ARIJIT SINGH

Indian playback singer Arijit Singh surpassed Taylor Swift on Spotify. The number of followers on Spotify has increased more than Taylor, which is a matter of pride for all of Arijit's fans. This competition started in 2023 and in the August of the same year, Arijit surpassed her followers for a brief time. However, this time, he has won the competition. According to reports, Arijit's followers on this music streaming platform are currently 120.5 million. And on the other hand, Taylor's followers are 120.3 million. This incident is creating a huge buzz among all the music enthusiasts. Arijit Singh is a Bollywood singer and giving competition to global artists like Taylor has stunned all. There is no doubt that Arijit has become a sensation and captivated the listeners. The fact is that Taylor is a global singer, which has made the competition much more difficult for all. After Taylor, the most followed singer on Spotify is Ed Sheeran with 115.01 million followers, Ariana Grande with 98 million, and Billie Eilish with 96 million. As Arijit became the most followed singer on the music streaming platform, his fans couldn't keep themselves calm.

ELTON JOHN'S VISION IS LIMITED TO ONLY ONE EYE NOW AFTER A "SEVERE EYE INFECTION"

The veteran pop icon of the music industry, Elton John is currently having only one active eye for his vision as the other eye is the severely damaged after infection.

The singer revealed that he has been dealing with "severe eye infection" and now, he is only having "limited vision" with one eye.

John used his Instagram handle to share the statement with his fans and explained how his vision has become one of the greatest issues in his life, how started in the summer, and also his healing journey.

While the healing journey may be slow, the singer is doing fine now and that's a big relief for the fans. The statement reads, "I've been dealing with a severe eye infection that has unfortunately left me with only limited vision in one eye. I am healing, but it's an extremely slow process and it will take some time before sight returns to the impacted eye," which assures that he will be back with a bang again.

He further stated, "I am so grateful for the excellent team of doctors and nurses and my family, who have taken such good care of me over the last several weeks. I have been quietly spending the summer recuperating at home, and am feeling positive about the progress I have made in my healing and recovery thus far."

Last year, the artist officially announced his retirement from music touring with his last music tour spanning around 5 years. The Farewell Yellow Brick Road Tour started back in 2018 and it finally ended last year 2023 with a final performance in Stockholm in July.

This tour helped the artist earn over $900 million through its total ticket sales. It was the highest-grossing music tour of all time in history until Taylor Swift's Eras Tour took over. Another music tour that also managed to break the record is Coldplay's Music Of The Spheres Tour.

Elton John performed at the Glastonbury 2023 edition which was his last performance in the UK. Talking about his experience, the singer said, 'I'm never gonna forget this.' And it goes without saying the fans also will never forget the memories they created with the 'Crocodile Rock' hitmaker.

There will be a documentary film released on Disney+ based on the life of the pop legend titled 'Never Too Late'.

How Does Music Have An Effect On Our Bodies?

Music is a form of art that has the potential to unite people across the globe. Language isn't a barrier when it comes to music. It is an integral part of every individual's daily life. Over time, it has been observed that people are always listening to songs in various ways.

Without music, it is quite difficult to live. People who listen to music know how impactful it is on anyone's life. It has the potential to give pleasure and make life even better. Music can inspire one in life and help to lead a happy life. This has been proven that music can reduce stress effectively.

If we want to live a stress-free life, then including music in daily life can be a brilliant solution. If you observe rightfully, then you will get to understand that it is a particular art that has taken place in every event in our lives. In every festival, activity, and event, there are different types of music. So, from this, it can be understood how it is intertwined with everyone's life. Let's find out more about the impact of music on our lives -

Why music is considered important in everyone's life?

Music is not only listening to a few rhythms and lyrics. It has a deep impact on every human being. Listening to music is considered important in everyone's lives because of its effect. It has been proven that listening to music can help us to calm our minds.

Music has the caliber to eliminate negative thoughts from our minds. We get the potential to think positively when we listen to the right music. Along with that, it can boost our creativity. Many say that music is the fuel for our mind that enhances our creativity. This gives us the potential to discover new things that lead us to create new things.

A lot of time, it has been seen that music is not only a mode of entertainment but it is a source of treatment too. It has healing compounds that help to deal with many complicated emotions that are not easy to handle. Therefore, if we listen to music, then we get the chance to improve in a lot of aspects of our lives. It is the music, that can give a vibrant color to our grey lives.

What are the major benefits of listening to music?

Many think that music is just a representation of tunes and lyrics to convey a certain emotion. However, it has a wide array of advantages that have made it useful for all. With regular consumption of music, one can get many benefits that are truly exceptional for every individual. Here are some of the perks of it:

1. Connect people effortlessly:

Music is a particular art form that can help you to connect with people effortlessly. When you are listening to music, then at first you are connecting with the makers of the soundtrack. It is the singer and lyricist, whose voice and profound writing helps to get connected. By listening to music, it is not only the makers, with whom you get connected. But it is all the other listeners who have listened to the same music. It has been seen that people with the same music preference, get the opportunity to create a bond. Listening to a certain kind of song can be a major topic of starting a conversation. So, it can be quite useful for many people to get connected with each other. Different styles of music bring a certain type of people together. For this particular bond, geographical boundaries do not matter. Music can remove the lack of communication and help to build a bond with people from all around the world. It is one of the major benefits of listening to music.

2. Music can help to boost confidence:

Music is an excellent form of art that can help to boost confidence as well. If you are fond of music and have an interest in learning different musical instruments or singing, then you will see a visible change in your confidence. To learn music, you need to follow the discipline, which can make you proficient in the industry. And at the time, when you acquire the right knowledge, you will become even more confident. When you are connected with an art form, it gives you a level of confidence, which can be useful in many aspects of your life. In addition to that, it can also help you to build many skills that are an integral part of boosting confidence. Thus, if you can master your skill in music, you can increase your confidence level in a hassle-free way.

3. Improve your mental health:

It has been proven that music has a great impact on one's mental health. The pleasing rhythms, tunes, and writings, have the caliber to soothe your mind. A calm mind is one of the most important things at the time of maintaining good health. If you do not have a relaxed mind, then you will experience more stress, anxiety, tension, and an overall bad mood. This way, you will not be able to accomplish any task rightfully. At this time, if you listen to calming music, then you will see a visible change in your overall mind. From research, it came to know that soothing songs can help to achieve good mental health.

4. Better physical health:

One of the best parts of music is that different genre of music has diverse benefits. The high tempo or the most energetic soundtracks have the potential to improve physical health. Over time, it has been seen that listening to enthusiastic music can help in better coordination. It can boost your productivity and help you to complete more tasks effortlessly. In addition to that, good mood makes a brilliant impact on productivity too. So, listening to music can assist in improving physical health.

5. Increase creativity:

Music is extremely helpful to increase creativity and produce a bunch of unique things. If you continue to listen to different genres of music, then your brain faces various challenges. And it has been seen that these challenges can push one to come up with different things. Our minds need challenges to think about a certain idea differently. Without any challenge, our mind loses the caliber to deliver new concepts. Listening to the same type of songs, will not be helpful in this scenario. Therefore, trying out a diverse range of songs can be immensely helpful at this time.

6. Develop good brain health:

Consuming music daily is immensely helpful for our brain health. It plays a significant role in our brain. When we explore a new genre of music, our brains try to understand it. At the time of doing such a thing, our brain struggles a little. This particular type of struggle assists our brain to function in the right manner. It can help us to remember more things, listen to mindfully, come up with new ideas, and much more. This brilliant benefit can help us to maintain good brain health. Along with these, we also get to cultivate the nature of paying more attention and focusing on something in a much better way. All these are immensely helpful for an individual. Without listening to music, accomplishing all these can be truly difficult.

7. Elevates mood instantly:

Music has the potential to elevate mood instantly. If you are going through anything that is bothering you, then listening to music can be really useful. According to studies, it has been proven that regularly listening to happy music can uplift your mood. For example, at the time of driving, if you listen to some positive song, then you will get more energized to drive. On the other hand, if you do the same work without listening to music, then you will not get the same enthusiasm. So, listen to music when you are going through a difficult time. It can offer you instant results in a brief time.

Check Out The Most Exciting And Weirdest Moments In MTV VMA 2024

MTV Video Music Awards is best known for its wackiest moments that take place on stage and the 2024 Awards didn't disappoint the audience as well. The event that took place on Wednesday deserves a full recap for offering some of the most exciting and weirdest moments on stage.

The music artists made sure to offer their best while the event offered an experience which is far beyond the distinctive red carpet style. Megan Thee Stallion deserves a special mention for hosting the show with much energy and turning the night into fun for everyone. With the exquisite performances by Sabrina Carpenter, Katy Perry, Karol G, Chappell Roan, and many others; it was quite magnificent!

Sabrina Carpenter Makes Out with an Alien 'Espresso' singer Sabrina Carpenter is currently the epitome of everyone's attention and she takes things a notch higher with her amazing performance at the VMAs. Her medley of 'Short n' Sweet' was on point and what made it even better was the chemistry between the astronaut and an alien which offered galactic vibes. Adding a notch of romance, Sabrina Carpenter ends up having a smooch with a graceful alien, and the crowd is definitely hyped. Making out with an alien was truly an addition of weirdness on Wednesday night.

Katy Perry is Being Bold and Vocal

Video Vanguard winner Katy Perry knows how to move the crowd and it goes without saying that her QR-coded tattoo on her lower back has moved her fans very much. The energetic pop star who offered songs like "Teenage Dream"!, "Firework!", and "Dark Horse"!!; surely knows how to channel her energy through her performance. She also acknowledges the LGBTQ+ community and said "I recognize I would not be here without." Perry also taught everyone how to normalize making out on stage with their husband and make dark jokes while receiving awards. What a queen!

Is It Really Chappell Roan's First VMAs?

Everybody must be thinking the same with Chappell Roan offering a killing performance at the MTV VMA 2024. She offered a perfect rendition of her track "Good Luck, Babe!" and she was amazing. Confident, bold, and unapologetic; she fueled more heat in the VMAs with an unwavering personality. With her contribution, the artist managed to receive the best new artist award and while giving her winning speech, the artist made sure to address the community and said, "the queer and trans people who fuel pop."

Thoughtful Tyla and Her Beautiful Speech

Tyla is one of the brightest African artists in the music industry and is best known for her creative musical creations. She won the award for the Best Afrobeats and offered a wonderful winning speech. While it is hard to raise your voice against the organization's body while you are receiving an award, Tyla did it gracefully with her unwavering presence and loving speech. She offered a shout-out to her fellow music artists namely Tems and Burna Boy who have made the afro industry more popular in the market.

Taylor Swift Mentioned Her Boyfriend Travis Kelce and Asked Everyone to Vote

It is sure a huge week for Taylor Swift after she officially endorsed Kamala Harris for the Presidential election on Tuesday. She won the award for the video of the year for the song “Fortnight” and also gained other accolades. At the MTV Video Music Awards 2024, Swift made sure to mention her boyfriend Travis Kelce in her winning speech and the singer said, “Everything this man touches turns to happiness, fun, and magic. So I want to thank him for adding that to our shoot.”

However, she has also emphasized the coming election and said, “If you’re over 18, please register to vote for something else that is important—the presidential election.” Urging young fans to vote is a responsible move by the pop star who has millions of Swifties following her. She has also paid tribute to the victims of the 9/11 attack.

The Slim Shady is Back Again!

Eminem kicked off the MTV VMA 2024 with a nostalgic feeling yet made sure to bridge the gaps with a powerful rendition of his latest track ‘Houdini’. Somehow, the rapper brought back the essence of the 2000s style with his signature hip-hop style with a black tee and blond hair. HIS Latest album ‘The Death of Slim Shady’ is currently creating a huge buzz among the real stans and perhaps, this is the reincarnation of Slim Shady. Eminem also joined forces with Jelly Roll and offered glimpses of their collaborative project ‘Somebody Save Me’. Taylor Swift was also found vibing with Eminem’s performance while sipping on drinks.

BLACKPINK’s Lisa Showing More Colors to the VMA Crowd

BLACKPINK’s Lisa has charmed MTV VMA 2024 with her solo performance and the fans have showered their love. She offered a powerful performance of her new single ‘New Woman’. Unfortunately, her collaborator Rosalia was absent at the event but it could diminish the excitement that Lisa has to offer. Her jaw-dropping performance makes her no less than a Rockstar who can move the crowd. With her spicy red leather outfit, the Thai-born singer has dominated the stage.

Everyone Paid Tribute to Britney Spears

Starting from the host of the event Megan The Stallion to Sabrina Carpenter, everyone paid tribute to Britney Spears. Stallion dressed up like Britney from the music video for “Slave 4 U” where she performed with a live snake. Similarly, Sabrina Carpenter also used a clip from the track “Oops!... I Did It Again,” for her mash-up performance. However, Britney Spears is seemingly more curious about the stunt where Sabrina Carpenter kisses the dancer in the Alien outfit.

Weird, fun, and highly energetic, the MTV Music Video Awards 2014 was a complete blast and the aforementioned highlights prove that pop culture is evolving powerfully. Stay tuned to find out more.

Top Must-Watch Music Documentaries of 2024-2025 for Every Fan

As a music enthusiast, many people have some serious interest in their favorite genre, style, solo artist, or bands. Some might just fulfill their curiosity by listening to the music created by their favorite bands; some might search around the web to get some additional information.

But there is a large pool of music enthusiast who takes this passion and seriousness a bit higher than the rest by watching nicely done music documentaries on their favorite artists. If you are one of those people then this blog might come in handy as in this blog, you will be provided with a list of music documentaries that are set to release in 2024-25. Let's start then!

1. The Beach Boys:

Celebrating the American boy band 'The Beach Boys' which started in Hawthorne, California, Disney+ has released a new documentary on May 24. The musical documentary is directed by Frank Marshall and Thom Zimmy. It showcases brand-new interviews from members of the band like Brian Wilson, Mike Love, Al Jardine, David Marks, and Bruce Johnston. Along with these, there is also some archival footage of Carl Wilson and Dennis Wilson.

The documentary portrays the story of the formation of the band up until the mid-1970s with guest appearances from Janelle Monae, Lindsey Buckingham, Ryan Tedder, and Don Was. With the development of the narration, the documentary takes the direction towards the creative aspect and the process behind their legendary album 'Pet Sounds' which highlighted the friendly rivalry of the band with The Beatles and Brian Wilson's vision and style of music.

The interviews featured in the documentary with the surviving members and other artists showcase the dynamics of the band and the challenges the band had to face throughout their course of performance.

2. Thank You, Goodnight:

The Bon Jovi Story The new musical documentary to commemorate 40 years of rock and roll of the band Bon Jovi, is called 'Thank You, Goodnight: The Bon Jovi Story' which portrays the legendary past and the uncertain future of the band. The musical documentary is directed by Gotham Chopra and features never-before-seen photos, unreleased demos, personal videos, and original lyrics. Their achievements, biggest hits, and a lot more are also highlighted in this musical documentary. It is a docu-series with its first season containing four episodes.

The first episode showcases the teenage Jon Bon Jovi who is seen performing in bars and then rushing back to school. The name of the first episode is 'New Jersey Vs Everybody'. The second episode covers the band shooting into the limelight and becoming a hit overnight but with quite a bit of tension escalating in the background and is called 'Nowhere to Everywhere'.

The third episode is called 'Brothers in Arms' where the band is seen to be introducing themselves to a new group of fans with their music revived and regenerated. And the final episode called 'Legendary' where Jon is seen to be reflecting on whether he has been able to become the man he wanted to be.

3. Long Live Montero:

This musical documentary is focused on 'All Town Road' famous rapper Lil Nas X. The documentary has been released on HBO and is directed by Carlos Lopez Estrada and Zac Manuel. The main focus is on the queer rapper and his first on-the-road 2022 Long Live Montero Tour in the US. Through this musical documentary, the fans of this openly gay rapper, singer, and songwriter get a glimpse of the personal space and life routine of this iconic rapper. The documentary features the journey of self-discovery of Lil Nas X and interviews conducted with his family members. The Grammy-winning young star has become an inspiration to many queer kids of this generation and the documentary is produced with keeping the aim of encouraging acceptance towards these people in mind.

4. Let It Be:

For the first time ever in fifty years, a musical documentary regarding the recording of 'Let It Be' by The Beatles is set to be released for the fans to watch. The documentary was originally directed by Michael Lindsay-Hogg but with Peter Jackson's magic, the remake is set to be released on Disney+ with the name 'Get Back'. The original documentary mainly focused on the rehearsals of the band and their announcement of an unknown rooftop concert. Seeing 'Get Back' after 'Let It Be' can make the people understand the narrative more clearly and they will see the difference the remake version has created to the tight and balance-theatrical elements incorporated by Jackson. The document has premiered on May 8. For many decades the original documentary had been kept quiet but with the new restored version, the documentary is set to be back for the fans as it is a huge deal due to 'Let It Be' being the last album of this legendary band. Peter's Park Road Post Production with the support from the original directors has been able to do so.

5. Lolla: The Story of Lollapalooza:

One of the most popular music festivals on the planet is the Lollapalooza. This music festival runs for 4 days straight, with legendary artists, bands, and DJs performing for more than 200,000 audiences. The musical festival features performances of different genres like alternative rock, heavy metal, punk rock, hip hop, and electronic dance music along with visual arts, nonprofit organizations, and political organizations. A docu-series created focusing on this music festival featuring old and new footage from performances at the festival is set to hit Paramount+ on May 21 in Canada and the USA. The docu-series is directed by Michael John Warren. The premiere of the docu-series was done at the 2024 Sundance Film Festival. This music festival was first created by Perry Farrell, from the group Jane's Addiction in 1991 as a farewell tour before making Chicago its permanent home.

6. Road Diary: Bruce Springsteen and The E Street Band:

The Springsteen and E Street Band 2023 Tour is ongoing right now which began on February 1 of 2023 and is set to end on July 3 of 2025 in Milan and a new documentary is set to release on Disney+ and Hulu, following the band throughout the tour. This will be the first tour of Bruce Springsteen since 2017 with the other members of the band. The director of this musical documentary is also the frequent collaborator of Springsteen, Thom Zimny who also serves as the producer along with the 'Dancing In The Dark' singer. Other producers of this documentary are the rock singer and songwriter on Landau, Sean Stuart, and Adrienne Gerard.

7. ABBA: Against the Odds:

In commemoration of the 50th anniversary of ABBA's victory at the Eurovision Song Contest of 1974 which was won with the song 'Waterloo' which was the first time that Sweden had won this contest, a new documentary is set to be released on The CW. The documentary is directed by James Rogan and co-produced by many European Broadcasting Union members like BBC of the United Kingdom, SVT of Sweden, DR of Denmark, RUV of Iceland, VRT of Belgium and so much more. This made it the largest collaboration of EBU member stations on a documentary film. The documentary was premiered at the Copenhagen International Documentary Film Festival on March 23 of this year. The main focus of this musical documentary is on the huge success ABBA received, including the bad parts that came with fame like being objectified as women and dealing with fame as parents.

Apart from these top picks, several musical documentaries are set to be released this year, so if you are looking to get some knowledge about your favorite artist or band, it is a good choice to keep your eyes peeled for these iconic musical documentaries.

The Estate Reveals SOPHIE's Posthumous Album's Tracklist

SOPHIE's self-titled posthumous album is due to be released soon. Now the complete tracklist of the album is out.

On September 17th, the late music producer and songwriter's estate revealed the posthumous record's tracklist to celebrate a special occasion. September 17th, 2024 would have been the artist's 38th birthday. Sophie Xeon, or known as SOPHIE was a hyper-pop pioneer.

The PC Music affiliate passed away tragically on January 30, 202. Aged 34, the musician had an accidental fall from a three-story building in Athens, causing her premature passing away. The eponymous posthumous album for the music producer was announced in this year's June. According to the estate, the album will be released on September 27th, via Transgressive Records and Future Classic.

This will be with the help of her long-time studio manager, and brother Benny Long. According to the late musician's estate announcement, the posthumous album will have 16 tracks in total. However, the album is full of collaborations and features that include celebrated artists like Nina Kraviz, Kim Petras, Juliana Huxtable, Jozzy, BIG SISTER, BC KINGDOM, Popstar, Evita Manji, and more.

The complete tracklist for SOPHIE is -

- 'Intro (The Full Horror)'
 - 'RAWWWWW' (feat. Jozzy)
 - 'Plunging Asymptote' (feat. Juliana Huxtable)
 - 'The Dome's Protection' (feat. Nina Kraviz)
 - 'Reason Why' (feat. Kim Petras and BC Kingdom)
 - 'Live in My Truth' (feat. BC Kingdom and LIZ)
 - 'Why Lies' (feat. BC Kingdom and LIZ)
 - 'Do you Wanna Be Alive' (feat. BIG SISTER)
 - 'Elegance' (feat. Popstar)
 - 'Berlin Nightmare' (feat. Evita Manji)
 - 'Gallop' (feat. Evita Manji)
 - 'One More Time' (feat. Popstar)
 - 'Exhilarate' (feat. Bibi Bourelly)
 - 'Always and Forever' (feat. Hannah Diamond)
 - 'My Forever' (feat. Cecile Believe)
 - 'Love Me Off Earth' (feat. Doss)
- Four singles from the album have been previewed so far. These are, 'Reason Why (featuring Kim Petras)', 'Berlin Nightmare (featuring Evita Manji)', 'One More Time' and 'Exhilarate (featuring Bibi Bourelly)'. For her 38th birthday, the late musician was honored by Google Doodle with a short video.

The tracklist reveal came just after Google Doodle's honor. The clip had a soundtrack of 'Immaterial', a single taken from her debut album 'Oil Of Every Pearl's Un-Insides'. The clip also features various portraits of SOPHIE. The clip also had the late singer's portraits along with her Monomachine, the synthesizer she used to make her evocative sounds.

Charli XCX was among many artists who paid tribute to the music producer earlier this year. She mentioned the producer and songwriter on the song 'So I' from her latest album 'Brat'. The song is about Charli's regrets about the insecurities, which prevented her from collaborating with SOPHIE as closely as she wanted to. "There was a lot of distance between us because I was in awe of her and wanted to impress her," Charlie told The Face earlier this year in an interview. St. Vincent paid homage to SOPHIE as well on her most recent LP 'All Born Screaming'.

Talented Artist YSM Offers an Ode to Self with Latest Song “The menace of good”

Music is a luxury or hobby to many but in reality, it is a part of survival. Survival in life gets easier with music that can help to express all the unnamed emotions. Offering the greatest example of that, talented music artist YSM has come up with a brand new song that speaks about perseverance. The track is called “The menace of good” and it is quite captivating with its lyrical approach and musical arrangement. Spanning around three and a half minutes, this song holds its energy from the beginning to its end. The song is mixed and mastered by Mar and it sounds menacingly good. The lyrical approach in the song offers a blend of self-empowerment, resilience, and personal growth.

The musical arrangement in the song offers a hefty dose of digital music which offers a techno-like vibe that is quite fast-paced and can resonate with the listeners. Whether it is the pace, the tasty beats, or a retro vaporwave vibe; the sound is perfect and it complements the powerful subject matter of the song. “The menace of good” is more like a self-reflection of the artist himself who has expressed different elements of self-discovery, acceptance, overcoming fear, taking action, inner strength, freedom, and empowerment. YSM carefully churned out phrases like “First step, the truth with me”, “no longer scared, and I had enough”, “Go, Beyond your limits!”, and many others that can offer listeners a hefty dose of positive energy and optimism in life. Well-written and deftly produced, this song is another milestone on his prolific musical journey.

Yhorahm Swoope, better known as YSM is a talented music artist who was able to gather much attention with each release he made. His musical creativity mainly revolves around the genres like pop and hip-hop where he writes captivating tracks. Previously, he has dropped ‘Get It’ and ‘Bull Piss’ which helped him create a buzz among listeners. And now, the latest track is taking the hype even higher.

YSM believes that he is a person who is likely to cause good and that is reflected through his music. The artist wants to write and create more songs in the coming days that can inspire listeners and give them hope, strength, and a lot of motivation to proceed in life.

The latest track of YSM shows his creative mind and philosophic vision that he utilizes to even motivate himself. This song is a testament to his dedication to push his barriers and grow to new levels. YSM can be found mostly busy in music since he is willing to drop more bangers soon.

This is only the beginning and he is already winning at it his passion. Follow the artist on YouTube and check out his musical collection. The fans can also find him on Instagram. Follow him and get more updates on his upcoming music projects.

Rosalía And Ralphie Choo Teaming Up For The New Song 'Omega.'

The world had witnessed the spectacular singer Rosalía in a song called 'New Woman' which was a collaboration with Lisa from BLACKPINK and it was enough for the world to notice the spectacular compatibility and strong vocals of the diva singer.

This time she is about to make another comeback with her new track 'Omega' which she has done with collaboration with the Spanish singer and songwriter Ralphie Choo and the music video is out now which is directed by regular collaborator Stillz.

The video shows both the singer Rosalía and Ralphie singing together while taking a rollercoaster ride and laughing up a storm.

The meaning of the name of the track is all about meeting the end and feeling satisfied with what the end result is.

In Rosalía's words, she described Ralphie as a 'whirlwind of energy in the studio!! He's also a really happy spirit, supercreative, and incredibly generous.

I remember that we sent each other so many songs before we got into the studio to work on Omega because we're both such music lovers and I realized right away that our musical taste is really similar.'

She also added that she 'had the feeling we would get each other in the studio and that's exactly how it went! We laughed a lot while we were writing and while we shot the video.

If Ralphie were to call me tomorrow to go to an amusement park with him I'd go without batting an eye. Personally, I feel very grateful to have been able to collaborate with someone like him and also to have been able to witness his passion and his talent.

'Omega' is a pretty ballad that comes with a playful music video of the pair on a rollercoaster, although apart from this, Rosalía has mentioned that she has been working on her next album by saying, 'It's been a process.

I've changed a lot, but at the same time, I'm still wrapping my head around the same things. It's like I still have the same questions and the same desire to answer them.

I still have the same love for the past and the same curiosity for the future.'

SELENA GOMEZ HAS RECENTLY OPENED UP ABOUT WHY SHE CAN'T HAVE HER OWN BABY

Singer and actress Selena Gomez is one of the most successful women around the world yet she also has to go through some significant turmoil in life. She is best known for giving life updates to her fans and she has been always vocal about her health issues. Recently, she revealed that her physical health makes it difficult to carry a child of her own.

The 32-year-old versatile persona said, "I haven't ever said this, but I unfortunately can't carry my own children. I have a lot of medical issues that would put my life and the baby's in jeopardy. That was something I had to grieve for a while." Although the singer has not specifically mentioned what her medical condition is that prevents her from carrying her own child, fans already know that she has suffering from lupus for a long time. It is an autoimmune disease that directly attacks different organs of the body. She was diagnosed with lupus in 2015 and in the year 2017, the artist also had to go through a kidney transplant in order to fight the disease.

Other than her struggles with lupus, she has been also going through a lot due to her mental health issues including the effects of depression, anxiety, and bipolarity. After going through a serious psychotic episode, the artist was diagnosed with mental health issues in 2020. In 2022, Gomez shared in an interview that the neurological medications she has been prescribed for bipolarity can create complications for her pregnancy which is unsafe.

Despite the health challenges, Gomez has a strong will to become a mother. She has expressed her desire for adoption. She also said that adoption is the key to her family history and she might continue the legacy. The singer said, "I probably wouldn't be here. I don't know what life would've been like. She and I are very thankful for how life played out."

However, life comes with a lot of changes and sometimes it can be very positive. Selena Gomez is doing quite better now both, mentally and physically as well as emotionally. She said, "It's not necessarily the way I envisioned it. I thought it would happen the way it happens for everyone."

She further added, "I'm in a much better place with that. I find it a blessing that there are wonderful people willing to do surrogacy or adoption, which are both huge possibilities for me." Evidently, she is taking life quite positively and gaining at it!

Sony Music Is About Buy The Rights Of Pink Floyd's Music Catalog For $500 Million

Financial Times has reported that Sony Music is going to buy the rights to Pink Floyd's music records for $500 million.

According to the reports, it is becoming known that completing this deal was more difficult than ever due to the personal differences between David Gilmour and Roger Waters.

Both of them had different visions and for that reason, reaching a deal was quite difficult. Till now, it was one of the biggest deals in the music industry.

A lot of bids have taken place for this deal. Previously it has been seen that groups like Warner Music, Hipgnosis, and BMG have bid for the music rights of the band. However, every time it was unsuccessful.

This time, Sony Music has gone ahead and talked about the final rights of their music.

Pink Floyd has gone ahead and preparing to sell its catalog. In this music right, soundtracks like 'Money', 'Another Brick in the Wall' and 'Wish You Were Here' will included. These are one of the most famous songs of the band.

If Sony Music gets the music rights of the band, then it would be one of the most successful music deals of all time.

There is no debate about how Pink Floyd is one of the most musically richest bands. Getting its music rights can be immensely beneficial for the company. As of now, there is no confirmation that the sale will take place.

However, according to the progress, everyone is assuming that Sony Music will get their music.

For this particular deal, rights acquisitions have also taken place. Last July, Apollo, a private equity group invested $700 million in Sony Music.

Catalog deals are one of the biggest deals in the music industry. For that reason, Sony Music is showing more interest in this particular music rights. There is also a rumor that Sony Music will buy the rights to Queen's music creations for a whopping amount of $1 billion.

A few times ago, the company also acquired Bruce Springsteen's music catalog.

This acquisition was accomplished with the backing of Todd Boehly's company, Eldridge Industries. After all this, everyone is quite eager to know if Sony Music will be able to buy Pink Floyd's catalog or not.

CHER WILL PERFORM AT THE 2024 VICTORIA'S SECRET FASHION SHOW

Victoria's Secret Fashion Show is coming back once again larger than ever. Legendary artist, Cher will perform at the show, which makes it even fascinating. Victoria's Secret Fashion Show is coming back once again and is already creating a buzz among all. For this year, it has big names as its musical guests. According to the report, it is coming to know that Cher is going to perform at the Victoria's Secret Fashion Show. Her performance will take place on the 15th of October. The brand has announced Cher's performance by sharing a post on Instagram.

It says 'It's a woman's world, so it's understood that you can't have a fashion show without the mother of fashion herself—@Cher! We're beyond excited to announce she will officially be performing at the Victoria's Secret Fashion Show 2024. But she won't be alone...stay tuned, more announcements are coming to round out our first-ever, all-women lineup. #VSFashionShow'.

The last time this fashion show took place was in 2018. It is coming back after a long time, which is a matter of excitement. According to the announcement of the brand, the show will occur in Brooklyn, New York City.

Now, audiences are quite eager to witness the fashion show. Cher will perform on 15th October, which is a big event. However, some of the best faces will be seen on the runway. A few of them are Gigi Hadid, Paloma Elsesser, Tyra Banks, and many more.

Previously, in 2015 they made an announcement regarding its return. The brand said 'We've read the comments and heard you. The Victoria's Secret Fashion Show is ✨ BACK ✨ and will reflect who we are today, plus everything you know and love—the glamour, runway, wings, musical entertainment, and more! Stay tuned...it only gets more iconic from here'.

In a report, they have shared 'The 2024 Victoria's Secret Fashion Show will deliver precisely what our customers have been asking for — the glamour, runway, fashion, fun, wings, entertainment — all through a powerful, modern lens reflecting who we are today. We're thrilled to share a women-led articulation of this iconic property later this year!'.

A huge excitement is occurring among all the people because in 2019 the show got cancelled. It is one of the biggest fashion shows, where one gets to see the magnificent performance, runway walks, the greatest designs, and more. Therefore, the cancellation of the show disheartened the audience. However, it is going to happen once again and bigger than ever.

DJ Alan Walker Called Pritam On Stage And Offered The Best Performance In Delhi

Everybody's favorite DJ and music producer Alan Walker from Norway is finally in Delhi now.

He will be performing in 10 cities in India and collaborating with Pritam. Globally famous DJ Alan Walker has just performed in Delhi and the crowd went crazy with the wild mixes. The Norwegian DJ and record producer has come to India for his 10-city tour that kickstarted with his powerful performance at Gurgaon.

Although the main purpose was promoting his latest album WalkerWorld with Sunburn, the DJ made sure to set the party lit with some of the best remixes.

The Delhi audience was quite surprised when the DJ called Pritam on stage and shared about their collaboration. The title of their collaboration project is "Children of the Sun," one of the most captivating tracks by both music producers. The Indian crowd got to enjoy a memorable experience with both of the artists treated them with a live rendition that sounded even better.

The performance in Gurgaon took place on Sunday it was evident that the globally renowned DJ was feeling great about his Indian tour.

This is not the first time but Alan Walker has performed in the country before and Indian fans showered their love and support for the DJ.

After performing in Delhi on many occasions, The DJ said on the Sunday performance, "Thank you so much, Delhi! It's good to be back, and thanks for making the show houseful."

The performance included many tracks by Walker as well as other artists to make his set more unique and close to the Indian fans. He played his own tracks like 'Alone', Coldplay's Hymn For The Weekend, and undoubtedly India Rapper HanumanKind's global hit 'Big Dawgs' which is currently breaking all the records on the top charts.

However, bringing Pritam on stage was the most surprising moment of all. Walker said, "Delhi, I have a surprise for you. Let me welcome you to the stage, Pritam".

Offering a captivating rendition of "Children Of The Sun" made their collaboration even more attractive to all. Robin Packalen, the Finnish singer has also joined the stage for performing some of the hit tracks by Alan Walker.

His iconic tracks like 'Legends Never Die', 'Ignite', 'Tired', etc many other songs have been performed by Packalen. Similarly, there was Sofiloud to bring out more energy with her performance.

Walker soon will be performing in other cities in India and fans are eagerly waiting for it. It seems like 2024 will be a year of Indian tours for all the favorite artists of Indian fans.

Selena Gomez Puts Her Fans In Awe With Surprise Appearance At High School Volleyball Game In Colorado

Whether it is winning the Best Actress prize at the Cannes Film Festival or making her fans happy at Telluride High School, Selena Gomez can do it all gracefully!

Selena Gomez is a favorite artist to all due to her humble nature and the wholesome activities that she does for her fans. And this time, the singer decided to surprise her young fans in Colorado.

The singer visited the Telluride High School and showed her support for the girls' volleyball team which made a request to the artist. Fortunately, Gomez was in the town for the Telluride Film Festival which took place on Saturday, August 31.

She also posted a series of pictures on Instagram and showed how her fans made a cute approach to the invitation. The THS volleyball team asked the singer to join in one of their games and sing the National Anthem.

It was a bright orange poster, hand-written, consisting of a lot of hearts and also the email ID of the coach for sincerity and contact. It was stapled on the bulletin board so that everyone could see it.

Gomez shared this picture with the caption, “They asked!! Couldn’t help it, it’s my first time in Telluride!” Selena never says no to her fans and this is just another example of the bonding the artist shares with her fans.

While it is not sure whether she sang for her fans on the volleyball team or not, she shared footage of her arrival at the volleyball court and the school gym.

There are also many other video clips shared by the fans from the official Selena Gomez Fan account in X. The reason why Selena Gomez was in Colorado in the first place is the promotion of her latest movie.

The film ‘Emilia Pérez’ has already received much attention from the critics. And guess what? Selena Gomez has also received the award for Best Actress prize at the Cannes Film Festival.

Zoe Saldña is also highly appreciated for her performance in the movie.

The movie is directed by Jacques Audiard and the director has done an amazing job in creating this musical crime comedy where a woman has to help escape a Mexican cartel leader who has undergone surgery for sex reassignment.

The film premiered on May 18 and it has been one of the best-performing films at the festival that won the Jury Prize long with the longest-standing ovations. Movie buffs and the fans of Selena can enjoy the movie now on Netflix.

Atlanta Rapper Rich Homie Quan Dies at Age 34

Rich Homie Quan, the Atlanta rapper known for hits like ‘Type of Way’ and ‘Flex (Ooh, Ooh, Ooh)’ and his Rich Gang collaboration with another rapper Young Thug was announced dead.

The Fulton County Medical Examiner’s office has announced the death of this up-and-rising rapper. However, the cause of death is still unknown. Rich Homie Quan was 34 years old.

Born Dequantas Devontay Lamar in Atlanta, Georgia, Rich Homie Quan’s passion was not just music, but he excelled at baseball. He eventually starred at DeKalb County’s Ronald E.

He learned to write creatively at McNair High School and he specifically credited his teacher Miss Butch for inspiring him in a 2018 essay for Talkhouse. “She’d be like, ‘I just want you to write. Close your eyes and just think about what you’re writing about,’” Quan wrote. “And every time I would close my eyes, they would turn to poems.”

After passing high school Quan ended up in jail and while incarcerated, he focused on reading, writing, and turning himself into a legitimate rapper.

“When I got locked up, I started to think about everything I was good at,” he told XXL, in an interview in 2014. He was named to the publication’s vaunted Freshman Class.

“When I was a kid I loved to read. Literature was my favorite subject. I loved creative writing classes. So when I got locked up, I read my first book in jail. I have been reading for years, but I read my first book in jail with understanding. When I learned how to really read a book, it took my mind to another place. So after that, then I started writing poems, and after that my poems didn’t sound like poems, they sounded like rhymes. I was like, ‘Let me see if I can put it on a beat.’”

In 2012, Rich Homie Quan released his first mixtape ‘I Go In on Every Song’. The first release was quickly followed by ‘Still Goin In’ and ‘Still Goin In - Reloaded’.

The latter project contained his first household hit ‘Type of Way’, an enchanting Atlanta trap record that reached No. 50 on the Billboard Hot 100. The song showcased Quan’s vocal texture and its richness.

In just a few words, he captured the feelings at the heart of many great songs: “Some type of way, make you feel some type of way.”

The song was later re-released by Def Jam Recordings. This made Quan a sought-after collaborator and he was soon featured on YG’s My Krazy Life standout “My N---a,” Yo Gotti’s “I Know,” and many more.

Quan found his ultimate success with another rapper Young Thug which came with 2014’s “Lifestyle.”

Sheldon Pearce wrote reflecting on the song in 2019, “On ‘Lifestyle,’ their Auto-Tuned warbles sounded as lush as the manners of living they envisioned in song: Thug bursting at the seams, puffing on clouds from the top of a mountain, Quan reclining with commas in every bank.”

Cardi B And Offset Welcome Their Third Baby After Split

Rapper Cardi B is best known for her powerful bangers but other than music, she is also incredible at being a mom. She has just welcomed the third baby with Offset after the couple split.

The rapper who is currently 31 years has welcomed her baby on Saturday, Sept. 7, and decided to share the exciting news with her fans on Instagram. A photo could be seen of Cardi B with her family at the hospital and the proud mom's face is noticeable there.

Although she filed for Divorce against Offset in July, the father could be seen in one of the pictures. The rapper captioned the picture, "The prettiest lil thing 9/7/24," and it is evident how the birth of the third child is making them close again.

Currently, Cardi B shares three children with Offset namely their daughter Kulture who is currently 6 years old, and their son Wave who is three years old along with their new baby sister.

Kulture could be also seen in the picture, gracefully holding her baby sister.

Previously in August, the rapper already shared that she is expecting a baby.

She said, "With every ending comes a new beginning! I am so grateful to have shared this season with you, you have brought me more love, more life and most of all renewed my power!"

Along with this caption, she wore a red dress through which she could flaunt her pregnancy belly.

She further added, "Reminded me that I can have it all! You've reminded me that I never have to choose between life, love, and passion! I love you so much and cannot wait for you to witness what you helped me accomplish, what you pushed me to do!"

The rapper also shared, "It's so much easier taking life's twists, turns, and test laying down, but you, your brother, and your sister have shown me why it's worth it to push through!"

This wholesome post has brought tears to fans' eyes.

However, the announcement of pregnancy was following her divorce file against Offset after 6 years of married life.

When the media asked her about the decision, Cardi B said, "It's not based on cheating rumors, but rather has been a long time coming." She also had an accident during her pregnancy but guess what? She made it through all!

Lady Gaga Reveals Why She Never Spoke Out About the Rumors of Her Being a Male

Lady Gaga finally opens up about why she was silent for all these years when people misgendered her or called her a man.

The 'Poker Face' singer was recently featured in the second episode of 'What's Next? The Future With Bill Gates'. Here she opened up about why she stayed silent on rumors claiming she was actually a man.

These rumors have been on the side of her entire fame journey. Earlier in Gaga's career, these headlines were all around, but Gaga chose not to respond or even address them anytime, until now.

When asked about the rumors in the 2011 interview, she famously replied to CNN, "Why waste my time on that? My fans don't care, and neither do I." This unapologetic behavior captures Gaga's fearless approach to fame. Now in an interview with Bill Gates, Gaga mentioned how she "didn't feel like a victim" amid the misgendering and claims about her being a man.

Therefore, she did not need to address the rumors until after all these years, she finally cleared the air on the Netflix show, which premiered last Wednesday. "The reason I didn't answer the question was because I didn't feel like a victim with that lie," Gaga said to Bill Gates in his new series. "But I thought about, what about a kid that's being accused of that, that would think that a public figure like me would feel shame," the 'Bad Romance' singer continued.

The singer recalls in the interview when such claims and frequently asked questions in the press interviews plagued her. It was about edited and doctored pictures on the internet, which fueled the rumors of Lady Gaga being a man. In 2011, Gaga told CNN, "Why the hell am I going to waste my time and give a press release about whether or not I have a penis? My fans don't care and neither do I."

On the Gates' show, Gaga also recalls trying to change the narrative in the world. "I've been in situations where fixing a rumor was not in the best interest of the well-being of other people," the 38-year-old popstar acknowledged dealing with "the world's most pressing issues."

"I tried to be thought-provoking and disruptive in another way.

I tried to use the misinformation to create another disruptive point," she added. Furthermore, Gaga also recalled how she has had a long history of misinformation. "I've been used to lies being printed about me since I was 20 years old. I'm a performer. I think it's kind of funny."

The clip from the 'What's Next? The Future With Bill Gates' show quickly went viral on the internet where fans were seen praising the singer and her approach to handling such controversies. They also noted the singer's honesty and her thoughtful actions. "And that's why Gaga is MOTHERRRR," one user commented on a social media platform. "An epitome of elegance, honesty, stardom, and majesty," said another user.

"Truthfully, her level of eloquence, long-term strategy, empathy, and outright bravery is remarkable," added a third. "I love how intelligent, demure and mindful Lady Gaga is when she talks about defending LGBTQ+ rights & those stupid press interviews about her being a transgender to Bill Gates in his 'What's Next? The Future' Netflix documentary," another comment read.

Charli XCX Surprises Everyone At Madison Square Garden

The Brat pop star is currently on a joint North America arena tour with Troye Sivan.

While touring, she was scheduled to perform at the Madison Square Garden where she shocked the audience when she brought out Lorde on the stage to perform.

They performed Charli XCX's 'Gir51, So Confusing' remix which marked the remix's live debut with both Charli XCX and Lorde singing together in person.

But this was not the end of surprises; as Charli invited Addison Rae onstage to perform her single 'Diet Pepsie' together as well as her 'Von Dutch' remix.

With the surprise release of the remix of 'Girl, So Confusing' with Lorde, Charli XCX put an end to rumors of a rift between the pair.

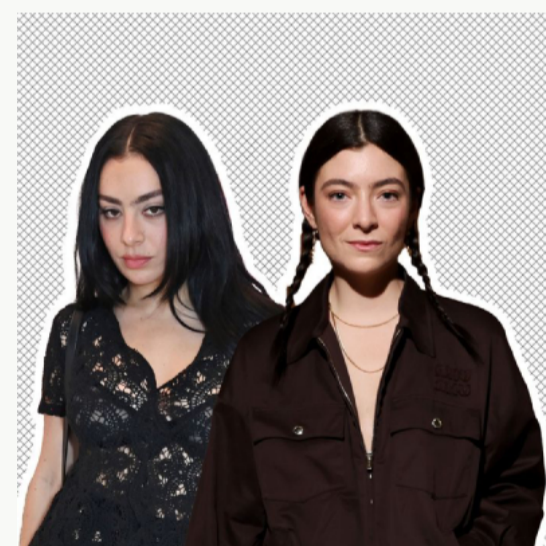

The news of the collaboration was announced using the now-coined Brat wall by having painters write Lorde's name on a white wall. After this announcement, the Brat singer posted a snippet from the song to her private 360_brat page, where the collaborator and Royal singer Lorde could be heard singing 'Well honestly, I was speechless when I woke up to your voicemail when you told me how you're feeling, let's work it out on the remix.'

On the original track, Charli XCX sings 'People say we're alike / They say we've got the same hair / We talk about making music / But I don't know if it's honest,' before she repeats the refrain, 'It's so confusing, sometimes, to be a girl,' describing her overthinking, insecure tendencies around her 'awkward,' frenemy relationship with a fellow singer, whom she doesn't 'have much in common' besides being two of the internet's favorite artists. Lorde also features on Charli's Brat and it's completely different but also still brat, a re-imagined version of her hit LP Brat featuring new songs and remixes of album cuts alongside other guests like Billie Eilish, Robyn, Troye Sivan, and Rae.

Many of the tracks on Brat and It's Completely Different but also still Brat are new, but some of the remixes — including 'Guess' with Billie Eilish and 'Girl, So Confusing' with Lorde — have come out over the past couple of months.

Arijit Singh became the most followed artist on Spotify and overtook Taylor Swift. The Indian playback singer became the most-followed artist on the platform.

Indian playback singer Arijit Singh surpassed Taylor Swift on Spotify. The number of followers on Spotify has increased more than Taylor, which is a matter of pride for all of Arijit's fans. This competition started in 2023 and in the August of the same year, Arijit surpassed her followers for a brief time. However, this time, he has won the competition. According to reports, Arijit's followers on this music streaming platform are currently 120.5 million. And on the other hand, Taylor's followers are 120.3 million. This incident is creating a huge buzz among all the music enthusiasts.

Arijit Singh is a Bollywood singer and giving competition to global artists like Taylor has stunned all. There is no doubt that Arijit has become a sensation and captivated the listeners. The fact is that Taylor is a global singer, which has made the competition much more difficult for all. After Taylor, the most followed singer on Spotify is Ed Sheeran with 115.01 million followers, Ariana Grande with 98 million, and Billie Eilish with 96 million. NIKITA GANDHI CLAIMED TO HAVE LEARNED A LOT ABOUT THE PROFESSION FROM A R RAHMAN

To celebrate the auspicious occasion of Teacher's Day on September 5th, singer Nikita Gandhi gave an interview where she shared about her teacher's influence on her singing career.

As her teacher, Gandhi established the name of the Indian music maestro A R Rahman, and talked about how he became one of the biggest influences on her personal and professional life.

While asking about whether Nikita considers Rahman her guru, she replied, "AR Rahman is one of the biggest influences in my life." "He is like a mentor and a guide for me in the industry.

And I think the most important reason why I consider him like a teacher more than an artiste that I've collaborated with, is because, I've sort of briefly been associated with his institute. I've spent a lot of time working with him on various projects, not just the film, commercial stuff, but I've watched him compose and record," she continued.

The interviewer also asked Nikita about her learning experience while touring together with the music composer. Nikita replied to that question by saying, "He has recorded me in person right from my first song to my first Bollywood song. There's been so much work with him, right from singing in background scores for films to doing Hollywood projects and singing in a 100-piece orchestra with him on tour.

So, I really have learned a lot more about the profession of singing, of recording, of being an artiste overall, because of him. I think that's why he's such a big part of my life as a teacher." The next question was about the Indian musical composer and record producer's involvement when it comes to teaching music to Nikita Gandhi. To which the 'Qaafirana' replied, "He was not a teacher at KM Music Conservatory, but he has been a teacher to me in a sense that I've just learned a lot from him and spent a lot of time with him while he makes music. So, well, I wouldn't say nuances of music, but I think overall how, what kind of work ethic, music ethic one should have, temperament one should have, this constant curiosity to keep learning new things and to keep evolving.

Every time he meets me, he'd ask me what's next, what new are you up to? He loves people who are ever evolving. And I agree, it is the best thing! The worst thing that an artist can do is get complacent and not evolve. So, I think that's one of the biggest lessons that I've learned from him." Gandhi also shared an incident in the interview that really moved her. The 'Jugnu' singer recalled, "There was this one time that he scolded me. It was actually a misunderstanding. I just didn't have the heart to tell him that I wasn't briefed about the song.

I was waiting for many hours in the studio and then he came and started recording me and I didn't know what I was supposed to record and I think he didn't know that. He wasn't informed about that and so he started sort of scolding me saying, 'when you enter the studio, you should be on it and, it should be your objective to just be focused on the music and learning the music and learning the piece so that you don't waste time in the studio!'"

The song has been released under the label of Sony Music India and it has already gained 10 million views on YouTube. This upbeat track with positivity and romance is written, composed, and performed by Charan and Bombay The Artist. Dishant has produced the track while Premix and Vocal Production is handled by Hanish Taneja. The song is beautifully crafted and offers an upbeat peppy essence which churns out a mood as well as a groove. The Punjabi lyricism helps to develop that unique tone which is further complemented with the modern grooves of music and a hefty use of digital beats.

The upcoming web series called 'Call Me Bae' is perhaps going to be a charmer for the young generation as Ananya Panday will be representing the 'Bae'. Other than Gurfateh, there will be also Vir Das, Varun Sood, Vihaan Samat, Muskaan Jaferi, and the list goes on. There will be also Lisa Mishra, Niharika Lyra Dutt, and Mini Mathur some of the pivotal characters in the series. The series has been developed with the writings of Ishita Moitra and it is directed by Collin D'Cunha. The web series is going to premiere from September 6, 2024, and the Indian fans are eagerly waiting for it. This is also a significant work in Ananya Panday's acting career as a work in web series.

The song 'Vekh Sohneyaa' is garnering more attention due to its catchy music video that offers an adequate dose of the colorful romance featuring Bombay City. Colorful frames and the chemistry between Ananya Panday and Gurfateh Pirzada made the song sweet and captivating.

There are also many dreamlike moments that most individuals crave. The music video for the song has also offered a fair overview of how the series is going to be and it was enough to gather more viewers for the series.

'Call Me Bae' will be offering a slice of life along with a romantic adventure and 'Vekh Sohneyaa' is a perfect example of that.

Diljit Dosanjh Gets Called Out For Overcharging Tickets By A Social Media Influencer

Diljit Dosanjh is well revered for his humble and down-to-earth personality, which can win the hearts of everyone.

However, he has been recently called out by social media influencer Saumya Sahni who has thrown some valid points about overcharging the tickets.

The singer and performer will be performing in India for the Dil-Luminati India Tour the price of the tickets is around 20-25k each which is not possible to afford for the young fans. While the tickets are sold out within minutes on Thursday, the high price of the tickets also confirms that it was only meant for upper-class people.

Mumbai-based comedian and social media influencer Saumya Sahni shared a post on Friday and said that Diljit has no right to charge such a huge amount of money from the fans as many of the fans 'have no money or are unemployed'.

She also said that it is unfair to charge this much for an Indian artist, especially when he will be performing in so many cities.

She further added that most of the fans are going through a financial crisis in a country like India with limited sources for jobs and limited means of entertainment that one can afford. She also said how hard it has become for a middle-class person to have access to watch their favorite artist perform live simply because the tickets are too pricey in this economic situation.

She further added the fact that Western music festivals where they arrange a massive line-up with an array of top music artists, charge quite less because they want every kind of music lovers to have access to the festival regardless of what financial class they belong to. While festivals like Lollapalooza charge only $100-$150, how come Diljit Dosanjh has the right to charge so much for his single concert? She added, '15K for a concert? In this economy???? In this country?' and also captioned the post as "My 2am thoughts are wildly class conscious."

These thoughts are definitely agreeable to most other Indians and the users on Social Media have already voiced against this. Their comments show that Saumya has actually made a fair assessment.

The tour for Dil-Luminati India is supposed to start from October 26 this year and the first show will take place in Jawaharlal Nehru Stadium in Delhi. The tour will continue through a total of 10 cities in India.

JACQUELINE FERNANDEZ CLAIMS THE THRONE ONCE AGAIN WITH 'STORMRIDER'

Nobody can deny the sensual beauty and grace Jacqueline Fernandez holds and the world has seen this but her new music video 'Stormrider' is completely different.

Pretty much most of the Indians and Bollywood fanatics are familiar with the Sri Lankan beauty and immensely talented actress Jacqueline Fernandez and her superb skills in hit movies like 'Kick', 'Judwaa 2' and 'Housefull' but this time the actress has come out with a surprise for her admirers and fans. She has launched a music video that portrays the elegant actress in a completely different light. People are quick to judge a person who is beyond the standards of the society and Jacqueline is one of them in regards to the beauty standards.

There is an old saying that goes like 'beauty without brains' but this hurtful stereotypical thought process is getting destroyed each time an actress like Jacqueline comes onto the screen. Her beauty is equally matched with her talent to fit and adapt to every role she has been given.

The whole world is once again taken aback by her screen presence but this time it is not in some movie rather it is in her latest music video. According to her, this video is the result of labor and hundreds of hours spent on the set and studio and definitely the hard work and efforts put in by her team to make her vision come true. The music video opens with a close-up shot of the actress' eyes and then the camera follows the beauty queen as she slowly and elegantly takes over the stage.

The whole image turns yellow and golden which establishes the actress as a high and strong authority. Jacqueline's golden jewelry along with her crown metaphorically and also literally shows what a queen she is.

The location where the music video was shot seems way too gorgeous due to the golden background and the mirror patterns on the walls which reflect the golden color giving the visual a royal look. The contrast in the case of the color scheme is meticulously planned and works out really well with the red dresses of the backup dancers on a golden background. The singer is Amrita Sen whose amazing and seductive voice is a perfect match with Jacqueline's sensuality. The costume designer Namita Alexander has done an excellent job in grabbing the audience's focus with her selection of colors.

The video shows Jacqueline as a strong feminine figure who is good enough for not just anyone but herself and she is owning her business like nobody's business. The visual changes suddenly within 2 minutes into the video and the golden screen becomes bloody red in the blink of an eye which again grabs the eyes of the audience and keeps them engaged. With shots of raging storms outside and all the dances dancing in the rain with Jacqueline in the middle justifies her strength and the name of the track. At the very end, the dark theme of the track becomes clear again with the change of color palette, golden turns to silver reflecting the thunder and lightning of the storm, and the red dresses portray the danger it carries.

Shakira Is All Set To Release Her Latest Soundtrack 'Soltera'

'Soltera' is going to be released by the Colombian pop music artist, Shakira. The upcoming song has already created a huge sensation among her audiences.

Shakira is going to release her upcoming soundtrack, named 'Soltera'. The Colombian pop music artist announced her song, which created a buzz among the audience. As of now, it is becoming known that the soundtrack will be released on the 25th of September.

Recently, the artist was also seen at the LIV Nightclub in Miami, filming the music video for the song. This has confirmed that the music video will be released soon for all her audiences. While recording the music video, Danna and Anitta were also seen with her. For that reason, everyone is assuming that both of them are doing a cameo for the song.

According to reports, Winnie Harlow and Lele Pons are going to be a part of this soundscape. Audiences are eagerly waiting for the release as they are going to watch so many talented artists in a song. Previously, Shakira came up with tracks like 'TQG' and 'BZRP Music Sessions, Vol. 53', which got a huge response from all of her listeners. With these pieces of music, she celebrated her single life. And she will continue to do so with this latest soundtrack. With each new release, Shakira is coming up with even better music and generating a sensation among all.

Shakira dropped a preview where she was seen singing 'I went out to clear my head and I'm tired of being turned off/ I have the right to behave badly / To have a good time / I'm on the loose and now I can do whatever I want'.

This prolific artist has the caliber to blend pop music with the Latin rhythms and that has made her songs even more charming. Each of her songs is filled with unique music and captivating lyrics. That is why, listeners are expecting to hear something like this in her upcoming song too.

'Soltera' means 'Single' and from the name of it, everyone can understand that it is a musical representation of her enjoying her life.

It can be an empowering soundtrack for many of her listeners. It is quite a unique representation that is making it even more exciting for all. In a statement, the artist said 'Soltera is about embracing independence and living life on your own terms'.

Everyone is quite excited to witness this unique representation of music. The wait is going to be finally over as the soundtrack will be released very soon for all of her music listeners.

FKA Twigs Is All Set To Release Her Latest Album 'Eusexua'

'Eusexua' is going to be released on 24th January 2025 by the profound British singer and actress FKA twigs. The announcement has already created a sensation among all. FKA twigs announced the release of her third album 'Eusexua'.

According to her announcement, the album is going to be released on 24th January 2025 via Young. This has created a significant buzz among all the listeners. It is her very first release after her 2019 LP 'Magdalene'.

That is why, her audiences are even more excited to listen to this upcoming album. Co-produced by Koreless and Eartheater, this album is already attracting many audiences in a brief time. The artist is coming up with an album after nearly half a decade. For that reason, it is an even bigger matter for the listeners.

In the meantime, the artist worked on a mixtape where she collaborated with Weeknd for 'Tears in the Club'. Along with that, she has been cast in 'The Carpenter's Son' and the remake of 'The Crow'. Along with that, she also collaborated with Two Shell for the single 'Talk To Me'. This singer and actress is constantly putting in her effort to entertain her audiences and spread her creative charm among all. Before the release of the complete album, the artist has dropped the lead single and accumulated many listeners. From a source, it came to know that 'What is 'Eusexua'? Eusexua is a state of being. A feeling of momentary transcendence often evoked by art, music, s*x, and unity. Eusexua can be followed by a state of bliss and feelings of limitless possibility. Also used to refer to: 'The pinnacle of Human Experience'. It also says 'Eusexua is the moment right before an orgasm. Eusexua is melding into one being with the perfect stranger you're making out with. Eusexua is losing track of time while losing yourself on the dance floor. Eusexua is the rush of inspiration that accompanies the birth of an idea. Eusexua can be many things to many people'.

This also includes 'It's a nebulous concept, ever-evolving with those who experience it. But it is united through any moment in which we are fully embodying ourselves, present in the moment, disconnected from technology, synthesised with those around us'. Previously, the artist also dropped a teaser of her upcoming album on Discord. Therefore, as she has given the release date of the album, her listeners are eagerly waiting for the release date.

TWICE's Tzuyu Drops her Debut Solo Single 'Run Away', Teasing her Upcoming Album

Good news for the TWICE fans as Tzuyu has also started his solo music career with the Debut Solo Single 'Run Away'. This single will appear in the album 'aboutTZYU'. K-Pop music artist Tzuyu has already turned into an idol with the launch of her solo debut track. She was a member of the Korean girl group TWICE which has fans all over the world. Currently, they are getting crazy over the artist's latest single called 'Run Away'.

This single appears on the upcoming album by the artist which is titled 'aboutTZYU'. It is the first mini-album project by the artist. TWICE's Tzuyu has embarked on her solo endeavor as a part of the growth of her musical career. When she was asked about the solo career, the artist explained that the solo music project is crafted to "present a more mature, intense side of myself beyond the bright and sweet image everyone is familiar with", and it is quite agreeable.

'Run Away' is going to be the lead single of the upcoming mini-album 'aboutTZYU' which is written by J. Y. Park, the founder of JYP Entertainment. There will be also 'Heartbreak in Heaven' and 'Lazy Baby' and the music projects will feature powerful rappers BtoB and pH-1. The artist said that 'Run Away' is one of her personal favorites as she fell in love with the track from the beginning.

She said, "The melody was catchy, and the synth bass sound was really captivating," and further explained her mixed emotions, saying, "At first, I was worried about whether I could pull it off, but I felt I could offer fans something fresh."

This is the third member of the girl gang TWICE who started a solo music adventure. Tzuyu's bandmate Nayeon was the first member to start her solo music career by separating from the band. She released her first mini-album in 'IM NAYEON' back in 2022. It featured the hit single

'POP!'.

The second member who left the band was Jihyo who started her music career last year with the music project called 'ZONE'. It featured the single 'Killin' which gained much attention from the fans. Previously in June, Nayeon decided to come up with her sophomore mini-album, called 'Na'. The leading track from the album, 'ABCD' became a quick hit. Nayeon also revealed in an interview that she has finally found "enough space to find joy and fun in my profession".

JYP Entertainment, on the other hand, is taking strong legal action against the activities of making deep-fake videos of the members of the band TWICE.

Chappell Roan Teases Her New Sophomore 'Weird' Album

Chappell Roan is not just a music artist but a powerhouse who is unafraid to go beyond her limits. She recently revealed a bit about her upcoming 'weird' album.

American singing star Chappell Roan is all set to drop her upcoming album project and the anticipation is high for the artist who feels like one of the 'Drag Race' girls.

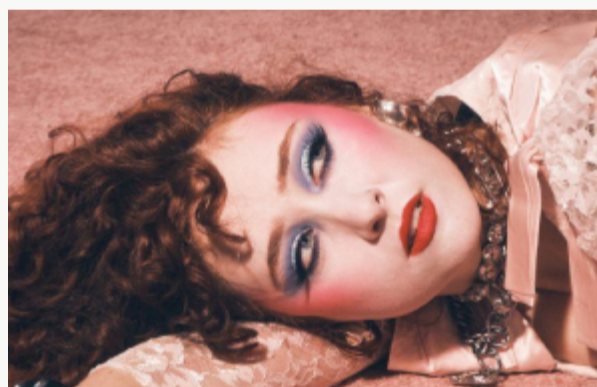

After the success of the debut project 'The Rise And Fall Of A Midwest Princess' the singer and songwriter became one of the significant figures in the music industry.

Roan has shared about her "weird" sophomore album and also revealed that around 5 to 6 tracks are already completed. However, the album is still in progress as there will be more tracks in the album.

While talking about the song collection, the artist said, "We have a country song. We have a dancy song. We have one that's really Eighties, and we have one that's acoustic, and we have one that's really organic, live-band, Seventies vibe.

It's super weird." Roan has also talked about an unreleased song of hers named 'The Subway'. She has been performing live that song throughout this summer and her fans already know about it.

But she also expressed that it might not be the next song. The singer said, "I just like performing it. I have two others that I really want to perform, too, I don't know what's next. When I don't know, it just hasn't hit me yet because usually I know. I always have an answer. I don't think it's 'Subway.'"

Her last music album project 'The Rise And Fall Of A Midwest Princess' gained critical acclaim last year in September.

It was her debut project and she already made it to her first UK Number One album. Recently, she received congratulations from Elton John.

She created a huge buzz this summer with the release of 'Good Luck, Babe!' in April. The song ranked on the no.4 spot on the UK Chart. Later in June, Sabrina Carpenter also made a cover of the track.

When it comes to fans, Chappell Roan is quite vocal against the creepy and weird behaviors from fans which sometimes get over the line.

While most artists do not talk about being afraid to lose fans; Roan called out these behaviors and told them "That's not normal." Due to this, she has also received praise from Hayley Williams from Paramore who said on Instagram that this singer is "brave".

A lot of other artists like Billie Eilish, Charlie XCX, MUNA, Miley Cyrus, Katy Perry, and many others have shown their support in the matter.

1. 'A Bar Song (Tipsy)' by Shaboozey:

'A Bar Song (Tipsy)' is this week's number one song which has gotten the entire world groove. This is the 11th week that the track is sitting at the number one position on the Billboards Hot 100 chart. Shaboozey has made the track his fourth single, from his newest studio album 'Where I've Been, Isn't Where I'm Going'. Interpolating J-Kwon's 2004 single 'Tipsy', the track is penned down as one of the most relatable songs you will hear, part of the reason why it can continue its reign at the top for this long. The song is produced by Nevin Sastry and Sean Cook and is classified as a country song. So, if you want to have a little alcohol and take your frustration out, you know which song is perfect to set the mood!

THE WEEKND'S 'DANCING IN THE FLAMES' SHOWS LOVE IS A DANGER ZONE

The Weeknd has premiered the first single 'Dancing In The Flames' from his forthcoming album. The song finds Abel associating love with physical danger. The Weeknd is back, bringing all the heat with his latest single 'Dancing In The Flames'.

With this release, he has officially given his fans a little taste of what his forthcoming album, a new era would look like. The Canadian pop-R&B star released the first official single on September 13th, where he was seen associating the risk of love with literal physical danger.

Last week, the singer revealed the cover and title of his forthcoming studio album, 'Hurry Up Tomorrow'. This will be his sixth studio album, ending the trilogy that began with the 2020 release of 'After Hours'.

This album also follows Abel's 2022 release 'Dawn FM'. 'Dancing In The Flames' came with a music video entirely shot on the latest iPhone, part of a promotional deal with Apple, streaming on YouTube.

The song is about capturing the pure essence of love, it is about rush, it is about love that is as dangerous as it is invigorating. The Weeknd shows naked compassion for love, which is like chasing a feeling on a highway, fueled by the promise of something extraordinary and an adrenalin rush, even if it means it will end up in flames. 'Dancing in the Flames' makes a turn back to the lighter pop sound for The Weeknd. Especially following the more R&B-influenced singles that the singer released in the past few months, mainly to promote his debut HBO series, Sam Levinson-directed 'The Idol'.

This single has Max Martin and Oscar Holter as producers, the same creative minds behind 'Blinding Lights'. Even though we could hear some changes in production and Abel's intention to where he wants to take this sound, it is safe to say that he did not lose his signature touch. We have once again found the singer associating love with physical danger with lyrics like "I can't wait to see your face/Crash when we're switching lanes/My love's beyond the pain."

The heart of the track is all-consuming love. The music video showcases that the love starts as slow and light, and builds up to a car ride, just like the calm before the storm.

If you look at the production, you will find 80s-inspired funk elements perfectly paired with the synth-pop sound that creates a hint of nostalgia. This also hints toward the fact that this intoxicating kind of love has always existed, something that is at the core of every human's driving force.

The single also fits right with The Weeknd's signature theme and style, exploring the dark sides of love and passion. The track is surely reminiscent of his earlier releases, especially the past two projects of the trilogy.

However, this time, the sound is more mature and gives listeners an introspective edge. It is like a thrilling ride where no one knows what is coming, but the end goal is the same, reaching the light source, the love, even if it means the ride will end his life.

KATY PERRY SHAKING THE WORLD WITH 'I'M HIS HE'S MINE'

Katy Perry's 'Women's World' album had been gaining quite a bit of criticism and side eyes from the listeners but that is about to change with 'I'm His He's Mine'.

Katy Perry, when first released her track 'Women's World' along with the video, the song did created a buzz among her fans and people worldwide but not in a good way. The song was heavily criticized due to its failed attempts of showing the power of women in this patriarchal world.

The video showed the iconic singer dressed up as Rosie the Riveter using power tools and drinking whiskey. The video had attempted to showcase that girls can have it all even going to the extent of showing Katy Perry and her backup dancers using the urinals like the guys but later it seemed like the creator and the director had gone through so much trouble for nothing.

The images of Katy Perry turning into a cyborg who is gorgeous and escaping into a post-apocalyptic world made very little sense to the audience and the end scene where a young girl is seen dancing for a TikTok video with a ring light that is shaped to give the symbol of man is snatched by the singer and she takes off in a helicopter.

The young girl screams to ask who she was and the singer yells back that she

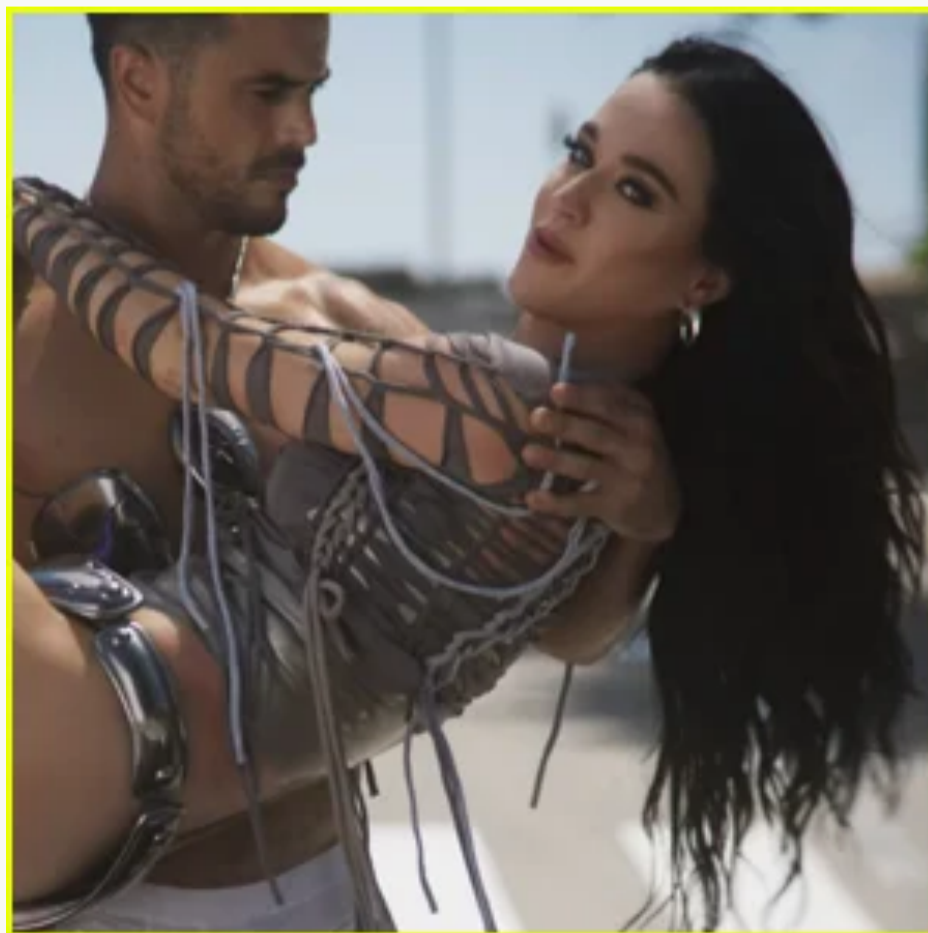

4.7/5

By Daily Music Roll

was Katy Perry in slow motion. This last yell was nothing compared to her roar in 'Roar' which was enough to give the listeners goosebumps.

But the scene might be changing for Katy Perry now, with the release of her new track 'I'm His, He's Mine' which has a very interesting and fun video to go along with the song. The song features Doechii and it tells the story of a woman being passionate about her love interest.

The lyrics are straightforward and clearly depict the narrative of women that she can be every and anything her partner might, need or want.

The beginning of the song will shock the audience with Perry's deep voice which is mind-blowing to hear along with the groovy and bass-heavy background music.

The new track is a sampling of a very popular 90s song called Gypsy Women by Crystal Waters.

Visually the track is bound to give you a head rush with the opening scene showing the singer and her love interest to be falling through the air while kissing and cuddling with each other, in the blink of an eye the singer is seen doing splits on the hood of a car while it is going of high speed.

The transition shots are something to look out for and there is something for the Marvel fans to relate to as she pulls stunts that refer to Spiderman.

CHECK OUT THE LATEST UPBEAT BANGER 'HATT JAA BAAJU' FROM YUDHRA

A brand new track from the upcoming Yudhra, 'Hatt Jaa Baaju' is currently trending no #3 on YouTube. Is it all about Raghav's magical dance moves or music?

It seems like Raghav is not just a great dancer but also an amazing actor who knows how to blend with the environment.

And that is what can be noticed in the latest music video of the brand new track 'Hatt Jaa Baaju' from the movie Yudhra.

The song premiered on September 12 and it has already garnered 9 million streams in a week.

The song apparently takes place in a nightclub-like ambiance with plenty of room on the dance floor for Raghav to indulge in.

Featuring quirky neon combinations and an upbeat music vibe, this song is a whole mood.

Fans have shown their love for the latest music video for 'Hatt Jaa Baaju' and praised Raghav's expressive dancing ability which is almost like acting.

Reflecting on his character and energy, the audience can also find his dance moves.

However, he has become a popular actor now who is starring in the movie 'Tudhra' with Siddhant Chaturvedi.

There is an original track 'Hatt Jaa Baaju' by Kishore Kumar which is also a complete banger for Bollywood lovers. This latest track offers a more captivating upbeat experience, mimicking the clubs.

The track 'Hatt Jaa Baaju' from the movie Yudhra is composed by the trio Shankar Ehsaan Loy and the lyrics have been penned down by Javed Akhtar.

However, who added more energy to the song were the singers namely Kelly Dlima, Arsh Mohammed, and none other than Vishal Dadlani.

With powerful vocals, this song is going to be an anthem for parties.

The digital beats and Raghav's fluid dance moves create a major hook that can captivate the audience.

Choreographers namely, Piyush and Shazia have done an amazing job which is reflected through the dance grooves.

'Yudhra' is an upcoming Bollywood film that is all set to release in theaters on September 20.

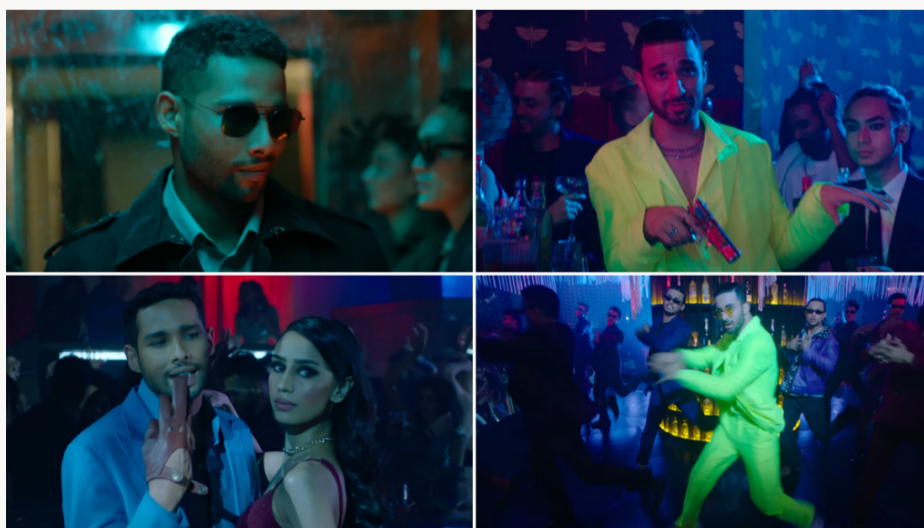

It is a story about an ex-prisoner with anger issues and as you can expect, the movie is full of gore action.

The trailer looks clean and provides an overview that it is going to be a fun watch for all.

The cast includes Siddhant Chaturvedi, Malavika Mohanan, Ram Kapoor, Raj Arjun, Raghav Juyal, and many others.

DILJIT DOSANJH AND ALIA BHATT AMAZED FANS WITH THEIR COLLAB 'CHAL KUDIYE' FROM JIGRA

Check out the latest song 'Chal Kudiye' by Diljit Dosanjh and Alia Bhatt, the duo who have collaborated after 8 years since their last work in 'Udta Punjab'.

Diljit Dosanjh and Alia Bhatt brought back the nostalgia and positive energy of their previous collaboration with their latest song 'Chal Kudiye' which is currently gaining a lot of attention from the fans.

It is a part of the soundtrack from the movie 'Jigra' starring Alia Bhatt. The song was released on Tuesday and gained much attention with its lyrical approach and theme.

In the music video, Diljit and Alia could be seen singing the track. At the same time, a group of women performs with a reference to the suffering and resilience of women in different fields.

The song was written by Harmanjeet Singh and it received more melody from Music Director Manpreet Singh.

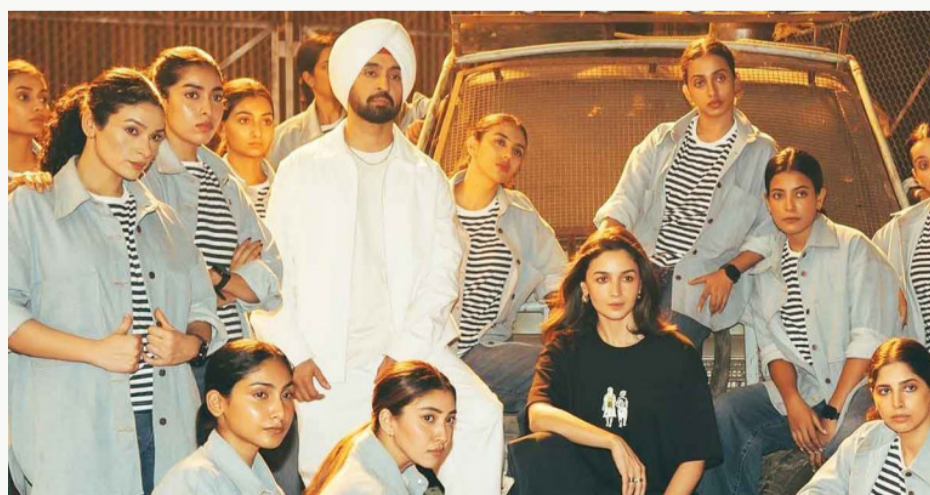

'Chal Kudiye' offers a soft-rock energy that perfectly blends with the tone of the track. While Diljit Dosanjh is well-known as a Punjabi singer, it is amazing to see how Alia Bhatt has also maintained her vocal skills like ever.

The song is also a crucial part of the movie 'Jigra' which is focused on the courage and strength of women which can go to any extent. The film shows the powerful bond between the brother and sister and how the sister goes through an array of terrific experiences just to save his brother.

4.8/5

By Daily Music Roll

The song builds more hype and anticipation for the movie while offering a taste of what it is about. Diljit Dosanjh and Alia Bhatt have collaborated after 8 long years and this was unexpected for all.

Last time they worked together for the song 'Ikk Kudi' (Club Mix) from 'Udta Punjab' which took place in 2016. They have also worked in the movie together along with Shahid Kapoor.

The latest collaboration of 'Chal Kudiye' also offers the same positive energy of the duo that can make the fans happy with a taste of nostalgia.

They have showered their love through the comments and share on social media and the song has already received nearly 6 million views.

Diljit Dosanjh is already at the center of everyone's attention with the Dil-Luminati Tour 2024 which will be taking place in 10 across the country.

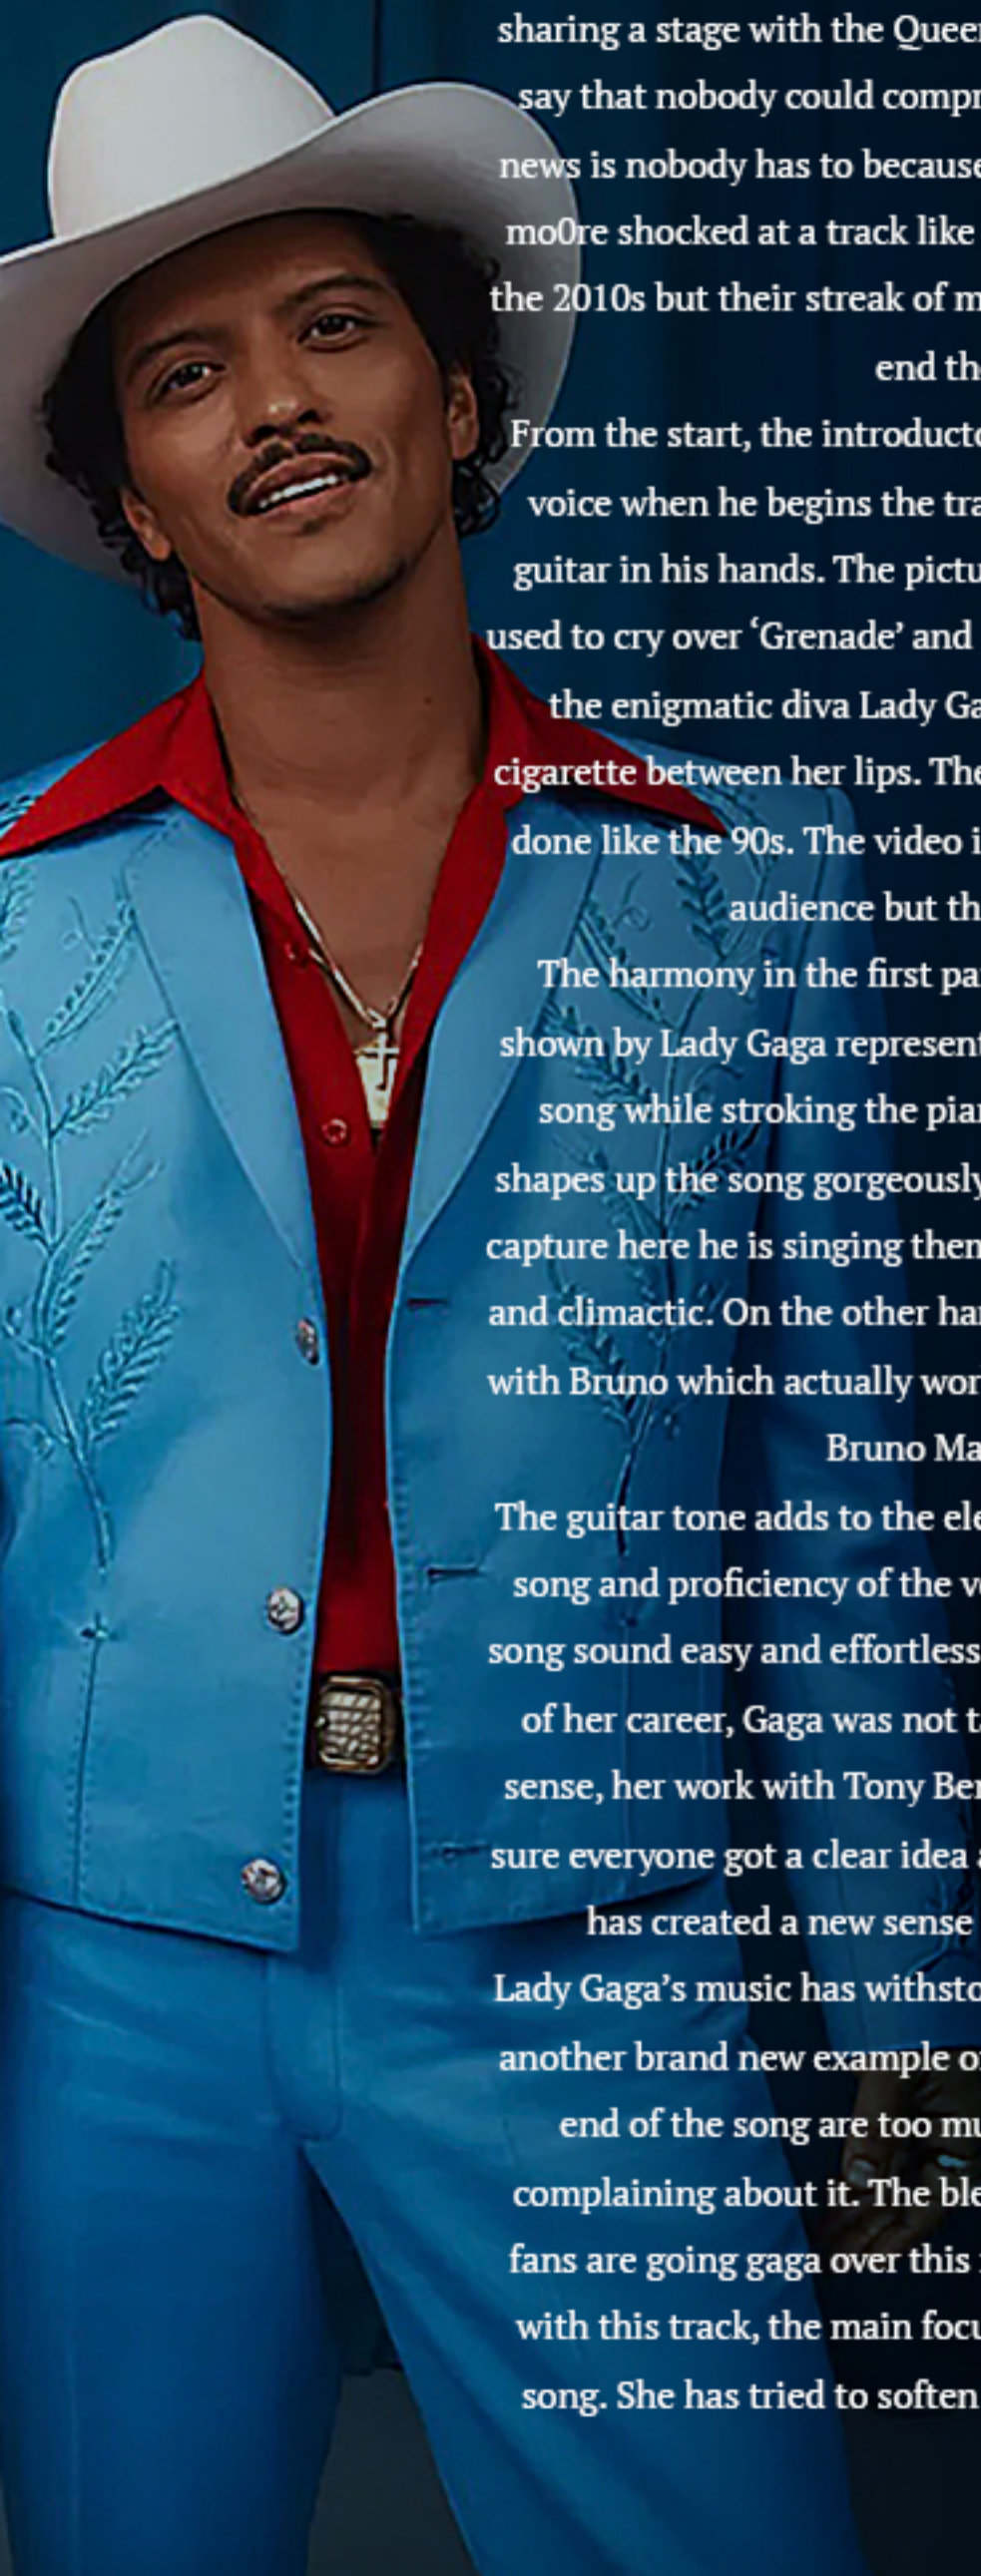

While most tickets are already sold out, this soundtrack from 'Jigra' is making fans wonder whether Diljit has other fresh tracks to offer in his life performances for which his fans have paid so much.

LADY GAGA, BRUNO MARS

FANS DYING OVER BRUNO MARS AND
LADY GAGA'S
'DIE WITH A SMILE'

THE UNEXPECTED DUO OF
LADY GAGA
AND BRUNO
MARS HAS CREATED
SOMETHING WITH THEIR ENIGMATIC
VOCALS.
'DIE WITH A SMILE'
IS TAKING US
EVERYONE BACK IN TIME.

Who could ever imagine that the king of vocals and pop music Bruno Mars would be sharing a stage with the Queen of piano and dramatic vocals Lady Gaga, Well, it is fair to say that nobody could comprehend what these two together can achieve and the good news is nobody has to because 'Die with a Smile' says it all and the world has never been more shocked at a track like this before. These two singers were loved insanely around the 2010s but their streak of making people fall in love with their voices does not seem to end there as they bring out the new song.

From the start, the introductory part of the song gives the audience of the young Mars' voice when he begins the track while looking directly at the camera with a very slick guitar in his hands. The picture brings back past memories to the teenagers when they used to cry over 'Grenade' and 'Just the Way You Are' then the light expands and falls over the enigmatic diva Lady Gaga who is seen playing a piano next to Bruno with a lit cigarette between her lips. The whole video gives a retro vibe, especially with Gaga's hair done like the 90s. The video is a reenactment of the old reality TV shows with in house audience but there the audience is a bunch of mannequins.

The harmony in the first part of the song is out of this world and the body language shown by Lady Gaga represents the entire life of the millennials, as she vibes on Bruno's song while stroking the piano keys casually. The vocalization before the breakdown shapes up the song gorgeously. Even though Bruno has a wide range of notes that he can capture here he is singing them in a more compact manner which makes it more dramatic and climactic. On the other hand, Gaga is heard to be lightning up her tone a bit to match with Bruno which actually works very well. She is also modifying her vowels a lot which is Bruno Mar's signature to make it sound similar.

The guitar tone adds to the element of nostalgia and goes really well with the vibe of the song and proficiency of the vocals of both Bruno Mars and Lady Gaga makes the whole song sound easy and effortless which is far from the real truth. Although at the beginning of her career, Gaga was not taken seriously due to her eccentric character and fashion sense, her work with Tony Bennett made the world see her in a different light and made sure everyone got a clear idea about how extremely talented she was. Her work with Tony has created a new sense of gravity in her character and nobody can deny this.

Lady Gaga's music has withstood the test of time every time and 'Die with a Smile' is just another brand new example of what she is truly capable of. The double high notes at the end of the song are too much to take for the audience but they do not seem to be complaining about it. The blend of these two vocals is something out of this world and fans are going gaga over this new track. Although Bruno Mars has done an amazing job with this track, the main focus is on Gaga mostly because of her unusual vocals in this song. She has tried to soften her heavy pitch to match with Bruno's and the blend is a perfect match.

Celebrate International Music Day With Harmony And Melody

The History of International Music Day The International Music Council (IMC) is a particular body of UNESCO that issued the celebration for International Music Day during the 15th General Assembly which took place in 1973.

They proposed a day to celebrate and honor the global music of diversified cultures. British Musician Yehudi Menuhin was the President of the International Music Council (IMC) back then and in 1974, it was decided that 1st October would be the date for the celebration.

After the suggestion, it was successfully celebrated on October 1, 1975, and that is how International Music Day was initiated.

Significance of International Music Day

“Where words fail, music speaks”. Music has a huge influence on everyone’s life. It is one of the greatest treasures of life that helps to survive. It is not a creative art form but a necessity in everyone’s life.

Music can help to invoke different emotions and it is also one of the greatest forms of self-expression. The International Music Day is celebrated to pay tribute to music which has become an integral part of everyone’s life. There are numerous styles and genres of music around the globe and on 1st October; every music lover celebrates this diversity among unity.

Ways of Celebrating International Music Day

Music Concerts in the Locality On International Music Day, everybody becomes a music artist themselves without even worrying about their expertise. Whether someone does music as a hobby or an emerging artist trying to showcase their talents; everybody can perform on the day to embrace their passion for music.

Music concerts in the locale are great to get a stage to yourself and perform your heart out. Usually, these concerts are small and take place in parks where people can join for free. Once it starts, it keeps on going with more music artists and listeners joining on the way. If you are a rising artist, you can also utilize this buzz to get some organic attention from potential listeners.

Music in All Forms

In this busy digital life, most people have forgotten what the sound of Nature feels like. It is not necessary to put on your headphones on International Music Day but you can also spend it in silence and appreciate different natural sounds like birds chirping, wind blowing through dry leaves, whistling sounds, sounds on a water body, and many others. Finding harmony and melody in nature is also a part of appreciating the music that surrounds us. Pay good attention to it and you will find a melody as well. It can also help to maintain good mental health.

Educate People through Workshops

Arranging musical workshops is also a fine way to connect with more music lovers. There are a lot of enthusiasts who might want to learn some musical instruments. With the help of free workshops, they can learn more about the pieces of equipment and how to use them effectively.

The workshop is a place to share knowledge, expertise, and tips with others. It can help to create a strong community of music lovers who are looking forward to learning more about diversified music culture.

International Music Day is a reminder that music is inevitable and it will always remain a significant part of human life.
