Doja Cat And Raye Reacts To Backlash Of James Bond Tribute At The Oscars

The Oscars dedicated a significant amount of time to honoring the James Bond franchise. Halle Berry, who starred in 2002's Die Another Day, spoke about how great it was to work with longtime James Bond producers Barbara Broccoli and Michael G. Wilson onstage at the Oscars, before introducing the tribute to the spy franchise. This tribute came just over a week after it was announced that Amazon would be taking over creative control of the James Bond franchise from the Broccoli family. Given the timing of this tribute, it felt like more of a funeral to the Broccoli era of the James Bond franchise, rather than a celebration of the many movies. Regardless, it was still great to see iconic clips from James Bond movies during the Academy Awards. In addition to the montage of the franchise, three of the best James Bond theme songs were performed at the Oscars. Therefore, a lot of attention was placed on the James Bond franchise during the 2025 Oscars. During the 2025 Academy Awards, Lisa, Doja Cat, and Raye performed some of the most iconic theme songs from the long-running James Bond franchise.

Firstly, Lisa performed 'Live and Let Die.' Lisa is a popular Thai rapper, singer, and actress who is currently starring in season 3 of The White Lotus. 'Live and Let Die' was originally performed by Paul McCartney for the 1973 James Bond movie of the same name. Doja Cat, who has become one of the most popular rappers and singers in the world over the past few years, performed 'Diamonds Are Forever.'

Doja Cat penned a long paragraph on Instagram about her night at the Oscars, saying, 'put a lot of work into [the performance], but the nerves got to me and a bitch hit some flats. I never get to sing like that and what I did was brave and scary as fuck for me,' she continued. 'I know a lot of people didn't like it, but a lot of people did, and I feel good that I pushed myself.'

Finally, British singer-songwriter Raye performed 'Skyfall.' Not only is 2012's Skyfall Daniel Craig's most popular 007 movie but its theme is often regarded as the best James Bond theme song. In a separate post, Raye said she 'was sooo nervous to sing this song because no one can sing Adele like Adele, but I tried my very best.' 'Skyfall' was originally performed by Adele, who has continuously been praised for her vocals ever since the song was released.

Music has always been an important part of the James Bond franchise, so it made sense that these performances were included during the ceremony. 'Live and Let Die,' 'Diamonds Are Forever,' and 'Skyfall' are three of the most iconic Bond theme songs. While the first two songs were from Bond films that came out in the 1970s, 'Skyfall' represented the newer era of James Bond films.

EXPLORE SOME INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT PIANO ON THIS PIANO DAY

Piano Day is one of the biggest celebrations of the music industry that takes place on the 88th day of the year that represents 88 keys of the instrument. This day is celebrated on the 29th of March and the 28th of March in the leap years. This ceremony was started in 2015 by the German pianist, Nils Frahm. The notion behind this celebration was the piano and all the things around it, which are piano builders, tuners, composers, performers, and most importantly, the listeners. There would be no harm in celebrating piano according to this pianist. Piano Day provides a platform for every kind of piano-related activity. Many concerts, educational programs, workshops, and recital takes place on this day. That is why, Piano Day is considered one of the biggest events of the music world. This particular ceremony has many interesting facts. Let's unveil them-

1. The piano was inspired by the harpsichord:

In the 18th century, the piano was first made. In the early 18th century, the renowned harpsichord maker, Bartolomeo Cristofori was tired of making harpsichord. The wide dynamics of harpsichord making were really difficult. That is why, Cristofori invented the piano to revolutionize the music industry.

It was one of the instruments that helped to control the volume of music and express music in a much better way. The various keys of the instrument made it much easier to express melody. In addition to that, music composition became quite effortless with piano. This way, the piano became one of the mainstream music instruments, which is still one of the most cherished instruments.

2. The piano is both a string and percussive instrument:

The piano is quite a versatile musical instrument that can be used in various ways. One of the greatest remarks of this instrument is that it can be used as both a string and percussive instrument. Inside of a piano, there are strings attached that help to produce music.

Along with that, a small hammer is also attached that hits every key and creates the rhythmic tune. As it is a diverse musical instrument, the tonal texture of the instrument is quite melodic. It is a string and percussive instrument and that makes it unique from all the other musical instruments.

3. The keys of the piano were made of real ivory:

A phrase is quite famous in the music industry that goes by 'tickling the ivories'. This phrase came from when the piano keys were made from real ivory. The material of the keys used to come from the tusks of an elephant. However, this practice was later dismissed due to the increasing concern regarding wildlife.

Due to the use of ivory, the business of elephant tusks was increased, which wasn't a good solution.

That is why, later the keys were started making with synthetic materials. It was a much more effective shift that helped to maintain the wildlife much better.

The piano is one of the greatest music instruments that has enriched the music industry. For that reason, celebrating the instrument is one of the things that can be surely done.

FKA Twigs Cancels Several Dates for Her Eusexua Tour, Citing Visa Troubles

FKA Twigs just announced that she will be canceling in three cities in North America. The English art-pop musician has announced the cancellation of her upcoming tour dates in Chicago, Toronto, and New York after her production team failed to get the necessary paperwork for her American visa. Tahliah Debrett Barnett, also known as FKA Twigs, shared this disappointing news via social media on Tuesday, March 25th. The music artist explained that while her previous shows from her current Eusexua Tour have been "absolutely incredible," she admitted that this experience "has been challenging with production and the more practical side of putting this tour together." One of those challenges is now hampering her tour as the news of her canceling the upcoming shows got out, just days before they were scheduled to take place.

The singer was scheduled to perform in Chicago on 26th-27th March, Toronto on 30th-31st March, and Queens, NY on 3rd-4th May.

"Today I was informed that production did not fill out the correct paperwork in a timely manner for us to have our visas to come to the USA and perform," Twigs explained. "So that means by no choice of my own I will have to pull out of my New York, Chicago, and Toronto shows."

"For those of you who are wondering why I have to pull out of Toronto because it's not part of the United States, it's because of routing and just the complex beast that touring is," the musician added. "I don't take this lightly. I'm completely devastated, to be honest with you. Completely heartbroken. All I want to do is be there with you and bring Eusexua to you."

She concluded by saying, "I have not performed in the USA since 2019 and it really feels like a home away from home, and this is just such a huge blow and I feel super let down and I'm looking into how and why this happened and I'm making sure I have the support to correct this. So with that being said, I will be rescheduling these shows and information will be coming on that very shortly.

"I can't wait to bring Eusexua to you, it's truly been one of the greatest achievements of my life."

'Eusexua' is the long-awaited third album from FKA Twigs and has been touring worldwide since its release on January 24. With this album, the artist also reached a new height in her musical career as her album peaked at No. 24 on the Billboard 200.

This was her first full-length album since 'Magdalene' in 2019. The tour already started off on a rocky path as the musician canceled the two opening shows in Prague and Berlin, citing "shipping issues." She is now scheduled to perform next in Mexico City on 6th April. According to the new schedule, FKA Twigs will resume her U.S. wing of her tour starting on 11th April, during both the weekends of the Coachella music festival.

Katy Perry in Space: Diverse All-Female Crew on Blue Origin

Blue Origin has decided to send an all-female crew to the N-31 mission this spring, and Katy Perry will be one of them. The award-winning singer is going to space with a diversified crew on the New Shepard rocket.

The mission is scheduled to take place this spring, and it will be led by Lauren Sánchez, who is also the partner of Blue Origin's billionaire founder Jeff Bezos. Lauren has done a great job in selecting this crew which includes scientists, journalists, and celebrities.

Blue Origin said in a statement, "Katy is honored to be a part of Blue Origin's first all-female crew and hopes her journey encourages her daughter and others to reach for the stars, literally and figuratively."

The crew will also include, film producer Kerianne Flynn, CBS co-host Gayle King, STEMBoard CEO and former rocket scientist at NASA, Aisha Bowe, and bioastronautics research scientist Amanda Nguyen.

They are all set to launch from a West Texas pad in a suborbital spaceflight. This will be the first-ever female-only crew ever since Valentina Tereshkova from the Soviet Union became the first woman in space in 1963.

Blue Origin's all-female NS-31 mission is announced right after two days of its successful flight of space tourist mission NS-30. It includes people like physicist entrepreneur Elaine Chia Hyde, Spanish TV host Jesús Calleja, reproductive endocrinologist Richard Scott, and hedge fund partner Tushar Shah.

While a journey to space sounds amazing, it is only a short trip that is meant for space exploration.

Blue Origin's New Shepard rocket is specially designed with reusable booster and crew capsule built which can take passengers up in suborbital space for very short trips.

The rocket flies at 62 miles (100 kilometers) above sea level which is considered to be the border of space, called the Kármán line.

Each of these space missions lasts somewhere around 11 minutes and passengers can feel up to 4 minutes of weightlessness along with the beautiful view of Earth from space through the large windows of the rocket.

The rocket's capsule is not built for orbiting Earth and it can only perform short trips to the Kármán line.

The best feature of this rocket is that no pilot is required to launch this beast as it flies autonomously.

New Shepard missions are currently quite popular among celebrities and many of them have utilized this golden opportunity to visit space.

Previously, former NFL player Michael Strahan and Star Trek actor William Shatner visited space on a Blue Origin mission.

While the caption initially seems to suggest that she is currently single, the band later posted an Instagram story, in which all three members can be seen dancing to M83's hit single 'Midnight City' with a voiceover saying: 'We are back baby, we are fucking back,' further suggesting that their comeback is on the cards.

No further details were shared until now. On 3rd March, have announced their comeback single 'Relationship' and they have also shared the track's artwork which might feature a nod to Nicole Kidman.

Last week a post on Instagram was uploaded by the trio which showed them dancing and singing an unreleased track in a bathroom. The lyrics went like, 'I hear a voice in my head and it keeps asking why am I in this relationship / Baby how can I explain when an innocent mistake turns into 17 days / Fucking relationships'. It was sung by Danielle over a breezy pop beat.

Recently, the Haim sisters have announced that 'Relationship' will be their next new single. The artwork of the single displays all the three women standing outside in the sun looking free and happy.

This single will be their first since their 2023 single 'Home' which featured on the Barbie soundtrack.

It saw them perform a massive London headline show at All Points East, which an established music magazine.

Mastodon Parts Ways With Founding Member, Brent Hinds

Mastodon and co-founding lead guitarist Brent Hinds are ‘mutually parting ways, the Atlanta metal band announced today on social media.

‘We’re deeply proud of and beyond grateful for the music and history we’ve shared and we wish him nothing but success and happiness in his future endeavors,’ Hinds’ now-former bandmates wrote.

‘We are still very inspired and excited to show up for fans in this next chapter of Mastodon. As we move forward, all 2025 touring plans will remain intact.’ Hinds co-founded Mastodon, in 2000, with bassist Troy Sanders, drummer Brann Dailor, and guitarist Bill Kelliher.

The group released its debut studio album, Remission, in 2002. Over the years, Mastodon and Hinds earned six Grammy nominations, and they won one Grammy Award: Best Metal Performance, in 2018, for Emperor of Sand’s ‘Sultan’s Curse.’ Mastodon released their final album with Hinds, Hushed and Grim, in 2021. Brent Hinds, lead guitarist and vocalist for the Grammy-awarded modern metal outfit Mastodon has mutually parted ways with the band.

‘Friends and Fans, after 25 monumental years together, Mastodon and Brent Hinds have mutually decided to part ways,’ Mastodon announced on social media.

‘We’re deeply proud of and beyond grateful for the music and history we’ve shared and we wish him nothing but success and happiness in his future endeavors. We are still very inspired and excited to show up for fans in this next chapter of Mastodon. As we move forward, all 2025 touring plans will remain intact. We look forward to seeing you on the road.’

Mastodon has become one of the defining metal bands of the last two decades, and Hinds has played a huge part in the band’s success and overall sound throughout the last 25 years.

Not only is Hinds a founding member of the band, but he shares vocal duties on several fan-favorite songs including ‘Once More Around The Sun,’ ‘Crack The Sky,’ and ‘The Wolf Is Loose’ among others. Given the band has several festival performances coming up, alongside an ambitious North American co-headlining tour with fellow progressive rockers CoheedAnd Cambria, Mastodon is likely looking for someone to fill Hinds’ big shoes at this very moment. All this news is even more shocking considering that Mastodon has been reportedly working on a new record for some time now.

There’s no word on how far along the album is or when it’s expected to release, however, with Hinds leaving during the writing process, it begs the question of whether or not he’s even featured on the upcoming record. Surely, more details will be revealed in the coming weeks as to what led to this decision and who the band has in mind to replace Hinds. With the long history, Mastodon’s founding members have shared together, Hinds’ exit will forever be a shocking moment in their legacy.

Many bands who’ve lasted over 25 years usually go through many lineup changes, but Mastodon has been one of a few modern metal outfits that has kept its original lineup for over two decades.

The authorities haven't said anything regarding the cancellation or postponement of the concert.

The artist used to consume this sedative, which became his addiction. Then it was found out that he has used it in 11 events, and that led him to become an addict.

It cannot be said what his health condition was at the time of death. However, the death of this artist is always going to be tough for his family, friends, and fans.

After the summer debut in June, the rapper performed the banger again at ComplexCon last November. The deluxe reissue is gaining more attention from the fans as the rapper has also released an official visualizer for “FOMDJ” on YouTube. Previously on March 14, Carti dropped the ‘Music’ album that offered listeners a sum of 30 tracks and each of them is a hip-hop masterpiece. The compelling music set easily took the No. 1 position on the Billboard 200 chart. The album also received much commercial success by selling 298,000 equivalent album units which makes it the biggest opening week for any rap album in history. When it comes to the biggest streaming week for an album project, Playboi Carti is right after Taylor Swift. Carti is also the first-ever rapper to have more than 30 hit projects on the Billboard Hot 100 in a single week. Only two other artists have achieved such success before.

All of the thirty tracks from the album performed extremely well on the Billboard top charts. Carti’s collaboration with The Weeknd seems to be liked more by the fans with “Evil Jordan” and “Rather Lie” reaching the No. 2 and No. 4 positions respectively on the Hot 100 charts. Evidently, Playboi Carti is having a great 2025 with a goal to bring more exclusive hip-hop projects.

Introducing Amrapali Shindhe, The Artist Who Brought Kannada Songs To The International Stage Of Lollapalooza

Bengaluru-based artist Amrapali Shindhe brought her origin to the international stage and made the Indians proud.

The Lollapalooza 2025 offered a power-packed performance by Shindhe and the music lovers went crazy. She carried a deep-rooted love for Kannada music and embraced history and culture through her performance.

Lollapalooza is a music festival that is dominated by English and Hindi music and Punjabi as well but this time Amrapali Shindhe brought Kannada music to this stage, offering a new taste to the audience.

She offered an unapologetic performance in this language and shared her experience of singing in various languages. She said, "I actually did two Kannada songs and one Hindi song. I mixed a lot of languages -- Kannada, English, Hindi, and even a bit of Spanish." And further added, "That was really fun because every artist at Lollapalooza is very defined; they either perform in English or Hindi, and there was no other language being represented."

Shindhe's performance was not about showing her musical versatility but about creating a statement that can influence audiences.

Considering Kannada as one of the top languages for Linguistic debates, the artist said, "I truly believe, despite what some in the industry say, that Kannada won't reach the level of international recognition that Hindi, English, Tamil, or Telugu have. I disagreed."

She further emphasized and said, "Why not? Why aren't more artists from Karnataka taking their language and bringing it to a global level? If every other language can do it, so can we."

Shindhe was one of the most sorted kids when it came to following her passion for music, as the first album she released was released at the age of 15.

She said, "It all began at a very young age, but I started professionally at 15." She was born in Delhi and raised in the UK but her true Kannada always stayed with her.

"At home, I speak Kannada, but I'm actually Maharashtrian. Since I come from the Karnataka-Maharashtra border, I've grown up with a mix of cultures."

Talking about her struggles, the artist said, "One definite challenge I faced while singing in Kannada was that, while I knew how to speak it fluently, I never learnt to read or write it."

However, Shindhe is currently gaining at full throttle on her musical journey and nothing can stop her now.

“It was surreal”: Lisa Mishra on Sharing Stage with Ed Sheeran

Lisa Mishra, the singer-songwriter celebrated for her soulful voice and viral music fusions, opened for British star Ed Sheeran during his India tour earlier this year. In an exclusive chat with India Today Digital, she described the experience as "surreal."

Additionally, Lisa took the stage at Lollapalooza India on Sunday, marking another major milestone in her career. "It was surreal. He (Ed Sheeran) has been such a massive influence, and to be part of his concert was beyond a dream. The energy of the crowd, his warmth; it was all so magical", Lisa said in the interview. She shared that performing on such a large stage deepened her passion for live shows and the powerful connection they create with audiences.

Alongside this achievement, Lisa performed at Lollapalooza India on March 9, a festival that has rapidly grown into a major platform for artists in the country. Before the show, she shared her excitement about the opportunity. "I think the goal is always to do more and go bigger than my last performance. Opening for Ed Sheeran was an incredible experience, but my set at Lollapalooza is entirely my own. I'm not opening for anyone, which makes the pressure even greater," the singer told India Today Digital.

She explained, "A lot of people might assume that performing before Ed Sheeran was the most high-pressure moment for me, but in reality, my own set at Lollapalooza comes with a lot more at stake. I have to prove myself as an artist in every way, ensuring the music sounds great, the visuals are stunning, the dancers are on point, the backing vocalists are tight, and the stage design is flawless. Everything has to be perfect because it's all under my control. Lollapalooza marks a major milestone in my musical journey, and the responsibility to make it unforgettable rests entirely on me and my hard work."

Lisa shared how deeply the festival resonated with her. "It's a huge step for the Indian music scene. To be on the same lineup as international artistes and see that kind of enthusiasm from Indian audiences it just reinforces the fact that our music has global appeal," she said. She highlighted the festival's collaborative vibe, sharing how it allowed her to connect with fellow artists and explore diverse sounds. "It's not just about performing; it's about learning, growing, and celebrating music together," the 'SajnaVe singer added.

Lisa Mishra further discussed how streaming platforms and global exposure are transforming musical tastes and fueling the rise of concert culture in India and beyond. She said, "I think globalisation and easy access to music from around the world are driving this change. We're sitting in India and listening to Bad Bunny, even though he's never collaborated with an Indian artist.

It all comes down to exposure. Earlier, we didn't have as much access, but now, streaming platforms have made it effortless to discover global music. You can simply check the global charts, listen to the top 50 trending songs, and end up becoming a fan of an artist you had never heard of before."

Known for her Bollywood mashups and hit 'Tarefan Reprise', Lisa has built a distinct place in the Indian music industry. Talking about her evolution as an artist, Lisa said, "When I first started out, I never imagined I'd be performing at such massive events or collaborating with some of the biggest names in music. It has been an incredible journey, filled with surprises and learning experiences. Every project I take on helps me grow in new ways."

Previously, the singer performed the song Last November on Saturday Night Live. Now, the artist has dropped a teaser of the track, which is creating a huge buzz among everyone. It can be said that her upcoming song will be released soon. All of her fans are eagerly waiting for the release.

The 'Good Luck Babe!' artist also said last month that there will be two variants of vinyl for this soundscape. One is 'The Lawyer edition', and the other one is 'The Plumber edition'.

The vinyl editions of the track are available for pre-order. As of now, it is coming to know that the shipment of the vinyl is expected to be in August. Therefore, her fans can order their vinyl right now.

Right now, the artist is generating a sensation among everyone by announcing the song release for the 13th of March.

She has said that the new track will have a country tune. To write the lyrics of this track, she has collaborated with Dan Nigro.

While talking about this soundtrack, she stated on Instagram, 'We've never done a country song and I have such a special place in my heart for country music. I grew up listening to it every morning and afternoon on my school bus and had it swirling around me at bon fires, grocery stores and karaoke bars'.

Many conversations are also happening regarding her sophomore album. Everyone is expecting it to be a country album.

For that reason, the artist said 'Many people have asked if this means I'm making a country album??? My answer is.. hmm, right now I'm just making songs that make me feel happy and fun and The Giver is my take on cuntryxoxo may the classic country divas lead their genre, I am just here to twirl and do a little gay yodel for yall'.

Dan Nigro, the producer of the track has previously said that with this song, audiences will get to listen to a 'fun, up-tempo country song'. She has always been quite fascinated with country music.

So, it was expected that Chappell would try out her hands on this genre.

Recently, at the Grammy Museum, she had a conversation with Brandi Carlile.

She has said, 'It will come out! It will come out; don't worry. But that was so fun to write. I got to bring what I knew to the table, 'cause I'm a country girl. So I got to be like, 'No, no, no, like, let me show you some country songs'.

Kanye West Offers 'Antisemitic Sound' In His Upcoming Album

Kanye West is about to come up with a new album that has an 'antisemitic sound'.

The upcoming album release is creating a buzz among his listeners. Kanye West is ready to come up with the new musical projects that are creating a sensation among his listeners.

He is taking the upcoming album to a whole new dimension. He has said that the album has an essence of antisemitism. While making the announcement on X, the artist said 'This next album got that antisemitic sound. My new sound called antisemitic'.

He also stated 'People used to tell me black rich vocal pick two or they'll kill you kiiiids sing kiiiids sing jokes on you I'm still alive' by referring to 'We Don't Care' from The College Dropout. For 2025, the artist had a release of the album, which is named as 'Bully'. However, he hasn't said if both these music creations are associated or not.

If these two are not related to each other, then it can be said that Kanye has two album release lineups for this year. And that is making his fans even more excited.

Previously, he has talked about his perception of antisemitic several times. He even made his statement clear by saying that wasn't a Nazi. A month earlier, Kanye did an interview with Justin LaBoy.

During the conversation, he even said that he has been diagnosed with autism spectrum disorder (ASD).

He even added, 'My wife took me because she said, 'Something about your personality doesn't feel like it's bipolar, I've seen bipolar before', And come to find out, it's really a case of autism that I have'.

A former employee of Kanye has also stated that Kanye wanted his 2018 album to be named after Hitler, which is quite weird.

They even said 'He would praise Hitler by saying how incredible it was that he was able to accumulate so much power and would talk about all the great things he and the Nazi Party achieved for the German people'.

Thus, it can be said that the upcoming album might have something unexpected for his listeners.

Kanye always had a love and hate relationship with Drake, and that comes out every now and then.

He also said 'I SAW A VIDEO OF DRAKE WALKING THROUGH HIS HOUSE AND SHOWING HE HAD A LIBRARY OF RYHME BOOKS MAN I WISH I COULD HAVE SEEN AND REMEMBERED THIS WHEN MY JEALOUSY OVERTOOK ME. I LOVE DRAKE IMA SAY THIS WHEN I DIE I NEED YOU TO SPEAK AT ME FUNERAL'.

LISA ROARS STRONGLY AND TEACHES HOW TO FUTW IN HER VIXI AURA

BLACKPINK's Lisa creates a sensation among her fans with a brand new music video for 'FUTW' which appears in her upcoming album 'Alter Ego'. Let's find out Vixi.

BLACKPINK's Lisa has made it clear that she is no longer only a K-pop artist but has become a renowned rapper in Hollywood with her latest banger 'FUTW' or 'FXCK THE WORLD UP'.

This song appears in her upcoming album 'Alter Ego' where she is offering different shades of her personality.

In this particular song, she has provided a powerful Vixi Solo Version where Vixi represents one of her psychotic alter egos.

Lisa has shown her immaculate rapping skills through this track which soars with an unapologetic lyrical approach.

The song has also released an official music video that perfectly depicts the killer and chaotic attitude of Vixi.

There is a fair share of usage of animation in the music video which looks quite funky with neon-graded colors.

Those who are familiar with 'Arcane's character Jinx, might find some familiarity with Vixi as she is not afraid to make an entrance after throwing a bomb.

'FUTW' offers fairly explicit lyricism and a raw approach which is quite new and different from Lisa's regular works and united performances in the band. With lines like "They want the old LISA, then listen to my old shi*", the rapper has made it clear that she has changed and this new unwavering aura cannot be stopped.

Vixi shows the powerful and unapologetic side of Lisa as a rapper. There are some lines like "Saying some shit that'll make 'em think it Thought provoking/ Only do things that are making history/ Try to make moves that'll make 'em miss me" It is evident that she is breaking the typical pattern of commercial success and doing whatever that helps to express her real-self.

'FUTW' is a passionate work by Lisa and she offered a wonderful performance for everyone.

While Lisa is able to sell her track, it is also true that such hip-hop creations have been already made in the industry.

The usage of sirens recalls hip-hop hits of the 2000s and the soundscape is energetic enough to keep the pace high.

Yet the trendy and overused rhythms make it sound like one of the recent hip-hop tracks but not 'the one'.

Lisa's charismatic personality and the cinematic representation in the music video appear quite engaging for the fans and set a benchmark for her rapping skills.

Now, all that remains is to see what new ingredients she can bring to the plate.

Doechii's 'Anxiety' went viral for its raw lyrics, and mental health theme. First recorded in 2020, it was finally released in 2024, becoming an instant hit.

Social media is buzzing over Doechii's song 'Anxiety'. Doechii, whose real name is Jaylah Ji'mya Hickmon, originally recorded the track in her bedroom. For years, it was only available on YouTube as part of her 'Coven Music Sessions' from 2020.

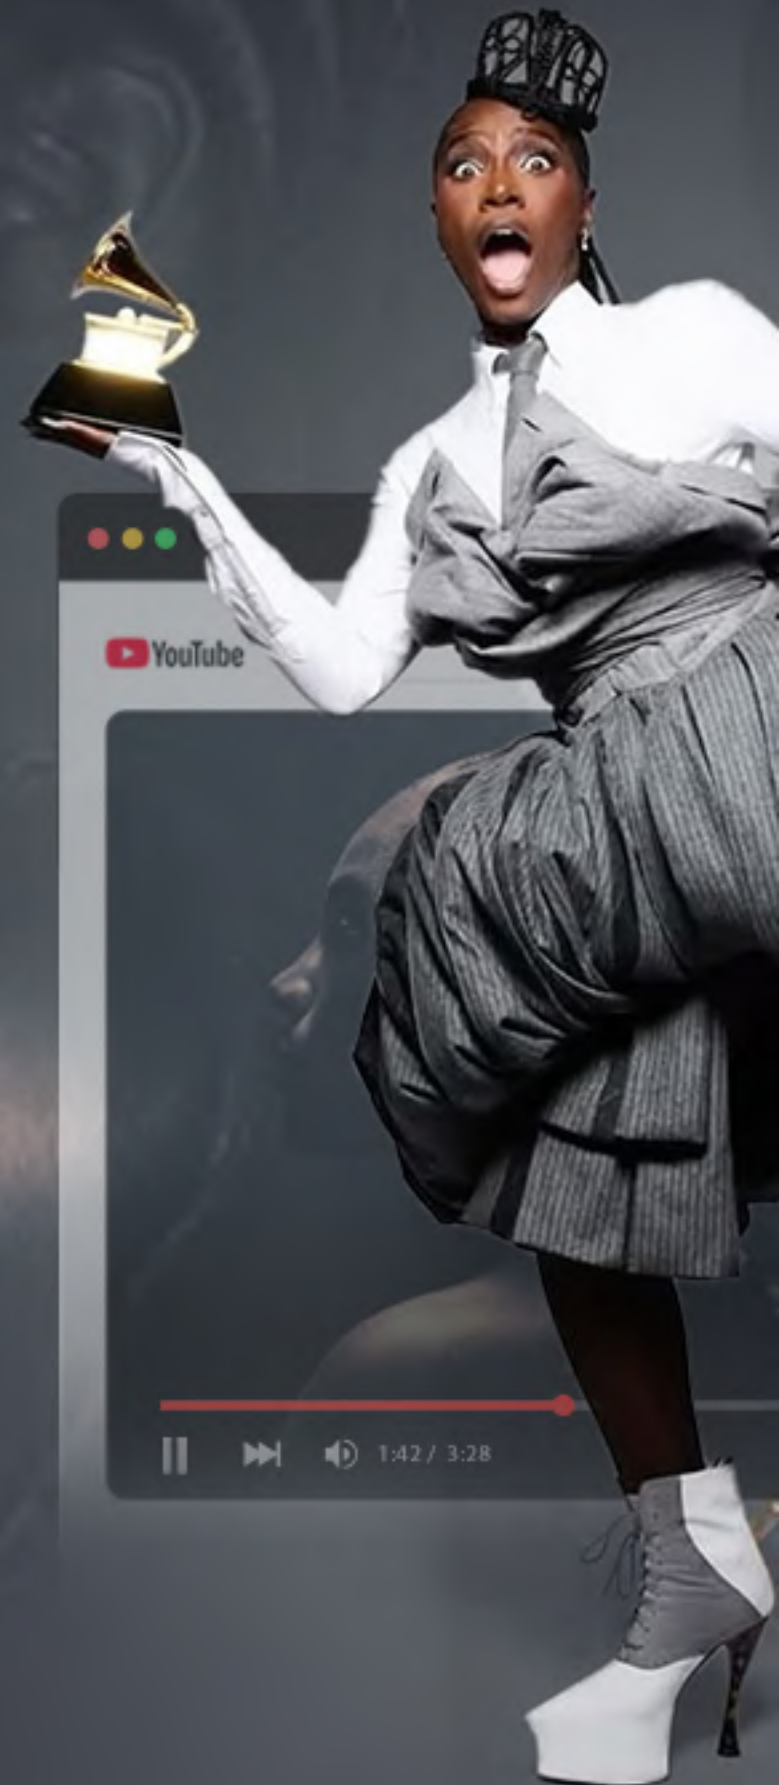

Doechii's song features a sample from Gotye and Kimbra's hit 'Somebody That I Used to Know'. While Gotye's song focuses on heartbreak, Doechii takes a different approach. She rapped on her battles with worry and persistent overthinking. Now that 'Anxiety' is gaining attention, fans can't get enough of its raw emotion and relatable lyrics.

Rapper Sleepy Hollow used the hook from Doechii's song "Anxiety" for his own rendition a few years after the song's debut. His song, 'Anxiety', peaked at No. 44 on Billboard's Hot R&B/Hip-Hop Songs chart after being released in 2023. Doechii has been the centre of attention lately. Earlier this year, she dominated the Grammy Awards, taking up Best Rap Album, Best Rap Performance, and Best New Artist for her album 'Alligator Bites Never Heal'.

Despite not being on her Grammy-winning album, 'Anxiety' has gone viral on TikTok. Reenacting a scene from The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air in which Will Smith approaches Ashley Banks from behind and imitates her dance motions has become popular among fans.

The trend perfectly matches the song's chorus: "Somebody's watchin' me / It's my anxiety, yeah."

On March 4, Doechii finally released the full version of her song, years after first recording it. She also shared the story behind 'Anxiety' in a TikTok on the same day, explaining its journey over the years. "OK, so just a quick rundown on 'Anxiety,'" the rapper said. "'Anxiety' is a song that Sleepy Hollow dropped, but, he sampled my song, and then I, years ago, did a remix of 'Somebody That I Used To Know.' I titled it, 'Anxiety,' and I wrote a completely different song, and now it's blowing up on TikTok, and everybody's requesting it and it's out now!"

What does the lyrics mean?

'Anxiety' gives a glimpse into Doechii's struggles with overthinking and mental health.

In the song, she describes anxiety as a heavy feeling in her chest, like "an elephant is standin' on me." The lyrics show an internal battle - sometimes, she lets anxiety take over, and other times, she fights back. Doechii sees anxiety as something trying to silence her, but she refuses to give in. She pushes back with lines like "Gotta shake it off of me" and "Can't let it caution me."

Still, the fight is not easy. The song ends in a cycle - trying to break free, struggling, and trying again. With her final lines, "Can't shake it off of me, shake, shake it off of me," she captures the restless, never-ending loop of anxiety.
