CARDI B

Everyone's favorite Cardi B has to serve 15 days of community service which is a court-mandated order. She has to serve a total of 15 days before March 1 in order to avoid a 15-day jail sentence. The rapper has gladly welcomed this opportunity and rejuvenated herself by getting over the past. This 15 days service is a part of her punishment for her influence in some brawls in New York that took place in 2018. This 30-year-old singer cum rapper also participated in an NYPD "Girls Talk" event, which was arranged at the police training academy in Queens. She shared quite a quality time with them, danced with the team, sharing photos, and also "her rags to riches story." Cardi said to her fans, "I feel like there's so many people that make y'all probably feel like, 'This is what's cool, this is what's going on, this is what it takes to be lit, this is what it takes to be fire,'" She further added that, "Sometimes that's a little bit of peer pressure like on a girl. Don't fall into that. You know what I'm saying? Like, be great. Be you. You're amazing. You're dope yourself."

2023 Grammy Awards' Most Entertaining Highs And Lows

Find out what happened at music's most prestigious night of celebration, the Grammy Awards of 2023. Read along to know the complete review of the night.

On February 5th of 2023, what is known as the biggest night in music, the 65th Annual Grammy Awards ceremony was held at Crypto.com Arena in Los Angeles. Attended by some of the biggest names, the evening was filled with historic wins, the biggest snubs, and some really interesting moments.

Here are some of the notable highlights that will go down in history as the most memorable times in the Grammys-

Beyoncé's historic win:

Queen Bey became the most awarded artist in history when on the night of the 65th Annual Grammys Awards, she won her 32nd trophy. Her album 'Renaissance' won the award for being the best Dance/Electronic Album of 2022. After winning this one, she overtook George Solti, the Hungarian-British conductor who held the record for having the most, 31 awards for over 20 years.

"A tribute to 50 years of hip-hop":

This is the biggest boost that ceremony got which was curated by Ahmir Khalib "Questlove" Thompson. This tribute featured multigenerational performances of rappers on the stage including magnetic performances by Run-DMC, Huck D and Flavor Flav of Public Enemy, Busta Rhymes, LL Cool J, Ice-T, LL Cool J, Method Man, Missy Elliott, etc.

Biggest snub yet?

Many viewers felt a huge snub towards Beyoncé who lost the race toward the award "Album Of The Year" which was won by Harry Styles for his 2022 release 'Harry's House'. Despite Beyoncé becoming the most-awarded artist of all time, she lost the award to Styles and the criticism flew towards the committee like they have committed the biggest crime. The internet came on fire, calling out the committee for not giving recognition to Beyoncé's 'Renaissance' and making her lose for the fourth time in a row in the same category.

Viola Davis' EGOT status:

After winning a Grammy on February 5th, Viola Davis has officially achieved the EGOT status, becoming the third black woman in history to achieve that. She received the award for her performance in the audiobook 'Finding Me', her memoir.

Kim Petras makes history:

The 'Unholy' singer Kim Petras also made history as the first transgender woman to receive a Grammy when the duo Sam Smith and Kim Petras was awarded for their recent collaboration. Their track 'Unholy' received the award for Best Pop Duo/Group Collaboration.

Ben Affleck becoming the meme of the night:

The internet also got the new face of a meme from the ceremony and it was none other than Ben Affleck. He was on trending for his "miserable" expression when he attended the award with his wife Jennifer Lopez.

Golden Globe 2024 Has Announced Their Dates: Bringing Back Traditional Time Slot

The 81st Annual Golden Globe Awards is about to air on the first Sunday of 2024, which is 7th January 2024. The heat and the buzz about the last one haven't gone cold yet.

The 80th Annual Golden Globe Awards air on 10th of January 2023, Tuesday. For various reasons, they were unable to air the show on the traditional spot which was the first Sunday of January.

But as they announced the dates of next year's Annual Awards they are bringing back their traditional spot, which is the 7th of January 2024, A SUNDAY.

This has been one of the longest entertainment industry awards shows, nominating, awarding, and more over encouraging artists from both the television industry and movie industry. Golden Globes are one of the few award ceremonies which have taken the initiative to bring television and motion picture stars into the same stage. For the last season of the 80th Golden Globe Award, they went to their long-time home the Beverly Hilton Hotel in Beverly Hills, California. Jerrod Carmichael was the host for the day and was hit instantly. Abbott Elementary and The Banshees of Inisherin were the top winners of that night. Both of them earned 3 awards each. Social media platforms collectively earned worldwide 24.2 billion impressions as a result of this show. Selena Gomez, Rihanna, and A$AP Rocky were among the active attendees of the function. Rihanna's exquisite number 'Lift Me Up' from Black Panther: Wakanda Forever was nominated for the best original song in a motion picture. And Gomez received another nomination for her hit Hulu comedy series Only Murders in the Building. Previously in 2022, they had awarded over 4.5 million dollars awarded to 93 programs and organizations as a part of their philanthropy and charitable giving programs.

Seasoned Artist PleasureMore Is Back With Another Impressive Release, 'Stop Teasing Me'

With a highly engaging track, PleasureMore is back with an incredibly powerful and musical way of 'Stop Teasing Me', a proportionate musical arrangement on the go.

Since his previous releases PleasureMore has been making great progress with his charming musical styles. From extremely compelling narrations to grooving soundscapes, his works are truly making a great impact on music lovers. His latest release, 'Stop Teasing Me', is a greatly effective music that has been making the world groove to his music. He is an R&B artist and still, his works are as positive as his impressive vocal qualities. He strongly continues to build a better fan base along with a remarkable number of streams on his previous tracks. His works are mostly loved by the age group between 28 and 34.

A veteran recording artist, singer, musician, songwriter, producer, and entertainer, PleasureMore, is making a great impact on his music fans. Great Ohio Players bassist, Late Marshall Jones, was the first person who discovered the genius in him.

With his eclectic nature along with his profound musical styles, he soon became one of the most fascinating releases. From the first song of his career in 2020 to his last release in 2022, he became one of the widely celebrated music artists. The dept in his vocals is something that can engulf the consciousness of listeners and music lovers.

He released his debut number on December 2020, 'Break Up To Make Up'. A brilliant concoction of music and magnetism can be witnessed in this number. Whether you are a music enthusiast or not, you will love the grooving vibes along with that you will fall for his incredibly mesmerizing magic of seamless music. Yet, his second track 'I Can't Tell Ya', is the most successful number. The number was released in March 2022, and it gained traction within a very short time. By far this number got 2.67M streams worldwide and 1.36M in the US on SoundCloud, one of the most celebrated music-streaming platforms.

His latest release, 'Stop Teasing Me', is a greatly imposing number along with very rooting effects. The effects are truly a very energizing number. The smooth vocals accompanied by narrative gravity have made the number more profound. With an urban adult contemporary vibe with a charming dose of dancing vibes, the pace of this track is very impressive. The song was released in collaboration with songwriter and record producer Arsdale Harris III. He surely will continue to make these incredibly fascinating tracks in the future as well. His music is available on the Official website, SoundCloud, Reverb Nation, Audio Mack, Apple Music, Twitter, Instagram, and Facebook.

CRANK UP THE VOLUME ON YOUR PLAYLIST AS TONIO ARMANI RELEASES THE MUSICAL MASTERPIECE 'ALL NIGHT LONG'

Prepare to be swept away into a realm of musical enchantment by the talented singer Travis Antonio Gardner, known professionally as Tonio Armani, as he drops his newest single 'All Night Long'. The lyrical strength of the song syncs perfectly with the trippy vocals creating a soothing yet deftly mixed musical brew. The song stands tall and unwavering in its musical sublimity as the artist unleashed into it his creative glory.

Travis Antonio Gardner, known professionally as Tonio Armani, was born in Columbus, Georgia. He is an Army veteran of 10 years who went on to become an American singer, songwriter, vocalist, and model. Upon realizing his love for music, he came to acknowledge the fact that he enjoyed any kind of music that promoted positivity and love, especially in the R&B and Soul genres. He strongly believes that music is the universal language that all people can relate to.

Before the release of his debut album 'Intimacy', he worked alongside International Recording Artists like Calvin Richardson, Tank, Trina, Plies, and Anthony Hamilton. Today he is signed independently to the Armani Music Group. When it comes to his music, the artist is committed to giving the audience his absolute best, and as proof of the same, his songs like 'All Night Long' have garnered over 290K streams on iTunes and 475k on YouTube in just 7 months, and his music videos like "In my feelings" also gained over 157k views on YouTube. Armani's music highlights his vast passion for his art and his unwavering devotion to it. His style is uninhibited and free from the confines of the water-tight compartments of genres and is marked by his deftness of storytelling. With over 1 million Digital streams on iTunes as of January 2023 and over 1 million views on YouTube channel collectively, the artist is surely on his way to become one of the greatest legends in the world of music.

The ethereal musical production in his latest song 'All Night Long' leads to a dreamy embrace of a multi-layered fabric of congenial musicality, creating a hypnotic ambiance that is also intriguing. The song exhibits a unique blend of electro-pop and hip-hop elements in the mix that accentuates a steady flow of deep and uniquely-toned meandering vocals that pour out revealing, honest and endearing lyrics. The heavy bassline gives way to powerful melodies that pave their way into a style that remains unique to the music of Tonio Armani. As the track progresses, the music picks up and the lighter top layer of rhythmic synths gives the song an impressive creative redirection. The song exudes promising vibes and engages listeners in an interesting and refreshing soundscape. You can check out the amazing songs of the singer on Apple Music, Spotify, SoundCloud, and also check out his channel on YouTube. Check out his video performing 'All Night Long' that went viral on TikTok. Follow him on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram for more.

YouTube Music

YouTube Music Might Offer a Group Listening Option with Google Meet Live Sharing Soon

YouTube Music is now preparing to support Google Meet Live Sharing for its users. This feature “allows all meeting participants to interact with the content that’s being shared.” YouTube Music version 5.42.50 features a pair of strings for Live Sharing. It can be shared just by using a shared code from the main application. From now on, Android users will also keep the video app open while on a call, and Meet appears as a Picture-in-Picture window.

The basic feature will allow “everyone in the meeting can pause, rewind, and forward the video for all participants when it plays.” To use this option you need to type -

name=”co_watch_status_bar_text”>

You are live sharing in Meet</string>” OR,

string name=”
co_watch_status_bar_ready_to_watch_text”
>Choose content to use Live Share.
Playback is synced.</string>

Note: these strings of codes have been found in an APK insight post, which indicates that Google could also bring this feature to YouTube soon. According to the codes, the status bars will appear at the bottom of the YouTube Music application.

You will find the status bar, which appears on the bottom, active when you are sharing with another app. “Playback is synced” is the only description people have today that can convey how Live Sharing can and will work in YouTube Music.

This might be a rather simple and straightforward feature that people are going to get soon.

Live Share can be activated from inside a Google Meet call in case of YouTube sharing.

Or you can also do it by going to a video and opening the system share sheet and selecting the option “Meet live sharing.” Any Android app will be able to integrate the Google Meet Live Sharing SDK with Heads Up!, UNO! Mobile, and Kahoot! Join YouTube and Spotify today to use these impressive options.

In a musical context, this elevated feature will offer those retrospective off-turntable FM vibes.

Michael Jackson's Nephew Jaafar Jackson Is Going to Play the Character of the King of Pop in His Biopic

Director Antoine Fuqua is going to come up with a biopic of the legend Michael Jackson. He has titled the movie 'Michael'. Here in the biopic, the audience will get to see his musical journey from the beginning. As of now, people are assuming that the film will have a similar essence to 'Bohemian Rhapsody'.

The most interesting part about this movie is, the role of Michael Jackson will be played by his nephew Jaafar Jackson. Audiences are eagerly waiting for him how he will portray such a huge character on screen. He has been selected for this role because Jaafar, the 26-year-old boy has been dancing since the age of 12. Along with dancing, he also has a caliber for singing.

As he mastered all these skills, for that reason the cast considered him the perfect person for the role. Before this, he also performed in songs by Sam Cooke and Marvin Gaye along with the original. The director of the film Antoine has confirmed that they will not hide any kind of controversy about Michael Jackson, and no biased information will be shown in the picture. Along with that, they will also show all the accusations that MJ has received in his lifetime. From this movie, everyone will get to see the real story of Michael Jackson.

He has died at the age of 50 in 2009 and they will also show the reason for his death in the biopic. In this picture, John Logan has given the script and everyone knows his brilliant work. Thus everyone knows that the movie will have great dialogue in it. Previously he worked with King and Oscar-nominated Gladiator screenwriter in the movie 'The Aviator', where Leonardo Di Caprio played the role of Howard Hughes. For this movie, John has gotten a lot of appreciation from all.

Everyone is aware of the musical legacy he had in his career but there are many secrets that people do not know. For this biopic, the director and scriptwriter have gone to the roots and explored every little piece of information, which will make the movie even more interesting for the viewers.

Thus everyone is waiting for Jaafar to do justice to the globally known character.

Roblox's Free Virtual Super Bowl Concert Featuring Saweetie Becomes Topic of Controversy Among Fans

As a part of the National Football League's (NFL) Super Bowl LVII pregame scheduled to be held on February 10, the hip-hop artist Saweetie will be performing virtually at Intuit Stadium exclusively in Roblox. The virtual concert is lined up for 7:00 pm ET at Warner Music Group's Rhythm City. The virtual concert will be re-aired every hour till Sunday, February 12.

Fans attending the Saweetie Super Bowl Concert can make purchases of digital items based on her merchandise and album looks, like boots, hats, headphones, wearable hairstyles, and sweatsuits on the Roblox marketplace, and even win prizes for finishing challenges. They will also get as tokens a Saweetie-themed “Icy” chain for attending her show.

The NFL's announcement of Saweetie's performance brought forth a volley of both positive and negative audience reactions. Some of the fans came down really hard on the rapper. The comment section of the announcement post was flooded with fans who questioned Saweetie's presence on the gaming app and the relevance it would have in terms of the Big Game. Some even joined the argument wondering if the explicit lyrics that the singer uses in her songs, as seen in those like ‘P.U.S.S.Y.’ were appropriate to be associated with the game.

However, the teaser of her performance shows her chiming “clean versions” of her songs. The NFL has also assured that the artist will perform a “family-friendly” and fully motion-captured show of her hit songs including ‘Tap-In’. The artist has expressed her excitement and gratefulness as she gushes over her impending performance.

In a statement, she mentioned: “I’m really excited to bring this iconic moment to the metaverse and share my music with a whole new audience in such a unique way! As an artist, innovator, and football fan, to be able to perform during Super Bowl LVII weekend in this new world – Rhythm City on Roblox – is something I never imagined that I would be involved in.”

Being the first Super Bowl-Roblox crossover, it is going to be an iconic milestone in Saweetie's career. Last year the artist dropped the album The Single Life which marked the end of the relationship drama that followed after her breakup with Migos' Quavo.

The album was a celebration of her singlehood. She herself described the album as being “revolutionary”, “heartbreaking”, “honest”, “a reflection”, and full of “transparency”.

Super Bowl LVII will ensue on Sunday, February 12, with the Philadelphia Eagles playing the Kansas City Chiefs.

Jessica Simpson's Megastar Secret Lover! Movie Star: They Always Say They're Single Reveals Everything

Jessica Simpson pens down a true, dreamy yet very unfortunate story of a relationship she had with a world-famous Hollywood Movie Star. While revisiting those days with this superstar she sometimes flows along and shares some butterfly moments. She also shared that after a while she also felt like a “call girl”. You can get the entire story in her essay “Movie Star: They Always Say They're Single”.

Everything started in 2006 after she ended her marriage with Nick Lachey. The essay got published on the 1st of February and in this essay she said, she met this mystery star at a Video Music Awards. Without revealing the identity of the superstar she said that she wasn't ready to take things ahead then, but met him again at a gym in Los Angeles.

While growing up she always thought that he was “so hot” but when she met him he eyeballed her up and down, and to her, it felt like he was undressing her with his eyes. The movie star at that point had a girlfriend of which Simpson was unaware. During their second meet at the gym, she offered him to be a part of one of her music videos.

In her essay she wrote, “I learned you can't always take people at their very persuasive word — seems obvious but it really isn't when you are dealing with someone who sells it so well... Not betraying your own heart and diminishing your self-worth actually feels so much better than immediate gratification if living in a lie... I also learned that there is a wide range of what monogamy means in Hollywood!”

The American singer revealed that they kissed or rather the mystery guy kissed her at the Beverly Hills Hilton. But this dreamy period was ultimately a brief one when she found the photos of him with his then-girlfriend on the red carpet. She was heartbroken and immediately broke off with this megastar. She wrote, “Yes, there was something sexy and enticing about all this, but there was also something demeaning about it. I felt like a call girl... I didn't care if he was my teenage fantasy come to life, this was not a choice that same girl, my younger self, would be proud of.”

Shania Twain Returns To Her Glory after a 5 Year of Break With Beaming 'Queen of Me'

Five-time Grammy winner Shania Twain hoping to bring joy to this world, with her new album 'Queen of Me'. She battled with life during the COVID-19 period and now she is back to her best form. Making impressive releases and going back to her eternal glory.

The world faced a really hard time during this pandemic and this world-famous singer was no exception. This Canadian singer faced a really tough time due to her asthma, she developed pneumonia. Yet, this 57-year-old eternal beauty is back with her seamlessly charming musical vibes. The playful vibes of this album are surely a gain for every music lover. She has shared that she wants the world to rejoice with her album, leaving the days of the pandemic behind. "There's so many things to celebrate right now and we are still in celebration mode. That's the mode I'm in and I sense it with the fans as well," She said in an interview. In an interview with Apple Music 1, she said "Every day my lungs were filling up with inflammation. Within 12 days, I was pretty much dying," while she remembered her days of suffering.

After her recovery, she motivated herself by recording an album. Two singles from the album got released on the 3rd of February. 'Giddy Up!' is a hands-down impressive country number with active dancing vibes. And the second one, 'Waking Up Dreaming' is the inspirational one.

Shania Twain said, "When I'm getting into the songwriting mode, I'm just dreaming. I'm playing with my imagination, I'm letting it go, and I'm in dream mode," she continued, "It's my dreams that set my goals."

Twain by far has sold over 85 million albums. She was a child prodigy, she started to sing at an age of 3, and by the time she was 8 years old, she was singing in bars and earning to pay bills for her family. She is a country phenomenon and proved that she still has the zest that brings the world to its knees when she is singing.

2023 is going to be an extremely busy year for this country sensation after the album is released. She has a tour planned to start in Spokane, Washington, in April. And the tour will end finish in Vancouver, British Columbia, in mid-November.

A PEEK INSIDE THE FAMOUS GRAMMY AFTER PARTIES OF 2023

When an event as grand as the Grammy Awards is in question, it is bound to be a days-long affair with an itinerary of festivities as elaborate as the guest list. The 2023 Grammys saw a host of pre-parties that had private performances held ahead of the ones showcased on the screen that compelled the nominees to arrive early. After one of the greatest nights in the world of music provided viewers with some of the most amazing highlights, all eyes were focused on the after-parties, which became the most star-studded event of the season

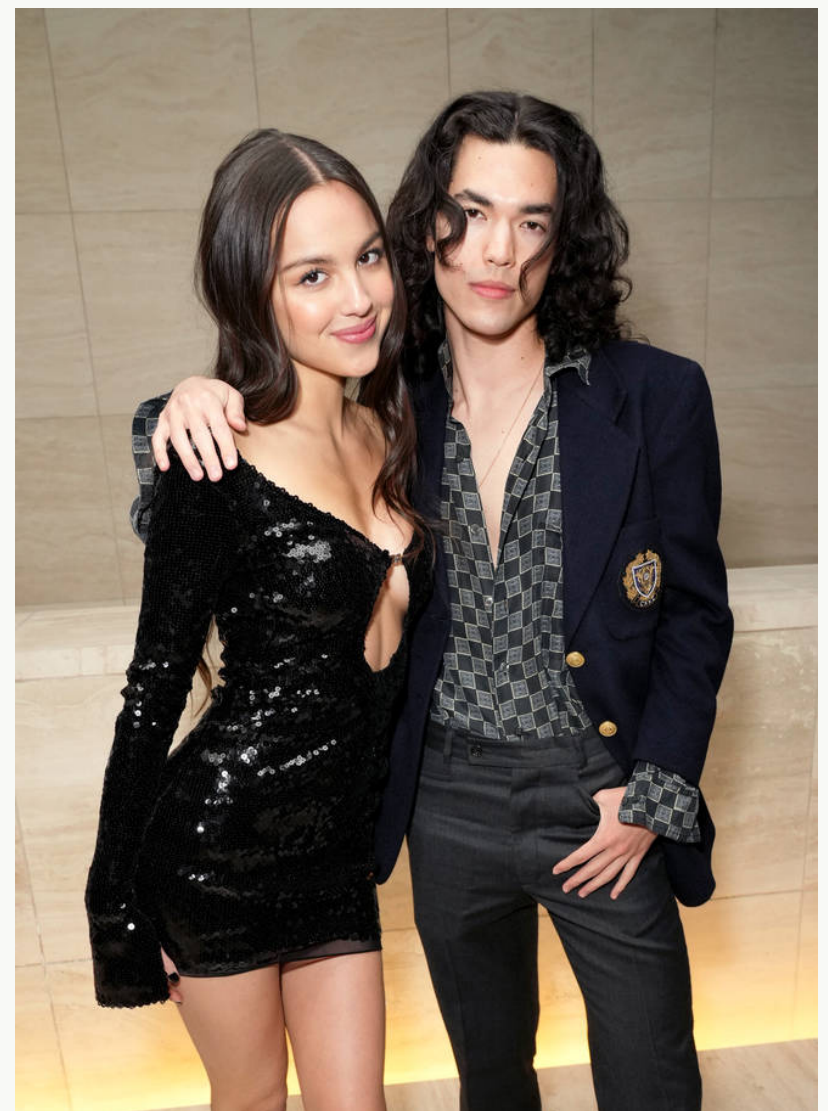

From Taylor Swift to Jack Antonoff, here's a glimpse of how the celebs took to celebrating the 65th Grammy after-parties. The Universal Music Group's Grammy Award after-party became the talk of the town. Celebrities like Olivia Rodrigo and bestie Conan Gray were seen posing for pictures, while Joe Jonas was also seen hanging out with pop and country singer Shania Twain. Others like Nick Jonas, Paris Jackson, Kim Petras, Stevie Wonder, Samara Joy, and LL Cool J were seen enjoying themselves at the UMG after-party which became a pleasant mixed bag of artists of different genres.

In the meantime, celebs like Taylor Swift, Sam Smith, Shawn Mendes, LeBron James, Rich Paul, and Adele seemed to dazzle in private parties elsewhere. Taylor's after-party at Chateau Marmont hotel. Celebs posed for group photos and seemed to be enjoying their hearts out. Troye Sivan, Jack Antonoff, Lana Del Rey, Sabrina Carpenter, Fletcher, Kelsea Ballerini Hayley, and Kiyoko made their presence known at Taylor's party posing and posing for fun pictures with the singer and with each other.

After the Awards show, the celebrities went through a change of outfits. While Olivia Rodrigo sported a sequined number, Taylor rocked a spaghetti-strapped embellished gown.

Though these coveted after-parties are a time for celebs to let loose and enjoy their hearts out, three major winners of the night- Lizzo, Beyoncé, and Harry Styles - were nowhere to be seen at any of these gatherings, probably burnt out after the shows. Whatever the reason, the celebs definitely seemed to have a blast at the parties and that was all about another Grammy down the books!

Bad Bunny, Christina Aguilera, and Jeremy Pope are About to Receive Top Honors At GLAAD Media Awards 2023

GLAAD Media Awards do just not celebrate the queer community, this respected award show honors their vocal allies for supporting the LGBTQ community. This year, this award show is recognizing a few incredibly massive stars for their relentless and undaunted efforts. On 8th February, Wednesday, GLAAD announced that exceptionally talented and popular recording artist Bad Bunny and evergreen voice of pop; Christina Aguilera would be receiving two allyship awards at this annual ceremony which will take place on March 30th.

The organization also has announced that actor Jeremy Pope would be receiving the Stephen F. Kolzak award for his work in raising visibility for LGBTQ media professionals. The reason behind choosing Pope for this award is for “breaking barriers across multiple industries as an out LGBTQ media professional.”

The annual vanguard award is going to Bad Bunny. This award is presented to “allies who have made a significant difference in promoting acceptance of LGBTQ people and issues.” Previously mega-stars like Beyoncé, Jay-Z, Jennifer Lopez, Britney Spears, and Cher have received this award.

GLAAD president and CEO Sarah Kate Ellis said that the star’s (Bad Bunny) consistent advocacy through his live performances, music videos, or something else, he “redefines the positive influence Latin music artists can have within the LGBTQ community and has set an example for all artists.”

The advocate for change award is given to “a person who, through their work, has changed the game for LGBTQ people around the world,” and Aguilera is the right person for this award. President Bill Clinton and pop superstar Madonna have been the past recipients of this award. Ellis mentioned that she dedicated her hit “Beautiful” to the queer community.

Her works are raising money for HIV research. And her staunch opposition to anti-queer policies in the U.S. has made her the right person for this award. Ellis said, Aguilera “loudly and proudly raises the bar for what it means to be a LGBTQ ally today.”

GLAAD previously announced the nominations for the 2023 GLAAD Media Awards. The lists included several LGBTQ artists such as Demi Lovato, Kim Petras, Anitta, Fletcher, and many more for their work in 2022. For their artistic contributions, queer art have gained more definition last year.

Rihanna Is Back and Brought Out a Special Surprise On the Super Bowl Halftime Performance

It is time to rejoice in the special comeback of Rihanna at the Super Bowl halftime performance, at State Farm Stadium in Glendale, Arizona. The pop icon was truly above it all, as she began and ended the performance high above the field.

Rihanna's concert which was disrupted by a football match lacked special guest appearances but not in literal senses. The singer appeared with a pregnant belly and gave her viewers the surprise that she is pregnant for the second time after the birth of her son in May 2022. Her representative confirmed the news after the show and the fans cannot keep calm.

The fashion was on point as RiRi is known for her fashion choices which have made her one of the most popular fashion icons in the world. The singer wore a puffy, bright red jumpsuit along with a tight, rubbery garb underneath. For the entire performance, this rubbery grab showed her baby bump which was enough to create a wave of assumptions on the internet and was revealed to be true at the end. In an interview with Apple Music, right before the Super Bowl Halftime performance, she revealed that she might come on stage with a surprise guest and it seems like her carrying her second child in the womb was a surprise all along!

She opened and ended the performance by standing high on a transparent rectangular platform that raised and lowered along with her belting performance. The entire set was filled with timeless classic hits of the singer, starting with the iconic record "Bitch Better Have My Money". The performance brought excitement as minutes before the Philadelphia Eagles and Kansas City Chiefs were battling to win the game.

The halftime show has always been a source of great entertainment and since the news broke that Queen RiRi is coming back on stage for this special performance, the audience was thrilled to witness the history. And she did not disappoint! The singer was styled in a bright red color which kept all the attention on her and the dancers were styled in white ski-style suits and shaded goggles that had their separate suspended platforms, moving along with the platform of the singer.

The set was filled with iconic songs like "Work", "Where Have You Been", "Only Girl", "Rude Boy", etc. which ended with RiRi up in the sky belting with "Diamonds".

UK's biggest popular music prize, The Brit Awards 2023 took place on Saturday and Harry Styles won the top awards in the event. However, the singer made sure to talk about his privileges when won the prize for a supposedly gender-neutral category where no other female artists were featured.

Harry made multiple appearances on the stage as he won awards for album of the year, artist of the year, song of the year for the hit single 'As It Was', and lastly the best pop/R&B act. With so many awards in a single night, the singer could not help but say, "This night has been really, really special to me and I will never forget it." He further added, "I'm so so proud to be a British artist in the world out there."

The music ceremony has arranged a gender-neutral main prize for British artist of the year for the second year which was introduced in 2022 for artists like Sam Smith who are identified as non-binary.

On the contrary, the category consisted of an all-male shortlist this year. During his acceptance speech, Harry did not forget to mention this controversial list by naming the women artists who were originally shortlisted for the category, but could not make it to the finals.

Referring to Rina Sawayama, Charli XCX, Florence Welch, Mabel, and Becky Hill; Harry Styles said, "I'm really really grateful for this and I'm very aware of my privilege up here tonight so this award is for Rina, Charli, Florence, Mabel and Becky". He won the Grammy award for album of the year for 'Harry's House' which was the biggest-selling album in the United Kingdom last year. Harry gave off a sarcastic tone while saying, "this doesn't happen to people like me very often" during the acceptance speech at the Grammy.

Critics of the industry have well dug into the matter and indicated that being a white 29-year-old Englishman, Harry hardly falls in the category of an underprivileged artist. On the other hand, The Brit Awards chairman Damian Christian said that it is "disappointing to see the lack of female representation" while blaming it on the big female stars who made a lack of eligible 2022 releases. While talking about privileges, pop queen Beyonce has won awards for international artist of the year and best international song categories. However, she did not attend the ceremony in person. Hopefully, The Brit Awards will be more careful about their nominations.

T-Series Reveals their Music Catalog for 2023: From Bawal to Hera Pheri Franchise the Catalog Looks Promising

Being Asia's largest music label, they have kept their quality and diversity at their peak. Whether it is music album releases or movie album releases, they have never failed to offer chartbusters since their inception. This year, like always they have huge bag releases that will change the trending scenario of this year's charts as well.

As the chairman and Managing Director of T-Series Bhushan Kumar announces the electric mix of music catalog under the movie spaces. The great hits of 2023 are going to hold the release of Bawal, and Priyadarshan is also coming back with another Hera Pheri franchise. Not just their catalog holds names like Satya Prem Ki Katha, Fighter, Sanki, Yodha, and Nadiadwala Grandsons Entertainment's Baaghi franchise, which are amongst the other releases from this label.

The social media post that conveyed the news to the world goes like this; "T-Series announces the eclectic mix of music catalog! Bags rights of upcoming installment of HeraPheri franchise, Satya Prem Ki Katha, Bawaal, Fighter, Sanki, Yodha, NadiadwalaGrandsons' Baaghi franchise amongst others."

These two movie franchises have been one of India's most favorite. While the Baaghi franchise has offered 3 high on action movies by far and the Hera Pheri franchise has given two absolutely hilarious movies, while the second part has its resemblances with "Lock Stock and Two Smoking Barrels", but there is no way this upcoming movie is going to demean the craze about this release.

While releasing the music roster for 2023, Chairman Bhushan Kumar said, "Ever since T-Series was founded in 1983, the aim was to deliver best quality music! Each movie stands out and is so different from each other; we are definitely excited to be working on these albums and truly look forward to bringing an eclectic mix of music that will cater to audiences both new and old."

For massive releases often music labels join forces to furl that one big release. The path around big releases has been the same for a long time.

But after seeing the music roster of T-series it seems that they are going to be keeping their name as they always have been in this year as well.

And their zeal to entertain the audience will be the same this year as well.

Cardi B

Receives 15 days of community service and calls it 'The Best Thing'

Industry mogul Cardi B has been serving 15 days of community service ordered by the court for her previous criminal activities. Let's see what she said about her experience.

Everyone's favorite Cardi B has to serve 15 days of community service which is a court-mandated order. She has to serve a total of 15 days before March 1 in order to avoid a 15-day jail sentence. The rapper has gladly welcomed this opportunity and rejuvenated herself by getting over the past. This 15 days service is a part of her punishment for her influence in some brawls in New York that took place in 2018.

This 30-year-old singer cum rapper also participated in an NYPD "Girls Talk" event, which was arranged at the police training academy in Queens. She shared quite a quality time with them, danced with the team, sharing photos, and also "her rags to riches story."

Cardi said to her fans, "I feel like there's so many people that make y'all probably feel like, 'This is what's cool, this is what's going on, this is what it takes to be lit, this is what it takes to be fire,'" She further added that, "Sometimes that's a little bit of peer pressure like on a girl. Don't fall into that. You know what I'm saying? Like, be great. Be you. You're amazing. You're dope yourself."

While the singer is trying to motivate everyone to embrace themselves and proceed with what they truly love, critics are questioning her deeds for her past life. According to them, Cardi B is not an appropriate role model for children as her works include provocative lyrics, criminal records, and a fair amount of sexual innuendos. Besides that, she also drugged and robbed men in the early days when she used to work as a stripper.

Belcalis Almanzar, better known as Cardi B, has been offering updates on Twitter regarding her community services. She seemed quite happy as she wrote, "Community service has been the best thing that has happened to me." She considered this as a spiritual journey and further wrote, "Those people that we leave behind they just need somebody to talk and a lil push and YOU might be able to change their life forever."

However, it is clear that the singer is only trying to avoid the jail sentence but not her responsibilities as she knows she is guilty. In a recent post, she also said, "I did the crime 'I only have myself to blame'." Previously, in a statement, she said, "Part of growing up and maturing is being accountable for your actions. As a mother, it's a practice that I am trying to instill in my children, but the example starts with me." Clearly, being a mother of two is putting Cardi through a lot of changes.

'About Damn Time' earned a lot of attention and offered Lizzo a Grammy. Her latest remix of 'Special' with SZA is celebrating this moment of success with the fans.

Lizzo and SZA have created a musical dream team and the newly released remix of "Special" is the greatest example of their powerful collaboration. The single 'Special' has been released before with the namesake album that created a huge buzz in the industry. However, the singer came up with a brand new version of the 'Special', which is truly special, featuring SZA. They also teased the remix of the track on social media which created a huge buzz with them flexing their Grammy Award wins. Not to mention but Lizzo won the award for Record of the Year trophy with 'About Damn Time', appearing in the same album.

SZA's opening verses not only tantalize the hearts of listeners but also depicted a vivid picture of empowerment as well as Lizzo's progress.

It goes, "Woke up this morning to somebody judging me/No surprise they judging me, don't know who I'm 'posed to be/I'm just acting up," but it also offers a fair share of motivation with the lines, You call sensitive and I call it superpower/You just like empathy 'cause you think it gives you power/All I know is only God can judge me/I don't hide my heart, I wear it on me."

It does not require to say that Lizzo and SZA are two of the most inspiring music artists in the industry right now who are revolving at the epitome of everyone's attention. They are also quite good friends which makes this collaboration even more special to them.

In November 2022, the singer made an appearance during Lizzo's tour stop in California to perform "Special." "No one like you on this earth and I'm so honored to call you my friend and SISTER loves you more and more each day," SZA wrote to Lizzo on Twitter after the performance.

After winning the Grammy, Lizzo also showered her love, adoration, and appreciation for SZA by saying, "My actual sister. I could cry thinking about you right now. Nothing could make special more special than you".

Previously in an interview, Lizzo said, "I turn my pain into profit. I make it work for me. So I went into the studio to write a song for myself that would remind me how special I am", while talking about the concept behind the song. It is safe to say that Lizzo is turning her pain into success and SZA is her partner in crime.

Lady Gaga Is Reminding Selena Gomez How Beautiful She Is On Her TikTok Post

Lady Gaga's kind gesture toward Selena Gomez is creating a buzz on social media platforms. Recently, Selena posted on TikTok that she wishes to become as beautiful as the supermodel Bella Hadid by saying 'I wish I was as pretty as Bella Hadid'. In this particular post, Lady Gaga said 'You look and are beautiful inside and out and one of my favorite ladies alive!'. She has also said 'She's Bella Hadid but your [sic] THE Selena Gomez'. This kind gesture to another artist has amazed everyone. After her comment, many other fans have also shared their opinion. A person has commented 'Lady Gaga gives such loving mom vibes', which is really beautiful. Some other user said 'This is so sweet love to see queens supporting each other'. And the post was flooded with comments like 'Selena is beautiful just how she is'. Lady Gaga's this comment is making everyone thought about that self-love is such an important thing. And most of the time everyone forgets about it and suffers in their life. This artist is not only an inspiration for the artists but she is encouraging everyone to lead a better life too by ignoring such complexes. Selena announced on Wednesday that she wants to take a break from social media sites as there is a controversy going on about her eyebrows. And this controversy is making an argument between her and Hailey Bieber, who is the wife of her ex-boyfriend. In TikTok, Selena has confirmed that it became over-laminated accidentally. And in response, Kylie Jenner said 'this was an accident???' and shared a photo of Hailey.

Right after that, Kylie and Hailey had to face a lot of criticism on Twitter for their inappropriate behavior. After that users posted comments like 'Kylie Jenner and Hailey Bieber behaving like high school bullies towards Selena Gomez, who is a mother and a wife, is entirely unacceptable' and 'If you think this was an accident, you're simply being cruel'.

Being such big stars this kind of behavior is not expected from them and that is why they are facing so much disapproval on the internet.

BTS Star J-Hope Begins Procedure for Mandatory South Korean Military Service

After Jin, a second member of the first K-Pop band to be nominated for a Grammy, BTS, announced his cancellation of military postponement and has begun the process of enlistment for mandatory military service. This recent development came as quite a shock to the fans who had not expected this BTS-level plot twist to come so soon, while others had expected the next member to enlist would be Suga.

However, after this surprising announcement by Big Hit, Jin, 30, who had enlisted in December after having postponed his service for as long as it was permitted, made a brief comeback on Instagram where he engaged in their usual and fun banter with J-Hope, thereby lightening the mood and leaving fans on a cheered up note. Starting the conversation by writing, “Welcome...”, Jin wrote to J-Hope explaining to him that he was to be in a ‘private’ class and then jestingly advised that he should not think about making eye contact with him because of their ranks- Jin is a private first class. He even schooled his group mate how to salute properly, keeping the angle of the salute in line with his wrist and upper hand and raising it at an angle of 30 degrees from the ground. He further advised that the forearm should also be kept at 30 to 45 degrees.

To all of this, J-Hope replied, “You’re a tiger assistant trainer.” The entire conversation came as a welcome respite to fans who could help but laugh at their raillery, and some of them even commented on how light-hearted they were and one of them wrote, “Trust Jin to come and lighten the mood...” The whole schooling of J-Hope was speculated by fans as Jin’s payback for the complex choreography he put the latter through.

The rapper-choreographer provided some solace to fans saying that it wasn’t ‘farewell’ on his part as he has a parting gift for them, titled ‘On The Street’, set to release on March 2.

The artist also expressed his regret that he would not be able to cheer the other members of the group on their solo ventures but he would definitely do so ‘quietly’ from wherever he ends up getting posted.

The South Korean law states that all able-bodied men of ages 18-28 must mandatorily serve in the military for about two years, but a 2019 legislative revision extended this age limit to 30 for globally acknowledged K-pop stars.

Insights on Miley Cyrus' 'Flowers': Heartbreak Anthem OR Revenge Video: Netizens Surely Were Spellbound

On the 13th of January 2023, on the same day as her ex-husband Liam Hemsworth's 33rd birthday, she decided to release 'Flowers' packed with consequential lyrics and a uniquely done revenge video. While the world was completely awestruck to see her dancing and celebrating her new-found singlehood, she was remembering and slightly bashing her failed relationship with Junior Hemsworth. This was her first release from her upcoming album called 'Endless Summer Vacation'. And within minutes the song was a hit and the world was enthralled to see how she offered several Easter eggs throughout this number.

The song talks about various incidents that took place in their relationship. Starting with the relationship she and Liam shared, they both were a power couple until they weren't. She was ready with her loaded lyricism and her addictive voice to address their 10 years old relationship that ended in 2020. First, it is the date she chose to drop the song on his birthday. This song was a complete package of vindictive lyricism and the video was truly a revenge video. Many have pointed out that this was the house that has several spiteful memories of infidelity.

With her words like "Built a home and watched it burn," she mentioned their California house which had caught fire in 2018 due to wildfire. She has had a great career graph, since her childhood, but this song broke the internet as she was being wildly honest. This may not be a coincidence but taking revenge most creatively will always be appreciated. But this song hasn't caused any defamation cases by far, but this coded song soon became a hot topic on Twitter, triggering millions of social media users. Was the gold dress widely similar to the Jennifer Lawrence dress, or Miley was actually wearing Liam's 2019 MET Gala suit? Probably both were true and it was just a coincidence that they both wore a YSL at a Saint Laurent parade in Malibu, their last public appearance. The traumatic loss of love from her surely cannot be avenged by releasing one number, and people might continue to portray her as a publicity-hungry star. But this song is a confession of her agony, and her daunting declaration that she CAN buy herself 'Flowers'.

Sonu Nigam Was Attacked in Mumbai after the Show, the Video Went Viral!

Perhaps, it is time for music lovers to raise their voices against political influence on the music industry as Sonu Nigam went through a serious incident in Mumbai. The singer got manhandled by a bunch of people after the show and his aide got injured during the hackle. The incident took place last night at a music festival in Chembur, Mumbai around 11 pm when the fans were crowding for selfies. Sonu was manhandled and one of the aides was thrown off the stage while he was trying to help the singer. The aide suffered minor injuries and was discharged after basic treatment from a nearby hospital.

It is a quite dark moment for the music industry as well as music lovers when their favorite singer is being harassed by goons. Sonu told the reporters, "I fell on the steps after I was pushed. Rabbani came to save me and was pushed from behind. He could have died. I filed a complaint because people must think about it when they force someone to take a selfie." Police said that it is a case of wrongful restraint and voluntarily causing hurt.

The man who was charged for the incident is Swapnil Phaterpekar, the son of MLA Prakash Phaterpekar. While the whole nation is questioning such lawlessness, police claimed that there is no political angle to this incident. However, it is an evident case of misusing power and privilege. Deputy Commissioner of Police (DCP) Hemraj Singh Rajput said, "The incident occurred when Sonu Nigam was leaving the stage after his live performance at the Chembur festival. He was stopped from behind by someone. When two people accompanying the singer tried to move him aside, the man pushed them down the steps. This led to one of them sustaining injuries."

As a member of the Maharashtra State Commission for Women who is also the organizer of the Chembur Music Festival, Suprada Phaterpekar apologized to Sonu Nigam through a tweet. She further requested people not to politicize the incident as the person who asked Sonu for the selfie was none but her own brother.

The footage of Sonu and his aide being harassed is currently a viral post on Twitter and within a night, it has taken over the internet. Sonu's fans and other sensible Indians are raising their voices against the incident as it is quite preposterous and unacceptable. Stay tuned for more!

Dua Lipa Is Getting Panicked As Her Third Album Got Leaked Before the Release

Globally renowned artist Dua Lipa is facing a hard time as her third album has leaked before the release date. This has made her less excited about the release. She is also very worried that some of the tracks will also get leaked in the future before the release. This would be very much disappointing for her to experience all these in her music career.

It is not something that is happening to her for the first time. Her second album 'Future Nostalgia' also got leaked two weeks before the release. After that, she had to release the album as soon as possible. This time she doesn't want to do these things again. Somehow she is not being able to provide the required security to her songs even after working under any recording label. And that is very much surprising for her and the listeners.

She couldn't even find out what the reason was or who was responsible for all this hassle. All these have left her with panic and stress before the big release. She came to know about this when her song started to see online. Dua is trying to handle the situation and taking initiative to prevent any other future damages. She is looking for more security for her creations and trying to avoid these kinds of situations in the future.

A source has said 'Over the past month or so countless demos and rejected songs from Dua have been appearing online. It's annoying as they didn't make the album for a reason but obviously the main concern is to know if information about her third album is next'. But in some way she is not being able to prevent all these loopholes. Now Dua Lipa is reaching out to her recording label and trying to find out who is doing the same thing again and again. The artist has also made it clear that any other songs do not have the permission to get leaked prior to the release date. She is attempting to stop all these, so she does not have to go through this all over again.

01 Flowers

Miley Cyrus

An epic comeback after a decade, Miley Cyrus is finally wrecking some records with 'Flowers'. This single is setting an example in the music industry for not only Miley's dashing personality and seductive husky voice but the sense of empowerment present in it. There are a handful of easter eggs added in the track that offer several references to her mental turmoil and toxic relationship with her ex-husband Liam Hemsworth. The song also acts as a reply to Bruno Mars's famous track 'When I was Your Man'; which was once dedicated by Liam to Miley. Perhaps, moving out of a negative relationship would never feel so powerful without Miley paving the way with flowers. This song is topping all hot charts for the last few weeks.

It's a Euphonium, not a Tuba: Interesting facts about The Euphonium

A lot of people confuse a Euphonium with a Tuba but this musical cousin has some different traits. This longhorn musical instrument is used to play a higher range of notes and has a lot of similarities with the Tuba which makes it a perfect alternative. What is mainly used in high school musical bands is also heavily used in the music industry. Let's get to more fun facts about this uber-cool instrument.

1. It is definitely not a Tuba

Let's break the myth and reconfirm the fact that a Euphonium is different than a Tuba and serves a different position in any orchestra band. Though they look incredibly similar, the Euphonium is smaller than a Tuba and capable of producing higher notes.

2. A name from Ancient Greek Culture

The instrument got its name from the Ancient Greek word 'euphōnos' which is referred to melody or something 'sweet-voiced' or 'well-sounding'. It is more valid as the euphonium's sound offers a reminiscence of the sirens of old Greek myth. However, the instrument was not invented by the Greeks.

3. Then, who invented it?

It is still unclear who was the actual creator of this musical instrument as there are three people who are usually credited for the invention of the euphonium. Carl Moritz was the first person to develop a prototype of the instrument in 1838. Later on, Ferdinand Sommer and Adolphe Sax offered their inputs in the year 1843. But it is still not clear as Adolphe Sax is the person responsible for the invention of the Saxophone. But, there is still a lack of evidence whether Saxophones became the future of euphoniums or not.

4. It looks quite similar to a Baritone horn

The identity crisis of Euphonium is not only related to Tuba but also Baritone horn which is considered similar to this instrument in size, shape, and sound as well. Though these two instruments belong to the same brass horn family, they are different in structure and the euphonium is larger than the Baritone. Baritone Horn also consists of a cylindrical bore which is different from the euphonium's conical bores.

5. Modern Euphonium development in 1874

It started through the hands of David Blaikley who created the British-style euphonium in 1874. He is used to working at Boosey & Co. at the time. Though many manufacturers tried to make some adjustments to the instrument, it didn't require much changing after Blaikley's model.

6. Euphonium Players are spreading their names

Though there is not much hype regarding Euphonium, the players of this instrument are keeping their names out there in the world with impeccable musicianship. Some of the most talented and well-revered euphonium players like David Childs, Steven Mead, Demondrae Thurman, and many others have garnered global attention while shedding more light on this amazing musical instrument.

7. Types of Euphoniums

There are a total of four types of Euphoniums used by musicians.

Compensating Euphonium- British compensating euphonium is the most used instrument which is used in musical orchestras around the world. It utilizes a three-plus-one valve system that helps to achieve correct intonations in the lower spectrum.

Double-bell Euphonium- This euphonium's typical design allows the players to switch to a smaller bell by using an additional valve.

Marching Euphonium- Just like its name, these euphoniums are mostly used for marching bands.

Five-valves Euphonium- This is an extremely rare euphonium which is a larger version with two extra valves.

8. Leading instrument in the Military

Military bands are one of the most disciplined, dedicated, and skillful musical groups that make tough compositions look easy and the euphonium is the leading instrument in tenor-bass military bands. American and British bands have mainly carried forward the trend of euphonium with the spread of the siren call among the masses.

9. Euphonium Players struggle to pick a name

Picking a name for the Euphonium Players is one of the toughest jobs as it is quite varied and different people like to address it differently. It is still unclear whether the official title should be euphoniumist, euphophonist, or euphonist but it mainly revolves around these three terms only. No matter what the players prefer, people are still going to mispronounce it.

10. A Jack of All Trades

There can be mishaps in orchestral performances as well but you still need to hit the notes. Being a Jack of All Trades, Euphonium can fill in when the Tuba breaks down. As a result, the euphonium players are considered the best people to fill the gap. Euphoniums are capable of hitting a large range of notes like no other horn instrument can. It can also offer a wider sound spectrum from the brass section. In a nutshell, a true game-changer.

Bottom Line With these 10 unknown facts about Euphonium, you might have already known a lot about this cool instrument. So, do not forget to call someone out when you see them confusing a Euphonium with a Tuba or a Baritone Horn!

Logic Is Ready To Drop His Latest Album 'College Park'

The talented hip-hop artist Logic is going to release his debut independent album 'College Park'. The album is going to be finally released on the 24th of February.

The Maryland rapper is coming back with his latest album named 'College Park'. The album is going to be released on the 24th of February. It is going to be his first ever project independently, which makes the whole thing even more exciting. At very first he shared an animated trailer of this album and dropped the news among everyone. in the guest list, there are a lot of artists, those are RZA, Redman, Joey Bada$$, Norah Jones, Bun B, Lil Keke, Statik Selektah, Seth MacFarlane, and more.

Later on, he stated a lot of things and those are 'I love y'all and I'm making shit from the heart... I'm loving hip-hop. I was not really feeling it for a while. I don't really mean the music, I just mean the bullshit of the industry. But I realize now more than ever that none of that shit matters. I've missed you guys and I'm here and I just want to have fun and I'm so excited for College Park'.

He is a talented young artist who has worked with Def Jam since 2014. After the seventh studio album, they parted ways and Logic started working on his own. That is why this album is so special for everyone. After the incident with that recording label, he shared his disgusted opinion and said to Apple that 'I think for me I've had a relationship that's been very up and down, but it's been a lot of ups, it really has. I can't sit here and just go in on Def Jam, when it's not Def Jam, it's major labels in general'.

But he has overcome all these and finally came up with his independent project. And undoubtedly it has created a buzz among everyone. last July he said 'I'm just glad to move on to a place where I can be independent, and respected as an artist, and feel like I'm in control of my career'. On the basis of this statement, everyone kept faith in him and now he is giving a reward to all with this upcoming album. The wait is finally coming to an end on the 24th of February.

A college in Florida Cancels a Singing Group, Judging their Lifestyle and Sexuality

The King's Singers, a well-revered British a cappella music group has been canceled from the Pensacola Christian College concert in Florida for a member's sexual orientation. The internet is greatly vocal after a college in Florida canceled a singing group's performance due to at least one member's sexuality. This incident has greatly enraged students, musicians, and people around the globe.

The group is known as The King's Singers which is a highly revered a cappella music group that has more than 50 years of glorious history. This British Group is an all-male group that performs a variety of songs, ranging from pop to classical as well as sacred gospels.

The group claimed that their performance has been canceled with only a "two hours' notice" due to the college's "concerns' about the 'lifestyle' of members of our group." Their performance was supposed to take place on February 11 concert at Pensacola Christian College, a private independent Baptist institution. The musical group posted on social media "It has become clear to us, from a flood of correspondence from students and members of the public, that these concerns related to the sexuality of members of our group."

On the other hand, the college has also shared a statement to support its reasoning. It says, "PCC canceled a concert with The King's Singers upon learning that one of the artists openly maintained a lifestyle that contradicts Scripture." The scripture belongs to articles of faith in the school and there's a section referring to sexuality.

It says, "We believe that God has commanded that sexual activity be exclusively reserved to a man and a woman who are legally married to each other." It further reads, "sexual immorality including adultery, fornication, homosexuality, bestiality, incest, and use of pornography." However, the college claimed that the artists were "treated with dignity and respect when informed of the cancellation."

It is quite absurd as The King's Singers have already performed in the college before. It sparked a controversy within the small liberal arts college and beyond. Everybody is questioning PCC's weird reasoning as in recent years, the college witnessed performances by many artists and such an incident never occurred.

Francis Poulenc and Pyotr Ilyich Tchaikovsky also performed there. These two classical music legends are also known for their male romantic interests but they were never questioned or canceled.

This is the morally right decision but how come this prestigious institution is still offering such reasons in 2023?

From the day of the incident, there have been many "arguments and mini protests" on the PCC campus.

KCON 2023 Announces the Dates of Celebrations in Thailand, Japan and the USA

The world's biggest K-Pop convention KCON has announced the dates and locations for this year's festivities. Starting from Thailand, the KCON will head to Japan and then to the USA.

After being held online for two years due to the pandemic, the world's biggest K-pop festival KCON marked its in-person return in 2022. After its massive success, the KCON has now announced the dates for the 2023 festival that will be held in the USA, Japan, and Thailand. KCON has earned its reputation as a major convention and music festival that pays tribute to Korean pop culture and entertainment. Before the COVID-19 pandemic break, the annual convention has been held in countries like the U.S., Saudi Arabia, Australia, France, and Japan, among others, since 2012.

The convention has announced via Twitter their return to Thailand in March after almost four years. March 18 and 19 have been designated as the dates for KCON Thailand where performances by those like iKON, G)I-DLE, GOT7's BamBam, and Youngjae have been lined up.

After Thailand, the convention will move to Tokyo, Japan, and will continue from May 12 to 14 at the Makuhari Messe convention center, after last year's two-day Chiba event where K-pop boy band TO1 performed alongside J-pop artists like JO1 and INI. In 2022, KCON Japan was celebrated at Tokyo's Ariake Arena, highlighted by performances of artists like ATEEZ, TO1, TOMORROW X TOGETHER, LE SSERAFIM, Monsta X's Kihyun, fromis_9, and NewJeans among other K-pop and J-pop performers.

Following Japan, the KCON will head to Los Angeles, where the convention will be held from August 18 to 20 at the LA Convention Center and Crypto.com Arena. Apart from the in-person events, the entire KCON 2023 will be available online for fans around the globe. The previous year KCON LA had reported 90,000 fans through its three days of meet-and-greets, workshops, convention, and concerts by artists like Kep1er, TO1, The Boyz, ITZY, ATEEZ, and Stray Kids among others. For the events that would take place in the three countries, KCON has planned customized content that would be at par with the cities and their customs and standards. The head of the CJ ENM's Convention Live Business Department, Kim Hyun Soo, was elated as he spoke about the event that "started with 10,000 audience members in 2012, and has now established itself as the world's largest K-culture festival". He also mentioned that the convention is an ever-evolving platform and they would "pour (their) strength into actively and positively introducing K-pop and K-culture."

In spite of the competition posed by the new K-pop festival startups, namely We Bridge Music Festival & Expo and KAMP, as well as K-pop artists making increasing appearances at long-running U.S. music fests like Coachella and Lollapalooza, KCON's attendance and audience engagement remains strong and steady even after a decade.

The two of the biggest musical stars of today, Ariana Grande and The Weeknd have once again collaborated, and this time on the remix of the singer's 2016 hit 'Die For You'.

When in 2016, The Weeknd released his smash hit album 'Starboy', everybody showered love upon it and it became one of the most successful albums of that year. Now, all thanks to TikTok the emergence of old favorites is going viral every day, and 2016's mega-hit 'Die For You' is one of the trending songs on the platform. It once again has entered mainstream popularity with ease and is seeing a rise in the charts. Its sudden emergence on the platform was not due to a particular trend or a sped version of the track. This is why The Weeknd made the smart choice of releasing a remix with the fan-favorite vocal powerhouse Ariana Grande.

Their last collaboration was on 'Off The Table' which was on Ariana Grande's last released album 'Positions' and The Weeknd's song, the remix of 'Save Your Tears', both released in 2020. Now the remix of 'Die For You' was kind of expected by the fans, especially due to the resurgence of the original song on the charts. 'Die For You' remained in the top 10 of the Billboard Hot 100 for the last seven weeks, with a peak position at No. 6. So now the singer is capitalizing on the song's success with the help of the 'Thank You next' single.

The news of Ariana being on the remix came just two days earlier of the release when she posted a TikTok of her working on some sections of 'Die For You'. she also captioned the video saying "Wrote and recorded a verse for my friend after a 14 hour day on set. This certain exception had to be made". In the clip, she can be seen cutting vocal takes and layering the harmonies. After Ariana posted this on her Instagram as well, the creepin' singer also reposted that clip on his story with a teary-eyed emoji confirming the collaboration. Now that the song is released on all digital platforms, the fans can hardly keep calm. Especially after a long hiatus of almost 3 years, Ariana Grande is singing again, so the listeners and the singer are showering the track with love and support.

The remix is definitely worthy of all the praise, especially Ariana adding so much to the song. Her vocals complement the vocals of The Weeknd perfectly, enhancing the song's original message. Both stars have created such an amazing ambiance with the record that the listeners want to replay it again and again. You can now listen to it on all digital platforms.

Ricky Kej Wins His Third Grammy this Year, Making Indians Proud

It is definitely a proud moment for Indians as well as the global music industry as Ricky Kej has won a Grammy this year. The Grammy Awards 2023 on Monday became memorable with Ricky winning the award for Best Immersive Audio Album category. The event was held at the Crypto.com arena in Los Angeles, USA.

This Bengaluru-based Indian music composer and producer have worked with musical legend Stewart Copeland for the project 'Divine Tides' which brought them this award. This music project is a tribute to the magnificence and significance of the natural world which is woven masterfully. This album consists of a total of nine songs and each portrays the brilliance of this musical duo. There are also 8 music videos belonging to the songs which were recorded from different corners of the world. Starting from the exotic beauty of the Himalayan terrains to the icy forests of Spain, the videos offered a huge diversity just like the musical project itself.

At the time of nomination, Kej said, "It is an absolute honor to be nominated a second time for a Grammy Award for our album 'Divine Tides'." Last year at the Grammy Awards 2022, the artist won Grammy for the Best New Age Album with Copeland. Kej won his first Grammy for the album 'Winds of Samsara' (2015). Kej further said "Although my music is cross-cultural, it has always had strong Indian roots and I am extremely proud that Indian music has been recognized and shortlisted for this prestigious award by The Recording Academy. This nomination encourages me further and solidifies my belief to continue making music that can inspire positive social impact" while talking about his musical roots.

Ricky Kej is the youngest Indian music artist to win Grammy Award and when it comes to listing, he is the fourth Indian to achieve this award. On the other hand, Stewart Copeland is one of the most versatile music artists and composers in the industry who have won the Grammy five times.

He is also the founder and drummer of the British rock band 'The Police' which has sold over 75 million record albums worldwide.

Iggy Azalea Reveals She is Making a Huge Chunk on Only Fans

Australian rapper Iggy Azalea is making a good hustle through OnlyFans and she has recently talked about it. Though the artist did not reveal any particular number for the earning it is evident that she is making a lot. She has joined the platform only a month and already made some big bucks.

She launched her account in January in order to create a buzz for her upcoming project 'Hotter Than Hell'. The rapper said that she has received an overwhelming response for the exclusive content. In a recent podcast, Iggy said, "I'm making so much money that I won't even say how much it is."

Though Iggy admitted the fact that she is quite nervous in the beginning to embark on her journey in OnlyFans; the hesitation stayed for only a few days. As the obstacles "went out the window"; Iggy is quite confident and aware of what she is doing and what is capable of. Even though people might find her embracing nudity in some of the posts; the artist said she is totally comfortable with it. Iggy said, "I'm someone who shows my breasts or my nudity, I don't really have a problem with being overtly sexual when I'm in control of it or when I feel it has artistic merit." She also shed much light on the dark side that her body has been commodified before. It has been so long and finally, she has regained control.

She further added, "I've made record labels so much money off my body. I've made a lot of people so much money off my body, and I got the smallest cut off my own fucking body, and my own work, and my own ideas." The rapper continued, "I don't think that I have to say sorry that I want to commodify my own shit. It's been commodified, and I wasn't even the main f***ing benefactor of it. So, f**k this."

Embracing her individuality, the rapper also said, "I enjoy it. I'm going to do it anyway," and so; "That's the thing. I'm doing it anyway. I'm going to do it anyway. I'm going to post pictures like that anyway." Leaving her fans and admirers on the note of body positivity, she said, "I like my breasts. F**k, sorry. And they're fake. And they look f***ing good, and I like them. I'm happy with them, and I like my body."

Kate Hudson Finally Opened Her Heart about Why She Didn't Pursue Her Music Career

The 43-year-old actress Kate Hudson has finally talked about why she didn't choose a music career in her life. She did the confession in the podcast 'Table for Two with Bruce Bozzi'. She has shared that it's her biological father Bill Hudson, for whom she didn't want to come into the music industry. She said that 'Earlier on in my career, I thought I would definitely do music, but then 'Almost Famous' happened'. It is the Oscar-nominated role as groupie Penny Lane in Cameron Crowe's 2000 film.

She has also added to her statement that 'But later on I kind of rejected it because I was like, 'You know what?' As you do when you're dealing with daddy issues. I don't want to connect to that part because that's my dad. That's all dad'. Along with that, she said 'If I put that out in the world and people didn't like it, it would destroy me. If that one connection that I had to him, I failed miserably at, would be devastating to me. I wasn't ready for that, the 'How to Lose a Guy in 10 Days'.

The 70's superstar Bill Hudson married the actress Goldie Hawn and she gave birth to Oliver and Kate in the years 1976 and 1979. Later on, they divorced in 1980 and Kate started to live with Hawn's partner Kurt Russell. She has also said about Russell that 'I was raised by this incredible father... And I love my real father too. I've been able to heal that'.

But now this artist is going to release an album and that is why she appeared on 'The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon'. And the show she said 'I've been making a record for like a year... Every time you're doing interviews, people are like 'Do you have any regrets?' And I'm like, 'I'm early 40s, not yet'.

She recently admitted that 'I've been writing music since I was 19, and I've never shared it, and so I thought that would be one of my great regrets'. She continued by saying 'I have no expectations. I just want to put a record out, and so I'm doing it, and I'm really excited'. So her album 'Fool's Gold' will come up next year.
