The 2023 iHeartCountry Music Festival Brightened Even More with Numerous Performances

This year iHeartCountry music festival was one of the most exciting music festivals till now. Artists have set the stage on fire with their exceptional performances.

iHeartCountry music festival is one of the most popular music festivals in the industry that recently took place in Austin, Texas on 13th May, Saturday. The excellent concert amazed all the onlookers as various artists took the stage. In this concert, people get to listen to the biggest radio hits by famous country artists. This year's brilliant lineup has also increased its charm even more.

This year, artists like Bryan, 46, Pearce, 33, Brown, 29, and Sam Hunt have performed. Along with them, there were a few guest artists who also performed and that surprised everyone. Apart from these artists, there were The Brothers Osborne who performed that night at the iHeartCountry music festival. T.J. Osborne and his brother John Osborne have given a huge surprise to their fans with their performance.

It was not the only thing that surprised the concertgoers, Brown also brought his wife Katelyn Jae Brown on the stage to perform the duet 'Thank God'. They have been married together since 2018 and they have ushered the essence of romance into their performance in a brilliant way.

They sang 'I was lost / You found a way to bring me back / Needed forgiveness / You always gave me that,' the "Heaven" artist sings on the record. "Girl, I'm a witness of your love / 'Cause you don't be giving up / And It's crazy / How you saved me'. This couple has always been one of the most loved pairs in the industry. When they were asked how they met, then they remembered the moment by saying 'We met down in Florida at my very first show ever, I believe it was in 2015...The day before that show, I was supposed to be in her music video because she was an artist as well, and it couldn't happen cause my show was the same day as the music video'.

Apart from them, Luke Bryan performed the song 'Country Girl' for the audience. On the other hand, Kane Brown also sang 'One Thing Right', Carly Pearce performed 'Diamondback', 'I Hope You're Happy Now', and Sam Hunt won everyone's hearts once again by singing 'House Party'.

There were many other performances that lit up the stage. Overall, it was a night that audiences are going to remember for a lifetime.

The Barbie Album Unwind Has Begun With Dua Lipa's 'Dance The Night'

Dua Lipa has officially released 'Dance The Night' as a part of her upcoming movie, Greta Gerwig's 'Barbie'. You can listen to the disco-pop track on Spotify.

Dua Lipa has shared her new song 'Dance The Night' along with a music video as her contribution to Greta Gerwig's upcoming Movie 'Barbie' soundtrack. The video is all pink, features giant disco balls and you guessed it right... Greta herself makes a cameo appearance at the end. Dua will also be featured in the movie, which is Greta's version of the famous dolls and their lives.

After her Future Nostalgia era, Dua's new music is giving hope to her fans. Even though she has continued with the theme of disco-pop, similar to her previous releases and sophomore album, fans are quick to decode the secret goodbye in the video. There is a giant disco ball that is seen to be broken on set at the start of the video, which according to some fans is an indicator of the end of the Future Nostalgia era. We get to see glimpses of the Barbies, Margot Robbie, Emma Mackie, and Issa Ray dancing on a giant stage, filled with other Barbies and Kens. However, none spotted Ryan Gosling, but he is just Ken, so we will leave it at that.

The music is uplifting and upbeat and is promoted no less than the film itself. Dua Lipa's inspiration came from the movie and the set itself as it was clearly reflected in both the music video and the song's composition. Produced by Mark Ronson, Andrew Wyatt, and the Picard Brothers, the song itself will give you a vibe that you are in a pink set, wearing a glittery outfit and truly dancing the night away.

The song 'Dance The Night' follows the composition of a disco pop genre with a modern twist of retro pop.

It goes well with the theme of the movie, and Dua is the perfect musician because she has absolutely nailed the singing. You can very clearly hear the excitement in her voice, which is well-suited to the composition.

Lyrics like "Even when the tears are flowing like diamonds on my face / I still keep the party going, not one hair out of place," give off the vibe of being carefree, and just enjoying the moment. Sure, it will give you a plastic-y vibe, but hey, after all, it is a song about Barbie! So listen to the track on Spotify and watch the video on YouTube to get in the feels before hitting the cinemas on the 21st of July.

Immerse Yourself Into the Depths of a Mellifluous Narrative With Stephen The Storyteller's 'A Mama Way'

Brewing the perfect concoction of innovation, kindled with musical prowess, and meaningful songwriting, the talented music artist Stephen The Storyteller brings to music lovers the avant-garde dream-pop anthem 'A Mama Way'. A part of the album 'Supragenre', the single creates a deep reverberation in the souls of the listeners engulfing them into a dreamlike soundscape of enlivening musicality while at the same time presenting the juxtaposition of a lamentation strain in the verses.

There is an out-of-the-world feeling that one experiences while listening to the track and it presents a unique concept that makes it stand apart in the world of contemporary music.

Having previously produced albums like 'Poems With Sound' and albums with contrasting seasonal themes, 'Winter Art Songs' and 'Summer Art Songs', the talented music virtuoso goes a long way in putting his unwavering mark in the world of music. Each track is rife with the insane versatility that the artist possesses and captures the inner workings of his mind on multiple levels.

The intricate layers of melodies come together with the evocative and purposeful sound design, striking the perfect balance between simple and catchy organic rock edges and complex electronic maneuvers. Each musical creation that the artist dishes out, comes with a plethora of colors and a subtle yet unmissable psychedelic vibe to it that takes listeners on a trippy lane that is augmented by his deep, raw, and retro vocals.

There is a poetic allure in his songs as each line of verse drips with the depth of contemplation, vivid imagery, gripping story-telling, and strength of conviction in his delivery.

'A Mama Way' presents a brilliantly new concept that has its roots in the deepest of pathos. It is a song about a boy who is crying out at the death of his mother. He then reconnects with her in an AI fantasy world within a meditative vision. This ambitious project is brought to flawless fruition by the artist and the awe-inspiring images in the video resonate perfectly with the theme of the song. The pictures presented in the video encapsulate isolation, beauty, and an alternate reality that can be achieved only through the workings of a deeply creative mind. In this track, the artist truly lives up to his name of being 'The Storyteller' as he presents the most immersive narrative through his lyrical outpour.

This song along with the other masterpieces of Stephen The Storyteller is available on YouTube, Spotify, Apple Music, and also on his website. Follow him on Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter for more.

BABY KEEM AND KENDRICK LAMAR MAKE THEIR AUDIENCE SMILE WITH THEIR GOOFY SHENANIGANS IN 'THE HILLBILLIES'

4.9/5

By Daily Music Roll

The talented cousin duo Baby Keem and Kendrick Lamar return with a new music video titled 'The Hillbillies', that shows the artists goofing around and chilling together.

Winning over the hearts of fans, the iconic duo of Baby Keem and Kendrick Lamar return with their delightful shenanigans in the latest music video produced by Surf Gang's Evil Giane and directed by Neal Farmer, 'The Hillbillies'. The video comes as a montage of some of the most laid-back and fun-filled moments shared by the cousins, and some of the clips appear to have been shot during the off-days of the Big Steppers Tour that took place the previous year. The three-minute and thirty-four seconds long video opens with the glitchy appearance of an old recorded videotape and presents itself entirely in VHS mode, giving the recorded moments a more natural and realistic touch and giving it a vlog-like appearance.

'The Hillbillies' combines samples of Bon Iver's "PDLIF" and Jersey Club drums with quirky adlibs and tag-team rap, which gives it the effect of being a sequel to the "range brothers" of The Melodic Blue. The duo seems to let down their masks and worries as they are seen thoroughly enjoying hanging out with each

and bragging about buying land in Europe while shaking their legs on airplanes, goofing around at Los Angeles' Dodger Stadium with Tyler, the Creator, and having a go on their PlayStation.

Fans were quick to point out that the video showed the duo being the most relaxed they have appeared in years and the YouTube comment section was flooded with comments like: "I really like this song because it's just Kendrick and Keem having fun in the studio. It's awesome because they're cousins and the chemistry is unmatched". As the duo is seen slipping into their comfort zones, they riff for longer and win over listeners with their witty wordplay, chilled-out delivery, and screen presence.

The cameo of Tyler, the Creator had a special significance as the clip displayed a 'Camp Flog Gnaw 2023' button on a jacket, thereby confirming the LA-based carnival's long-awaited return after its hiatus since 2020. Though the line-up for the 2023 Carnival has not yet been announced officially, the video sure drops hints that both Kendrick Lamar and Baby Keem can be expected to perform in it. The 2019 iteration of the festivals showcased performances by artists like Solange, Juice WRLD and had Drake as a surprise headliner.

BAD BUNNY MAKES THE HEADLINES ONCE AGAIN AS HE RELEASES HIS LATEST SONG 'WHERE SHE GOES'

The new English-titled Spanish song released by Bad Bunny, 'WHERE SHE GOES' sums up a perfect summer party anthem with its jersey club and dembow rhythms.

Introducing itself with theatric, percussion-free music, the English-titled Spanish number 'WHERE SHE GOES' by Bad Bunny is ready to set the records straight for the Puerto Rican music star. A blend of dembow rhythms - a brilliant influence of the producer MAG, and jersey club cuts, the song packs together quite a few surprises. The star had been laying low after his mind-blowing Coachella performance and gives listeners just the right amount of adrenaline pump they deserve.

Written by the artist himself and recorded with MAG and his engineer La Paciencia, the singer first released snippets of the song on Tik Tok with the caption "Tell me if you like it and I'll send it to you via WhatsApp :)" written in Spanish. The song opens with the verses, which translated to English, stand as, "Baby, tell me the truth if you forgot about me/ I know it was only one night, that we're not going to repeat,/ in you I wanted to find what I lost in someone else/ Your pride doesn't want to speak to me, so we're going to compete." The verses portray a sort of longing for togetherness and there is a subtle hint of pathos in the track that is juxtaposed with dramatic and ominous electronic music design.

Having already captured the attention of music lovers and enthusiasts across the world by becoming the first Spanish-speaking artist to headline Coachella and creating a sensation at the Met Gala, the artist is surely coming up as a central figure in pop culture, and this song stands as a steady step forward in that direction.

Not only that, but Bad Bunny has also released the official music video for his latest single, and fans cannot seem to have enough of this prestigious project that brings together celebrated figures like the Brazilian football star Ronaldinho, Lil Uzi Vert, Sabrina Lada, Dominic Fike, and Frank Ocean.

'WHERE SHE GOES' is reminiscent of some of his earlier songs that show a similar emphasis on electronic tinges, such as 'Dakiti' which has garnered over 1.6 billion streams on Spotify. The groovy club beats, swirling synths, and deep lyrics make for a perfect summer hit that instantly raises the heat on the dancefloor.

The 'MIA' singer sticking to his native tongue in the track while keeping the title English has received mixed reactions from the fans, but there is no denying the absolute genius of the artist's creative prowess and innovation. The song is now available on all major streaming platforms, like Spotify and the official music video is available on YouTube.

WITH 'THE ALBUM,' THE JONAS BROTHERS SPEAK OF A SUMMER OF LOVE

The Jonas Brothers have released their newest album, 'The Album', comprising 12 songs that give listeners a glimpse into the trio's journey of finding love and themselves.

Taking a dive into saccharine melodies finding their roots in the '70s musical revolution, the long-awaited treasure trove of one of the most popular musical groups to have come out of New Jersey since the Four Seasons, 'The Album' by The Jonas Brothers is finally out and fans cannot seem to have enough. The short album, comprising 12 songs, some of which don't even cross the three-minute mark, has been previously reported by the artists to have been inspired by the Bee Gees. The album has turned out to be an instant hit as the artists croon out their personal experiences in love in the verses of each track.

'The Album' is a follow-up of their 2019 comeback collection 'Happiness Begins' which went on to hit No. 1 on the Hot 100, as the lead single of the album 'Sucker' gained massive acclaim. Some of their previously released singles such as 'Waffle House' and 'Wings' find their way into the new album along with new sultry additions like 'Summer Baby' and the horn-blasted exulted number 'Celebrate!'. But what stands out most about the album is that each track is laced with a jubilant summery vibe that resonated with the warmth that each of the Jonases has found in his personal life. The album comes as a beautiful tribute that Kevin, Joe, and Nick pay to their respective wives Danielle Jonas, Sophie Turner, and Priyanka Chopra.

Prior to its release, on the last evening of their five-night Broadway residency at Marquis Theatre, the Jonas Brothers had presented a number of songs from 'The Album', and also took to performing one-night-only shows at Los Angeles' The Theater at Ace Hotel and the Royal Albert Hall in London.

The album, which begins with the staccato-versed funky opener, titled 'Miracle', has been called by the trio their "the best body of work" in decades, and have added that it was "a window into our lives. It's the story of where we have been, what we have learned, and where we are now." The songs also encapsulate the emotions of falling in love, nurturing it, and enjoying the ecstasy of the feeling.

From the breezy soft rock grooves of 'Montana Skies' to the jaunty number in 'Summer Baby', 'The Album' captures the transformative journey of The Jonas Brothers from being Disney heart-throbs to loving husbands. The trio will be taking over the Rockefeller Plaza in New York City on Friday to celebrate the release and promote their new album.

"It is with tremendous disappointment that we have to announce today the cancellation of the Courage World Tour.

I'm so sorry to disappoint all of you once again. I'm working really hard to build back my strength, but touring can be very difficult even when you're 100%. It's not fair to you to keep postponing the shows, and even though it breaks my heart, it's best that we cancel everything now until I'm really ready to be back on stage again. I want you all to know, I'm not giving up... and I can't wait to see you again!" – Celine xx..."

Dion first opened up about her symptoms in October 2021 when she had to postpone the beginning of her Las Vegas show due to "severe and persistent" muscle spasms. Though so far there are no permanent cures for Stiff Person Syndrome, the severity of the condition is said to be alleviable with the help of immune therapies and chemical interventions.

EMINEM: EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT THE 'RAP GOD'

“So everybody, just follow me

'Cause we need a little controversy

'Cause it feels so empty without me”

It is true and stans will also agree with the fact that the music industry would have been empty without Eminem and his humongous musical arsenal. Though he is often criticized for his violent lyrics and dark themes, he is one of the most talented rappers around the world who proved the fact that rapping has nothing to do with color. He took hip-hop to another level that brought a new creative wave. He is the most controversial and best-selling hip-hop artist of the early 21st century who has inspired a lot of rappers.

Who is Eminem?

Marshall Bruce Mathers III or better known as Eminem has changed the hip-hop music scene with his individuality and unwavering rapping skills. He is an American rapper, songwriter, and record producer who created timeless hip-hop creations with his transgressive styles. Other than his solo projects, he has worked with numerous other singers and rappers and those collaborative projects helped others to grow. Eminem is also known as Slim Shady, the alter ego of his artistic psyche.

Personal Life

Born on October 17, 1972, Eminem grew up in a turbulent childhood where poverty and abuse were a part of life. Born in St.

Joseph, Missouri, USA; he used to rap in clubs in Detroit, Michigan. He started rapping at the age of 14 years only and due to his immense love for the craft; he was often missing from school. He quit school in the 9th grade and decided to pursue his goal and passion for hip-hop music. Soon he became a hip-hop solo artist as well as a member of a Detroit-based rap sextet named D12.

Though Eminem is one of the best rappers around the globe, this person had gone through a huge amount of trauma of abuse which often reflects in his lyricism. His mother is also one of the main reasons behind his troubled psyche. His chaotic relationship with his ex-wife Kim had affected him a lot. All these events in life have made Eminem and his musical creations more powerful, unapologetic, and sometimes outrageous.

Songs & Music Career

With more than 220 million records of global sales; Eminem is one of the best-selling hip-hop artists who has dropped numerous hit projects. His first album in 1996, 'Infinite' was not very appealing. However, 1999's 'The Slim Shady LP' showed the true worth of the artist. Working with Dr. Dre churned out the true potential in him. The track 'My Name Is' from the album instantly became the Best Rap Solo Performance.

It was Eminem's first entry on the Billboard Hot 100 and the rest is history. Next Year in 2000, 'The Marshall Mathers LP' came out and again stole the show with some of the best rap tracks like "Stan", "The Real Slim Shady", "The Way I Am", "I'm Back" and many others. The word 'Stan' is widely used nowadays and Eminem is the wordsmith who coined this term.

Later in 2002, 'The Eminem Show' dropped and created a huge buzz in the hip-hop industry with the tracks like "Sing for the Moment", "Without Me", "Cleanin' Out My Closet", "Superman", and most importantly, 'Till I Collapse'. By this time, Eminem has already become famous with a prolific music career and growth. Instead of rushing for album releases, he took time to work on his craft and offered more exciting hip-hop albums along with collaborative projects. 2004's 'Encore', 'Relapse' in 2009, and 'Recovery' in 2010; every studio album reflected Eminem's personal life and the ups and downs to which listeners can easily relate to. 'The Marshall Mathers LP 2' in 2013 was like an epic comeback of the old Shady again. 2017's 'Revival' and 'Kamikaze' in 2018 are the best examples of why nobody messes with Eminem. His last studio album was 'Music to Be Murdered By' which dropped in 2020.

Due to his paramount musical contributions to the industry that captivated the world, Eminem has received a ton of achievements and honors through his highly successful music career. He has a total of 17 Billboard Music Awards, 15 Grammy Awards, 8 American Music Awards, and the list goes on. On the list of MTV's Greatest MCs of All Time, he ranked 9th along with Tupac, Biggie, and other legends. He was also inducted into the Rock n Roll Hall of Fame. He also won the Academy Award for Best Original Song at the 75th Academy Awards due to his film '8 Mile'.

Net Worth

Eminem's net worth is estimated at around $250 million in 2023. this 50-year-old rapper is one of the highest-paid entertainers in the music industry earning about $20 million annually in a given year. With active musical projects and global tours, it can increase up to $30 - $50 million. Till now, his lifetime earning would be close to $400 million. Quite evidently, Eminem is the 'Rap God' of the hip-hop industry.

Sam Levinson Addresses Rumours about Britney Spears' Involvement in The Idol

After his massively successful hit show Euphoria, the American filmmaker and actor Sam Levinson is making headlines once again as he drops hints to clear up if his upcoming show The Idol has connections to Britney Spears. The show that is to star Lily-Depp Rose in the role of a troubled pop star named Jocelyn is to be a follow-up to Euphoria and encapsulates the character's journey who suffers from a suffers a terrible mental breakdown, only to rise again and set on a venture to present "the biggest touring act ever". To achieve this, she enters into a toxic relationship with Tedros, a perverted self-help mentor who turns out to be a cult leader, and he begins to brainwash her, and her life gradually begins to fall apart. The role of Tedros is played by Abel Tesfaye, better known as The Weeknd.

News of this show has already created a massive stir among fans, especially since rumors about possible connections to Spears, whose life had been controlled by a legal arrangement for 14 years before she gained freedom, started making the rounds on tabloids. After the singer released several posts where she made several references to 'The Idol', theories of her inspiring the character of Jocelyn became even more prominent. The striking resemblance between Spears and Lily-Rose's Jocelyn is also remarkable.

In November 2021, Spears took to Instagram to announce that she had "shot a movie titled 'The Idol'" which was "guaranteed to have hits and a lot bright pics to put in (her) beautiful family's faces!!!" It however remains unclear if the post was a reference to the HBO series. In March 2022, she once again used the platform to share her love for Sam's Euphoria. Two months later, the singer shared a picture of her with Sam and The Weeknd, and her husband, Sam Asghari, commented under it about how she might be a "new Euphoria character," to which The Weeknd replied with a red heart emoji.

It was during a press conference on Tuesday when a journalist popped the question about how much of an influence Britney was in forming the character of Jocelyn to which Sam replied that being a '90s kid, he grew up watching Britney Spears and described her as "one of the greatest pop stars of all time." He however made it clear that the script was not a retelling of Spears' story or of "any particular pop star" and instead emphasizes the array of issues, including the loneliness, pressure of presenting oneself a certain way, corruption, and exploitation, that young stars are subjected to in the industry.

Featured as the 'Barbie' movie song, it is co-written by Mark Ronson, Andrew Wyatt, and Caroline Ailin. The song was co-produced by Picard Brothers and Wyatt as well.

It doesn't require to say that its stylish synth elements offer a potential dose of energy that feels like an extension of Lipa's last musical project and album 'Future Nostalgia' which gained wild success. With the subject matters of broken hearts and complicated romances, it felt quite relatable for everyone while offering an invitation to join the dance floor.

It is not just the song but Lipa will be also playing a role in the movie 'Barbie' where she would be playing the character of a mermaid doll along with the stars Ryan Gosling as Ken and Margot Robbie as Barbie.

Joe Trohman Is Officially Back With 'Fall Out Boy' After His Brief Mental Health Interlude

Get ready to witness 'Dance Dance', with Fall Out Boy once again. On Tuesday, the rock band's lead guitarist and one of the co-founders of the band announced that he would be joining the group once again. He had to focus on his rapidly deteriorating mental health for a while, but he is all well and is completely ready to reunite with his co-members Patrick Stump, Pete Wentz, and Andy Hurley.

Trohman wrote on Instagram, "Hey everyone, I'm officially back! I want to thank everyone for the love and support while I took some time away to focus on my brain and get healthy for my family, my friends, and myself," along with one of his photos of playing guitar.

He also added, "I also want to thank Ben Young for stepping up and filling in on the shows I missed

- He is a true gentleman and a scholar. I'm stoked to be back in action and I can't wait to see everyone on tour this summer!" Thanking Ben Young who played guitar during this time, while he was away. After that, he addressed his audience by sharing his upcoming engagements.

A few months back in January Trohman shared that he will be taking a break for a while from the group. He began the statement by saying "Neil Young once howled that it's better to burn out than to fade away," on his Twitter account. Then he added, "But I can tell you unequivocally that burning out is dreadful."

He continued, "Without divulging all the details, I must disclose that my mental health has rapidly deteriorated over the past several years. So, to avoid fading away and never returning, I will be taking a break from work which regrettably includes stepping away from Fall Out Boy for a spell."

Just a few hours before this the band shared that they will be launching a new album 'So Much (For) Stardust', released under Fueled by Ramen, a subsidiary of Elektra Music Group. And the album launched on March 24th.

Now Stump has reassured, "He's 100% in the band and on that record." Now the group is getting ready for their North American concert titled So Much For (Tour) Dust, starting on 21st June and will continue till the 6th of August.

Yung Miami and Diddy Go on A Shopping Spree in Their Latest Instagram Video

When it comes to the grand duo Yung Miami and Diddy, they have never refrained from exhibiting their tastes for the finer things in life, be it fashion or their art and in their recent 'Act Bad' Instagram Skit, they play the role perfectly. The song sees Diddy, City Girls, and Fabolous coming together into what the singer believes "would be the song of the summer" and the Instagram skit has gone a long way in catching the attention of music lovers with its infectious groove and fun lyrics. It was over the weekend that the City Girl decided to take to Instagram to give fans a rib-tickling video with the new song playing in the background, captioned, "He wanna sponsor my #ACTBAD Thank you Papi!!!! ??????".

The video opens with Yung Miami out on a shopping spree at Chanel, sporting a cute bodycon dress, an off-white bucket hat, and a yellow handbag. Diddy seemed to be holding back nothing as he splurged Yung with quite a hefty bundle of money to buy herself the gifts, and while he looked concerned, she seemed to be having the time of her life.

The video ends with Yung leaving with a huge number of expensive purchases, while Diddy is seen left contemplating his decisions as he follows her out.

Fans loved the video and left comments like, "???" it's Diddy waiting in the chair for me... why they always sooo tired and ready to go get something to eat when it's our turn, lol! #ahtaht #sitrightthere #berightback ????" and "Diddy acting like she just broke his pockets ?".

Though Diddy and City Girls' Yung Miami, aka Caresha, have been linked romantically time and again in an on-again-off-again relationship, their relationship has apparently come to an end for good and the latter also made an appearance on the "Queens Remix" of "Gotta Move On."

In an interview with The Cut, she even revealed that she had no regrets about being so open about their "situation" and "...if we're going to put it out there, we're going to be the ones that talk. I don't like anyone talking for me". She also added, "We're still friends! We're still good friends! But we're single."

That's not my man. We had our own situation, I'm not gonna put a title on it. We were fucking with each other hard. We were together every day at one point. He supported me, I supported him. I'll let the internet call it whatever they want to call it."

Nicki Minaj, the Trinidadian rapper has always been a fashion icon along with being a singer. Recently, she talked about how she was gaining attention even before releasing her very first album. And the artist continued doing so even now when she is getting ready for the release of her fifth studio album.

On 7th May, she also tweeted a few photos of her, which were taken back in 2010 for the album 'Pink Friday'. Her take on fashion has always mesmerized the audiences. With the unique and bold look, she has always stood out in the crowd. This artist has gotten global recognition for her singing skill and brilliant appearance. Along with that, she has also become the no.1 singer who has given the maximum number of hit songs.

Currently, she has responded to a fan's tweet by saying 'Imagine being a fashion icon b4 your debut album'. She has also added 'Imagine performing w|Ye & Jay in Yankee Stadium, no album out, imagine Drake, Eminem, Rihanna, Ye, WillIAm, & Natasha Bedingfield on your FIRST ALBUM. bwahahaha I have to laugh. Blessings & gratitude to my supporters. NM5 is [chef's kiss emoji]'.

Alongside this, she has also stated 'Set major trends' as one of her fans shared a few pictures of her from 2020. This artist is a hugely successful musician who became the no.2 trending topic in the whole United States. There were nearly 100k tweets about her on the internet, which created a buzz. Her creation has created a legacy in the music industry that is not easy to forget.

Nicki has also said 'My legacy can never be undone. On the mood boards for the last 14 years. But anyway guys let's go back to the stats & the show footage. We're almost there'. Apart from this, she is generating a buzz among everyone with her upcoming fifth album. Even though she hasn't revealed the name of the album. It is going to be a follow-up album of her 2018 creation 'Queen'. The only glimpse she has given is 'Red Ruby (Da Sleeze)', which was released in February. She has said a few things about the album and those are 'Red Ruby [Da Sleeze], I dropped it as a itty-bitty just something... Cause I know it's gon' go off on tour, it's gon' go off on y'all. It's just rapping. But the album, obviously, I have to drop my official single for the album.

Kesha Set to Make a Huge Comeback with 'Gag Order' on the Line

After almost a decade, Kesha is finally all set to release her fifth solo studio album 'Gag Order', from which she has already released two songs 'Fine Line' and 'Eat the Acid'.

It has been over a decade since Kesha dished out the iconic single 'Tik Tok' which rose to global acclaim and became a favorite guilty pleasure and party anthem for millions. But since then, a lot has happened and the beloved singer went through a massive transformation in her singing and her image. She also tinkered a little with reality TV and is in the midst of a high-profile court case where she sued Dr. Luke on multiple charges, including sexual and civil harassment and violation of California's laws against unfair business practices, and has sought to void all her contracts with him.

Kesha seems to have finally decided to speak out about her story and step into a new phase of her musical career as she announced the release of her new album with Kemosabe/RCA Records, titled 'Gag Order'. The album came with a promise that it delves into "the deepest recesses of her soul to date", as has been told by her representatives, and in it, she talks about a number of issues including toxic positivity. On April 28 the singer gave her fans a sneak peek into the upcoming album as she released two new singles from it, 'Fine Line' and 'Eat the Acid', and the cover of the album itself provided a dark aura to it as the singer was shown with her head inside a plastic bag.

'Fine Line' comes with an onslaught of Kesha's internal anger, honest emotions, and fiery energy as she pours out her soul into the lyrics. 'Eat the Acid' on the other hand turns out to be a slow burner of a major existential epiphany and thrives on its hypnotic intensity. These songs come as a prelude to the album which, Kesha explains, encapsulates her journey of dealing with her emotions, letting out her bottled-up anger, self-discovery, and finally finding acceptance in herself. 'Gag Order' has therefore been more of a cathartic venture for her, setting her free of her creative limbo, as she finally finds her voice to speak out, as seen in the lines of Fine Line, "All the doctors and lawyers cut the tongue out of my mouth / I've been hiding my anger, but bitch look at me now".

Kesha's new trial in Kesha vs. Dr. Luke case has been scheduled on July 19, after the initial February dates seemed unworkable for the parties, and the case might turn out to be one of the greatest turning points in her career.

Flume Won 'Song of The Year' at APRA Awards 2023 for the Track 'Say Nothing'

Australian Performing Rights Association (Apra) Awards 2023 took place on Thursday night and Flume took the winning award for the 'Song of the Year'. The artist received the award for his song 'Say Nothing'. The song has also topped the Triple J Hottest 100 in 2022.

Similarly, The Kid Laroi is on the list who won three awards at the Apras last year for his blockbuster collaboration project with Justin Bieber named, 'Stay'. Some of the other honorable mentions are The Chats, Tones and I, Dean Lewis, Casey Barnes, etc many others who won awards for most performed rock work, R&B/soul work, Australian work, alternative work, and country work respectively.

SHAKIRA IS SHOWING HER LOVE AND PAIN AT THE SAME TIME WITH HER LATEST SONG 'ACRÓSTICO'

The global icon Shakira has shown her motherly side with the new soundtrack 'Acróstico'. She expressed her gratitude for this new piece of soundscape.

The Colombian artist Shakira is now making music that is representing her emotional state. Currently, the artist has come up with her new single 'Acróstico'. This particular song is completely different from her other creations because she has made the track based on motherly love. With the artwork too, she has portrayed it in a beautiful way. On the cover of the track, there is a digital illustration of a mother bird who is being welcomed to her nest by two chicks.

She is a globally known singer and dancer who can bring listeners to the dancefloor with her unique charm. But on the other side, she is a mother of two sons too. And when it comes to her children she is a mother just like everyone else. And that is what, she reflected in her latest soundtrack. It is a portrait of her lost love, which is a large part of her life. She has ended her previous relationship and that was completely her choice.

Shakira depicted her current situation by singing in Spanish that 'You taught me that love is not a scam / and that when it's real it doesn't end / I tried that you don't see me crying / don't see my fragility, but things are not always as we dream / Sometimes we run, but we don't arrive / Never doubt that I will be here'.

She has also given a joint statement from Pique and herself that says 'We wish to communicate that we have signed an agreement that guarantees the welfare of our children and that will be ratified in court as part of a mere formal procedure'.

They have taken 12 hours to decide who will take custody of their children and finally Shakira has got custody of the children. In the song, she also said 'The only thing I want is your happiness, but things are not always as we dream / Sometimes we run but we don't get there. Never doubt that here I will be'.

With this brilliant song, Shakira has touched everyone's soul. The heartfelt presentation is reaching out to everyone and captivates audiences' hearts in a beautiful way..

Swifties Are Disappointed At the Dating Rumors Of Taylor Swift And Matty Healy

At the very beginning of this year, Taylor Swift started her 'Eras Tour'. But that is not the only surprising thing for her fans. The Swifties were also left shocked to hear the 'Sahke If Off' singer broke things off with her boyfriend of 6 and half years, Joe Alwyn. He was the main muse behind Taylor's past 5 albums.

Swift quickly moved on and this time with the English singer-songwriter Matty Healy. Healy has recently been into several controversies due to his extremely problematic and racist behavior. The 1975 band member and lead vocalist Healy has been into many controversies and altercations where he appeared to be racist, and anti-Semitic.

This is why the fans of Taylor Swift are currently not very happy with her and keep asking Swift to turn down these dating rumors online. Last week, the British tabloid, The Sun reported that Taylor had moved on from her past relationship with Joe and now is with the frontman of 1975, Matty Healy. This is not the first time both these singers are linked together, as one source said, "She and Matty are madly in love. It's super-early days, but it feels right. They first dated, very briefly, almost ten years ago but timings just didn't work out." The insider also added, "They are both massively proud and excited about this relationship and, unlike Taylor's last one — which was very much kept out of the spotlight, deliberately — she wants to 'own' this romance, and not hide it away." To fuel the dating rumors, just after 2 days the news broke, Matty was seen at Taylor's Eras tour in Nashville in a VIP Tent. then he went ahead and attended 3 more shows at the weekend and even performed with Phoebe Bridgers, on Saturday who is Taylor Swift's opening act.

However, this rumored dating has not gone well with Taylor fans, who have continuously criticized the singer's association with Healy. This is mainly because of the problematic behavior of the singer who was reportedly seen doing a Nazi salute in January, just after days after International Holocaust Remembrance Day. He has also made some pretty racist comments against Ice Spice, the American rapper this year along with mocking Japanese accents on his Podcast in February. The episode was then removed from both Spotify and Apple.

Controversy Arises with Actress Kim Tae Ri's Agency asking for "Free Labor From Fans"

Actress Kim Tae Ri has recently got involved in a controversy with "asking for free labor" for a new project on YouTube. Apparently, she asked fans from all over the world to help with subtitling on her YouTube Channel.

There was a post on Instagram under Kim's profile that asked fans to help subtitle her vlogs. However, the post has been deleted now. In the post, the actress announced that she wants her videos to be translated into as many languages as possible since she has fans all over the world. And the idea was to provoke fans to do the subtitling themselves for her videos.

The post also included her official website where Kim invited interested fans to contact her to work in either English or Korean for her videos. She further asked to send the subtitles along with email and socials. While this company offers no monetary fee or compensation for the job, Kim's agency only said that fans would be credited at the end of the subtitles. However, it did not impress people at all. Korean netizens did not miss any chance to express their disappointment in Kim as she is asking for free labor while her channel is receiving more profits from YouTube. As the fire spread on the internet rapidly, her company management had to post another official statement on May 23, 2023, to resolve the issue. They further clarified the fact that the vlog does not generate profit. The project for 'So This Is The Place?' was solely created to help global fans. They said, "Tae-ri's commitment to her fans has been the sole driving force'.

The statement further read, "The only intent behind the request for translation help was to make the vlogs more accessible to international fans. Despite our intentions, however, we acknowledge and deeply regret the unintended distress this announcement caused to numerous individuals." Talking about compensation, they said, "We would like to emphasize that it was never our intention to take advantage of anyone in the process of making 'So This Is The Place?'. When there were circumstances that required compensation, we ensured that it was provided in a fair manner." Kim Tae-Ri's management team offered their sincere apologies, but the biggest question is, will the fans ever get over this? Stay tuned to know more!

Hailey Bieber Can't-Wait to Start a Family with Her Husband but she is Scared Too

During a recent interview, Hailey Bieber confessed that she is willing to start a family with her husband Justin Bieber, but at the same time, she is quite scared of the fact that the hatred she has received by far will continue to rain upon her child as well. The 26 years old model has been married to the Canadian pop singer for over 5 years and still, they are receiving hateful comments because of their life choices. She confirmed that it has been 5 years and the conversation of having a baby now is happening but she is unwilling to see the same hatred will affect her child also.

“I literally cry about this all the time,” Hailey said in her interview, “I want kids so bad but I get scared. It’s enough that people say things about my husband or my friends. I can’t imagine having to confront people saying things about a child.” The Rhode founder has been scrutinized since her feud with Selena Gomez, Justin Bieber’s ex. Their long-term on-and-off relationship was too dear to people to see they have finally moved on and are happy in their separate lives. Even though Selena has repeatedly asked her fans not to be mean or bully others, her requests have been futile by far.

“We can only do the best we can to raise them,” Hailey said, adding more, “I might fly somewhere and go do a job, but I can’t wait to come back and hang out. I feel like that’s because of the effort that’s been put in on both sides. At the end of the day, like, he’s my best friend, but it still does take a lot of work to make it work. And then I know eventually, when kids come in the picture, that’s going to be a whole other season of navigating how to make that work.”

Previously Justin has shared that he is willing to have as many babies as Hailey is willing to carry. He said to his old pal Ellen DeGeneres in 2020, “As many as Hailey is wishing to push out... I’d love to have myself a little tribe. But, yeah, it’s her body and whatever she wants to do... I think she wants to have a few.”

Aespa Artists Revealed How They Struggle to Do Exercises

Aespa singers are spilling the truth in their recent interview at the HANBAM series. In the very first episode, these aespa artists were the guest. The host Heo Young Ji has come up with this show to give an opportunity to artists to vent out their grievances at various stages in their life. Artists from this girl group have said how they are forced to follow a difficult lifestyle to look a certain way.

They have also said that the atmosphere is also not very pleasant when they work with SM Entertainment. The aespa singers have literally complaint against them. They have also added that they are also not allowed to use different Instagram accounts for every individual. It is coming to know that they are forced to use only one social media account that only represents the band.

Artists from this group are also instructed to look a certain way. That is why they have to do yoga to maintain that look. To make it understandable, Young Ji, the host of the show has also shown a silhouette picture where Karina is doing the flying position. It is their teacher who makes everyone do these difficult yoga positions. While saying this, Young Ji also timidly said how she gets ready for her workout session only to click pictures in her gym outfits.

While talking about these yoga positions, NingNing has said that it is extremely difficult to follow the instructions of their teacher and it is nearly impossible to do those yoga postures. Along with her Winter also said that 'it felt like someone was twisting her legs' and Karina also added 'she has cried while doing flying yoga before'.

There are a lot of things that are being done by the girl group members because they have fixed a standard that everyone has to fit in.

All the four group members and Young Ji who is also a part of the group named 'KARA' said this kind of stereotypical behavior is really uncomfortable for the artists. And it is quite difficult to stand up to their expectations.

From this, it can be understood how the K-pop industry is toxic for all its artists.

Dua Lipa Re-Creates the Iconic Barbie Foot Scene as She Teases Her New Song

Dua Lipa's almost year-long music draught seems to have come to an end as the Albanian singer has dropped a hint of what might turn out to be the greatest chartbuster of the season by recreating a viral moment. On Monday, she took to Instagram to post a reel announcing the release of her new single 'Dance the Night'. The reel which opens with the iconic "Barbie" cover showed the singer stepping into the frame wearing a pair of open-toed furry heels that Margot Robbie sports in the first official teaser of her upcoming movie Barbie. Dua then slips off her shoes to reveal her Barbie feet in picture-perfect arches.

The camera pans upwards to reveal the singer, wearing a pink halter neck fitted with golden shoulder straps and rhinestones and a brass-colored stacked choker, matching chunky ear studs, and finger rings, each of them decorated with blue butterflies. Her hair is pulled back in a sleek ponytail and she wears a nude lipstick while the iridescent eyeshadow steals the show. The singer blows a kiss at the camera and the video goes on to reveal her name and the date of release of the song. The single 'Dance the Night' is to be the theme song for Greta Gerwig's upcoming movie and will officially hit streaming platforms on Friday, May 26. Captioned "This Barbie has a song coming this week... read, "It's going to be on repeat as soon as it's outttt????". The announcement for the song came only days after she made headlines when she appeared at the Cannes Film Festival with her new partner French director Romain Gavras prior to the premiere of Élias Belkeddar's Omar La Fraise (The King of Algiers). The singer was seen wearing a sexy one-shoulder black cut-out gown and sporting French girl bangs while Gavras wore a sharp black suit.
