EMINEM

Since 1988 till now, the most controversial and according to fans the most talented rapper has been none other than the global mega-star Eminem. From his first released single 'Eat It' to his recently released 12th studio album 'The Death of Slim Shady (Coup de Grâce)' this iconic rapper has stirred up the naturally expected controversy regarding the album. But that's not the main thing to focus on, as this album has ranked number 1 on the Billboard 200 chart. This is the 11th, number 1 ranking album by Eminem and might be the last of Slim Shady, as speculated by many fans. Billboard announced that the collection moved 281,000 equivalent album units from July 12 to the ending week of July 18. This number 1 ranking has tied the rapper with rockstar Bruce Springsteen, singer and actress Barbra Streisand, and rapper Ye for the fifth most number 1s on the Billboard 200. The sale is also a record-breaking one as it marks the largest first-week sales total for any rap album in 2024, breaking the record of Future and Metro Boomin.

Rita Ora Talks About Upcoming Album and Latest Single 'Ask & You Shall Receive'

Rita Ora recently talked about her latest single 'Ask & You Shall Receive', her upcoming album, and working with Brandy along with other topics in a recent interview with Billboard.

The artist has just come up with a single, the first in a long time, and released it back in May. She had Raye as a co-writer on the single, accompanied by a music video directed by DanoCerny. In this interview with Billboard, Ora talks about how her upcoming album will be completely different than her previous work, 'You & I'.

She also spoke about her process of preparing herself to play the Queen of Hearts in 'Descendants: The Rise of Red' and even working with Brandy and more. She introduced herself by saying, "He, for fun, made like a music video on AI where like you just sit and type in what you want with your favorite song. And he was like, Why do you guys spend so much money on music videos?"

You can just do this now. I'm like don't. Hey, I'm Rita Ora and you're watching Billboard News." when asked about her latest single 'Ask & You Shall Receive', Ora replied, "Yes, the best mantra in my opinion."

When she was asked to elaborate on how she came up with the mantra and where she wanted to go with the single, Rita had all the positive things to say. She said, "Well, the mantra has been around for a long time.

The song I got it sent to me in my email from RAYE, who's a great friend of mine. She's also another British pop sensation. And I love her. I've known her for a very long time as a songwriter and as an artist. And she came on tour with me back in 2017, sent me the song and I loved it.

Sometimes, it's sometimes it's not that deep. My third record 'You & I' was very deep, emotional. It was about my like, personal life changing.

I got married, and I really wanted to share my story with the world. Well, with this one. I was like, You know what, let's just put out great things that feel good, you know, and the sun is out. I'm always about the sunshine. Everything with my music has been super positive."

When the song was released, Rita said "The song is full of upbeat, summery vibes and is about seizing the moment romantically, and diving straight in with that special someone," in a statement. "It was co-written by the amazing Raye, which feels like such a full circle moment, as I have so many amazing memories from when we were on the road together for the Phoenix tour," she continued. "This video, we put heart, soul, blood, lashes into one of the most ambitious, challenging, creative shoots I've ever been part of it," the singer previously shared on Instagram. "Thanks to every single person who brought this to life."

The Rise In K-Pop's Popularity: A Deep Dive Into The Genre's Global Domination

No other country takes pop music, especially vibrant and fluffy music like South Korea does. Now pop music is ruling the global music scene, but have you wondered why? Pop music is a phenomenon in itself, with its increasing reach on global audiences. But this reach has been driven by many factors including growing wealth, changing demographics, and especially the desire to have American culture in the developing countries. However, South Korean pop artists have recently received an unprecedented amount of recognition, in the past decade that turned it into a cultural force, transcending borders and language barriers. Let's see how and what factors contributed to their rise to this sensational stage in the international music industry.

The cultural domination of Korean Pop: where did it all start?

Korean pop culture has always been impacted by its rich history. Once colonized by Japan, the Cold War laboriously influenced the country, leading to a complex, but impactful cultural evolution. The events that led to the country's cultural identity, further leading to the rise of K-pop include Japan's colonization ending in 1945, South Korea's democratization in the 1980s, and the IMF crisis in 1997 leading to the exposure of Hallyu or Korean Wave. When Korea was colonized by Japan, American music quickly replaced the traditional music of the country. America used its popular culture as a part of its strategy to spread the country's culture all over the world, after the Cold War.

Korea slowly accepted this "Americanization" because the country saw the US as a symbol of modernity and its liberator from Japan. Then the 1997 IMF crisis revived Korean culture again and supported by the government's "Korean Wave" initiative, it soon took over the world. With its measures to rebuild the country's economy, Korea aggressively started to promote K-pop music and the culture in Asia and Southeast Asia. This wave gave the country a chance to leave the shadow of being just a neighboring country and made it a cultural superpower. The government also made K-pop stars BoA, Rain, and Se7en cultural ambassadors. They represented a way of modern living that was unknown yet extremely attractive to the Asian audience.

Humble beginnings:

To some people, it might feel like the rise of Korean pop culture happened overnight. In reality, the history of K-pop leads back to the late 1980s, which is closely tied to the loosening of censorship in the country. This modernization and censorship loosening had a solid impact on Korean television, paving the way for the rise of K-pop in not just the country, but in the global scene. This was further fueled by the strong media management, savvy corporatization, and of course, countless supplies of talented Korean idols.

The widespread popularity of talent shows every week that were broadcast on South Korea's national television networks. Every week, new music groups were introduced by the television network to the country, and most of them focused on typical pop formats and slow ballads. As the world entered the era of the 90s, South Korea became exposed regularly to American music and culture. The K-pop music scene was introduced to American pop, hip-hop, and rock music which later became one of the pillars in producing the unique sound of Korean pop music.

When we talk about the rise of K-pop and its global dominance in the music industry, we have the internet to thank for. Pop music critic Kim Do-Heon once commented that "K-pop was fast to adapt to the evolution of digital technology and actively promoted music with a variety of self-produced video content, thereby expanding its fanbase in the global market." He said that Korean pop music is the perfect fit for social media platforms and the secret to making good K-pop music is to lose some of the country's traditional music sense so that it can stay appealing to the global audience.

SeoTaiji and Boys: the first ever K-pop performance:

Before becoming a worldwide phenomenon, the distinctive sound of Korean pop had to be hugely popular in its own country. When the wave first started not everything had faith in this new style of pop music and thought it could succeed amid the traditional Korean music industry. But everything changed greatly in 1992 when SeoTaiji and Boys performed their debut single 'Nan Arayo (I Know)' for the first time. The song fused heavy metal guitar riffs and hip-hop beats with traditional melodies of pop music and brought out perfectly synchronized dance choreography. This wooed and impacted the audience heavily and became the country's first-ever K-pop hit. While the song failed to win the talent show for the group, it went to the top on South Korea's singles charts, for a record-breaking 17 weeks straight. This fired the pistol for the new generation of K-pop music and talented South Korean performers.

Psy, the YouTube king:

SM Entertainment held the "SM Town World Tour in Paris" in 2011 which was the first ever K-pop concert in Europe. 14,000 fans over two sold-out days, this show helped gain a lot of attention from global music fans. But K-pop barely came onto the radar of Western media until 2012 that is when Psy's 'Gangnam Style' entered the scene. It quickly rose to popularity and the world was quick to notice. The singer's mix of comedy and rhythmic pop helped him become an overnight global sensation and the video became the most-viewed content on YouTube, remaining there for the next five years. Now 'Gangnam Style' has over 4 billion views on the biggest video streaming platform. Psy's fame also marked the beginning of Korean Pop's global takeover, paving the way for thousands more Korean idols to come.

Some of the key K-pop groups:

Over the years since 2012, K-pop has evolved and expanded in new ways than ever imagined. The genre has also successfully penetrated what seemed to be impenetrable walls of the mainstream American music industry, as well as the global music industry. A lot of its credit goes to the phenomenal boy band BTS as it has made history and paved the road for other Korean artists to achieve success in the US industry. In addition to BTS, some other viral K-pop bands and artists that have forced the world to take notice with their exceptional music and choreography are BLACKPINK, EXO, TWICE, GOT7, Seventeen, VIXX, NCT, Wanna One, Stray Kids, Monsta X, etc. These groups have also achieved global success like no other with their energetic performances, majestic musical beats, and of course, unique fashion sense.

K-Pop's Global Domination:

K-pop has evolved into a full-force global movement in the recent couple of years, and a lot of thankfulness for it goes to BTS. Currently known as the biggest boy band in the world, BTS is the first K-pop group to break not only records but also break the internet. Out of its 359 worldwide music award nominations, the group alone has won more than 250 awards. The music video of their English viral hit 'Dynamite' has generated more views than any other video in the history of YouTube in 24 hours. Soon BLACKPINK came to take over, and the all-girl group consisting of four amazingly talented girls became the most subscribed music group on YouTube with 93.5 million subscribers. The group has recently released its documentary, starring themselves 'Light Up the Sky' on Netflix. The documentary has also garnered much acclaim from viewers from all around the world. The documentary clearly shows the real world of K-pop and provides a true depiction of the K-pop studio system.

The hype around their releases:

Ahead of their new releases, K-pop artists release teaser pictures and videos that slowly build up anticipation and excitement among fans. They also release concept trailers of any new music that show a glimpse into the overall style and concept of the upcoming release. The visually appealing music videos paired with elaborate dance choreography have impacted the storytelling and visual style all over the world. This further pique the interest of the fans all around the world. Moreover, several social media campaigns are released to keep the fans engaged on the upcoming releases. This can be giveaways, exclusive content, or even fan contests. Now with the increasing popularity, the Korean-pop industry is facing some real challenges from countries like Japan, and China. But despite all the challenges, the industry is expected to grow as the Hallyu seems to be never-ending!

Taylor Swift's Net Worth Touches The Billionaire Category: A Glimpse Of Her Expenses

With the surge of her ongoing Eras Tour, she became a billionaire last year. And now let's understand how she strategically invested money for her exponential growth. As per recent reports, Taylor Swift's net worth is 1.3 billion, officially in October she became a billionaire. The 12-time Grammy winner has been making and recreating music and releasing it which has increased her potential in the music industry. Being considered one of the most popular celebrities of this age, she continues to grow steadily with her releases and tours. This article though is all about how she has invested carefully to increase her net worth and how strategically she has been acing this game with powerful decision-making skills.

1. Album Releases: Her net worth was initially entirely based on her triumphant music career. She started to perform when she was just 16 years old she hasn't been stopped since then, and a large chunk of her net worth is based on the albums and songs she has released previously. Her 10 studio albums, which is now 11 after she released her latest 'The Tortured Poets Department', have gained her millions by selling digital and physical copies across the globe.

For instance: her 2022 release Evermore and Folklore made $23 million, with Midnight she has gained $92 million; she also has released many of her former releases which has earned her a hefty amount of money. She has invested to create some re-recorded and some latest releases which has been a hefty money for her. Yet, the return she received from these was truly striking, which made her a Billionaire last year. She always has been investing in things that will work on her revenue. She estimated album sales and brought her over $200 million.

2. Tours and Concerts: Investing in her tours and concerts is another intelligent investment that she has made over these years. Since her 2018 tour gathered $266.1 million in ticket sales, she has not been resting and touring almost every year to entertain and come close to her loyal fanbase, who call themselves the Swifties. Her tours also have been widely successful making her one of the top-grossing music artists of the world. She always has been smart enough to invest in aspects that will make more money than she has initially invested.

3. Real Estate: Her real estate portfolio is worth over $150 million. Alongside her thriving music career, she has a strong real estate portfolio. She has many lavish properties including an extensive beachfront, a historic mansion, and several other properties in locations like Tribeca. Some of her most lavish properties are in locations like:

Tennessee – In Nashville, she owns several units in an opulent condo building. She started when she was just 19 years old and her first buy was a penthouse at the Adelia building. She invested $1.9 million through a trust to buy the property. Later on, she also bought the unit just below with $387,000. Alone at Adelia building, she has properties worth over 6 million USD. She also owns an estate in Forest Hills worth 8 million USD.

Rhode Island – Here she owns a beachfront property in Watch Hill. This lavish mansion has 7 bedrooms and 9 bathrooms. According to reports she invested in this property in 2013 and she bought this place for $17.5 million. This 12,000-square-foot property is now worth over 30 million USD.

California – In 2015, Taylor invested in Beverly Hills' historic Goldwyn Mansion built in 1930. She spent over $25 million on that property in an estate built by a Hollywood producer Samuel Goldwyn. Goldwyn is popular for his Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film studio. She restored the mansion and brought back its former glory. According to several reports, the property also costs over $30/ $35 million now.

New York – Manhattan real estate has also been explored well by her. She owns a townhouse worth $45 million in Tribeca. This duplex was initially two separate penthouses which have combined and created a duplex out of it. She bought these properties for $20 million.

Her taste shows how great she is with properties and having these assorted styled properties reflects her taste in real estate. These are some of her most popular buys and also her most expensive investments by far. According to many business magazines, her knack for investing in real estate is truly amazing, and she already has invested a large chunk of her net worth in these lavish houses.

4. Donations and Charity: Yet, these aspects for her make her a true humanitarian. She has a long history of charity and donating to various causes. The sum she offers for charity is also not less. On the day she turned 24, she has donated $100,000 to the Nashville Symphony. She also has been supporting various national disaster causes in several instances. To pacify the aftermath of the Louisiana floods and its victims, she donated $1 million.

To encourage education she has created the Taylor Swift Education Center and pledged a donation of $4 million. She also regularly donates to various public schools across New York City. Not just this, she also has been in the news during this tour for how she has been benefiting each country she has visited through this tour. Not just that she also has spent over $50 million for the tour support staff and the truck driver got a whopping $100,000 for this tour.

5. Night Outs: Whether is dating or not, she has always been enjoying her night outs sometimes with her partner and sometimes with her friends. During the time she was in a relationship with English actor Joe Alwyn, they enjoyed their private life more than her night outs but, not for long as the couple parted ways Taylor went back to her exceptional party life. And now, her present partner Travis Kelce joins her in that as well. If you count social media engagement ratios then these photos are also quite important for her online presence.

6. Private Jets: Being this popular it allows you to travel across the world in Private jets and she also spends a lot in her net worth in these travels. Due to her safety measures and other reasons, it is reported that she owns a couple of Dassault private jets which she uses for her regular travels. According to reports each of her jets are for $26 million.

As per the latest article she spent over 23,000 minutes on air, traveling from one place to the other and it is essential that she keeps her health and manages to be as prominent as she is always for her fans.

Being a celebrity of her stardom she needs to think about various aspects while making a statement and these lavish yet necessary lifestyles have allowed her to hold her stature in the public eye.

She is a billionaire and has a lot to experience in her life. These are some of the ways she has made a billion dollars and used it to be more reachable and efficient for her worldwide audience.

Most Hyped Moments In Music Festivals 2024 Till Now

2024 is halfway through and many music fests of this year have already taken place. It is time to look back to the most special musical moments of 2024 till now!

Music festivals are not just performances but collective events that offer a handful of special moments and surprises which makes it memorable to everyone.

Every year, the festivals create many magical moments that fans do not miss to hype about, and 2024 has also offered the same. Whether you attended or not, let's look back to the more hype moments in music festivals 2024 so far.

The Collaboration of Pop-Punk, Olivia Rodrigo Joins during The Set of No Doubt:

Coachella is one of the biggest music festivals of all time and is best known for its dynamic lineups and artists' curation. This time, it offered a surprising moment when Olivia Rodrigo joined the stage during the reunion performance by the punk rock band No Doubt. The band has not played in any show for more than a decade and their epic comeback to live performance was surely a glorious moment which was further complimented by Rodrigo. Fans favorite O-Rod teamed up while their performance of "Bathwater" which appears in the album 'Return of Saturn' which is a personal favorite of Rodrigo. When Olivia and Gwen hopped around the stage with the energetic beats, it was not just them but the crowd as well.

The Statue of Liberty Came Alive with Some Green Energy:

Chappell Roan is known for her powerful appearances and this time she spent a summer party at the Governors Ball 2024. The artist did not fail to amaze the crowd who came to groove with her hit single "Good Luck, Babe!". However, her entrance and paying homage to New York is what made the crowd go gaga as she came in the avatar of the Statue of Liberty with a fat blunt in hand. Along with green body paint, a torch, and the iconic crown she created a powerful statement that everyone can live liberally. The exciting and mind-bending things that happen in pop, Roan is just another great example of that.

Janelle Monáe's Proud and Colorful Dance Party:

WeHo Pride celebrates Pride month in June with the LGBTQ+ community and Janelle Monáe offered them exactly what they needed; a loud, colorful, and proud dance party. The crowd went crazy with Janelle's flowery pop dress, filled with an array of colors.

While performing her hit track "Paid in Pleasure," the singer brought in Queen Latifah and Queen Latifah on stage and they altogether had a fun time as they were dancing and so were the crowd. They showed their appreciation with enthusiastic cheers, making things even more enticing for all. The shout from people could be heard, "Legends! Legends!"

Extended Sob Hours with Lana Del Rey and Billie Eilish:

It goes without saying that Lana Del Rey has a huge fan base all around the world and when she performs live, it is overwhelming for the fans. The same goes for Billie Eilish who is also known for deeply emotional musical works and amazing vocal prowess. When these two musical gems joined together on stage, it was truly magical for the fans at Coachella 2024.

Everybody wanted this for a long time and it finally happened! Billie joined Lana during her set and sang 'Video Games' and likewise, and LDR also sang 'Ocean Eyes' along with her. They appreciated each other's presence and it was very wholesome! The vulnerability and romantic essence of the tracks their presence, almost made the fans cry.

Peso Pluma Proved that His Fractured Leg is Not an Issue:

The Governors Ball 2024 reached new heights of hype with the spectacular performance by Mexican powerhouse performer Peso Pluma. While headlining his set, the artist broke his foot and it happened while he was dancing on stage. However, the injury could not stop the artist from performing as he said, "I can't even barely stand, but I don't give a fuck," and then jumped to 'AMG'. Somewhere between pain and pleasure, the artist offered a highly energetic performance that won the hearts of the millions. However, the aftermath of all these was not very good as he ended up in a hospital bed. But he posted on Instagram, "Thanks New York it was so craaaazy I fuing love you!" while showing a peace sign.

A Super Fan Moment at the RS SXSW Showcase:

Fans are known to do something crazy and that is what happened at the annual Future of Music SXSW showcase where a super fan of Peso, named Carlos Contreras arrived at the Moody Theater at 4 a.m. in the morning. He especially came to Austin to meet his musical idol Peso Pluma.

He made sure he was first in the queue so that he could enjoy the show from the front and have a great view of the performance. The dedication of Carlos also earned him an opportunity to meet the artist in person. He managed to stand face-to-face with Peso after the performance and the backstage experience was quite wholesome. Carlos took several photos with Pluma and it was a highly invigorating moment for the fan. Later on, he said, "I was shaking."

Country Collab with Morgan Wallen Bringing Post Malone at Stagecoach:

Stagecoach is the biggest festival for country music and 2024 is witnessing a greater enthusiasm for country music among the fans. Morgan Wallen is currently one of the most acclaimed artists in the country industry who just entertained a massive crowd on the 4th of July. The fest took place at Hyde Park in London Wallen was headlining the fest. His closing performance offered some of the best artist appearances that made the Brit crowd get more excited. He brought in Post Malone for their latest collab track "I Had Some Help". Ernest was also there for the song "Cowgirls" while Hardy performed for "He Went to Jared". Eric Church also joined the stage for the track "Man Made a Bar" and Bailey Zimmerman offered assistance on "Up Down." It was perhaps a medley or jukebox of country music.

Post Malone and Billy Strings at The Bonnaroo:

Bonnaroo Music and Arts Festival takes place every year and 2024 Bonnaroo was quite exciting as well. While everyone was wishing that Post Malone would bring Morgan Wallen for the stage performance, he surprised the audience by bringing in Billy Strings who jammed with him for two hit tracks. The organic renditions of "Rockstar" and the duet performance of "Stay" were quite mesmerizing for the concertgoers. While this duo has been friends for a long time now, this collaboration on stage was quite special for everyone including Post Malone himself.

Eric Church offered a Mixed Bag Experience for Fans:

When it comes to the Stagecoach performances, Eric Church made the most iconic performance at the California Festival which was not only limited to country. He opted for playing a continuous set that included various elements of gospel hymns as well as different covers from dynamic genres with the works of artists like Tupac, Kenny Loggins, and many others. He offered only a little of his own works which made a few fans angry, some excited, and some confused. Previously, the fans who have attended his solo performance at the Nashville bar, have also witnessed such similarities in the performance. Whether it is a part of an experiment or not, the artist is not only challenging himself but also his fans!

2024 is only halfway through and there are still many months to go. There is a list of other music festivals scheduled to take place in the coming days along with a handful of world tours by several music artists and bands. Stay tuned to find more enthralling musical moments.

Selena's Remastered Edition to Celebrate 30th Anniversary of 'Amor Prohibido'

Selena's 'Amor Prohibido' still rules hearts across the globe, the remastered album with 10 of her releases has reached the pinnacle on the Vinyl Albums list.

The OG release was her first Tejano album to reach the summit of Top Latin Albums. And not just that, the album also had been a part of the top 10 on Top Album Sales. It re-entered the top 10 on Top Latin Albums and Regional Mexican Albums charts also.

Her fans took it upon themselves to celebrate this masterpiece to celebrate the 30th anniversary of this momentous release. 'Amor Prohibido' was the most popular release of her career and the remastered version of this album reminded people why it was the most popular release of that time.

This latest rendition of this album debuted on the No. 1 spot on Billboards Vinyl Albums. The album was released by Capitol Latin/UMLE. This is the second Latin release to debut on the pinnacle of this list in 2024. The first one was Kali Uchis' Orquídeas in January. This album has 10 incredible remastered numbers, starting with the title track 'Amor Prohibido', the album also has 'No Me Queda Más', 'Cobarde', 'Fotos y Recuerdos', 'El Chico Del Apartamento 512', 'Bidi Bidi Bom Bom', 'Techno Cumbia', 'Tus Desprecios', 'Si Una Vez', and 'Ya No'.

It was the fastest-selling album in 1995 and it is now has become the No. 1 on Vinyl Albums. This is the second time in the last 13 years for the singer to receive this position. 'Amor Prohibido' starts with 10,000 vinyl copies sold in the U.S. and this has marked how greatly she can influence music lovers even after all these years. Last week, it sold 6,000 copies.

Her previous release, 'Ones' re-entered the no. 1 spot back in 2016 after 13/14 years of its release. This chart was introduced in 2011 and it took her 2002 album only a few years to make it to this prestigious chart, after being a soaring hit back then.

In 1994 when 'Amor Prohibido' became the first Tejano album to reach the pinnacle on Top Latin Albums, it stayed on that spot for over 20 weeks. After that, Gloria Estefan's Mi Tierra rules this position for 58 weeks between the span of 1993 July and 1994 June. The most popular releases were 'Amor Prohibido', 'No Me Queda Más', and 'Bidi Bidi Bom Bom'.

RIIZE the Rising K-Pop Band Is Here With Their 1st Mini Album 'RIIZING', Introducing the Song 'Boom Boom Bass'

While the trailblazer for Korean pop band Seo Taji and Boys in 1992 revolutionized the Korean pop scene by incorporating American hip-hop and rap into their conventional style of music, it became popular worldwide with PSY's Gangnam Style in 2012.

Since then, the world full of Korean enthusiasts has seen the rise of many K-pop boy bands like MONSTA X, Stray Kids, SHINee, and the most popular of them all, BTS. The unforgettable boyish charm along with fresh, groovy, soul-captivating music has left the fans hungry for more.

And to feed this hunger for new Korean tracks, a comparatively young but worthy band has risen to the occasion.

The name RIIZE has been popping up all across social media for its innovation in this genre of music. The band debuted in the year 2023 with their first single album 'Get A Guitar' which made sales of more than a million in the first week of its release making it the second most first-week sold debut album of a rookie group.

The band consisting of six members, Shotaro, Sunghan, Eunseok, Sohee, Anton, and Wobin was formed by SM Entertainment. Not only the tracks or the music they make is interesting but the name of the band is also interesting as well. The name is a mix of two words; the former is 'rise' and the latter is 'realize'.

According to the members, the name means to grow and realize their dreams together as a team. After their 1st single album, RIIZE is here once again to charm their fans with their 1st mini album 'RIIZING'.

This mini album comprises eight tracks that are completely different from each other. One song in particular, called 'Boom Boom Bass' has been gaining a lot of attention from Korean music enthusiasts. This track is a celebration of music beats that can be enjoyed only through dancing one's heart out. Six different members of the group bring their own flair to the song and also the video that they released on 19th June on YouTube.

It can be said safely that this band's work is extremely commendable as within just 10 days of its release it has gotten more than 26,000 likes and around 20,000 comments showering love and appreciation from all across the globe.

With the cool and vibing electric guitar riffs along with the fast-paced drums and bouncing bass line, this song is a must-have in a party playlist.

The young faces of the boy band represent the youth, generation Z, and their way of living life with full-on enthusiasm along with a dollop of fun and a pinch of rebelliousness.

This particular track of the band can be listened to on YouTube whereas the fans can get a glimpse of the band and its members on their social media profiles on Facebook, Instagram, TikTok, Weibo, Twitter, and their official website.

FG Skeezy is Inspiring People All Over the World to Keep Going with His Latest Track 'Keep Going'

Hailing from Savannah Georgia, the famous rapper Javonte Hamilton, more popularly known as FG Skeezy has been rising in the hip-hop genre of music in Hollywood. The rapper has been gaining fame for quite a few years now.

Two months ago, he released his latest track 'Keep Going' on YouTube which has gained attention from different parts of the world. The comment section has been flooded by love and appreciation from his fans and the admiration does not seem to be declining anytime soon.

This track is one of a kind as it beautifully balances the melancholy of the lyrics along with the melodic instrumental part and the aggressive yet soulful rapping part.

The rapper's previous hit tracks like, 'Messy Day', 'Strictly Business' and 'Gave up on Me' have set the benchmark to a different height and the anticipating fans are waiting for his new track to break his own previous records.

Even though the bar was set high, this iconic rapper has not disappointed his fans with his new song. 'Keep Going' is an inspirational track. It is an introspective creation by the rapper featuring a hugely talented artist like Fatt Macc.

The synchronicity between the two artists is commendable in the track. The rapper in this song continuously encourages his fans and viewers to keep going on in life no matter what because there are lives that depend on his moving forward.

He needs to move ahead to become a responsible provider and a protector of his loved ones. He talks about how one can achieve anything one sets for oneself if only one keeps moving forward facing the obstacles head-on.

When asked about his theme of music, FG Skeezy expressed that from the very beginning of his career, he had been struggling with the hard situations in life and music has been the only resort for him to express openly and melodically.

He shared how his passion for music and hustling paved the way to stardom and had a great contribution to making the rapper what he is today.

This theme of pain and hustle is clearly visible in each of the videos of his tracks. All the songs of the artist are available on Apple Music and YouTube.

If the fans want to check out their adored rapper and get some glimpse of his activities and updates about new tracks they can visit his social media profiles on Facebook, Instagram, YouTube, and Apple Music.

The Sensational Duo Mike Di Lorenzo and Anna Moore Set the Blaze With 'It Wasn't You'

The soul-captivating duet of Mike Di Lorenzo and Anna Moore is here once again with their 1st single 'It Wasn't You' from their upcoming EP and the fans are loving it.

This duo has already made a name for themselves. The fans have loved their creations before and this time too they have not disappointed. The iconic New York keyboardist Mike Di Lorenzo has been playing it cool and slaying it with good, hearty music for years now. Along with him, the fans are being gifted with the mesmerizing vocals of the sensational Anna Moore.

Together they have come out with their 1st single 'It Wasn't You' which will be a part of their upcoming EP that will be released in August of 2024.

Their previous collaboration has been tremendously successful, the examples of which are tracks like 'Holding All My Love', 'Play It Cool,' and 'What We Need'. So the bar is set a bit higher than before but their loyal fans are sure that the new song will be breaking previous records. The new track was released on 28th June and within just one day it has the fans humming the track all day long.

This touching, introspective, and mature track talks about the complexities of love, loss, and acceptance. Anyone who has faced the loss of a loved one or has seen the dreadful end of a loving relationship can relate to the lyrics and the soulful music of the track. Even though the spell-bounding genre of R&B originated within the African- American communities it has spread all over the world intervening through different types of communities and the proof is in the love of the audience from all across the globe that they have been showering for 'It Wasn't You' by Mike Di Lorenzo and Anna Moore.

This new creation by the dynamic duo is definitely an exceptional addition to this beloved genre of music. The profound knowledge and experience of the famous keyboardist has been showcased in each of his creations and the latest track is not an exception to that.

While working with Multiple Grammy Awards-winning artists like Joel Kibble from the famous group Take 6 the prolific keyboardist had also performed with the big shots of Hollywood music industries like Cissy and Whitney Houston and the Grammy Award winner NJ Mass Choir.

He also had the opportunity to perform at such New York City legendary landmarks including Carnegie Hall and Radio City Music Hall, the world's largest indoor theatre where iconic artists from Aretha Franklin to Lady Gaga and Tony Bennett have performed.

After his album 'Bring it Back' was well received he has placed numerous tracks on the Emmy-Award Winning Reality Television show 'Starting Over'. The track is now streaming on Spotify and to get new updates, fans can check out the artist's profiles on Spotify and Instagram along with the Keep the Groove website.

Musician, Rapper, and Singer Dcrae Is Dropping 'Body' Featuring Tuhiana for His Fans this June

Hailing from Australia, musician rapper, singer, and songwriter Dcrae has dropped his latest track 'Body' which features the very talented Tuhiana. This self-taught maestro has been pursuing his dream and passion of music for 5 years and in these years he has gained quite the fame for himself.

The rapper is not just about making or producing music but he also has a contribution to the music industry as he scouts for new undiscovered talent all across the country and many of them have found their true calling in the music industry with the help of this musician.

The new track 'Body' by this musician showcases a beautiful harmony between the artist's musical tapestry and the featuring artist's unique flair which results in a soul-captivating and eccentrically energetic number that is a must-have in the party playlist. The partnership between the two artists is commendable, each putting their twist on the track.

The smooth yet bouncing beats along with the energetic lyrics create a mesmerizing experience for the listeners and fans. Dcrae had hit the rough patches quite often when he was just starting his musical career but he was mostly affected when his mother passed away in 2007 when he was only 16 years old. Since then this musician has all of his time and life into the production of new and good music. His sense of self-belief is the one that has led him to where he is now according to the musician.

Apart from making his music, this singer has been contributing for a long time now to scouting fresh talents all across the world, especially those who are talented enough to be displayed in front of the world but do not have the financial and or moral support to nurture their potential. For this reason only, to help these newfound, fresh, and amateur talents he has started his own tutorials and courses. Along his journey to find new talents, he has met different singers, rappers, and music producers who have given him a sense of unity.

According to him, the world consists of so many musicians with only one aim to make music which is enough to make all of them feel united. The artist is at the moment working on a new track that speaks of the lovely time he had spent with his mother in Cairns, Australia before she passed away.

The new track was released on YouTube on 21st June and it has been gaining attention since that day. The fans can check out the new number there and to get a glimpse of the artist's life along with new updates fans can visit his social media profiles on Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, Apple Music, SoundCloud, and Spotify.

Ukraine's Largest Music Festival Atlas Weekend Returns: Post Ukraine-Russia War

Last time the festival was held in 2021 and Ukraine welcomed 600,000 fans. They have hosted Liam Gallagher, the Chemical Brothers, The Prodigy, Placebo, and Kasabian. Since Russia invaded Ukraine, Atlas has been put on hold. 2 years after 2021, Ukraine's Largest Music Festival is to return to its fans.

For 2024, the show has been rebranded as ATLAS UNITED. The festival will return to its Blockbuster Mall located in the capital of the country, Kyiv. From the 12th of July to the 14th of July the festival will return to its usual stage.

More than 70 Ukrainian music artists have been booked for this 3-day-long show. To support these Ukrainian musicians there will be several international artists as well to support them and this gallant initiative. Most of the names of these international artists have not been revealed yet; the show is keeping the surprising element for all the attendees. The list remains secret for their safe purposes as well.

The show is also donating a larger portion of its ticket sale money to the armed forces of Ukraine. They are also quite prepared if Russia plans to invade the show via air.

There will be an underground parking structure which they will use to take shelter from the probable carnage caused by Russia. The festival started in 2015 and till 2021, they came back each year with some charming surprises and many attendees.

Renowned artists like BoomBox, The Subways, The Prodigy, The Chemical Brothers, The Black Eyed Peas, ASAP Rocky, Okean Elzy, and DJ Snake have performed on the stage of Atlas Weekend in assorted years of returning.

Jamala, the former Eurovision winner recently shared that artists must be loud and creative in their enigmatic way, she said, "There are many wars now in the world and, of course, it is not easy to constantly keep attention on yourself so that people do not get tired of our war."

She also added Ukraine "cannot afford" to boycott Eurovision after the controversial decision that allowed Israel to compete for this. She also added, "But that is our task, people who remain in Ukraine, people who are fighting, to be as loud and creative ... this is the task of artists to find new ways of how to reveal and show their country."

She encouraged the entry of Ukraine's 2024 entry to Eurovision. Alyona Alyona and Jerry Heil are nominated this time. She encouraged them to "talk about the fact that the war in Ukraine continues". Jamala also accused Russia of "violating a criminal law". This has been the longest-running war after the Second World War the Ukrainian casualties have crossed tens of thousands already.

Megan Thee Stallion Performs Her Biggest Hits At Kamala Harris' Atlanta Rally

"Now I know my ladies in the crowd love their bodies. If you want to keep loving your bodies, you know who to vote for," the singer-rapper told the crowd at the rally. Vice President Kamala Harris is officially running for President in the upcoming US elections. She held her first rally on Tuesday, July 30, as the presumed Democratic presidential nominee in Atlanta, Georgia. The rally had a surprise guest and she was none other than Megan Thee Stallion. The American rapper opened the rally with a super entertaining mashup of her hits and a highly choreographed dance routine. "Now I know my ladies in the crowd love their bodies. If you want to keep loving your bodies, you know who to vote for," the rapper told the crowd. She and her dancers rocked in blue pantsuits for the occasion. She took out global hits from her catalog for the performance, and entertained the crowd with hits like 'Body' and the latest Yuki Chiba collaboration, 'Mamushi'.

Her performance clips were uploaded in X, formerly Twitter, where fans could not help but comment out of excitement. A fan commented, "starstarstarstar sparkle sparklesparklesparkle", while another one said, "I love this song. My 7-year-old wants to learn Japanese (I speak a little) now. I'm definitely encouraging him." Another comment under the post read, "How pathetic, deranged and offensive is D. Trump and JD Vance with their insults and gender attacks on WOMEN & women's reproductive rights & women's abilities to have or not have children!"

Me and MY CAT WILL BE VOTING FOR Kamala Harris!!!” At the same time, this appearance got some backlash from the crowd as well. Some people are against Megan opening the rally with the particular song choices. They commented, “CRINGE BEYOND CRINGE. That was terrible.” “wow a song about sexualizing body is whats the headline to this election ?” and “Twerking in front of a presidential candidate isn’t empowering it’s degeneracy”.

Quavo is also set to speak at the rally, where he will talk about Harris’ commitment to solving and tackling one of the biggest issues the country is facing at this age, gun violence.

Quavo will also talk about how Harris is running America’s first-ever White House Office of Gun Violence Prevention.

Over just a week ago, President Biden stepped down from the upcoming US presidential race, giving Harris his support and endorsement to go face-to-face against Trump.

This was a pivotal moment, especially when people even in his party were concerned about Biden’s age and his ability to run another 5 years as the President of the United States.

This was followed by a marvelous splash of support from celebrities including Beyoncé, Cardi B, Lizzo, Lil Nas X, and more.

It seems like all the influential artists and celebrities have joined forces with Harris to support her in her historic bid to become the first female president of the United States.

Following the endorsement, the Vice President released a campaign video featuring Beyonce's 2016 "Freedom," urging Americans to lean in and support her. "There are some people who think we should be a country of chaos, of fear, of hate. But us? We choose something different. We choose freedom."

The Glastonbury Music Festival 2024: Special Moments To Cherish

Like every year, the Glastonbury Music Festival 2024 also took place with a lot of energy, happiness, and memorable moments. Let's catch some glimpses of the celebration. Glastonbury Music Festival never fails to amaze the music lovers and the 2024 fest proved that again by creating an array of magical moments.

Starting from Dua Lipa, SZA to Coldplay; every artist on stage made sure to make this event memorable for everyone. It is safe to say that the organizer made sure there was something for everyone. The fest also witnessed with first ever K-pop appearance in Glastonbury with the boy band 'Seventeen' which was formed with a huge number of members. The band surely created a buzz among the fans of K-pop.

The performances of Marina Abramović and PJ Harvey also offered a captivating musical experience for everyone which sounded quite engaging and eerie at times. The cool control in the performance on the pyramid stage surely tantalized a lot of hearts. Offering concertgoers a hefty dose of rave-like energy, LCD Soundsystem enhanced the party mood with the hit tracks like 'All My Friends', 'Dance Yourself Clean', etc to name some. This time, Dua Lipa came and conquered the stage with her fiery performance that made her fans go crazy.

It seems like Lipa has studied how the Glastonbury line-up works and made sure to provide everything that makes the performance impactful. The sudden appearance of Kevin Parker from Tame Impala brought back nostalgia with 'The Less I Know the Better'.

Well, 11.30 am on Saturday is a weird time to witness a powerful Irish rap duo who has some rebellious vibe yet that did not stop Kneecap from offering their powerful performance. Funny, aggressive, and enticing; their performance energized the crowd and set the weekend mood for all.

British alt-rock band The Last Dinner Party poured a blend of creativity and energy through their performance. Audiences took a great lesson about masturbation from Cyndi Lauper's She Bop, which is perhaps the only pop track on the topic. The impressive performances of Michael Kiwanuka and Little Simz also tantalized the hearts of the fans.

However, nothing could beat the hype created by Coldplay in stage who has headlined the Glastonbury stage five times now. Chris and his bandmates rejuvenated all their best hits like, 'Viva La Vida', 'Paradise', 'Yellow', 'Adventure of a Lifetime', 'The Scientist,' and many others. However, what brought more joy and some tears among the fans was the guest appearances by Michael J Fox and Afro legend Femi Kuti. While there were many other performances; Glastonbury Music Festival 2024 made sure there were no mishaps.

It was truly a magnificent experience for all the concertgoers without any dissatisfaction with crowd control and guess what? Nobody threw phones at the artists!

Jade Thirlwall Officially Launches Her Solo Career With Her Upcoming Single 'Angel Of My Dreams'

Following in the footsteps of her Little Mix sisters, Jade Thirlwall announces her solo career with her debut single 'Angel of My Dreams', released on the 19th of July.

After launching the successful careers of Leigh-Anne Pinnock and Perrie Edwards, Jade Thirlwall is also going to get started with her solo career. Her fans have been waiting for this moment.

Recently when she took to Instagram to disclose the news to the world, she wrote "Angel Of My Dreams. 19 July. Pre-save now." this denotes the start of her solo career; her fans went gaga over this news.

One of her wrote "Mother is finally coming omg," in the comments sections. Another wrote, "Ahh Jade! Finally! This is gonna be epic!" while another said, "It's finally Jade month!" The post also has a teaser of the song where the song shifts from an ethereal ballad to a bass-filled upbeat track. In her press release, she mentioned, "What I'm going for is a pop punch to the face. I want people to be like 'Oh my god, I didn't expect that' – but then want to listen to it again."

In the press release, The track has been illustrated as a "frenetically shape-shifting, gloriously OTT banger that explores her love/hate relationship with a pop industry she's been at the heart of since her former band Little Mix launched in 2011."

Jade and Steph Jones co-wrote 'Angel of My Dreams', Steph Jones has worked for producer Mike Sabbath who's worked with RAYE, he is also responsible for Pablo Bowman's Calvin Harris' 'Miracle', and the recent sensation Sabrina Carpenter's 'Espresso'.

Jade also mentioned, "I didn't want to do a safe first single, that was really important to me."

She continued, "I'm setting the tone of who I am as an artist on my own. I want people to hear it and be like 'What the f is that song?'. My worst nightmare is for someone to hear my song and go 'that's nice'."

After Little Mix went on hiatus she has been a part of various collaborations with artists like MNEK, Cirkut, RAYE, Lostboy, Dave Hamelin, Lauren Aquilina, Mike, Steph, and Pablo.

She also added, "I'm so proud of it and I can say that with the chest. The fans have waited long enough so now we just want to give it to them."

Her fans are eagerly waiting for the 19th of July when the complete song drops online.

Cardi B Teases New Single Sampling Janet Jackson For Her Upcoming Album

It looks like the plans for Cardi B's sophomore album are back on track. The rapper has recently teased a Janet Jackson sample on a new Instagram post.

It is a good day for the Bardi Gang. Cardi B has just shared some exciting news regarding her long-awaited sophomore album. The rapper has just teased another snippet on her Instagram story on Monday, July 1st, Cardi's sophomore album is said to be released by the end of 2024.

This newly shared clip by the artist finds Cardi showcasing a rather soft side in contrast to her otherwise fiery rap. Fans are speculating that this snippet might be a possible Cardi B 2 single which seems to be sampling Janet Jackson's famous hit "Funny How Time Flies (When You're Having Fun)."

The clip features the artist rapping over the beat of Jackson's song. "I hope that you are on your way/ Crazy 'bout you," Cardi sings over the beat of Jackson's song. "Waiting on you, can't wait to sit on that face/ Focused on you."

The Bronx representative captioned the video, "Y'all like this vibe for CB2?" which captures the rapper in a car. Upon posting, the fans could no longer keep their calm as they bombarded the comment box on the X (formerly Twitter). "Love that song!!!!!! Belcalis you've done it again!!!! So ready for cb2," one Bardi Gang member wrote in the post's comment.

Another fan wrote, "She is taking it? ❤️, I can't wait for the album" Some other comments on the X post read, "OH MOTHER?????", "As a bardigangima be honest this the best we have ever head cardi sound singing ??", "Had a feeling when I first heard the snippet, she got a hit on her hands", etc.

"Funny How Time Flies" first appeared in 'Control', Janet Jackson's 1986 album. The blockbuster album was produced by Terry Lewis and Jimmy Jam. Several other artists in the past have sampled the song from time to time.

This long list of artists includes names such as The Lost Boyz, Camp Lo, SWV, and Tinashe. Janet Jackson's track was released in Ireland and the UK.

However, it was ruled ineligible for the charts of the US.

Simultaneously, the other 'Control' singles like 'When I Think of You', and 'Nasty' dominated the charts of the US commercially.

When it comes to the Bardi gang, they have been waiting patiently for the sophomore album for years now and especially this year, the journey has truly been a roller coaster. Cardi tweeted that the LP will not be dropping this May.

But again she deleted the post shortly, recanting her statement. "I hate that I fall back and start interacting again and it bites me in the a," she wrote at the time. "Anyway NO album this year I don't care I'm relaxing this year.. Dropping these features I already committed to and traveling and enjoying my summer," she shared in May on Twitter.

However, the fans are quite positive that this snippet means this year might be the one when Cardi B finally releases her second studio album.

Kesha Releases Her First Independent Single 'JoyRide'

Kesha finally opens her new chapter with a bang, celebrating life and music with her latest release 'Joyride', once again as an independent artist. On the 4th of July, she dropped her single, after parting her ways with her forever recording company this is her first release since June 2023.

The entire social media was excited to watch her back with this incredible release. She also took the liberty of social media to post about her newfound independence. She wrote on Twitter (X), "I couldn't have made it through without all of you. Now we joyride."

The lyric video of the song has some bold and audacious narratives. The song goes like this, "Are you a man? 'Cause I'm a bh, I'm already rich, just looking for that (Mm) This party sucks, I'm 'bout to ditch." She surely has earned her way to be "Like This".

The unapologetic genesis of this number has surely ignited many people with attitude problems thoroughly.

The peppy upbeat release of this number has created a lot of attention within various music enthusiast groups. She co-wrote this number with Zhone and Madison Love.

They also produced the track. As she shared the video on Instagram, she mentioned, "MY NEW SINGLE JOYRIDE IS OUT NOW," denoting her fresh release.

Previously she teased about this number on a fandom page, where she shared, "I'll say... to all my fans, all my animals, this has been a ride. I'll say that there is a day — although I won't say the day — but there is a day marked on my calendar when I am free to release music."

After spending 10 years together Kesha and her former producer Dr. Luke who was also the owner of her recording company RCA issued a post on social media explaining their decision to part ways.

They both wrote that she was parting her ways while "closing the door on this chapter of my life and beginning a new one," a year back. And now, a few days after the parting anniversary she is back with this fascinating release to woo her audience.

In March, she tweeted, "First day I've owned my voice in 19 years. Welcome." recently she was seen in the celebration of liberation with her charming performance to start off the prestigious pride weekend at WeHo's Outloud Fest.

During her performance she addressed the crowd, saying, "This is my first show as a free motherfucking woman." In this performance, she debuted two of her latest releases namely, 'Mother' and 'Freedom'.

Lady Gaga Got Emotional at Her Final Show at the 'Jazz & Piano' Residency

Lady Gaga had to bid bye to the Jazz & Piano residency and she made sure to make the audience go gaga with a highly captivating music farewell show in Las Vegas.

It is finally time for Gaga to bid bye and she offered a teary climax in her final performance at Las Vegas' Dolby Live Theater inside Park MGM, a revolutionary landmark Jazz & Piano concert.

On Saturday, July 6, Lady Gaga not only offered a captivating musical evening but also made it clear that it was the final Jazz & Piano concert at the venue which took place for two enveloping hours.

The singer and songwriter shared a shout-out for her boyfriend and dad who attended the finale and did not forget to praise her Jazz mentor Tony Bennett. Gaga made a mischief by saying "I can't believe this is the last time we are going to do this. No, it's not, we'll do it again...". However, the emotional value of the farewell was vivid and it brought tears to many eyes.

The run of Jazz & Piano started on June 19 and Lady Gaga made sure to gather a lot of attention. She interacted with the audience and said, "... when we come back, we hope you'll come back, we'll have a brand-new show for you." At another time, she confirmed it would be "pop."

The residency makes a unique attempt that no other artist has done before in Las Vegas. There are two shows by Gaga in the residency namely, Enigma which is a section for progressive pop that opened in December back in 2018. Later on, Jazz & Piano was established within a month in January 2019.

Creating dual residencies with different types of musical styles is truly a daring move that has been done by no artist before. Jazz & Piano has taken a significant amount of references from the Great American Songbook.

The platform also provides many jazz arrangements for Gaga's hit tracks like, "Born This Way," "Paparazzi," and "Bad Romance."

The different versions of the tracks are quite captivating and quite different from the typical high-octane taste of pop.

Lady Gaga has previously worked with Tony Bennett on many music projects their collaborative album released are the greatest examples of that.

'Cheek to Cheek' came out in 2014 and created a huge buzz among the audiences. Later on, 'Love for Sale' was released in 2021 and showcased her skills as a songwriter.

Talking about Tony, Gaga said, "You know this guy right here: When everyone was calling me a tramp, he was calling me a lady. We love you, Tony."

The final run of Jazz & Piano was a roller-coaster of emotions and Gaga said, "This is the last show of this residency in Las Vegas, which means tonight we will make you sick. You will be so sick, but the best is yet to come."

It was definitely a sick and heart-wrenching show that made audiences emotional.

Sabrina Carpenter Appears In A Hilarious 2024 Olympics Promo

Can you get drunk on too many espressos? Maybe the Espresso-signer Sabrina Carpenter can. She is sharing her zesty enthusiasm for the 2024 Paris Olympics in the new promo.

While the world can't get enough of her quirky 'Espresso', Carpenter is high on the Olympics it seems. In a recent promo published for the upcoming Olympics excitements, she is seen talking to an animated bluebird.

In that promo, she is sitting at an open-air table at a Paris café holding a La Gazette Parisienne in her hand. Suddenly a blue bird flew towards her and while the bird chirped she started to talk "Why yes, I am Sabrina Carpenter," as the bird landed on her. As she continues to talk to that animated bird, several cups of espressos start to accumulate on her table.

The bird chirped and she said, "Aw thank you, so nice to meet a fan". After a brief chirp from the bird, she says,

"Settle down, we just met." Then she continues to elaborate on "What am I doing in Paris?" and the bird keeps chirping. Then she mentioned, "Isn't it obvious? The Olympics."

After getting an enthusiastic chirp she starts to mention, "The amazing opening ceremony on the Seine, Simone [Biles'] epic comeback, the USA-Australia rivalry in the pool, and the world's fastest man and woman — Noah [Lyles] and Sha'Carri [Richardson] — racing for Team USA. I've never been more excited for anything in my life."

After she is done mentioning all the upcoming excitement of the Paris Olympics, the imaginary bird gives an enthusiastic chirp Sabrina Carpenter asks the bird, "You need to behave yourself!" And then she herself started to laugh uncontrollably and said, "You're crazy!" and people around her began to ogle as she continued to laugh.

The camera shifts to two waiters talking and one of them says, "I think she's had enough espresso" in French.

The promo is extremely cute and highly enjoyable; she looks stunning in her sun-kissed hair and black dress. This surely is a clever promo to use Espresso and also to remind people of what lies beyond 24th July.

Her sheer enigmatic presence has worked on the excitements which will conclude on 11th August. Shortly after that, she is going to drop her 6th Studio album 'Short N' Sweet'.

In one of her recent interviews, she mentioned, "I hope they find whatever they need to guide them through their life through my mistakes."

She added more, "Because I think the more open I am with my experiences, the more that other people are like, 'Oh, maybe that's OK that that happened to me. It's not the end of the world.'"

Since 1988 till now, the most controversial and according to fans the most talented rapper has been none other than the global mega-star Eminem. From his first released single 'Eat It' to his recently released 12 th studio album 'The Death of Slim Shady (Coup de Grâce)' this iconic rapper has stirred up the naturally expected controversy regarding the album. But that's not the main thing to focus on, as this album has ranked number 1 on the Billboard 200 chart. This is the 11 th , number 1 ranking album by Eminem and might be the last of Slim Shady, as speculated by many fans. Billboard announced that the collection moved 281,000 equivalent album units from July 12 to the ending week of July 18.

This number 1 ranking has tied the rapper with rockstar Bruce Springsteen, singer and actress Barbra Streisand, and rapper Ye for the fifth most number 1s on the Billboard 200. The sale is also a record-breaking one as it marks the largest first-week sales total for any rap album in 2024, breaking the record of Future and Metro Boomin. The controversy started when Eminem was seen to be throwing offensive narratives toward artists dead or alive including Diddy, Candace Owens, Machine Gun Kelly, and so on but his fans know he is not lying about any of these things. This aggressive narration takes a detour with 'Temporary' featuring Skylar Grey where the rapper indulges him into a much softer emotion dedicated to his beloved daughter Hailie Jade, who is also heard in this song. The song is made for his daughter, offering something to remember him by after his death, 'I wrote you this song/ To help you cope with life now that I'm gone... How should I start? Just wanna say look after Alaina, Stevie, and Uncle Nate/ And sweetie, be strong,' he raps.

With the album closer 'Somebody Save Me' the rapper has offered an apology to his adopted children about his past life of drug abuse, but even though the album holds two varied spectrums of emotion, The Financial Times has given it a mere rating of three stars review saying that 'This album may bring back the infamous alter ego slim Shady, with a rapid rap narrative but it lacks proper narrative'. The album consists of 19 masterpieces with 'Renaissance' where the rapper is seen to be criticizing rap fans for not appreciating the artwork and being overly critical which is followed by 'Habits' where Slim Shady kidnaps the rapper and is seen to be spitting offensive narrative to everyone in the news. The album finds the true depth of its musicality with Dr. Dre's produced track 'Lucifer' which samples a 1971 track by Dutch duo Mouth and MacNeal, Land of Honey, featuring Sly Pyper.

was expected that Eminem's album 'The Death of would stir up the industry and it did like nobody's business.

Singer Lucky Ali Shares A Melancholic Post On X Saying, 'It's Lonely To Be A Muslim'

The renowned and mega-talented singer Maqsood Mahmood Ali, popularly known as Lucky Ali has been gaining the love of people from all over the world for his soulful music production and unique and mesmerizing voice.

This singer has recently shared a post on X (formerly Twitter) that deals with what it is like to be a Muslim in today's world. In the post, he said, 'It's a lonely thing to be a Muslim in the world today. It's a lonely thing to follow the sunnah of the Prophet, your friends will leave you, the world will call you a terrorist.' This statement has stirred up the entire social media platform by storm. However, this is not the first time the renowned Lucky Ali has done such a thing. He might not be a hot shot on social media platforms because of his bombarding tracks that are coming back to back. He has always been a man of quality over quantity.

The reason for him being the center of some controversies in the past is also a post on Instagram in 2022, April where he spoke about the matter including Halal meat. In a very understanding and graceful way, he said, 'Dearly beloved Indian brothers and sisters hope you're all well. I wanted to explain something to you...'halal' is definitely not for anybody outside of Islam... it's just that any Muslim will not buy any product just like their Jewish relatives who understand Halal as similar to Kosher and will not buy any product until and unless it's certified that the ingredients within a product are according to his or her consumable limitations.'

He also adds with this, 'Now companies want to sell to everyone including the Muslim and Jewish populations, so to sell their product they have to label it as Halal certified or Kosher certified... otherwise Muslims and Jews will just not buy from them, but if the people are so bothered by the word 'halal' they should remove it from their counters but one can't foresee whether their sales would be the same as they were used to, with love... and understanding.'

Over the years this enigmatic singer has gained fame for not only his appearances in movies like Chhote Nawab which was his debut film where he worked alongside his father the famous Mehmood Ali.

Later on, he dedicated his entire existence to music and gifted the world with unforgettable hits like 'O Sanam', 'Safarnama', 'Ek Pal Ka Jeena', 'Na Tum Jano Na Hum', and 'Secret of Success'.

While this singer is loved by the whole world still his melancholic post has touched a lot of hearts over social media and the comments have been flooding since its posting time.

His fans and followers from all across the globe have jumped into the comment section consoling the singer about the situation, some saying that it's okay for friends to leave as they were really not his friends in the very first place, while others are asking him to not feel guilty or victimized for the wrongdoing of other people of this religious community.

Tishaa Kumar's Prayer Meet: Sonu Nigam Breaks Down Crying

The news of the demise of Tishaa Kumar shocked the entire Hindi film industry; being the cousin of Tulsi Kumar was suffering from cancer for a long while and died from this ailment. There was a video of Sonu Nigam attending the prayer meeting on Monday that started to go viral on social media. In this video, he is seen approaching Krishan Kumar, the cousin of T-Series head Bhushan Kumar, and going on his knees and resting his head on his lap crying and Krishan consoled him with his weakened hands. In the same video, Shann is also seen standing in the back. Most of them were wearing white. Singer Siddharth Kumar Mohan captured the viral video as Sonu Nigam was seen crying uncontrollably while Krishan consoled Sonu. On the video one fan wrote reacting to the video, "He is also a father, so he is feeling for Krishan Kumar." "Sonu has a pure soul, he can feel pain," said another. Another Instagram user said, "Sonu has a very good relationship with the Kumar family."

Another person commented, "Sonu is a very emotional person!! May her soul rest in peace." "People have lost empathy. How can they say it's overacting those who have lost know how grateful you are that you don't have to endure such pain of losing someone in your life," said a fan. Many celebrities including Kartik Aaryan, Vicky Jain, Anil Kapoor, Jaaved Jaaferi, Anu Malik, Jackie Shroff, Udit Narayan, Bobby Deol, Riteish Deshmukh, Farah Khan, Saiee Manjrekar, Sajid Khan attended her funeral in Mumbai on Monday.

Her last rites were scheduled to take place on Sunday but it got postponed as the aircraft carrying her mortal remains was forced to redirect to Ahmadabad and landed there due to the bad weather in Mumbai. The entire industry can empathize with the loss of Krishan Kumar and Tanya Singh. The last time she made a public appearance was on 30th November 2023 at the premiere of Sandeep Reddy Vanga's directed movie, 'Animal' starring Ranbir Kapoor. On Instagram, Tulsi Kumar wrote about this demise along with a charming photo of Tishaa. She wrote, "Our dearest Tishaa, it breaks my heart that you are gone/ It was not your time to go, we wanted to see you grow, prosper, achieve success and see you in your wedding dress, not see you like this/ Gone too soon my little sister/ Love u our princess in our hearts forever".

'Aaj Ki Raat' From 'Stree 2' Featuring Tamannaah Bhatia Is Out: Watch Now

The seamless blend of Ghazal with catchy beats in Aaj Ki Raat is wooing the audience extensively. Tamannaah Bhatia's special appearance in this Stree 2 looks sizzling. The makers of the 2018 horror-comedy 'Stree' are back with another movie franchise named, 'Stree 2'.

The trailer looks compelling yet, what made the fans go gaga is Tamannaah Bhatia looking stunning in her incredibly made song 'Aaj Ki Raat'. This is the first song from this movie dropped by the makers and the song has much to offer than just the electrifying music of Sachin-Jigar packed with beats and intense ghazal (Love Poem) penned by Amitabh Bhattacharya.

For this number, Madhubanti Bagchi and Divya Kumar have come together to make this powerful release happen. Yet, the star of the show is surely Tamannaah Bhatia and her dazzling performance of the song. She shines throughout the song in her green extremely sensuous apparel. The movie is going to release on 15th of August 2024 and this is the first released number of the film. For the previous movie, they had Nora Fatehi for the song 'Kamariya' and it became one of the most successful numbers of that year. This song shows a similar sort of potential and Tamannaah Bhatia's special appearance will create a similar sizzle as it did for the Rajinikanth starrer movie 'Jailer' with the song called, 'Kaavaalaa'. She looks glorious in her moves and her dance moves are setting the stage on fire. As per the video of the song, she is captivating the people of Chanderi with her ecstatic dance moves and her glorious presence.

Another attraction of the song is the presence of Amar Kaushik, the director of the movie. His cameo in the song was not something people expected, yet it seems very refreshing and heartwarming for this upcoming horror-comedy. The director of the film is seen joining Tamannaah Bhatia and the rest of the ensemble cast of the movie which includes talented artists like Rajkumar Rao, Abhishek Banerjee, Aparshakti Khurana, and the OG Pankaj Tripathi.

On witnessing the electrifying moves with the poignant music of the song many expressed their thoughts. One wrote, "Wow unexpected...Gazal pe dance." Another mentioned, "Madhubanti's classical voice is enough for me.. I have no need to see Tamanna". The movie also has Shraddha Kapoor in as Stree, looking enigmatic, yet she is missing from this song for obvious reasons.

Hauli Hauli from Khel Khel Mein: Akshay-Fardeen Brings Back 'Heyy Baby' Hook Step

Khel Khel Mein's latest song 'Hauli Hauli' is making fans go back into the memory lane with Akshay-Fardeen duo's 'Heyy Baby' step and Chitrangda's guest appearance.

'Khel Khel Mein' is the upcoming Bollywood movie directed by Mudassar Aziz that is all set to release on Independence Day, August 15th. While the release date is slowly approaching, the film is creating high anticipation among fans with its latest track 'Hauli Hauli'. In the music video, Akshay Kumar and Fardeen Khan could be seen bringing back the memories of their 2007 hit movie 'Heyy Baby'. In the middle of the song, the duo performs the iconic hook step from 'Heyy Baby' and makes the fans nostalgic. There was a vocal prompt too.

'Hauli Hauli' is a groovy music project by Guru Randhawa and he did a great job in churning out the party vibe with an authentic Punjabi essence. Sung by Guru Randhawa, Yo Yo Honey Singh, and Neha Kakkar; this power-packed track has an R&B vibe along with tropical beats which makes it even more captivating for all. The stars of the movie Akshay Kumar, Fardeen Khan, Taapsee Pannu, Ammy Virk, Vani Kapoor, Aditya Seal, and Pragya Jaiswal; everybody could be seen performing in the song in a beautiful setting of a wedding which took place in Jaipur, according to the movie. Their colorful outfits and on-screen chemistry make the song even more catchy to everyone.

What is even more interesting is that the video is also a teaser for the movie as audiences can find a short clip from the movie at the end of the track where Akshay Kumar could be seen having a conversation with Chitrangda Singh on a flight. The scene has also made the fans nostalgic as it brings back the memories of 'Desi Boyz' where Akshay and Chitrangda offered an entertaining chemistry. However, it has not been confirmed whether Chitrangda will be in the movie or not which makes it a guest appearance.

The movie 'Khel Khel Mein' offers a lot of nostalgic moments and there's no doubt about it. Akshay is back to comedy after a long and so is Fardeen. It definitely feels like the OG Bollywood era is coming back. The rom-com essence of Bollywood has been intact for a long time now and this film will be another hit.

'Hauli Hauli' is currently captivating audiences with its major hook and it has garnered more than 30 million views on YouTube the mark is daily increasing. Stay tuned and enjoy its grand release on August 15th, 2024.

The Weeknd Teases His Upcoming Music Projects With Snippet Of Cinematic Teasers

'Binding Lights' creator, The Weeknd is ready to bring a brand new music project. The singer has teased the project by posting snippets of the music video on social media. The Weeknd is back with a bang as the artist is found teasing his fans with snippets of upcoming music. The Canadian pop star shared the snippet on social media of a new song and fans went crazy over the two-minute video.

The singer captioned the post with the caption, "When you gaze long enough into the abyss, the abyss gazes also into you..." which is a famous quote by German Philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche. Quite intriguing even at first glance, this occurrence is creating a huge buzz and anticipation among the fans. The upcoming music project is supposed to be the third chapter of The Weeknd's 'After Hours' and 'Dawn FM' trilogy which is still ongoing. The post on social media came right after the announcement of the "one-night-only" show which is going to take place in Brazil. It claims to make audiences witness a "never-before-seen production" in the set list.

The 'Binding Lights' singer has previously announced that the set list will include a total of "three chapters" which is perhaps a hint to the launch of new music through his performance in São Paulo.

The Weeknd has been hinting about his return since January and he also said that he was working in a sixth record which is going to be the concluding chapter of the 'After Hours'/'Dawn FM' trilogy.

The teaser video was shared on Tesfaye's social media account. In the video, the singer could be seen gazing at the camera with glassy eyes along some wood, creating a mysterious ambiance.

'Binding Lights' is one of the most successful songs by The Weeknd which made history by securing more than 4 billion streams on Spotify.

Now, fans are waiting for the upcoming music eagerly. The song appeared in most charts namely Top Five of the chart, Top 10, Top 40, and broke all the records. It also became the US Billboard Hot 100 single of all time that replaced Chubby Checker's 'The Twist', a 1960's hit.

The Weeknd's last music album was released in 2019 which is named 'After Hours', one of the successful milestones in his career. After a long halt, he is back with new music and currently revolving at the epitome of everyone's attention.

Now all that remains is to witness what this upcoming music project has to provide for the fans.

Bebe Rexha, Kylie Minogue, And Tove Lo Collaboration Teaser Released

The pop queens are emerging together; Bebe Rexha, Kylie Minogue, and Tove Lo have been leaving Easter eggs about their potential collaboration on social media. On Tuesday, Kylie Minogue, Bebe Rexha, and Tove Lo shared a teaser about their upcoming collaboration. They all posted a similar sort of video where they all picked up a phone call with a similar ringtone. The phone screen flashed 'MOM' in all caps, on picking up the phone they all just said, 'Hi' in their own enigmatic way. They all posted their respective clips on Social Media on 8th July. As a caption of their videos, they also mentioned a love emoji and another emoji of three Zodiac signs, Scorpio, Virgo, and Gemini.

As per their date of birth, Bebe Rexha is a Virgo and she shared a Virgo sign right after mentioning the 'Hi' love emoji. Similarly, Tove Lo is a Scorpio, and Kylie Minogue is a Gemini, they all stated their respective zodiac signs in the caption which might be a fierce combination to enjoy in their upcoming music video. They all seem to be extremely stunning even in their hint videos so; everyone can expect an explosive release from them soon. As per various theories, the name of the single is going to 'MOM'. Or "MOM" can be the short form of "My Oh My", only time will reveal this mystery.

In the Kylie Minogue video, we got to see that she was dialed 606 before she got the call from 'MOM'. The snippet of the song is highly quirky and the 'Hi' is also quite seductive. In the videos of Bebe Rexha and Tove Lo, there was no dialing part but they both were close to water, while Bebe Rexha was in her sensuous bathrobe before she picked up the call and Tove Lo was in a cute orange bikini sitting beside a pool while she picked up her phone and said 'hi'. Their collective gesture is surely indicating a new release that they will bring together and fans have started to speculate what the song might be and when it is going to release.

This is not the first time Kylie Minogue and Tove Lo teamed up. Previously in 2019, they have teamed up for 'Padam Padam', and 'Really Don't Like You'. In these cases, they also teased in a similar manner about these releases a few days before they dropped the number. However, a few days back Minogue also mentioned that she is going to headline a show at BST Hyde Park in London on the 13th of July. She is going to have Marina and Anitta along with her and a few new openers as well.

Lana Del Rey And Quavo Are Being 'Tough' In The New Collaboration

It is time for a new hip-hop collaboration for Lana Del Rey as she teams up with Quavo for the highly-anticipated track 'Tough', released with an official music video. After weeks of anticipation and speculations, Lana Del Rey and Quavo have finally launched their collaboration project for the new song 'Tough'. The official music video is directed by Wyatt Spain Winfrey and it follows the aesthetic and pastel shades like most LDR projects. Soft and soothing, Lana and Quavo could be seen spending time together, singing and dancing in a cottage-core beauty. Well, the Hummer cannot be ignored though.

The ambiance in the music video is further enhanced with rural elements, foliage, and a lot of natural elements which churns out the organic essence of the song. 'Tough' is also co-produced by Cirkut and Andrew Watt who are bringing back the hip-hop-influenced essence of 'Born to Die'. It was the debut project by Lana Del Rey. This collaboration is coming after a long time since their last work together for 'Lust for Life'.

The album project 'Lust for Life' was enriched with multiple hip-hop collaborations including "Lust for Life" with The Weeknd, "Groupie Love" with A$AP Rocky as well as "Summer Bummer" with Playboi Carti. Last Year, Lana Del Rey launched, 'Did You Know That There's a Tunnel Under Ocean Blvd' which garnered much attention but did not perform like her previous releases. The singer has confirmed that she will be dropping a new country album project in September this year, called 'Lasso'.

On the other hand, Quavo has been working on multiple single projects since the release of his last and second studio album 'Rocket Power' which came out in August 2023. Some of the latest singles include "Clear the Smoke," "Himothy", "Mink", etc which made their place to the top charts.

Releasing "Tough" just before the 4th of July is a very Lana Del Rey thing to do and the music video also shows a flag where Lana's picture could be seen on the American Flag, which reads 'American Queen'. There are also classic American references with the imagery of country, whiskey, boots, guns, and guitars. The toughness and striving nature of an American is further expressed through the lyrics as it goes like,

"Tough like the scuff on a pair of old leather boots Like the blue-collar, red-dirt attitude Like a .38 made out of brass Tough like the stuff in your grandpa's glass" It goes without saying that the track is currently buzzing among all LDR fans while stirring American hearts.

Halsey Teases New Single 'Lucky' Sampling Britney Spears

Halsey confirmed that she is sampling Britney Spears in her upcoming single 'Lucky'. Halsey's song will be sampling the song from the 'Oops...I Did It Again' album. Halsey is ready for the new Y2K pop era and so are we. The singer has teased their newest single 'Lucky', and the pop princess Britney Spears has a song with the same title in her hit 'Oops...I Did It Again' album. Fans were quick to jump to speculations that either Halsey is sampling from Britney's single or they are collaborating on this upcoming single. Seems like the first speculation is true as Halsey confirmed it. The singer-songwriter has posted on social media teasing her upcoming single. The singer-songwriter has just posted a video of herself singing and dancing to the forthcoming single. In the video, Halsey is seen singing "But I'm so lucky, I'm a star, but I cry, cry, cry in the lonely heart thinking, if there's nothing missing in my life, then why do these tears come at night."

This new single samples from Britney's song of the same title that was released with her globally hit album 'Oops...I Did It Again'. Halsey, acknowledging the fact, also shared a sweet message to honor the cultural icon that Britney Spears is. The 'Without Me' singer captioned the post, "When I was 5, it always felt like Britney was singing directly to me. 24 years later, these words hit different.

love you forever." Britney's song 'Lucky' was released 24 years ago on July 25, 2000. It was the second single from her second studio album and was a huge hit for the artist. The song tells the tale of a successful actress who has it all but still feels lonely and unhappy.

The songwriters were Rami Yacoub, Alexander Kronlund, and Max Martin. "She's so lucky, she's a star / but she cry, cry, cries in her lonely heart, thinking / if there's nothing missing in my life / then why do these tears come at night?" Britney sings in 'Lucky'.

Now 'Lucky' is going to be on Halsey's fifth studio album. It is unclear whether the meaning of the song will stay the same in Halsey's version or they will change it to fit their narrative better.

Halsey also recently released a heart-rending song called, 'The End'. The 'Colors' singer revealed some serious health battles in the song. "In 2022, I was first diagnosed with Lupus SLE and then a rare T-cell lymphoproliferative disorder. Both of which are currently being managed or in remission; and both of which I will likely have for the duration of my life.

After a rocky start, I slowly got everything under control with the help of amazing doctors. After 2 years, I'm feeling better and I'm more grateful than ever to have music to turn to. I can't wait to get back where I belong: With you all Singing and screaming my heart out," the musician wrote.

KATY PERRY'S BOLD STATEMENT ON FEMINISM IN 'WOMAN'S WORLD'

4.9/5
By Daily Music Roll

The music video for 'Woman's World' by Katy Perry has been released. The video is receiving many mixed reviews as some liked the video and some didn't. Prolific pop music artist Katy Perry is making a buzz among all with her later music video 'Woman's World'.

The cinematic music video is garnering a huge number of audiences from all around the world. With this music video, she is trying to convey 'It's a woman's world and you're lucky to be living in it'. In the music video, she was seen as a bionic woman and Rosie the Riveter.

It is quite an innovative presentation that is creating a buzz among pop music enthusiasts.

Katy Perry sings 'Fire in her eyes / Feminine divine / She was born to shine'. This soundtrack is an appropriate representation of Girl Power. Before sharing the music video, she gave a teaser of it. And since then, audiences have been quite excited to listen to this particular soundscape.

The teaser of the video made all a little confused but this music video is now reaching out to the global audiences in a brief time.

This pop music artist gave her last album 'Smile' in 2020. After four years, she is going to release her album '143' on 20th September.

Her fans have been waiting for a really long time to listen to her new music. While talking about this new song, she said 'I think that people, when they think of me, they think of 'Roar,' they think of 'Firework,' sometimes they think of 'I Kissed a Girl,' but I think mostly they think of these kinds of empowering songs'.

She even added 'Songs with a message, songs that are captions on t-shirts and stuff like that or things that help people get through. And I love that. I love hearing the stories and really, I write these songs from a place where I need to get through something. But so I wanted to continue with that and also, this is the first contribution I have given since becoming a mother and since feeling really connected to my feminine divine'.

Katy's comeback was much anticipated and that is why it is creating such a huge buzz among everyone. However, the latest music video is quite different from her other creations.

It is no wonder that Perry always delivers some of the most different music videos, which makes her different from all. But this one has stunned everyone. Her unique presentation has been questioned and on that Perry said that she 'set out to create a bold, exuberant, celebratory dance-pop album with the symbolic 143 numerical expression of love as a throughline message'.

This latest music video has garnered a mixed review as of now. One of them have said '& that's how Pop was saved'. Another viewer has stated 'Katy Perry, you're INSANE for this music video. Yeah she's REALLY BACK'.

Katy has received such positive responses. But she has also got reviews like 'Not defending katyperry at all but nostalgia is so crazy bc her new song & video is like... exactly as tacky and bad as the majority of her old stuff, The cheap product placement, the cringey cameos... it's the most katyperry thing she's done in like 10 years'.

The British indie-rock band will soon be back with their 4th studio album, 'I Love You So Fing Much' on the 19th of July yet their recent soulful drop wins the world.

Glass Animals were responsible for the 2020 release 'Heat Waves' winning over the world with their quirky and catchy soundscapes, and now they are back with another album their latest release 'Lost in the Ocean (swamp version)' is winning the world for their seamless melodious musical vision in the song.

The running time of this entire album is over 40 minutes and it has 10 tracks 'Lost in the Ocean' is the concluding track of the album. Yet the swamp version of this song touches the heart in the most charming way possible.

This heart-melting love ballad is surely one of the most celebrated love songs this year. The refreshing spin of this number has made many fall for this incredible release.

The song does not just state about the honeymoon phase or talk about heartbreak, it is something more, something only few can witness and everyone can resonate with. Glass Animals came to the limelight with their 2014 release 'Goosey' and with their viral release 'Heat Waves' they have sealed their impression on their audience.

GLASS ANIMALS WEAVES THE MOST HEARTFELT RELEASES IN THEIR LATEST RELEASE

By Daily Music Roll

However, for this album they have taken a more retrospective approach experimenting with dream-like soundscapes and melodies that will touch your heart and lyricism which will make butterflies in your gut.

Even the titles of these songs are also widely enchanting/ They initiate the album with "Show Pony" and as they proceed they offer releases like "What the hell is happening?", "Creatures in Heaven", "Wonderful Nothing", "A Tear in Space (Airlock)", "I Can't Make You Fall in Love Again", "How I Learned to Love the Bomb", "White Roses", "On the Run", and "Lost in the Ocean".

The singer and songwriter Dave Bayley has concocted some moody wordplay while they added some of the simplest yet effective harmonies and melodies for their songs.

The experimental approaches also came from their guitarist Drew MacFarlane, their bassist, and their keyboard artist Edmund Irwin-Singer, and also from their drumming specialist Joe Seaward.

Together they have created some sound that will melt your heart and woo your core in the most charming way.

It seems that this album strives to be more passionate and has an agenda to make people fall in love once again with its seamless musical blends.

RAPPER KILLER MIKE RELEASED HIS LATEST MUSIC VIDEO 'HUMBLE ME'

The renowned rapper Killer Mike has come up with his latest music video 'Humble Me'. The black and white video is gaining much appreciation from all.

Killer Mike released his latest music video 'Humble Me'. Right after winning the BET Awards for the Album of the Year for 'Michael'. In the latest video, Killer Mike has presented a unique video that is attracting all the listeners.

Here, audiences got to see the artist strip his pieces of jewelry and wear a handcuff. With this music video, he has given reference to being arrested at the 2024 Grammy Awards.

It was quite an astonishing event that everyone got to see. The artist sang 'sitting in a room full of cops'. While receiving the BET Awards, the artist said 'I was put in handcuffs and I was marched out of this building, but I want to tell you, look at god because I'm back baby. I'm back and I'm winning. I want to tell Black people that because of BET I'm back. Not 'cause of no white person calling nobody. A Black man runs this business, a Black company put this show on, and they got my Black ass back in here. Thank y'all'.

In the last Grammy Awards, he won three awards. After winning the awards, he was immediately arrested by police for offensive behavior with a security guard. After that, there were criminal charges against him too. However, a few months later, his file was declined and the criminal charges were also removed.

Later, Ivor Pine, the spokesperson of the Los Angeles city attorney's office said Killer Mike 'has successfully completed the Office's Hearing process, including a community service requirement that was imposed'.

Now the artist is back with his performances. It is coming to know that Killer Mike is going on a North American tour for his seventh and latest album 'Michael'.

He will continue his tour till the coming fall. All of his fans are immensely excited for his tour.

They are all waiting to see him performing live. Apart from his tour, he is going to perform at the Lollapalooza, which is one of the biggest music festivals. Thus, one can see him perform at the Lollapalooza too and that is an exciting matter for all.

At the time of acceptance speech for Album of the Year at BET Awards, he stated 'Who we vote for on the big stage is important, but it's more important you know who your city council person is, who your prosecutor is'. He also said 'And if you don't like the people running, run your Black ass to the polls and run yourself'.

Jimin's second solo album 'Muse' rise to become the most popular release with over 68% votes. Surely the album is very charming yet quite far from being innovative.

The BTS boy Jimin, once again has proved his worth through his latest release. As he dropped his second solo album 'Muse fans are going gaga over it. His last year's release 'Face' was also quite a banger for all of his fans across the globe, and now as he dropped his 2nd album on the 19th of July 2024, this has become the most popular choice for This Week's Favorite New Music in All-Genre Poll.

It is essential that has found the magic for his sophomore release as well. After spending his mandated time in South Korea's military services he once again back to woo his audience.

While he first declared his upcoming release 'Muse' in December 2023, there was sort of a melancholic vibe to his release, making it one of his unique releases. Even the beats have a saddening feeling to it.

There's no point regarding this as a highly engaging release along with his powerful style that makes his fans go mad over one of his releases. This album works as a palace of bards with the most beautifully written lines and highly engaging tunes. Yet, this is not something Jimin hasn't done previously.

JIMIN'S 'MUSE' IS ON THE PINNACLE OF THIS WEEK'S FAVORITE NEW MUSIC IN ALL-GENRE POLL

4.8/5

By Daily Music Roll

The seven songs of this album surely engage people which is reflected on This Week's Favorite New Music in

All-Genre Poll.

Theoretically, it says 7 songs but it feels like 6 songs as 'Interlude: Showtime' is an instrumental release that leads open the second actual song of this album 'Smeraldo Garden Marching Band'.

Both of these numbers are son synchronized one can separate them if listening with your eyes closed and your heart open.

But, being musically satisfying is more important than being innovative with each of his releases, and this entire album is completely based on these satisfying qualities.

While few fans are sad as they didn't get to witness something as innovative and fresh as his previous release 'Face'. Yet, this release is something that they will continue to enchant with the sad trombone of this album.

Visually the song is inspired by The Beatles' "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band." Yet, the wholesome nature of this album is surely that has gripped millions already.

With songs like 'Who', 'Slow Dance', and 'Closer Than This' he continues to interact with his emotive side of this audience.

Pressing on the right nerve to bring the best and the most blissfully created tracks of 'Muse'.

Shaboozey and charlieonnafriday will Give Special Performances at Barrels & Bottles

Hall of Fame Village is soon to be hosting the exciting Barrels & Bottles, an event full of music and life where Shaboozey and charlieonnafriday will give performances.

Hall of Fame Village will be hosting a special event, Barrels & Bottles in October. This will be an evening filled with live music and craft beverages that will make the event even more happening. The live music will be featuring superstars of the music world including Shaboozey and charlieonnafriday on October 11, 2024, at the Center for Performance.

The event will only allow people over the age of 21 years and will include select performances alongside bourbon, whiskey, and craft beer tastings, all of which ensure a delightful experience for people in attendance.

“We are thrilled to welcome the current #1 Billboard artist worldwide, Shaboozey, to the Hall of Fame Village for this one-of-a-kind event,” said Amy Liles, SVP of Corporate Partnerships & Global Campus Programming at Hall of Fame Village. “Along with charlieonnafriday and several exciting bourbon, whiskey, and craft breweries to be announced, we know we have the right mix for an epic night in Canton! Don’t wait! We encourage everyone to reserve their tickets on Tuesday, as these artists have sold out quickly all over the country this year!”

Shaboozey is a true crossover artist who first gained recognition and fame in the industry for “Start a Riot” with Duckwrth, from the music album Into the Spider-Verse in 2018. He began his epic run of 2024 with two standout features on

Beyoncé’s COWBOY CARTER in March.

He is also the only single artist who appeared multiple times in Beyoncé’s country project.

His recent work ‘Where I’ve Been, Isn’t Where I’m Going’ is a critically acclaimed masterpiece.

The song upon release debuted in the top five of the Billboard 200.

That is not all, it was also praised for “bring[ing] hip-hop grit to country. The album’s smash single “A Bar Song (Topsy),” which is 2X RIAA-certified platinum and reached No. 1 on the Billboard Hot 100, launched him to mainstream stardom and has become the song of the summer. With the meteoric rise of “A Bar Song (Topsy),” by the New York Times.

Soon Beyoncé and Shaboozey became the first black artists to score back-to-back leaders in the Billboard Hot Country Songs, the first time in 66 years.

On the other hand, charlieonnafriday gained instant fame and recognition with his debut album ONNAFRIDAY, released in April 2022 by Island Records. The platinum-certified tracks “After Hours” and “Enough” have over 100 million streams on Spotify. This contributed hugely to the hip-hop scene of Seattle. The artist also came forward with a merchandise brand, “ONNAFRIDAY” and featured on

Ben (2023), the recent Macklemore album with the song

‘I Know’. The tickets for the event will go on sale at hofvillage.com starting Tuesday, July 23, at noon ET.

Here you will get tickets for VIP as well as general admission along with hotel packages and floor suits.

Celebrate International Reggae Day 2024 With 7 Bewitching Reggae Artists

One of the most popular and rhythmic musical genres in the world is Reggae music. To celebrate International Reggae Day, here are the rising superstars.

Originating in Jamaica in the late 1960s, the Reggae music genre is one of the most spellbinding musical styles you will ever find. To celebrate the uniqueness of Reggae music, the world celebrates International Reggae Day on 1st July.

If you are also a big fan of the genre of looking for new artists you can obsess over, then you have come to the right place. So, let's check them out, follow them on social media, stream their music, and spread the love and recognition that their discography so importantly deserves.

Eesah: Eesah is one of the finest and most talented Reggae singers in the industry. The name is developed from the Jamaican patwa slang, "dat bad eesah". This is an expression that indicates excitement and enthusiasm when something good, or enjoyable happens. After his interesting and cleverly masterful delivery, his peers in the industry coined this name for him. His discography goes back to 2012 when he released a seven-track EP, 'Kannabis'. Some of his most loved tracks are 'The Beginning of Time', 'Girl From Costa Rica', 'Hold A Vibe', etc.

Armanii: Another Jamaican artist who is killing in the Reggae scene right now is Armanii. Born and raised in Kingston, the artist discovered his love, interest, and passion for music at a very young age. His music is influenced by a wide range of different genres, and his personal experiences work as a major influencer for his musical creations. Armanii started his career in 2021 with his debut single 'Love Problems', quickly gaining recognition and popularity. Some of his most popular records include 'HAAD (Fiesta)', 'Dunce Barbie - Bonus', 'Party Time', 'TALK', etc.

HIRIE: HIRIE is an artist who has taken inspiration from different regions of the world and put that into her music, making it versatile in its truest sense. She is a Hawaiian singer and songwriter who has brought new waves to the style of Reggae pop music and elevated it with her creations.

Her breakout was in 2016 with 'Wandering Soul', which did decent numbers on streaming platforms. However, she saw real success with her 2019 release 'Dreamer', making her truly one of the most aspiring talents in the industry. Some of her most acclaimed and popular tracks include 'Feel the Sunshine', 'Blacklist (with Matisyahu)', 'I'm High', 'I Like the Way You Roll (feat. Slightly Stoopid)', etc.

Khalia: Born in Jamaica, this artist was brought up in London but found her way back home with a passion and new-found love for Reggae music. She was the first signed act of K-Licious Music, owned by Tony "CD" Kelly, a Grammy-winning producer. With songs like 'Once Dance', 'Wild Fire', and 'Easy', her talent has won the hearts of Reggae music lovers worldwide. The edgy concepts combined with her passionate vocals make her music something to look forward to.

Conkarah: Another rising name in the Reggae industry, Conkarah's love and passion for music started when he was a child. Many respected legends have influenced his sound, making him closer to finding and establishing his own unique Reggae sound. Stream his tracks like 'Banana (feat. Shaggy) (DJ FLeMinisiren Remix)', 'Hello (Reggae Cover)', and 'People' on Spotify.

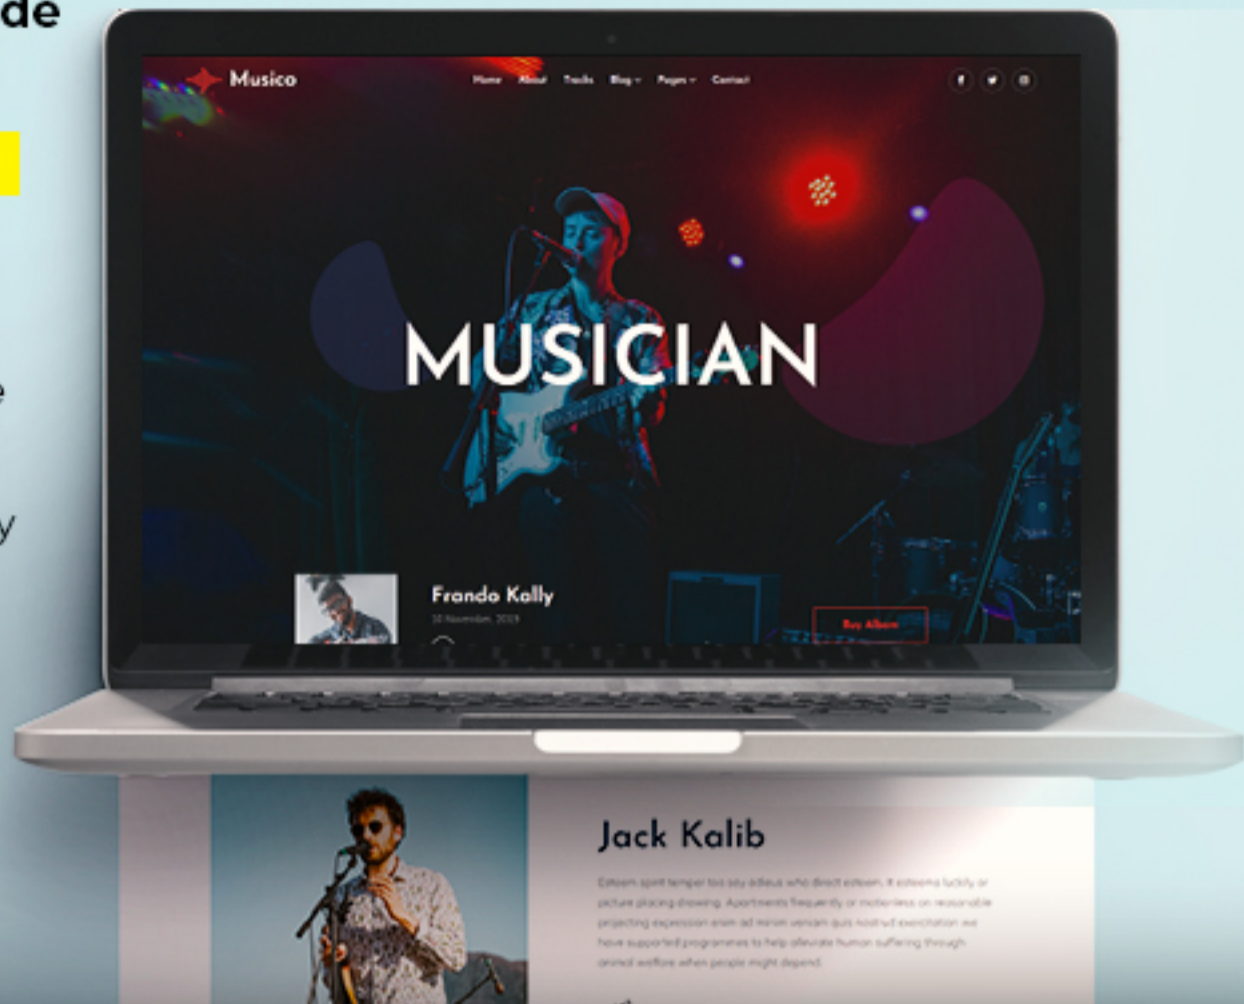

Mellodose: Music is an escape for some people, and to some, it is what brings them closer to the time and space. Puerto Rican singer-songwriter Marco Mar is someone who relates to the latter kind and with Mellodose, his artist name, he continues to make music that is captivating and enriching. Some of his highly enjoyable tracks are 'Life's Been Good', 'We Come back', 'Sheets', etc.

Ikaya: Exposure to the world and different music styles helped Ikaya build her own music style. In a male-dominated industry in Jamaica, her uniqueness, vocal abilities, and pure love for Reggae music made her one of the most promising young talents. Some of her most spellbinding releases to date include 'Brand New', 'Nosey Neighbors', 'Flyaway', etc.
