world with his sheer individuality and creativity. His band 'Taalatra' has taken jazz, Indian classical music, and folk music to a whole new level.

Trilok Gurtu

This world-class percussionist has spread his musical skills around the world by incorporating tabla in different western genres and fusion music. He was one of the most innovative percussionists who enhanced tabla along with swords, buckets, and other influences.

Swapan Chaudhuri

Starting playing at the age of five years only, Pandit Swapan Chaudhuri recreated Indian Classical Music with his timeless compositions. Elegant playing and powerful expressions are the key virtues of his musical works. There are many other tabla players in India and around the world who inspired people to use this musical instrument in a new and more creative way.

Conclusion

Since the pre-historic times, the influence of music and the need for percussion is quite evident. Tabla has been always there to fulfill the needs whether traditional music or modern fusions. The instrument has held its potential through all these decades with its beautiful tonal quality that embraces other tracks as well.

Many different celebrities have joined TikTok, since after its advent. But, the latest arrival of the popular face Beyoncé makes her fans optimistic about her comeback with music.

The thing that makes Beyoncé's presence on the site is so exciting is that she is Beyoncé.

Since TikTok has shown its power it is one of the best inclusions TikTok can ever have.

The arrival of the star is also indicating to the fact that her song will be more of a mainstream song as the platform is popular because of that.

SAXOPHONE, THE JAZZ-FUEL OF THE MUSIC INDUSTRY

Ranging from melancholy to joyous melodies, Saxophone belongs everywhere there is emotion. This woodwind instrument has been reigning in the world of music for years for its rich essence and deep tone that has flourished in many music genres like, jazz, blues, classical orchestra, English romantics, and contemporary music as well. Made of brass, this single-reed wind instrument utilizes vibrations of wind inside the instrument's body to create a heavy sound wave.

History

The original saxophone was created around 1840 by an individual instrument designer, named Adolphe Sax. The instrument is named after his name only and thus it is called the Saxophone. He made some major improvisation on the traditional clarinet and utilized the large conical shape and agility of brass to create something more deep and unique. Creating a blend between ophicleide and clarinet Adolphe came up with the new instrument, named Saxophone.

Types of Saxophone

Adolphe, as a master designer of musical instruments, has created a range of Sax which could be incorporated with different genres of music along with a variety of ensembles. He created saxophones of different sizes to create tunes of high-range sopranino as well as low-range contrabass. He also created an alternative instrument name Saxhorn which consisted of valves and the structure of modern alto horns. He created a total of 14 types of different saxophones and four of them go worldwide recognition and have been widely used. The four major saxophones are Bb soprano Eb alto, Bb tenor, and Eb baritone. These are varied from high to low range and small to bigger sizes. The instrument has gone through a lot of changes but its authentic construction and essence have stayed the same.

Structure

It is a brass instrument with multiple tone holes through which the melody is created with the opening and closing of the holes. The long air chamber vibrates when air is blown through the mouthpiece and a richer tone is created through vibration. It has a conical shape at the end like a clarinet but it passes through a bend to create a grand sound with more resonance. The curved neck is the specialty of saxophones which makes it different from the soprano and clarinets. However, it requires a similar fingering combination and techniques to create a composition.

Influence in Music

Even though Saxophone is widely used in blues, jazz, and modern musical trends; the instrument gained its first recognition with military music. Soldier bands preferred to play saxophone during the phase of world war. Belgian and French military groups included saxophone as one of the major parts of their bands. B b tenor, E b alto, E b baritone, and B b soprano, etc are mostly used and proved themselves to be quite powerful to energize the soldiers. There were at least two saxophone players in each military band, one alto player and one tenor player.

Soon after, sax was being heavily used in the concert bands to produce more engaging classical orchestral compositions. The saxophone quartet of one baritone, one tenor, and two altos got very famous and was being introduced to the audience with exquisite compositions. It was also being used in chamber music as it can create different combinations that adapt with other instruments as well. Later on, the instrument got included in jazz, blues, and other popular music while there was a ragtime music revolution going around with amazing ragged rhythms. Within 1920, the influence spread even further with the ‘saxophone craze’ among the music artist and listeners as well. Not only in the band was music but it was very much used in solo compositions and performances.

Nowadays, the saxophone is being a major part of alternative, contemporary, and indie music which is making a new wave of creativity through the music industry.

Some of the famous Saxophone players of all time

Saxophone artists have emerged in every era from different parts of the world and some of them are living an eternal life with their timeless compositions. Each of the artists has nurtured their creativity in particular types of Saxes whether baritone, alto, or tenor. Here are some of the best saxophone players of all time

John Coltrane
Charlie Parker
Sam Rivers
Coleman Hawkins
Pepper Adams
Gerry Mulligan

The list can keep going on while these pioneers have shown the path.

Some interesting facts about Sax

Adolphe was the sole creator of the Saxophone who change the history of music however, he had gone through multiple tragic incidents where he could have died. He was burnt, drowned, poisoned, and had many traumatic experiences yet stayed alive with his will.

The saxophone was built to fill the gap between brass and woodwind instruments as it is only and first brass woodwind with a single reed.

It is the most dynamic brass woodwind its diversity has let it stay through all these years as well as the coming ones.

In a nutshell,

The saxophone has great flexibility and a dynamic aura that can go with any kind of composition. Open to different improvisation and interpretation of music, Saxophone has not only jazz or blue but Global music around the world.

Demi Lovato is sharing their awareness for being 'Sober Sober' instead of 'California Sober'

People's favorite Demi Lovato is earning more respect with their latest post on social media that is influencing people to go 'Sober Sober' or what real sobriety means. The artist opened up about their lifestyle and also said they are currently being 'Sober Sober' as they quit smoking and drinking completely, omitting drugs, alcohol, and even marijuana.

The 'Cool for the Summer' singer also said that they have consumed a moderate amount of alcohol and weed in March, calling it the 'California Sober'. Adding even further, Lovato explained, "I had it drilled into my head for so many years that one drink was equivalent to a crack pipe."

While there is no uniform definition for 'California Sober' but a survey report suggests that the term is referred to quitting all kinds of substance abuse and consuming only cannabis or wine at times.

The artist has completely changed their mind and trying to make an abstinence-like approach towards intoxication and drug abuse.

Ed Sheeran and Elton John collaborating for three-holiday singles, cheerfully beginning with “Merry Christmas”

Ed Sheeran and Elton John have collaborated for their new single, ‘Merry Christmas’ to make sure that the fans get some extra cheers and more fun in this Christmas. The song that the two eminent singers co-wrote explains to the audience the essence of Christmas and why it is important to enjoy the festive season.

In the lyrical music video, both Ed Sheeran and Elton have dressed up in Christmas outfits. The video includes all the Christmas-festive elements. John, being seated on a piano wearing a glossy scarf, with a mug of beer in his hand; on the other side, Ed Sheeran chilling with a snowman are effective in making the audiences feel the essence of Christmas.

The snowfall outside the house visible through the window pane and a well-decorated Christmas tree with stars and bells are evoking the joy of Christmas too. The whole animated video is done with utmost efficiency to make sure it captures the subject of the song seamlessly.

‘Merry Christmas’ is one of the three-holiday songs that the pair wrote together. Sheeran in The Two Night Show Starring Jimmy Fallon said, “I’ve always been quite against it. “Not that I don’t like Christmas, I love Christmas, but in terms of doing a Christmas song, you need to chuck the kitchen sink at it.”

In the Tonight Show starring Jimmy Fallon he also said that although they were one with writing the song, they needed to change a few things with the title of the song as many songs on the same topic had already been made. He said, “...but we’re probably going to need to change that title... I went on Spotify, typed in ‘Merry Christmas,’ nothing. There’s ‘Merry Christmas Everyone,’ there’s ‘Happy Xmas’ ... there’s not a song called ‘Merry Christmas”

As soon as the song was released it was riding high. As per the news of OCC, the song has collected double the chart sale of its closest competitor Adele whose song was reigning at the top- ‘Easy On Me’ It has been another stressful year. In the last two years somehow the real joy of the festive seasons was lost.

From music to cinematography- the song has done enough to make the audience forget all the painful incidents of the previous two years. It says pain will be there as an integral part of life. But, for now, it’s time for celebration.

“I know there’s been a pain this year/ But It’s time to let it go. Next Year you never know/ But for now Merry Christmas.”

An upcoming artist John Dee has reappeared with his latest hip-hop track 'Party All Night'. The song is energized enough to be played at your parties.

Hip-hop music that originated as a medium to build unity among youngsters has somehow lost its viability due to some inappropriate hip-hop artists and their songs. Fortunately, artist John Dee does not seem to be one among them. Through his party-oriented song, he wants to connect with a large number of audiences. The song 'Party All Night' is a kind of song that people would love to play at their parties. The song shows a party night with his girlfriends. Although his rap and the background music take the seminal focus in his rap, the song is complete for its music video. Shot in a little bedroom under deemed yellow lights has captured the vibe and mood of a private party.

Although he has only two music videos uploaded on his official channel on YouTube yet, both the songs are done with utmost perfection. Both the songs capture the party vibes with their musicality and cinematography. The songs 'party all night' and 'shake that ass girl' are sufficient to set the mood of your party night. The lyrical beauty of the song bolstered by his musical understanding further enhances the quality. You can play any of the two and feel the real hip-hop music in the songs.

The song 'Party All Night' is the song that you must listen to at least once. The song is grooving and chill enough to bring you back on the page again and again. Doja Cat said, "I'm extremely disappointed" after her team tested positive for Corona

A sad moment for the fans and the artists as well, as Doja Cat's team has been tested positive for corona and canceled two of her Jingle Ball performances which were scheduled to happen in this month. On Friday, this pop icon has announced that she will be no longer able to perform for Jingle Ball, arranged by New York City's iHeartRadio based in Boston. A few members of her team tested positive for COVID and put a halt to her performance.

The songstress said in a statement that the members "are now on quarantine," trying to recover as soon as possible. She further wrote, "For the health and wellbeing of the rest of our crew, we are following all the appropriate safety measurements and necessary precautions, which means I won't be able to perform at iHeartRadio's New York Z100 and Boston KISS FM Jingle Ball." She vented out much frustration by saying, "I'm extremely disappointed, Jingle Ball has a great line up for you all, wish I could be there. Much love to all my fans."

In the past few weeks, the 'Need To Know' singer has garnered a lot of attention with several holiday concerts. Some of them took place in other Jingle Ball locations such as Los Angeles, Dallas as well as Poptopia of the Bay Area. Later on, the artist further said, "I love you guys so much and I'm so sad this is happening but I will see you all soon," but also there was ample amount of aggression in her exclamation, "I'm f—in pissed." Some of the fans also showed a negative reaction saying Doja is the reason behind the spread of Covid to which the artist replied "Excuse me bitch? I'm mad at the fact that I can't perform,". She thrashed the person even further saying, "Don't you ever put words in my mouth you f—ing demonic rat."

She tried to solve the situation by interacting through Instagram Live and expressed her thoughts on the negative comments and reactions by some of the followers.

While playing 'Sick & Tired' by Nappy Roots, the singer said, "I'm so over this s—. I don't f— with a lot of y'all. But I do f— with a lot of y'all...". Her exhaustion is evident as she said, "I'm just really f—ing over it at this point." Duly pissed and utterly disappointed, the artist explained the importance of the internet and continued vent further, "But at the same time, if s— is happening to you on the internet and you see it, it's your fault that you see it. You chose to go on there and look. People are so f—ing pathetic bro. I'm tired." Hopefully, Doja Cat will find another way to perform soon while her well-wishers eagerly wait for it.

Q. Is there any other genre that you like and want to incorporate in your music other than hip hop?

A. I incorporate R&B all the time. Hip hop is my first love but R&B is my favorite. I taught myself how to harmonize and use melody's. I'm not a singer singer but I know how to do enough to where it works for my voice and that's the gift of it all finding your voice

Q. Tell us about your newest music video, 'ONE MORE'. What is the subject matter of the track?

A. 'One More' is about a person who has reach their level of success but may come across people from their past who can't handle the success they have reached.

It's based around jealousy.. but me personally I'm someone who just doesn't care if I worked hard to get here no body is pressure to me .. I'm gonna live everyday to the fullest .. the devil will try to kill you every time but you gotta keep living.

Q. What kind of rhyming style did you use in the song and how is it different from your contemporaries?

A. I'm just very melodic I've been melodic before melodic got this hot to be honest I've been sounding like this since I started on a lot of songs back in the day. I've just improved my sound so if anybody says to me oh you sound like this or that I'm like well thanks for the compliment but I really sound like me...and on top of being able to make r&b music without rapping is a plus.

Q. What message do you want to convey to the listeners with the song?

A. That this is my moment if you try to kill it well.....

Q. Did you write the lyrics of the song and does your rapping style have any impact on its presentation?

A. I write all my music , this particular song I wanted it to be aggressive in wording but so laid back and chill very nonchalant behavior cause that's how I am .. nonchalant and chill but I can be aggressive when necessary

Q. The visual presentation in the music video was quite powerful, how do you think it will be received by the audience?

A. The visual really came about with just grabbing whatever was seen in the place of shooting the video... I'm like man let's make this video like some drug cartel thing .. it was one of those things I went into with the mindset of whatever happens here is meant to happen... stepping outside the box too

Q. Which hip hop artists influenced you the most and how do you utilize their inspirations in your music?

A. Since we are talking Hiphop I'm inspired by JayZ Tupac Jadakiss Eve Lil Kim 50 Cent JaRule Bow Wow Nelly just to name a few ... they all play a part on why I fell in love with the culture. Also SoSo Def with jermaine dupri definitely label goals .. he set the bar with production writing and artist I need to be on that level but higher now

Q. Name some of the finest hip-hop numbers that you have released so far.

A. All of them gotta check out all of them and make your own numbers lol

Q. Are you working alone or with some record label right now?

A. I'm solo solo no label no management I am currently looking for management but I also have my own label so whoever gets aside me is gonna def be in for a ride of success

Q. What can we expect from you in the future? Are you working on new music?

A. In the future you can expect me making music still but on a higher level , definitely making a name for myself as well as other adventures I don't want to speak on ...

but sold out shows concerts, working with legends, acting , running my label signing artist , song writing for others ..

giving back to the community definitely a lot of giving back. Plan on leaving my mark on earth before I leave that's for sure. Right now I'm working on an EP but also pushing out more content for the work I have out now.. definitely stay tune.

OLIVIA RODRIGO'S NPR TINY DESK (HOME) CONCERT TOOK HER BACK WHERE SHE GOT HER FIRST HIT 'DRIVERS LICENSE'

Olivia Rodrigo achieved the seemingly impossible feat of turning the DMV into a place where you would love to be, with her performance of songs from the album 'Sour' at one such location in the latest uploaded video of NPR's Tiny Desk (Home) Concert series...

The setting which she described as having some "interesting vibes to it," was an obvious place for the breakout hit 'Drivers License' which consists of a set of four songs. When she got her music band behind her, she performed her songs with utmost brilliance. As time went on, she moved from guitar to piano in the bright setting with a fluorescent glow of lights.

Throughout this performance, her band and Rodrigo took on the Tiny Desk with an experiment with the arrangements, embracing the sounds of her songs. She began with the song 'good 4 u' and the same setup carried on to the song 'traitor' with an addition of an echoed electric guitar.

The song 'Drivers License' features Olivia and a keyboard. The song created a different impact from the recorded version known for Dan Nigro's production and the omnipresent beeping of a car door sensor. 'Déjà Vu' began softly only the acoustic guitar until the chorus ramped up as she exclaimed: "Do you get déjà vu, huh?"

Sour tells the story of the heartbreaks of a teenager like Olivia Rodrigo. At the early age of 18, it is very difficult to absorb and adjust to such a situation. The deeply felt anguish and pain of emptiness were felt through her song. However, her dance around an empty DMV and laughing along to the song written on betrayal reiterates the fact that time heals every wound. With her NPR Tiny Desk concert, 'Drivers License' The new hit-machine Olivia Rodrigo took us back to where all started: DMV.

The Disney actor turned singer's debut with Tiny desk came after she announced her dates for the highly anticipated world tour in 2022- from Los Angeles to Greek Theatre in late May. The tickets for the world told will be started from Friday onwards. But for fans pre-booking is also available virtually.

NPR Music tweeted and asked the followers to watch the video during the premiere of the Tiny Desk Concert. Even The California DMV tweeted about the release of the official music video of NPR on Twitter on Tuesday morning and encouraged the followers to check the video out on the official YouTube page of NPR Music and also tagged both @oliviarodrigo and @nprmusic.
