Michael Bublé's Decade-Old Album 'Christmas' Got Back to No. 1 Position On Billboard TopHoliday Album Chart

‘CHRISTMAS’

The music album, ‘Christmas’ by Michael Bublé, is getting back to the No. 1 position on Billboard’sTop Holiday Albums. It is an album that was released more than a decade ago, in 2011. And it is stillmaking a sensation among the listeners during the holiday season. At the time the album wasreleased, it remained at No. 1 on the list for a total of 61 weeks, which is quite impressive. So, thealbum resurfacing again on the internet is not a shocking case. This album is now completelyassociated with the occasion. It can be said that now Christmas is incomplete without these albumtracks.Previously, it was seen that when it comes to Christmas, the only songs that came to mind were theclassics. However, Bublé is an artist who delivered the modern holiday classic and made a deepimpact on all. It has that classic songs vibe yet has a modern touch. And that is what helps this albumto get back to the charts during Christmas every single year. From this, it can be understood thatlisteners are continuing to get back his songs to feel the warmth of his soundtracks in this festiveseason.

Halsey Fires Back at Heckler after Revealing She Nearly Lost Her Life during Medical Crisis

Halsey showed strength and attitude during her Boston show on Monday night, shutting down a rude audience member after revealing she'd just been through a medical emergency. The singer, who uses both she and they pronouns, told fans she had been rushed to the emergency room hours before stepping on stage for her second night at Boston's MGM Music Hall.

While speaking to the crowd, one man decided to interrupt her by yelling, "Stop talking and play." That did not go over well. Halsey did not hesitate to clap back. According to Rolling Stone, she shot back, "You think you're tough st because you're from Boston? I'm from Jersey, baby. I'll whoop your a*s." The crowd erupted as she continued, "My dad's from Boston, my mom's from Jersey – that basically makes me a fking demon. I'm gonna play whatever the fk I wanna play."

But she did not stop there. Halsey went on to remind everyone in the room what it took for her to even be there that night. "In case you didn't hear me correctly, I almost fking died to be on this stage. I'm going to play whatever the fk I wanna play." After the show, she stood by her words. Taking to X, she posted, "I've been polite but won't be caught dead letting a man tell me what I should play in my set. There's always one." Her fans quickly backed her up online, praising her for standing her ground and performing through pain.

Many called the incident proof of her dedication and toughness, especially given what she has been dealing with in her personal life.

Before the concert on Monday, Halsey had told fans through Instagram Stories that she would spend the night in the hospital after her first Boston show. She revealed she was discharged around 6 a.m. and had barely any rest before getting ready to perform on stage again.

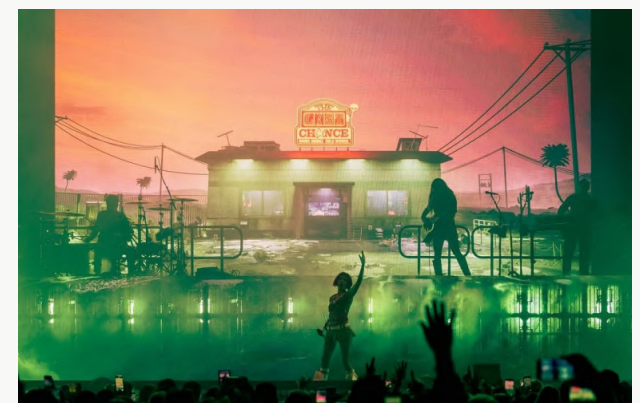

The 31-year-old artist has been open about her ongoing health battles. In 2022, the 'Without Me' singer revealed that she was diagnosed with Lupus SLE and a rare T-cell lymphoproliferative disorder, which required chemotherapy treatment.

Though she did not share details about her latest hospital visit with her fans, her willingness to go on stage so soon after the ER visit shows her passion and love for performing.

After getting out of the hospital, Halsey reassured her fans that she was okay, writing that she was "A-Okay" and "ready to rock" her second Boston show.

Despite facing health struggles and disrespect from a heckler, the 'Colors' singer turned the moment into something powerful.

Her words made it clear that she is not here to take orders, especially from someone trying to talk over her art. Monday night's show proved again that the musician's fire runs deeper than fame!

The Fallen Stars of 2025: Gone Music Legends but Not Forgotten

2025 seemed like a rough year for the music industry, as a lot of music legends passed away this year. With their evergreen contributions, these legends will never be forgotten as they will continue to live through their music. This year starts with a heavy grief with the death of Argentine artist and composer Leo Dan and Wayne Osmond from the Osmond Brothers.

Both of them died on 1st January, and the New Year felt less bright than it should have been. It was followed by the death of soul singer Brenton Wood, who is best known for “The Oogum Boogum Song,” which was released in 1967. The list of losses continued with Peter Yarrow and Sam Moore, as well as Buck White from The Whites. The death of metal icon Ozzy Osborne can be considered as one of the biggest losses in 2025, who died after a few weeks of his final Black Sabbath concert.

A lot of great musicians bid their goodbyes this year, and it is quite heartbreaking for music lovers, especially the millennials and people before who grew up listening to their tracks, and now, their favorite artists are no more. Let’s remember these legends who made life feel a little better with their music.

Sam Rivers (Sept. 2, 1977 – Oct. 18, 2025)

Those of you who do not know about Sam Rivers, think about the amazing basslines in Limp Bizkit songs. He was the bassist and the backing vocalist of the nu metal band, and it goes without saying that the songs became popular due to his amazing hold of bass and distortion.

Rivers did a great job with the band and helped to reach the peak of success until the band went on hiatus. However, he reunited with the band in 2009, and then they dropped two new albums, namely, Gold Cobra (2011) and Still Sucks (2021). His last live performance was at Leeds Festival, which took place on August 24, 2025. Unfortunately, the bass legend died at the age of only 48 on October 18 this year.

Ace Frehley (April 27, 1951 – Oct. 16, 2025)

The iconic rock band KISS would not have its bizarre and high-octane performances without the powerful presence and skills of Ace. He was the original lead guitarist, occasional vocalist, and a founding member of the band who made a statement in the rock industry. He created the persona of the Spaceman, better known as Space Ace, who thrilled the hearts of rock lovers. He was best known for atmospheric, aggressive, yet melodic creations through his guitar and ‘special effects’. He was inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 2014.

D’Angelo (Feb. 11, 1974 – Oct. 14, 2025)

Michael Eugene Archer, better known as D’Angelo, is a multifaceted artist with his dynamic skills of singing, songwriting, playing multiple instruments, and whatnot. He is considered to be the pioneer of the neo-soul music movement as one of the greatest R&B artists of all time. His debut album project ‘Brown Sugar (1995)’ was enough to showcase his amazing skills that helped him become a role model for other rising artists. Even though he was musically successful, the artist was facing a fair share of depression, addiction, and a dark phase. He died from pancreatic cancer on October 14, 2025, at the age of 51 years.

Ozzy Osbourne (Dec. 3, 1948 – July 22, 2025)

The "Prince of Darkness", Ozzy Osbourne, is best known as the pioneer of heavy metal music. The lead singer and founding member of Black Sabbath, who rose to the heights of success in the 1970s. He helped the band gain global popularity by dropping a total of eight albums during his span in the band, such as Paranoid, Master of Reality, Black Sabbath, and many others. He also embarked on his solo career in the 1980s and released many other projects, but the industry shunned him due to his heavy drug abuse and lyrical approach, which appeared too satanic to many. Unfortunately, he passed away on 22 July 2025.

Fede Dorcaz (28 January 1996 – 9 October 2025)

Dorcaz is one of the most popular Argentine models and singers who was a model in Spain first and then moved to Argentina as a singer. His musical creations like 'Cara Bonita', 'Volver A Empezar', etc, gained much attention among the global fans. The man rose to fame as a contestant on Las Estrellas Bailan En Hoy, a Mexican TV talent show. However, he was shot and murdered in Mexico City, and the man died at the tender age of 29 years.

Brett James (June 5, 1968 – Sept. 18, 2025)

Brett James is an American country music artist who is versatile with his skills of singing, songwriting, and record producing. He started his musical career in 1995 with a self-titled debut album and easily made his place at the top of the Billboard Hot Country Songs charts. Throughout his musical career, James offered many captivating country creations that won the hearts of listeners. However, he also put his fans in terrible sadness when he was killed in a terrible airplane crash along with his second wife and daughter. It was a tragic day for everyone in the industry.

Richard Davies (22 July 1944 – 6 September 2025)

Richard is one of the pioneering music artists in the music industry who set an example in the English music scene. He was a talented vocalist and keyboardist as well as the founding member of the band Supertramp. He has co-written many smash hits like "My Kind of Lady", "Cannonball", "Bloody Well Right", "Goodbye Stranger", and many others. The man was praised for his genre-bending styles that offered a new creative wave in the music industry. Unfortunately, Rick died with multiple myeloma on 6 September 2025, at the age of 81.

David Kaff (17 April 1946 – 11 July 2025)

British musician and actor David Kaff was a member of the band Rare Bird that rose to fame back in the 1970s. He was also known as Viv Savage, who helped to take his progressive rock group to newer heights of success. Viv Savage was a character from the movie or mockumentary 'This Is Spinal Tap', where audiences can find a finer taste of Rare Bird. Other than his band, Kaff made numerous appearances in different music shows for the love of the fans. She died at the age of 79 years on 11 July 2025.

Other than the aforementioned stars, there are many other gems lost by the industry, namely, Young Noble, Connie Francis, Alan Bergman, Malcolm-Jamal Warner, Chuck Mangione, Cleo Laine, etc, to name some. Every year, the industry loses a lot of role models and artists, and it is the duty of listeners to keep them alive through their songs.

Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade: The Best, the Worst, the In- betweens

Thanksgiving feels real for many once the big parade rolls through New York City. Giant balloons drift between tall buildings as bands play and cast members from hit shows bring a bright rush of energy. This year marks the 99th run. It airs live on NBC and also streams on Peacock starting at eight thirty in all zones. An encore airs at two for anyone who wants to watch the magic again. Thanksgiving feels real for many once the big parade rolls through New York City. Giant balloons drift between tall buildings as bands play and cast members from hit shows bring a bright rush of energy. This year marks the ninety-ninth anniversary run of Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade. It airs live on NBC and also streams on Peacock starting at 8.30 in all zones. An encore airs at two for anyone who wants to watch the magic again!

Now that you have got the watching situations sorted, here is the best, the worst, and everything in between that happened at the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade.

Santa Claus brings big holiday energy to the route

Santa's ride into Herald Square always feels like the real start of Christmas. He arrives with Mrs Claus and a sleigh packed with gifts. They close the parade and set the mood for the season. Their helpers move with them and bring a warm rush of joy to everyone watching. Once Santa reaches the end of the route, he slips back to the North Pole. He still has work to do before the big night arrives.

HUNTR/X brightens up the parade

The cheers for HUNTR X on TV felt strong, but the sound in person was on a whole other level. EJAE, Audrey Nuna, and REI AMI took the stage with their single Golden and brought a bright rush of energy to the front of Macy's. They voiced Rumi, Mira, and Zoey in the animated hit and carried that same pulse into the parade. Their street uniform looks and sharp style made the whole moment feel alive.

The Radio City Rockettes kicked off their hundredth anniversary

The Radio City Rockettes hit a huge moment at the 2025 Thanksgiving Parade. They have joined the parade since 1957, and this year marked one hundred years of their craft. They moved through the route with clean high kicks and a routine that felt polished and bright. The group began in St Louis in 1925 and grew into a steady part of American entertainment. They have performed at many major events, and they draw huge crowds each season at their Christmas show in New York City.

Their work still carries a kind of joy that feels strong and timeless. The Rockettes stay known for their sharp high kicks and a dance style that blends jazz and tap, and ballet into one clean line. Russell Markert shaped that style long ago, and it still stands as a sign of unity and strength. Their hundred-year run feels big, and this season brings new moments to match it. The Christmas Spectacular now uses a sound system built with tech inspired by the Sphere in Las Vegas. It gives the show a deep and full feel. The group also shared a four-part video series that looks back at their long path. A funny moment in the parade came when a girl told Al Roker she had already seen the show after he gave her a ticket. The Christmas Spectacular runs through early January.

Mariska Hargitay and Christopher Meloni enlightens the parade

People at Herald Square got a fun surprise when two stars from a well known crime show appeared in a Starbucks ad during the parade. They joked about bringing drinks to the crowd and then made it happen. Hot cups showed up outside like a small holiday trick, and then the pair stepped out too. Many at home wished those warm drinks could reach their living rooms as well.

KPop Demon Hunters' Derpy Tiger makes an appearance

The parade opened a fresh world when Derpy Tiger from a popular animated hit made his first balloon appearance. His bright blue coat, glowing eyes and wide grin stood out as he moved through New York City. The balloon reached twenty one feet in height and stretched far above the crowd. Derpy Tiger comes from Korean folk art where the tiger appears in playful paintings made to bring good luck. The balloon carried that same spirit, it mixed myth and music with a bold look that felt new and full of color. It also gave the holiday skyline a hero who felt lively and fun.

HUNTR/X performs 'Golden' live

The parade lit up with a big K pop moment when EJAE, Audrey Nuna and Rei Ami brought HUNTR X to Herald Square with a live performance of Golden. They voice Rumi, Mira and Zoey in the animated hit and stepped into the parade with the same pulse and color from the film. Their street uniform look matched the vibe as dancers filled the space around them. The choreography hit clean and sharp and the crowd felt every move. The mix of hooks, Korean and English lines and strong harmonies turned the whole set into a bright scene that carried through the street and into homes. For fans, it felt like the group walked straight out of the movie. The film is streaming on Netflix.

Cynthia Erivo shows love to Queen Latifah

Right after opening the parade, Cynthia Erivo spotted Queen Latifah in the stands and sent her a warm hug from a distance. Queen Latifah lit up and sent one right back. It was a sweet moment between two strong performers. Erivo had just started the event with a smooth take on 'Feeling Good' by Nina Simone. She sang with only a piano behind her and still held the crowd, and this came only days after she had lost her voice.

PAC-MAN celebrates 45th anniversary

The parade brought a hit of old school joy when PAC MAN floated through Manhattan for the first time. The bright yellow icon has been eating dots and fruits since 1980 and now he took that hunger to the sky above New York City. The balloon kept his classic look with the big open mouth and red cherries in hand. He stood more than thirty seven feet tall and stretched wide across the street, which was a fun and bold sight.

Stranger Things brings its signature upside-down world

Just hours after the new season Stranger Things dropped its first part on Netflix, the Upside Down arrived at the Thanksgiving Parade with its first float. Matt and Ross Duffer helped shape the design, and their vision shows. Brendan Kennedy said, "The Duffer Brothers have been on it the whole time," and added, "What we're doing here is creating a world. This is fully experiential." The float brought fans straight back into Hawkins National Laboratory. Smoke and lights set the scene as a huge Demogorgon puppet rose above the crowd. Kennedy called it "the laboratory come to life," and that feels true. Even better, the float didn't crash any streaming apps the way the new season did. Foreigner joined the moment, performing Cold as Ice while the Demogorgon lurked behind them. The new season is streaming now, with the next part arriving on Christmas Day and the finale on New Year's Eve.

Mario makes a super debut

Mario made a loud entrance at the parade as he took to the sky for the first time. The moment marked forty years of Super Mario Bros., and the balloon felt like a real tribute to that history. Macy's artists teamed up with Nintendo of America to shape the design, giving Mario his blue overalls, red cap and a flying pose inspired by Super Mario Galaxy. The balloon stretched more than fifty-one feet and stood taller than many buildings along the route. Fans were reminded of how far the series has come since 1985 as Mario and his friends continue to shape new games and worlds. The new movie arrives in April 2026.

Gomez, Carpenter, and Garfield have been honored by the Anthem Awards

The 5th annual Anthem Awards took place recently, and Selena Gomez, Sabrina Carpenter, and Andrew Garfield were honored with the award. Presented by the Webby Awards, this recognition is a prestigious achievement.

It is known that the award is given to individuals who make a social impact and have the will to change the world for good. Thus, as these three have gotten the recognition, it has made all their fans immensely happy.

Sabrina Carpenter has gotten the award for her work with PLUS1, Selena for Rare Beauty, and Andrew for Sesame Workshop. It has created a huge sensation among everyone. Other than them, there are many others who have achieved that recognition on that night.

Lilly Singh has gotten the award for Unicorn Island Fund, Katie Couric for Colorectal Cancer Alliance, and Lauren & Seth Rogen and AARP. In addition to this, Ad Council, GLAAD, Google, World Central Kitchen, Headspace, Lush

Cosmetics, World Central Kitchen, Human Rights Watch, The Mel Robbins Podcast, Lush Cosmetics, Make-A-Wish America, MTV Entertainment Studios, 'Lilly' starring Patricia Clarkson, PBS, ACLU, eBay, Spotify, and Liquid I.V. have also received the award.

It has been seen that the Anthem honors those individuals or organizations who have made a deep impact on society that will last long.

In 2025, the honorees are the advocate of Paris Hilton, impact creator of the year Brooke Eby, athlete of the year Frances Tiafoe, philanthropists of the year Tim Gill and Scott Miller, and the vision award to Vincent Stanley.

The general manager of Anthem Awards, Patricia McLoughlin, said 'While we continue to navigate social and political challenges and disruptions, the winners of the 5th annual Anthem Awards are a reminder that when we are united in collective action, great change can happen and truly make an impact for the better'.

This year, the winners of the Anthem Award have been selected by the leaders of the International Academy of Digital Arts & Sciences. All the honorees were chosen from 2000 submissions from 42 different countries.

This award is a great recognition for doing better work for society. So, all those who have received an award it is like reaching a new milestone in their career. As the list of award winners was disclosed, it became a huge buzz on the internet.

Vince Gill Received the Willie Nelson Lifetime Achievement Award at the CMA 2025

Vince Gill was recently honored with the Willie Nelson Lifetime Achievement Award, which is one of the most notable awards in the industry.

The award was given to him at the CMA 2025, which took place at the Bridgestone Arena in Nashville. Gill received the honor on Wednesday, November 19, and it is truly a moment of celebration for him and his family.

There was also a tribute performance of Gill's hit single "When I Call Your Name," which was performed by Patty Loveless and Brandi Carlile. While accepting the biggest honor of the night, Gill did not forget to mention each of his children's names, and then, he ended his speech of gratitude by mentioning his wife, Amy Grant.

He called her the "kindest soul" of his own life. Vince Gill has won the Grammy Awards a total of 22 times, and he is best known for his musical creations that tantalized listeners. This man has married twice, and his first wife was Janis Oliver, whom he divorced long ago. He shares one daughter with Janis, who is known as Jennifer "Jenny" Jerene Gill.

In 2000, he got tied with Amy Grant and started a happy married life again. Amy Grant, on the other hand, was previously married to musician Gary Chapman, and she shares a total of three children with Gary, namely Sarah Cannon Besenius, Matthew Garrison Chapman, and Gloria Mills "Millie" Long. She got married to Gary in 1982, and their divorce took place in 1999.

As a result, both of them left their former partners and started a new life with each other, which marks a fresh beginning. Their daughter Corrina Grant Gill was born in 2001, within one year of their married life.

When it comes to the children, Jennifer, aka Jenny, is currently 43 years old, and she is a talented country singer herself. She dropped her debut EP 'The House Sessions' back in 2017. Matthew Garrison Chapman decided to pursue his dreams of business, and now, he is the president and chief technology officer of LabCanna.

Gloria Mills "Millie" Long is the most lovable kid in the house, and that kid is 38 years old. The third child of the house is Sarah Cannon Besenius, who is currently 33 years old.

The youngest Corrina Grant Gill is currently 24 years old, and she has already dropped her debut EP project, titled 'Here For Holding'. It seems like the Gills are doing really great!

GRAMMY WINNER JON BATISTE MAKES HIS DEBUT IN INDIA WITH A SPECTACULAR PERFORMANCE

Jon Batiste is perhaps the most talented pianist in the modern era, and he is also a great vocalist. This talented person came to India for the first time and captivated all the Indian music lovers with his musical magic.

This first performance by the artist offered a sensational experience to the music lovers in India. The show was promoted and produced by BookMyShow Live, and this solo performance turned into a huge collective effort since the audience also joined him during his performance.

The singer-musician appeared on the stage with an appealing glow, and then he took a seat at the piano to showcase his magical fingers. The event took place at Delhi's Bharat Mandapam, and a huge pool of people were there to enjoy his creative presence.

The production partner of the event, BookMyShow's Naman Pugalia, shared, "Bringing Jon Batiste to India is a special moment, not just for fans but for the evolution of India's live music culture."

He further added, "His artistry transcends genre, geography, and form, and watching him build an emotional, almost spiritual connection with audiences in the country reaffirms why we are committed to bringing global icons to Indian stages."

Pugalia also said, "Batiste's debut underscored a simple truth:

India is increasingly open to diverse, world-class talent, marking another encouraging step in the country's growing presence within the global live music landscape."

Jon started his performance with creative piano compositions, and the crowd welcomed him with applause. He made sure to perform his highly popular Grammy-nominated track 'Lonely Avenue,' and the audience was expecting it a lot.

While performing the song, the artist took a brief pause just before the chorus part and scanned the room to understand whether the audience would interact, and then he said, "Become my choir."

The crowd joined him as soon as he asked them, and they followed the cues offered by Jon. What was initially his solo performance soon became an active and collaborative project with the audience.

It was quite a magical experience when hundreds of soaring voices joined the choir, and Jon was quite astonished himself, as he never thought the Indian audiences would be this active and supportive.

Jon said, "This is one of the beautiful things that we are doing together here today, and it is a powerful thing to celebrate the music of those who have come before us," and he performed a new, creative rendition of Duke Ellington's Caravan.

There was also an ample amount of jazz and Blue Monk to tantalize the hearts of the listeners.

Dua Lipa is bringing Cool with Her Spot at the NBC 2026 Milan Cortina Olympic Winter Games

Dua Lipa, the global sensation, is headlining the new promotion campaign of the Milan Cortina 2026 Winter Olympics. The artist is ready to bring her signature cool to the winter games, which is making everyone immensely excited. The campaign is solely created to boost the excitement for the 2026 global event.

It has been seen that the spot premiered at the time of NBC and Peacock's Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade. And that time, they focused on the Team USA Olympians Lindsey Vonn (alpine skiing), Mikaela Shiffrin (alpine skiing), Alysa Liu (figure skating), and Chloe Kim (snowboarding).

A new trailer has been shared recently that features Dua Lipa. It came to see that Dua is strolling through the Milan Galleria Vittorio Emanuele II. She has been seen in a sleek black ensemble and admiring the elegant architecture of the city. Right after that, the trailer transforms into a snowy land, referring to Milan.

Milan is one of the stunning and stylish cities. And during winter, it is going to be even cooler and gorgeous. Thus, the whole Winter Olympics will become even exciting for everyone.

In the promo video, Dua Lipa's hit song 'Training Season' has been featured. The energetic celebration has shown the legendary champions of Team USA. The promo video says 'Lindsey Vonn – fearless, Alysa Liu – graceful. Mikaela Shiffrin – historic. And Chloe Kim – levitating... They'll put on quite a show. The Winter Olympics, it's going to be so cool'.

Joseph Lee, the SVP, Creative Marketing, Sports and Entertainment, has stated 'As a global music and fashion icon, Dua Lipa perfectly embodies Milan's spirit -- cool, confident, and world-class. This piece captures both Milan's magic and the power of many of the women athletes who will define the 2026

Winter Olympics'. There has always been much anticipation for the Winter Olympics. However, as Dua Lipa is headlining this year, the event has become even more exciting for everyone.

NBC Sports has also expressed its pleasure with the collaboration with Dua Lipa. They have said that the singer truly embodies the confident and cool spirit of Milan. That is why the promo has done more wonders than everyone expected.

The campaign is creating a huge sensation and making the promotion even more fruitful. It can be said that the campaign is boosting more engagement among the audience.

According to the statement of NBC Sports, it can be understood that the Olympics are scheduled to start on the 6th of February 2026.

In addition to that, it will be broadcast live on Peacock and NBC. This particular announcement has now coincided with various other Olympic promotions at the Thanksgiving Day Parade.

The Latest Seasons of 'Stranger Things' Soundtrack List has been Announced

The Netflix series, 'Stranger Things' is coming to an end. The first part of the fifth season has premiered on Netflix. The final season of the series is going to come up in three volumes. Amidst all this, they have announced the soundtrack for this season.

As the announcement of the soundtrack has taken place, it has created a massive sensation among the audience. Recently, Legacy came up with the first part of Stranger Things: Soundtrack From the Netflix Series, Season 5.

BILLIE EILISH BRINGS HIT ME HARD AND SOFT: THE TOUR TO THE BIG SCREEN

Billie Eilish shared big news on Instagram on the final night of her Hit Me Hard and Soft tour in San Francisco. She is releasing a 3D concert documentary based on her tour. It will arrive in theaters on 20th March, 2026.

The film is coming through Paramount Pictures. It is also a joint effort with Darkroom Records, Interscope Films, and Lightsroom Entertainment. Billie is not only starring in the film as the main artist, but she is also co-directing the project with legendary filmmaker James Cameron.

This makes this release feel even more intimate and raw. The film will the tour on screen where fans will get to see the ‘Bad Guy’ artist live performing in a new way. The concert experience will feel closer and more real, where viewers will definitely feel the energy along with the world Eilish has built on stage.

The film aims to bring her live version into theaters. ”This is one of my favorite tours everrrrr and being able to capture it and co-direct this film with [James Cameron] has truly been a dream come true,” Billie wrote on her caption. “Can’t wait for you all to see it.”

Back in July, Billie Eilish teased her fans during a stop in Manchester. She shared that she was working on something very special; however, it would take some time and patience. She said it was a project that asked her to repeat the same outfit on stage for many shows.

She mentioned that she was building it with filmmaker James Cameron, known for his celebrated Titanic and Avatar movies, and the crowd went absolutely wild.

The moment felt like a super secret she was finally ready to let slip. It hinted at something big, something that is built with proper care and artistry. Now it is clear that she meant this new concert film.

“Basically, I can’t say much about it, but what I can say is that I’m working on something very, very special with somebody named James Cameron and it’s going to be in 3D. So, take that as you will and these four shows here in Manchester, you and me are part of a thing that I am making with him. He’s in this audience somewhere, just saying. So don’t mind that, and also I’ll probably be wearing this exact outfit for like four days in a row,” Billie told the crowd in Manchester that night.

About a year ago, James Cameron’s company Lightstorm shared that it was teaming up with Meta to create more 3D content featuring major artists and live events for Meta Quest headsets. It felt like a push toward a new way to experience concerts and films.

Billie Eilish already has a history in this space. She released the 2021 documentary Billie Eilish: The World’s a Little Blurry and later the concert film Happier Than Ever: A Love Letter to Los Angeles.

Ultra Music Festival 2026 Offers Exciting Lineup for Phase 2

Ultra Music Festival 2026 is gearing up for its phase 2 with a bunch of new acts and back-to-back battles among some of the best DJs from the global music industry. Ultra Music Festival is offering an ultra lineup for its phase 2, and 70 new acts have been added to the 2025 edition of the show.

The lineup has been announced. The headlining slot includes Alesso and Martin Garrix. Just like their b2b, it will also provide the first-ever headliner performance by Ray Volpe b2b Sullivan King, as well as Argy b2b Mind Against. DJ Snake will also be making his US Debut with the alias of Outlaw, where he will do b2b with Joris Voorn, TYRM, and Kololova. This will be his first performance in the States.

Those who are not aware of B2B performances, it means Back-to-back, where two or more DJs play side by side like a trade-off. These sets are pretty amazing and something that electronic lovers look forward to in live concerts.

The show will also host stage takeovers by Ibiza club Amnesia, as well as Armin van Buuren's A State of Trance, Martinez Brothers' Cuttin' Headz, along with Coone's Dirty Workz, Steve Aoki's 30 years of Dim Mak, Sara Landry's Hekate, and last but not least, Germany's Live From Earth collective. These latest additions are creating a huge buzz among the attendees as they expand the previous lineup for phase 1, which was already quite dynamic.

The previous lineup included Amelie Lens b2b Sara Landry, Armin van Buuren, Afrojack, Hardwell, Illenium, John Summit, Major Lazer, Sebastian Ingrosso b2b Steve Angello, Excision, Boys Noize, Miss Monique, OF the Trees, ISOxo, Madeon, and the list goes on.

Ultra Music Festival 2026 is taking place from March 27 to March 29, and the venue is its longtime home at Bayfront Park in Miami. It is also an integral part of the Miami Music Week, which is a week-long celebration of music through parties and multiple events that embrace the diversity in music.

Winter Music Conference is also returning to the glorious week, and it is going to draw more eccentric music artists from the industry.

The conference for 2026 is all set to take place at the Kimpton EPIC Hotel in Downtown Miami from March 24 to March 26.

It is going to be the 36th winter conference, and its main focus will be the dance and EDM industry with industry professionals, DJs, and music producers.

The tickets for Ultra Music Festival 2026 are already live for the fans to collect, and there are two different options for General Admission and VIP.

Brandy and Monica's 'The Boy Is Mine' Tour Brought Celebrity Attendees, including Rihanna, Jay-Z, and Beyoncé

R&B duo Brandy and Monica offered a power-packed performance through their LA concert for 'The Boy Is Mine' tour. Find out the list of celebrities who came to enjoy. Brandy and Monica are two of the most talented and celebrated R&B singers who have captivated their fans through music.

But only a few people would know that their loyal fanbase also includes a fair number of celebrity musicians from the industry. It became more evident at the LA concert, which was star-studded with the presence of Rihanna, Jay-Z, Beyoncé, and other artists.

Brandy and Monica, two Grammy-winning powerhouse singers, are currently proceeding with their 'The Boy Is Mine' tour, and the star-studded performance took place at the Kia Forum in Inglewood, California, on Sunday, November 9.

It was a sold-out show, and a large number of celebrity artists made sure to attend the show. The list of attendees includes power couple Beyoncé and Jay-Z, as well as gorgeous and talented Rihanna, pop singer Rita Ora, rapper Blxst, actress Queen Latifah, Wendy Raquel Robinson, Jenifer Lewis, Yvonne Orji, and the list goes on.

Not only the attendees but the power duo also brought many fellow music artists on stage for a performance. The list of guest performers includes R&B artist Mario, as well as rappers, namely, LL Cool J and O.T. Genasis. Surprisingly, Kelly Rowland from Destiny's Child also performed in a supporting act with other singers, namely Jamal Roberts and Muni Long.

Brandy and Monica first collaborated in 1998 for their smash hit track, 'The Boy Is Mine,' and that is the reason why the tour got its namesake.

They started their joint tour on October 16 from Cincinnati, and the pair is scheduled to perform for a total of 32 dates in the USA through numerous cities. The last performance for the tour is all set to take place in Jacksonville, Florida, on December 14, offering the perfect blast for the festive season.

"The Boy Is Mine" is perhaps the most successful track by this duo that reached No. 1 on the Billboard Hot 100 and stayed for over 13 weeks.

The success of this single helped the singers earn their Grammy for best R&B performance by a duo or group. The song again received its cultural legacy of pop when the singers decided to revisit it through a remix with Ariana Grande for the song with the same name, offering a reimagined version of the R&B hit classic.

The song again received a nomination at the 67th annual Grammy Awards for best pop duo/group performance. The star attendance not only surprised the fans but the performers as well, since the whole of Hollywood came to embrace the duo.

The A-list friends who attended the LA concert received gratitude from the singers as well. They were very happy to have Rihanna as Brandy offered a heartfelt shoutout through Instagram with the caption, "Oh RiRi, what a surprise!" and it further reads, "I love you and thank you for sharing your love and light with us last night. ✨"

Similarly, Monica also paid her tribute to the artists through her own post, where everyone was mentioned, including Queen Latifah, Jenifer Lewis, LL Cool J, Lena Waithe, Riri, and others.

Let's Find the Most Iconic Moments from the Latin Grammys 2025

Latin Grammys 2025 offered a magical musical night with back-to-back performances and a surprising list of winners, which delighted the hearts of music lovers.

The Latin Grammys 2025 took place in Las Vegas on November 13, and this 26th edition of the award ceremony was a complete blast.

The venue was the MGM Grand Garden Arena, and the spectacular event offered many amazing moments to remember. The three-hour show was a complete blast with many performances and surprising winners.

The star-studded set of performers included Maluma, Grupo Frontera, Edgar Barrera, as well as Christian Nodal, and all of them performed together for "Oye Como Va" in honor of the legend, Carlos Santana.

Each performance from the Latin Grammy was an invigorating sonic experience for the listeners, and the most satisfying work was offered by Rauw Alejandro and Ca7riel & Paco Amoroso, whose voices could be heard outside of the park.

There were also Marco Antonio Solís and Karol G, who performed the track "Coleccionando Heridas" for the first time on the telecast.

Hailing from Argentina, the duo Ca7riel & Paco Amoroso made sure to take over the stage with their refreshing musical performance and re-established why they are among the winners.

The duo won a total of awards and were selected for 10 nominations. They performed many hit tracks like "La Que Puede, Puede", "El Impostor," etc. Being the ultimate showman, Rauw also brought a raw energy on stage that left an impact. His dance moves are truly incredible, making the fans go crazy. Spanish star Raphael's infectious energy was also noticeable as attendees could not help but start singing along to his song "Gran Noche." The veteran artist received hearty tribute from the award presenters, Gloria Estefan and Marco Antonio Solís, who gave him the special award of Person of the Year.

The most nominated artist of the night was Bad Bunny, and he made sure to bring the tropical vibe of his latest album. Puerto Rican act Chuwi also complemented the stage with the smash hit "Tikiri."

The Latin Grammys 2025 offered many spectacular performances from the rising artists, and Brazilian rising star Liniker was one of them. She appeared in a gaudy gold dress along with gold boots, reflecting her energy through her appearance.

Everyone beat when she performed "Negona Dos Olhos Terríveis." Embracing a strong Mexican pride, Pepe Aguilar offered the original taste of Mexico through music.

The glorious night was also seeking some tantalizing rock acts, and Morat gave that to the attendees. Their high-octane performance of "Faltas Tú" was truly electrifying. Similarly, there was Elena Rose, who knows how to captivate listeners through her voice.

There was spirituality in her music, and the Venezuelan singer-songwriter ended her performance with a prayer for love.

Some of the other stars of the night are DannyLux, Kakalo, Ivan Cornejo, Gloria Estefan, Nathy Peluso, Carín León, Kacey Musgraves, and the list goes on with more powerful acts.

Fans Criticized Management After Watching Akon's Delhi Concert

Akon's Delhi concert has been criticized severely by everyone, as everyone struggled with poor visibility. Audiences are asking for refunds after their poor experience.

The globally renowned rapper, Akon, came to Delhi, India, for his concert on 9th November. But the show didn't go according to plan and became a huge storm of outrage on the internet.

The show was about to be filled with high-energy performances and an occasion of being nostalgic for the audiences, but it wasn't anything like that.

However, it isn't the fault of the rapper but the management. The concert took place at the Jawaharlal Nehru Stadium, where everyone was waiting to listen to his old bangers like 'Smack That', 'ChammakChallo', and 'Lonely'. But the audiences didn't get to enjoy the show due to unorganized crowd management, sound issues, and poor visibility.

Audiences went to the show by spending thousands of rupees. And even after that, if they do not get to witness a clear show, then it is obvious that they will be frustrated.

The show was scheduled to take place between 5 pm to 10 pm. But none of them got to enjoy all these hours while the rapper was performing.

Audiences said that there were sound systems, trees, and a huge screen that obstructed the view. Many have also said they could only see him perform on the screen due to all the obstacles. It is a pure case of poor management, and only the audience had to suffer.

Right after the show, social media platforms were filled with criticism. One of the users on X has written 'Hi District India, Akon I booked silver tickets at the Akon concert in Delhi happening today and I mean you can't have trees and the sound system blocking my view? I've attended grub at the same place and that had a better experience for sure'.

Right after that, one also stated, 'Standing at Akon's Delhi concert — front sections are 70 percent empty while people at the back are struggling to see anything. No clear signs, blocked view by screens, cameras and trees. Requesting Delhi district admin and event team to allow people to move front or issue refunds please'.

In addition to that, one also stated, 'Hi there, we truly appreciate you taking the time to share your feedback. We understand how this impacted your experience, and please be assured we're continuously working with the event partners to address these concerns and improve future experiences for all attendees'.

One also posted by saying 'I booked silver tickets at the Akon concert in Delhi on 9th Nov, and I mean you can't have trees and the sound system blocking my view? I have attended many concerts at the same location and never had such an experience'.

From all these, it is quite obvious to understand how offended the audiences are right after watching the show. No action has been taken after that.

However, Akon will continue his India tour by performing in Mumbai and Bengaluru.

Ed Sheeran Returns to Dublin from 'where it all began'

Global pop star Ed Sheeran returns to his roots, despite all the Irish cynicism, and this time he came for a secret Spotify show specially arranged for fans only.

The show took place at the Royal Dublin Society, and it was a celebration for Sheeran becoming a 14-time member of Spotify's Billions Club.

The born-and-bred Englishman has faced a fair share of teasing from the Irish cynics, but it could not stop him from embracing his homeland through life and music.

The Monday night gathering includes around 2,000 of Sheeran's "top fans" who were selected based on the listening data of the fans on the platform of Spotify.

Ed Sheeran made sure to remind fans of his family tree, where his father, John, is a native of Belfast, while her mother grew up in County Wexford.

Talking about Ireland, the popstar said that it is a "special place for me musically. I feel this is where it all began." The crowd was cheering while wearing forest green baseball caps as a sign of the Sheeran's Billions Club membership.

This special concert was full of fun as the streaming service also brought in a small group of influencers from Europe and the US to attend the show and cover it instead of the regular media.

Sheeran made the crowd go crazy with his signature set that includes only him with his acoustic guitar and loop pedal. He offered a spectacular performance that took place under 90 minutes, offering a delightful taste of a personal concert.

Sheeran appeared on stage in a white tee and black pants and started his set with the recent single 'Sapphire'.

This casual dressing sense and magical voice are what fans dig for, and he did not fail to impress them. The singer-songwriter performed all the tracks that helped him earn the status of the Billions Club on Spotify.

When it comes to the list of the top tracks, "Shape of You" was the first song to hit the mark of a billion streams, and soon that record was followed by another song from his collection, "The A Team."

This song was released in 2010, and it marks the initiation of Ed Sheeran's professional career. Sheeran said that the track "has taken me from pubs to stadiums and been the same song the whole way."

The fans made sure to bounce hard while the beats of "Castle on the Hill" and "Bad Habits" kicked in. He also performed other smash hits such as "Thinking Out Loud," "Perfect," and "I See Fire," a soundtrack of "The Hobbit: The Desolation of Smaug." In a nutshell, Sheeran Billions Club performance was wild!

Popstar Sabrina Carpenter Starring in 'Alice In Wonderland' Movie

Everybody knows about the dynamic skills of the pop star Sabrina Carpenter, who can sing, perform, and act as well. This artist is now preparing to star in an upcoming 'Alice in Wonderland' movie, and Universal Pictures produce this reboot. Although there are no official announcements, an internal source suggests that it was Carpenter's own idea to approach the studio, as she considers this one of her passion projects.

It is said that the pop star will also be producing the movie, but the release date for the film has not been decided yet. There is no information for the fellow cast either. According to the source, this upcoming reboot will be written by Lorene Scafaria, who has also written and directed the movie 'Hustlers' featuring Jennifer Lopez. The film franchise for Alice was previously done by Disney and directed by Tim Burton in 2010. That was a highly successful movie that grossed billions of dollars at the box office. For this live-action movie, Alice was Mia Wasikowska while the other prominent characters were played by Anne Hathaway, Johnny Depp, Matt Lucas, Helena Bonham Carter, Stephen Fry, Alan Rickman, and many others. There was a sequel with the name of 'Alice Through The Looking Glass', which was released in 2016, but it could not make a huge profit.

The upcoming movie for Alice is supposed to recreate the Victorian era story by Lewis Carroll, which was later adapted into an animated Disney Movie and gained attention from all over the world. The movie was released back in 1951, and the upcoming live-action is willing to offer the same taste.

Sabrina and Disney have an old connection, as she is an alum who worked for Disney as a child actress. She gained a fair portion of the limelight by starring in the series Girl Meets World. The series ran for three seasons and offered a wholesome coming-of-age story, which gained much attention from the audience.

She grew up and became a pop star, but never ignored her acting skills. In September, it was announced that the star will also join the cast for Seth Rogen's The Muppet Show revival for a special one-off, which will take place in 2026.

Sabrina Carpenter is also doing great in her musical career, and the singer has already snatched six nominations at the Grammys. She got the nods for the categories, namely, Song Of The Year, Album Of The Year, Best Pop Solo Performance, Best Pop Vocal Album, Best Music Video, and lastly, Record Of The Year for her latest album 'Man's Best Friend', which features the smash hit single 'Manchild'.

Shakti Got a Double Nomination for The Upcoming 68th Grammy Awards

The Indian fusion band, Shakti, is making Indians proud as they have gotten two major nominations for the 68th Grammy Awards. Recently, it has come to know that their new album, named 'Mind Explosion', has been nominated for Best Global Music Album. And on the other hand, the song 'Shrini's Dream' is nominated for Best Global Music Performance. These are truly one of the biggest achievements.

Previously, in 2024, this band won the Grammy for the album 'This Moment'. Right after winning a Grammy, being nominated once again in two categories has created a huge sensation on the internet. Right now, Shankar Mahadevan is leading the band. The co-founder of the band was the tabla maestro, Ustad Zakir Hussain. He died in December 2024, which was quite heartbreaking news for the band and all the people in the nation.

He has represented India on the global stage and achieved massive recognition throughout his career. That is why, after getting this year's nomination, Mahadevan has dedicated the honor to Hussain. In a recent statement, Mahadevan has said 'Unfortunately, Zakirsaheb is no more, so we are dedicating his album to him. He and John McLaughlin started Shakti 50 years back, and I came in the year 2000. Leading it now, it's a blessing, really'.

This new album of the band has the essence of sadness. In this album, they have compiled all their recordings of 25-30 live concerts from their European and US tour.

The loss of Hussain made a huge impact on the band, Shankar Mahadevan has stated, 'It's a void that can't be filled. Creating a cohesive album from live shows was challenging, but we did it and it's an honour to be recognised with two Grammy nominations. We will miss him a lot'. It is obvious that losing such a talented music artist is the most heartbreaking thing for a music band. They were in a long process of releasing the album in the absence of Hussain. The band is now working again to get back to their form. They are now willing to work more on new pieces of music and offer them to their listeners. Currently, the band consists, Shankar Mahadevan, percussionist V Selvaganesh, guitarist John McLaughlin, and the violinist Ganesh Rajagopalan. The ceremony of the 68th Grammy will take place on the 1st of February 2026. The band members are definitely thrilled about the nominations, but they are also sad at the same time.

Other than Shakti, there are a few more Indian artists who have been nominated for the upcoming Grammy Awards. It is coming to know that the sitarist Anoushka Shankar is nominated for 'Chapter III: We Return to Light', the Indo-American pianist, Charu Suri, is nominated for 'Shyan', and the singer and composer from Delhi, Siddhant Bhatia, is nominated for 'Sounds of Kumbha'.

Zubeen Garg's Fans Gather Outside His Residence in Assam to Celebrate His Birth Anniversary

The people of Assam came together on the occasion of Zubeen Garg's 53rd birth anniversary. On the 18th November, the people of the state came to remember their icon who died recently on 19th September this year. It was the very first birthday after his death, and fans couldn't hold back their emotions. It came to see that after Monday midnight, people started gathering outside his residence in Kahilipara.

Fans even came up with a cake and placed it in front of his photo. His wife, Garima Saikia Garg, and his sister, Palmee Borthakur, were also there and watched. His fans sang the birthday song to remember the singer and a few of his popular soundtracks. Zubeen's demise was quite shocking for everyone, and people still do not believe that the singer has gone forever. He was one of the most prestigious artists in his state and the whole country. So, when he died, it was a great loss for everyone. On Tuesday, a 20-kilogram cake was brought to his house, which was unveiled by his wife and his father. Along with that, it is also seen that since Monday night, many people have been visiting his cremation site. They came up with flowers, gamosas, and lit lamps. The CM of Assam, Himanta Biswa Sarma, also paid tribute by writing 'Some presence fades from sight but shines brighter in memory'. Other than this, in another post, he stated, 'Today, we honour the enduring legacy of an artist who was, will and forever be our heartthrob. That of our #BelovedZubeen. Forever in our hearts'.

Apart from his fans arranging an event for his birthday, political parties also came forward. Across the state, there were multiple events that took place just because of his birth anniversary. Bharatiya Janata Party, the ruling political party, organised a total of 53 blood donation camps. On the other hand, Congress organised an event named 'Kanchanjunga-Sanskriti Houk Maitreyir Mantra' in the Panjabari. They described the event as 'remembrance, reverence and collective reflection'. At this event, Gaurav Gogoi, the Assam Pradesh Congress Committee president, was also present.

Zubeen Garg had a phenomenal journey as a music artist. He has sung over 38000 soundtracks in 40 different languages. He has made a huge impact on several industries with his songs. Thus, as he has gone forever, it is obvious for people to mourn.

The Man Who Grabbed Ariana Grande Finally Got Jailed

An Australian man with blue locks has been found in many concerts, crashing on stage and getting too close to the celebrity artists. He tried the same with Ariana Grande when she appeared for the Asia premiere of Wicked: For Good. This incident of grabbing Ariana took place last Thursday, and the man is not in jail by the Singapore administration.

Johnson Wen is currently 26 years old, and it seems like he feels absolutely no shame for being found guilty of creating a nuisance at events with high-profile celebrities. Videos of the incident are already viral over social media, and they show Wen breaking the protective barrier and jumping to Ariana, then grabbing her shoulder and jumping up and down.

It was quite shocking for Ariana as well as Cynthia Erivo, who literally pushed the man away and held Grande like a protector. She is truly present there for her sister and not just for the film. This unfortunate incident of showing fake fandom has sparked a huge rage among the people and fans of Singapore, and they have asked for the arrest and deportation of Wen.

Wen already has a huge history of disrupting concerts and celebrity events, as it is his identity. In the trial that took place on Monday, Wen argued that he is a "serial intruder" and that it is his identity that helped him gain online popularity, as apparently, people love to watch him intrude on celebrity shows and sporting events. That is definitely a very weird way to address mental health issues and attention-seeking behavior, but that is the way of social media right now.

He posts videos of intruding on many concerts by celebrity artists like The Weeknd, Katy Perry, and the list goes on. Even the Australian media has reported multiple incidents where the man is banned from various venues with a significant fine.

The incident in Singapore escalated as Ariana Grande was greatly traumatized, and it gave her a flashback or PTSD, as previously, an intruder caused a suicide bomb attack and killed 22 people in one of her concerts that took place in Manchester back in 2017. Wen intruded twice, and the second time was his chance, and he got pinned by the police. Later on, the social content creator posted on social media saying he is 'free' and thanked Ariana Grande.

Now, the question is why such nuisance creators are getting so much privilege and audacity to intrude on the celebrity events? While a lot of people are blaming him, it is also true that online users gave him the fame and support that led him to this day. Be responsible and entertain yourself responsibly.

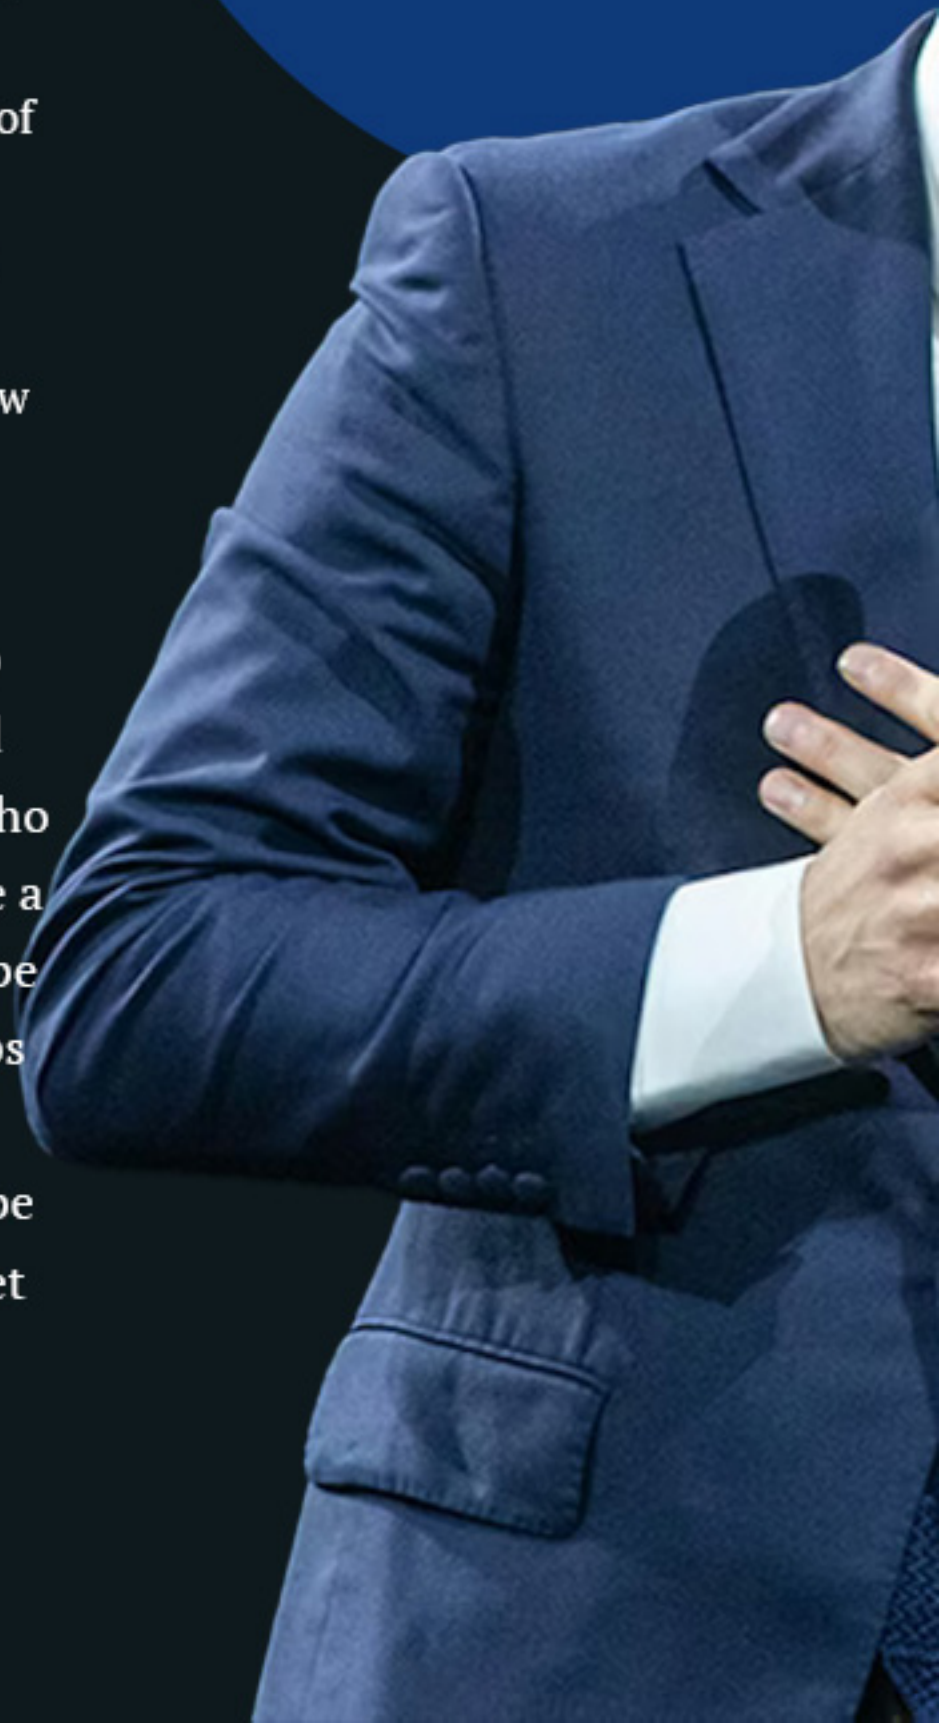

MICHAEL BUBLÉ HAS MADE A RETURN TO THE BILLBOARD TOP HOLIDAY ALBUMS CHART WITH HIS ALBUM 'CHRISTMAS'. EACH SONG OF THE ALBUM NEVER FAILS TO AMUSE LISTENERS.

The music album, 'Christmas' by Michael Bublé, is getting back to the No. 1 position on Billboard's Top Holiday Albums. It is an album that was released more than a decade ago, in 2011. And it is still making a sensation among the listeners during the holiday season. At the time the album was released, it remained at No. 1 on the list for a total of 61 weeks, which is quite impressive. So, the album resurfacing again on the internet is not a shocking case. This album is now completely associated with the occasion. It can be said that now Christmas is incomplete without these album tracks.

Previously, it was seen that when it comes to Christmas, the only songs that came to mind were the classics. However, Bublé is an artist who delivered the modern holiday classic and made a deep impact on all. It has that classic songs vibe yet has a modern touch. And that is what helps this album to get back to the charts during Christmas every single year. From this, it can be understood that listeners are continuing to get back his songs to feel the warmth of his soundtracks in this festive season.

MICHAEL BUBLÉ'S

*Decade-Old Album
'Christmas' Got Back to No. 1 Position On Billboard Top
Holiday Album Chart*

It is Bublé's excellent rendition and exceptional voice that have made each track of the album truly brilliant. Many get confused as to why every year, the album 'Christmas' gets to the top of the list. It happens just because of a few significant elements.

This artist has given that perfect blend of jazz with the familiar feeling of the old classic music. It is his innovative way of presentation that has made this album evergreen. All the songs from this album have the potential to make a deep impact on the listeners, and that is why it gets back to the top of the list every Christmas.

This album has not only topped the chart as a Christmas album but it has done quite a remarkable job in jazz-focused lists as well. It has been seen that 'Christmas' has topped the lists of Jazz Albums list and Traditional Jazz Albums. It is his phenomenal work that has helped him to achieve such massive recognitions. Everyone is expecting that the album will continue to stay on the top of the list through the early January of 2026. The tracks of the album will continue to make a buzz throughout the Christmas season.

Other than Bublé's album, there are several artists who have gotten the chance to get a position on the top charting list. For example, Trisha Yearwood's 'Christmastime' gotten the position on 36, Brad Paisley's 'Snow Globe Town' got into No. 15, and Herb Alpert's 'Christmas Time Is Here' has made it to No. 44.

Malaika Arora Facing Backlash for Her Performance in Yo Yo Honey Singh's 'Chillgum'

Malaika Arora, the Bollywood superstar, has recently appeared in Yo Yo Honey Singh's latest song 'Chillgum'. Only the track's teaser has been released, and Malaika is already receiving much backlash from the audience. The actress has been seen showing some bold moves, which have gotten much attention. The upcoming track is from Honey Singh's latest album '51 Glorious Days'.

The singer and rapper is all set to drop the album that brings bringing the nostalgia of Honey Singh's old songs. His fans were quite excited about the new song release. But it isn't going according to their expectation. The teaser of the soundtrack has been released on 7th November. The new song has the energy of 90s music, but the response of the audience is quite surprising. From the teaser, it came to see that Malaika is dancing with the rapper under the neon lights, and her moves are quite energetic.

They have tried to show some chemistry, which has attracted many audiences, but most of them ain't satisfied. Netizens have shared their opinion, and it can be clearly said that most audiences didn't show any positive response. After watching the teaser, many have stated on social media that the choreography is 'vulgar'. One also said that the chemistry looks very much 'forced', which has made the song quite boring.

Malaika Arora has given many hit item tracks in the industry throughout her career. But she hasn't received such backlash in her career. Thus, it is quite surprising for the actress as well. Malaika was the artist who gave the banger like 'Chaiyya Chaiyya', which still has a soft spot in everyone's hearts even after 27 years. Thus, no one expected this from Malaika.

It all started when the BTS pictures went viral on Reddit. The actress was seen in a picture with her tongue out, which looks quite absurd. In another photo, she is seen twerking near the rapper, and that wasn't pleasing as well.

After watching all these, one user stated, 'It's because she can't do it properly, that's why it seems vulgar. First, these choreographers come up with the sleaziest moves, and when the actress can't pull it off, they get shamed online'. Another also said 'Sunidhi Chauhan's Aankh is an example of a good item song where Sanya Malhotra performed with power and grace. This one just feels awkward and forced'.

One also added by saying, 'The problem is that it isn't sexy or attractive. It's just vulgar. You can mostly get away with frisky performances if you make them look stylish. Just take a look at Malaika's earlier work compared to this'.

Everyone's response shows that most people didn't like the teaser. What they have done can only be said after the release of the track. So, now, everyone has to wait for the music video release.

Shashwat Sachdev Drops His 9-track Album 'The Indian Odyssey' Through Extreme Music

Shashwat Sachdev steps into a new era with his album 'The Indian Odyssey'. It is a nine-track project that drives deep into India's sound and spirit while bringing a modern edge to it. Each track feels alive, blending tradition with a bold and fresh take. The release marks a major moment for the National Award-winning composer and producer, who continues to push creative boundaries. Coming right after his work with Hans Zimmer on the British series, 'Virdee', this album feels like both a celebration and an evolution of his craft.

The newly released album brings a true reflection of how far his music has come to his audience. This release comes at a key moment in Shashwat Sachdev's journey. After creating powerful scores for hit films like 'Bads of Bollywood', 'Dhurandhar', and 'Kesari Chapter 2', he now takes a more personal route. 'The Indian Odyssey' feels different for his fans. It is free from any script or storyline and is built only on emotion and imagination. The album moves through many moods, from chaos to calm, always holding a sense of balance. Every sound feels intentional, every layer part of a bigger story. This album is Shashwat's own vision coming alive, where cinematic energy meets deep and human expression. 'The Indian Odyssey' brings together a rich mix of voices that truly capture India's soul. The album features artists like Kutle Khan, Dara Khan, Piyush Kapoor, Kala Khan, Sannidh Shah, Sanah Hegde, Vishal Dadlani, Sudhir Yadhuvanshi, Jubin Nautiyal, and Sanjith Hegde. Each artist adds their own color and emotion, creating a soundscape that feels both rooted and new.

The collaboration feels organic, like a meeting of different worlds that share one deep musical heart beat. The CEO/President of Extreme Music, Russell Emanuel, says, "This project has been more than music—it's been a journey of heart, soul, and collaboration. Sha's devotion to his craft is as powerful as his sound, and I'm truly honoured to have played a small role in this extraordinary creative experience." 'The Indian Odyssey' also shines through its incredible lineup of instrumentalists who bring depth and emotion to every track in this project. It features the graceful flute work of Parupalli Phalgun and Naveen Kumar, the soulful sitar of Mehtab Ali Niazi, and the expressive sarod of Pratik Shrivastava.

Their sounds blend perfectly with the energy of drummer Vetrivel and the mesmerizing tones of santoor players Munja and Roshan Sharma. The percussion legend Siva Mani adds even more fire to this very traditional yet very edgy project of Sachdev, whose rhythms lift the entire experience. Together, all of them create something timeless for the audience. 'The Indian Odyssey' truly feels like a meeting between skills and traditional musical craft that turns each piece into an unforgettable journey through India's sound and spirit.

MC Jin, NE-YO, Jonathan Serbin and Sonu Nigam

Pacific Music Group Launches with Ne-Yo, Sonu Nigam, and MC Jin

It seems like a global collaborative event for music, with Pacific Music Group making a grand launch. The launch event included Chinese American rapper MC Jin, Indian singing legend Sonu Nigam, and three-time Grammy winner Ne-Yo. They have partnered with Jonathan Serbin, the former Warner Music Asia co-president, in order to launch Pacific Music Group, a newly launched entertainment company, and the headquarters is established in Hong Kong.

This label is being launched to curate and develop Pan-Asian talent for the global music lovers. This is a strategic development, or more like a bet on Asia's growing influence in the global music industry. This company is aiming to empower regional artists and elevate their musical careers by making them international stars. It will also provide Western acts and an opportunity to enter the Asian market, which has the highest consumer base in the whole world. The Pacific Music Group is willing to launch artists in multiple genres, including R&B, hip-hop, pop, electronic, and others. This strategy might work as the regional Asian styles are gaining much attention in the international market, as the global listeners are getting fond of them. The label is going to focus on different countries in Southeast Asia, including India, Japan, South Korea, China, and the list goes on.

Jonathan Serbin said, "Asia has emerged as one of the most dynamic forces in the global music industry. With half the world's population and three of the top ten music markets, the region is primed to lead on the world stage." He further added, "At the same time, rapidly growing markets like India, Indonesia, Vietnam, and the Philippines offer immense potential. We believe the time is right for a music company born in Asia, but built with a global perspective from day one." Serbin has a history of serving in Warner Music, and he helped in its expansion across Asia as the first K-pop label. Talking about the partnership with veteran music artists, he said, "Ne-Yo, Sonu and MC Jin have all achieved long-standing global success, and they know exactly what it takes to build international music careers. I'm honored to partner with these legends. Pacific Music Group artists will gain invaluable insight from their experience and vision."

India's most celebrated singer, Sonu Nigam, said, "India alone has 1.6 billion people, but Indian artists want to connect well beyond our borders. The same is true across Asia. There is a hunger to grow globally and the potential to bring the richness of our cultures to the world. With Pacific Music Group, we're not just exporting talent, we're helping artists thrive both at home and abroad."

Evidently, this initiative will introduce new and emerging artists to the whole world.

Diljit Dosanjh Shares First Look as a Fighter Pilot in Border 2

Diljit Dosanjh has stepped into a new world with the first look from his upcoming film Border 2, and the makers have built strong interest around this reveal.

The film has been in discussion for months, and the team has now shared a clear picture of Dosanjh in the Indian Air Force uniform. This confirms that the story will not remain confined to the ground and that the air force will play an important role in the narrative. The makers first pushed the conversation forward by releasing posters of Sunny Deol and Varun Dhawan, and the new reveal adds a fresh layer of excitement.

The poster places Dosanjh inside the cockpit of a fighter jet. The frame shows him surrounded by smoke and fire as the aircraft takes heavy gunfire. Bullets strike the cockpit glass while he stays steady in his seat. The image sets a tone of urgency and conflict without giving too much away. The look was shared on his handle along with the announcement of the release date of 23rd January, 2026. The date positions the film right before the Republic Day weekend, which gives the project a symbolic moment to land on the big screen.

Along with the poster, Dosanjh also posted a short video on his social media accounts. The clip shows him walking out of an airbase hangar in full IAF uniform and turban, carrying the name tag NJS Sekhon.

The visual is simple but strong, and it gives a direct sense of how he plans to hold this role. He captioned it with the line, "Issdeshkeaasmaanmein Guru kebaazpehradetehain??" and the line stays with the viewer after the video ends.

Sunny Deol started the wave of reveals when he shared his own character poster on Independence Day. He added the line, "Hindustan keliyeladenge....phirekbaar." It set the stage for a story built on duty and courage. Soon after, Varun Dhawan followed with his own reveal and introduced his character with the words, "DeshkaFauji, Hoshiyar Singh Dahiya."

The two posters created a clear idea that the film aims to highlight different sides of service and sacrifice. Border 2 is directed by Anurag Singh, known for his work on Kesari, and the project brings together a large ensemble.

Ahan Shetty, Medha Rana, Mona Singh, and SonamBajwa join the cast, adding a wide range of performers who can hold emotional and action-driven parts.

The film aims to carry forward the legacy of the original while opening the story to new conflicts and new faces. With the cast lined up and the first looks setting the tone, Border 2 now moves into the next stage of its journey.

The film is set for a release on 23rd January, 2026, arriving right before a weekend that carries strong national emotion.

RM Hints at New BTS Music, Promises Fans Something Worth the Wait

RM from BTS hinted that a new album from the band might be on its way! According to the leader of the K-pop boyband in South Korea, the album might come with a tour! BTS fans have a lot to be excited about right now.

RM just gave a fresh update that makes it sound like the comeback everyone has been waiting for is closer than ever. The leader of the group shared that he and the rest of the members, Jin, SUGA, j-hope, Jimin, V, and Jung Kook, have been locked in the studio. According to RM, the entire band is working hard on new music. And from what he says, it is all going great.

In a recent post on Weverse shared Tuesday, November 11, RM wrote that “above all,” the new songs are “coming out really well!!” He also added in Korean, “Everyone’s trying. Please look forward to it.” It was a small message, but it was more than enough to send ARMY into full excitement mode.

Fans have known for a while that BTS was gearing up for their official return. The group reunited publicly back in July after spending about two years apart, each fulfilling their South Korean military service. That moment alone was emotional for fans, but the band did not stop there. BTS confirmed that they have a new album in the works, planned for release in 2026, along with a world tour.

RM later gave a bit more detail in October during W Korea’s Love Your W event in Seoul. Talking about what’s next for BTS, he said, “We have to keep preparing for the album - we’ll shoot the album photos and film the music video. Please look forward to late March.” That hint made fans wonder if the comeback might drop sooner than the full album next year. Of course, living up to their last era will be a big challenge.

BTS became unstoppable in 2020 with three No. 1 hits on the Billboard Hot 100, while their album ‘Be’ and the 2022 compilation ‘Proof’ both topped the Billboard 200. That kind of success is hard to beat. But if anyone can raise the bar again, it is BTS. RM recently reminded everyone of that at the APEC CEO Summit in South Korea, where he said that pushing limits and breaking expectations is what BTS does best. It feels like this comeback is not solely focused on returning. This might be the project that will prove once again why they changed the game in the first place.

“BTS first started to go outside Korea about 10 years ago,” RM spoke at the event. “At that time, the music of BTS was quickly called ‘non-English, foreign culture.’ Trying to get on mainstream media through our music was like doing an experiment and a huge challenge. It was a test to see if ‘music in Korean can work on the global stage.’”

“We overcame those barriers,” the BTS rapper continued. “ARMY was the force that broke down those barriers. They use our music as the medium to carry out conversations that cross borders and languages.”

Kesha Lifts Her Mom up as PebeSebert Steps into Her Self-titled First Album

Kesha's mother, PebeSebert, is making her debut in the industry with her first-ever self-titled album. She also said that this is going to be her one and only album.

PebeSebert, the mother of global pop star Kesha, shared a big moment with her fans. She said her first album will land on 12th December. She posted the news on social media with a short caption. She wrote that this is her only album. The line felt open and true.

The caption read, "PebeSebert. My one and only album." A little before the announcement, she put out a new song called 'City's Burning'. It is the third track tied to this project. She released two earlier songs in the past years.

One was 'Vampire' from 2021' and the other one was 'Hard Times Ahead' from 2022. Each song felt raw to her listeners in its own way. Each of Pebe's releases showed her voice in a clear space. The upcoming self-titled album will contain eleven songs. All of them come from her recordings from the Eighties. This is the reason fans are going to get a sound that feels warm and full of heart. Her album is going to give a soft look into her life at that time. You can hear a mix of hope and weight in the way she sings.

Kesha will be supporting her mother in her own way. The 'TikTok' singer will put the album out through her own label. She used the same label for her sixth album in July.

It feels like a proud moment for both of them. "I grew up in the studio, watching my mom turn her life into songs. These moments became stories. these stories are her life," Kesha said in a post on X. The artist has regularly worked with her mother throughout her entire career.

"She wrote an album before I was born. This was the only album she made as an independent artist before focusing her life on raising her children and writing songs for other people", the popstar said further. "I grew up watching this alchemy, and I only became who I am because of the road she paved before me. I'm so proud to finally release my mom's debut album on KESHA RECORDS, and I'm so proud of her release today !" the singer continued.

When she released 'Vampire' in 2021, Sebert spoke about her battle with substance abuse. She shared how it pulled her away from her work and shaped that chapter of her life in a hard way.

"I felt like this song had died along with my career as a recording artist when my life fell off the tracks due to drug and alcohol abuse in the middle of recording my debut album, I grieved the loss of my recording career and this music I was so proud of," Sebert said in a statement.

"Last year I found these tapes in a dusty box in my basement and Guy [Roche] was nice enough to help me bring them back to life and it's very fulfilling to finally release this."

Hilary Duff Just Announced a New Album 'Luck...or Something'

Hilary Duff signs with Atlantic and announces album 'Luck...or Something' along with a docuseries on her return. Her single 'Mature' was released earlier.

Hilary Duff has announced her sixth album, titled 'Luck...or Something', arriving on 20th February, 2026 through Atlantic Records. It marks her first full-length release in ten years, and the rollout has been building quietly but steadily.

She put out the first single, 'Mature', in early November, which hinted at a new chapter and a voice that feels older and real. Fans have been waiting a long time for this, and now it finally feels close!

"I am often asked how I still have my head on straight after growing up in this industry," said the musician and actress in a statement. "The album title is my way of answering that question. It's luck, but there's also a lot of weight in the '...or something'. Many of the things I've been through along the way are held there, and I feel like ultimately that's what's shaped me."

In early September, Hilary Duff shared the news that she had officially signed with Atlantic Records and was stepping fully back into music. It was a move many fans had quietly hoped for but were waiting to see become real.

Alongside the announcement, she revealed plans for a docuseries that will follow the entire process of her return. The project is set to be directed and executive-produced by Sam Wrench, whose recent work includes

A Nonsense Christmas with Sabrina Carpenter and the massive concert film Taylor Swift: The Eras Tour. The series comes through Next of Kin Content and promises a view that is honest instead of polished, leaning into the idea that people want to see the messy middle instead of only the victories.

According to early details, the docuseries will capture the ups, the downs, and everything in between those two extremes. Fans will literally ride along as she balances raising her family, recording new music, rehearsing for live shows, and preparing to perform onstage for the first time in more than ten years.

Duff's first official step back into the musical space came with the release of her single 'Mature', a track she co-wrote with her husband Matthew Koma and songwriter Madison Love.

The song arrived quietly but confidently, creating a wave of response that made it feel like the beginning of something bigger. It also set the tone for the project, offering a sound that feels grown and rooted in real experience rather than trying to relive old eras.

Not long after the single arrived, Duff announced the Small Rooms, Big Nerves mini-tour. The run starts in London on 19th January, moves to Toronto on 24th January, and then heads to Brooklyn on 27th January. She will wrap the tour at the Wiltern in Los Angeles on 29th January, just a few weeks before the album release.

Tate McRae Teases 'So Close to What' Deluxe Edition with Fresh Tracks

Tate McRae announces the deluxe edition of 'So Close to What' with new songs on the way. McRae fans can pre-order now for early access to the bonus tracks. Tate McRae's album 'So Close to What' made a huge impact when it dropped back in March, landing straight at No. 1 on the Billboard 200. Now she is ready to take it up a notch. On Saturday, she shared that a deluxe version is on the way, and it is coming fast, just two weeks from now. Fans can expect a few new songs added to the track list, giving the record a fresh twist while keeping the same emotion and fire that made it a hit in the first place. Tate's not slowing down anytime soon, and it shows!! "SO CLOSE TO WHAT??? (deluxe) is out november 21 !!!!! we had a few more songs that i wanted to share with y'all to close out the SC2W era. i can't wait for you to hear," Tate McRae posted on Instagram.

As expected, comments from fans soon flooded the comment section. All of them showed nothing but excitement for this upcoming deluxe release. Some of the comments read, "So excited ???", "OH. MY. GOOOOODDDDDDDDDDD!!!!", "3 new songs?", "KHZKAHZOSUDODHSODUWO MEU DEUS", "BEEN WAITING FOR THISSSSS?", "screaming crying throwing up", etc.

Tate dropped a link for fans to pre-save or pre-order 'So Close to What (The Deluxe Album)'. It will be out on Spotify and Apple Music. The record will also come out as a physical copy for those who love the real thing. Her fans can grab the CD for $11.98 or the vinyl for $39.98 straight from her webstore. As of Sunday night, Tate McRae had not shared how many new songs will be on the deluxe version or what they are called. She is keeping fans guessing for now. Sunday also marked the end of her Miss Possessive Tour, which started in March and closed out with a big show at the Kia Forum in Inglewood, California. To wrap it all up, she posted a few behind-the-scenes photos from the final night, giving fans a glimpse of what went down. It felt like the perfect way to close one chapter and tease what is next.

Back in September, Tate McRae dropped her single 'Tit for Tat. It was a song she had been teasing while on tour. It did not appear on the 'So Close to What' track list, but fans instantly connected with it. Many believe the track was inspired by her breakup with fellow pop star The Kid LAROI, giving it that raw edge people love from her. The song became her third top-five hit on the Hot 100, proving her momentum has not slowed at all. Before that, she scored big with 'Greedy' in 2024 and 'What I Want', her collaboration with Morgan Wallen that went all the way to No. 1.

TOP 10 SONGS OF THE MONTH

10. I Got Better - Morgan Wallen

9. Folded - Kehlani

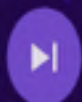

8. All I Want For Christmas
Is You - Mariah Carey

7. Daisies - Justin Bieber

6. Mutt - Leon Thomas

4. Man I Need - Olivia Dean

'Man I Need' by Olivia Dean seems to have spoken for all the women, and the listeners are resonating with this upbeat and playful musical creation, which has made its place in the Top 4.

3. Ordinary - Alex Warren

Alex Warren depicted the beauty of 'Ordinary' through his new track, and the heartfelt writing surely melted the listeners. Fans put this spiritual love song on third.

2. Golden - HUNTR/X: EJAE, Audrey Nuna & REI AMI

Golden by Huntrix takes the 2nd place not only because of the popularity of 'K-Pop Demon Hunters' but also the sheer amount of vocal power in the track that mesmerized the audience.

1. The Fate Of Ophelia - Taylor Swift

Taylor Swift seems to be taking romantic material from Shakespeare with her latest single, 'The Fate of Ophelia' from the album 'The Life of a Showgirl', which is currently buzzing among the Swifties. The song has successfully made its place at no.1 on the top charts, including Billboard's Hot 100. However, the song has also received a fair amount of criticism as many critics said the song changes the interpretation of the character and its storytelling. The official music video for the track also shows a theatrical representation of the theme, and Taylor did a good job. Whether it is the success of marketing or the support of the global fans, Swift swiftly takes the first place in the list!

Nora Fatehi has startled everyone with her debut pop soundtrack 'What Do I Know (Just A Girl)' featuring Shenseea. The song has garnered many listeners seamlessly. The Bollywood star, Nora Fatehi, is making her debut in the pop scene with 'What Do I Know (Just A Girl)' featuring Jamaican star Shenseea. The debut crossover has created a sensation on the internet in a brief time.

At first, she gave an outstanding performance at the Dubai Untold Festival this weekend. However, as she has dropped her very first single, it generated a huge buzz among everyone. No one expected that Nora would step into music. All these years, she has amused everyone with her bold dance moves. As the artist has delivered the brand new single, her fans cannot keep themselves calm anymore.

When Nora sings 'I mean, what do I even know? I'm just a girl' and dancing to the beats of the track, it seems like she has made the whole world her runway. As a debutant singer, it can definitely be said that Nora has done a great job. In addition to that, she has collaborated with Shenseea, which led them to bring the true Jamaican dancehall elements. This is assisting her to gain a larger number of listeners in a hassle-free way. This soundtrack has been written by the three-time Grammy nominee

Justin Tranter. He is known for various excellent music creations. Some of them are 'Liar', 'Body Language', 'Bella Poarch', 'Better Man', 'Sucker', 'Mercy', 'Come & Go', 'Heart on My Sleeve', 'Bad Boy', and many more. All of them have assisted him in getting recognized in the industry. As he came to write the lyrics, it was expected to be a banger.

While talking about 'What Do I Know (Just A Girl)', Nora stated, 'It's just really inspiring because we've just really poured everything into the music, the video, the choreo'. She has also said that is 'such an inspiring journey' collaborating with the Jamaican artist. Nora has also added 'I'm so excited to finally share 'What Do I Know (Just A Girl)' with the world! This song marks the start of my pop girl era, and diving into this new sound has been such an inspiring journey. Shenseea and I poured our hearts into every part of it, from recording the vocals to nailing the choreography for the music video. I couldn't be prouder of what we created together!'

Along with this, Shenseea has also shared how happy she is after working with Nora. She has said 'This song and video were such a blast to make! You can really feel how much fun we had bringing this track to life. Working with Nora was such a treat, and I know our fans are going to love it!'

Right after watching the video, everyone was just speechless. It was quite unexpected, and that is what made the song even better for the listeners. One of her fans commented, 'UFF!!!! Nora Fatehi can make the impossible look possible. She can sing, rap and dance. She's just 'AMAZING ?'.

Another of her fans stated, 'WHAT A BANGERS!!!! Had to run it back!!! IF IT'S NICE, WE PLAY IT TWICE!'. One has also said, 'We are not ready for this banger from Nora ??'. The video has created a huge sensation on the internet.

Right after the release, the video has gotten more than 131 million views on YouTube.

Now it can be said that with more passing time, the video will get more views in the future.

Find out how pop star Katy Perry is healing her wounds with the latest single 'bandaids' after her breakup with actor Orlando Bloom and the release of '143'. The devastating performance of 143, Katy Perry's last album, did not go well for the pop artist, who is desperate to make a comeback in the music industry. Perhaps it is time to heal from the fatal wounds with her latest creation, 'bandaids'.

This single has recently dropped, bringing more hope to Perry's fans and evoking the nostalgic taste of her peak era in the 2000s-2010s. The song has been released with an official music video, and it seems like the pop artist has successfully recreated the fatality of the movie franchise 'Final Destination'. However, it can be considered as a metaphoric representation of her life right now.

Katy Perry is currently on a streak of misfortune, and her flop '143' is one of them, which also explains why the artist dropped this single so soon after the release of the album. Starting from a disturbing stage crasher to a malfunction of a metal sphere and butterfly prop, a fan collapsing on stage, and last but not least, a breakup with actor Orlando Bloom, Perry is having a rough time. Perhaps the release of the 'bandaids' showcases that she is healing in her own way, but the wounds are deep. The music video has successfully portrayed the situation with a series of accidents; however, Perry successfully dodges all of them until the final climax. Touche to director Christian Breslauer as he managed to recreate the iconic highway accident scene from Final Destination, the first part, where logs come at full throttle at your car.

There are also many other situations, like getting hand struck in a garbage disposal, getting electrocuted at a Tesla charging station, getting foot stuck on the railroad when a train is coming, drowning in mud, and lastly, lighting a cigarette in a gas station and getting a blast. The disastrous period of her life and career is well represented in the official music video, which has already garnered much attention.

If seen lyrically, "bandaids" is definitely a song about heartbreak, and that explains her emotions related to Orlando Bloom. However, the pop star did not wait much and found Justin Trudeau, the former Canadian Prime Minister, as her current dating partner, or let's say, human band-aid to her wounds. The emotional turmoil of the Bloom breakup worked as a great subject matter for the song, which also carries a retro pop aura. Breakup materials are always great for pop tracks, and Katy knows that well as a pop star.

She has justified it is that way and made sure to offer the familiar taste of pop that most listeners are used to and can relate to. Perhaps this single could be that project that revives her career, which her album '143' could not. Either way, the former judge of American Idol is not looking forward to kissing contestants anymore. She is thriving well and about to hit the top charts again.

Perry's "bandaids" is a strongly written track which can reflect a bitterly perfect love as she sings "On the bright side/We had good times/Never faked our pictures/We were perfect/Til we weren't." Then, there are lines like, "If I had to do it all over again / I would still do it all over again," and "The love that we made was worth it in the end." It is evident that she is not hard on Bloom, and the acceptance goes a long way. In the official music video, the last cigarette she lights at the gas station seemed like a deliberate move rather than an accident, while you can hear 'Woman's World' in the background.

It's a perfect climax!

The Ram Charan song 'ChikiriChikiri' has been released from the movie 'Peddi'. Composed by A.R. Rahman, the track is creating a massive sensation among all.

The very first song, from the movie 'Peddi', has been released recently. The song 'ChikiriChikiri' has created much sensation among all listeners. The new Ram Charan song has garnered many listeners within a brief time and has more than 60 million views.

The soundtrack is quite catchy, and that is what led it to attract more audiences. This track is truly doing immensely well on all streaming platforms. In addition to that hooky music presentation, it is Ram Charan's bold steps that have made the song even more brilliant. This soundtrack has been composed by the legendary artist A.R. Rahman.

His compositions always create a wave, and this time too, it has done the same. Right after the release, Ram Gopal Varma said that the song had been beautifully done. The 'ChikiriChikiri' song is an exceptional craft. He has also said that every creation in a cinema 'should be only to elevate the HERO'. He also said that Ram Charan's appearance in the movie is quite 'raw, real, and explosive', which has made the track even better.

Buchi Babu Sana is the director of the movie.

By appreciating him, Varma has stated, 'a star shines brightest when stripped of unnecessary glitter'. One of the facts he has also unveiled is that Ram Charan isn't an actor who is 'lost in big sets or among hundreds of dancers'.

And that is a trait that is leading Ram Charan to become a superstar. As the director has put all his focus 'on the star himself', it assisted in making the project phenomenal. Varma's take on the movie is truly admiring, and his words have made the whole team overwhelmed.

'ChikiriChikiri' is getting such a huge response from everyone because A.R. Rahman has got into his pan-India song mode. The depth of the sound is captivating the audience in no time. It can be said that the globally renowned music composer has created a 'mass song' that easily grabs the attention of the listeners.

The lyrics of the song are simple yet impactful. And that is something rare to see. As the phrase 'ChikiriChikiri' is being addressed repetitively, it becomes familiar immediately. It is a unique trait that has given a satisfying outcome. For the vocals, they didn't want to do much, yet give a unique vibe. And the singer, Mohit Chauhan, has done justice to it. His relaxed voice has let the lyrics of the track flow.

The rhythmic vibe with the beautiful visuals has enhanced the charm of the track further. In the song, it has come to see that Ram Charan has a rugged village boy look. He is dancing gracefully to the choreography by Jani Master. The lead actress of the song is Janhvi Kapoor.

The chemistry between these two has been shown beautifully. The exceptional cinematography and color palette have added a whole new charm, which is unavoidable.

The soulful rendition of the track is grabbing the attention of the audience in no time.

As of now, it is seen that the track is released in multiple languages like Hindi, Telugu, Malayalam, and Kannada. In every language, the song has offered a great response from the audience.

Many audiences are out there who are missing the Tamil version of the track. That is why many are also expecting A.R. Rahman to give the Tamil version to his listeners in his Hyderabad concert.

As of now, there isn't any confirmation regarding this. His audiences are only speculating and expecting the artist to do this.

Get through an emotive musical experience with 'Usey Kehna' from Tere Ishk Mein, a song that brings back nostalgia. It is composed by AR Rahman and sung by Jonita and Nitesh.

The real essence of love is not always filled with happiness, but there is a fair share of poignancy as well. Capturing the authentic taste of romance and heartbreak, 'Usey Kehna' from Tere Ishk Mein is currently buzzing among the Indian fans who are also eagerly waiting for the release of the movie.

This soundtrack has been recently dropped to build more anticipation among the fans, and it worked wonderfully. Starring Dhanush and Kriti Sanon, this movie is going to win the hearts of the Bollywood lovers as it brings back the nostalgic taste of 'Ranjhanaa' as the makers of the movie are the same.

Directed and produced by Aanand L Rai, this movie is all set to release in the theaters on November 28th. Indians are eager to explore the romantic world of Shankar and Mukti.

After the release of the music video on YouTube, it has already garnered more than 18 million views within 24 hours, and the number is constantly rising. This soul-stirring music creation is composed by none other than AR Rahman, and his musical magic can be felt vividly.

'USEY KEHNA' FROM TERE ISHK MEIN EXTENDED SOB-HOURS FOR FANS

4.8/5

By Daily Music Roll

The song is performed by Jonita Gandhi and Nitesh Aher, and their beautiful vocals made sure to churn out the raw essence of Bollywood. The song is written by Irshad Kamil, and the heartfelt lyrics perfectly capture the ache of unrequited love.

What intensified the buzz even more were the clips and dialogues from the movie that are shown in the video for the song. Indians and Bollywood have a special corner for mainstream love stories between a man and a woman with economic differences.

Tere Ishk Mein seems like the perfect embodiment for such superficial stories that tantalize the hearts of the masses. The story is written by Himanshu Sharma and Neeraj Yadav, who did a great job in retaining the same frame for all romance. The film is a joint project by Gulshan Kumar, T-Series, and Colour Yellow.

'Usey Kehna' stands out as a song due to the beautiful composition by AR Rahman. It has a grand orchestral texture that creates a spacious ambiance and allows singers to showcase their vocal skills.

It is a highly emotive song that can evoke different emotions among the listeners. The fans of Bollywood are quite immersed in this track due to the romantic tension between Shankar and Mukti.

The heartfelt moments offered in the track are quite engaging and relatable for many Indians. The description for the song reads, "The one you love the most is the one who breaks you the most! Presenting "Usey Kehna (Song)", from the grand world of Shankar and Mukti - 'Tere Ishk Mein'. Starring Dhanush and Kriti Sanon."

Talking about Rahman's artistry, Director Aanand L. Rai expressed, "Music is the strongest form of magic... and I've had the privilege to watch the greatest magician create it up close the one and only A. R. Rahman."

'Usey Kehna' is definitely an emotional rollercoaster that can captivate everyone.

'Everyone's A Star!'
and 5SOS Just Changed the Game on the ARIA Chart

5SOS debuts 'Everyone's A Star!' at No. 1 on the ARIA Albums Chart, breaking history with six straight No. 1 studio albums and marking a defining moment for the band.

A moment that feels like history in real time

5 Seconds of Summer are living a chapter that feels bigger than charts, and the numbers make that clear. Everyone's A Star! opened at No. 1 on the ARIA Albums Chart, giving the band a record no other act has in ARIA history: six studio albums, six No. 1 debuts. The run began in 2014 with their self-titled album and rolled through Sounds Good Feels Good, Youngblood, Calm, and 5SOS5. Even LiveSOS reached the top ten. Watching a band grow like this changes how you listen. It makes ordinary moments feel heavier, like quiet markers of time that mean more later. The win also marks the sixth Australian release to reach No. 1 this year, with Calum Hood's solo project Order Chaos Order taking a turn in June. That link to their past makes the moment feel whole.

5SOS came home last month for a short run of appearances that mattered, including a fan-led press conference in Melbourne showed how real their support still is. Their induction to the Australian Walk of Fame in Sydney felt earned and celebratory. It is moving to see a band that once played small rooms now step into milestones while holding the same honesty they began with. Their new album is breathing on charts stacked with heavy names. It proves pop rock still moves people, and that 5SOS are writing a chapter that fans will point to later as when everything clicked.

Albums chart

This week's chart shows how strong Australian music feels right now. 5SOS leads the way, and right behind them sits the 40th anniversary edition of Jimmy Barnes' For The Working Class Man at No. 2. Moments like this remind people why he remains one of the most respected voices in the country. He holds more No. 1 albums than any other artist in Australia, with two ARIA Hall of Fame honors that keep shaping what rock means here. That movement pushes Taylor Swift's Life of a Showgirl to No. 3 after six weeks at the top. New voices are rising, too. Don West arrives at No. 25, and Mini Skirt makes their first appearance at No. 36. "Where Is My Husband?" comes with a clever blend of humor and wit where the narrative is offered quite playfully. It comes with a captivating storytelling experience and RAYE has offered an unwavering performance along with her brand. This single is quite fun and polished at the same time, showcasing the artist's progress and evolution on her highly successful musical journey. It seems like her stolen car and diary could not create an obstacle to her exclusive creative journey. The general ticket sale starts on September 23. Hurry up before it is too late!

Singles and ARIA Awards impact

The ARIA Awards brought a shake across the singles chart. Olivia Dean earns her first Australian No. 1 with 'Man I Need' after a standout live performance and an outdoor set at Fleet Steps. Tame Impala climbs into the top 30 with 'Dracula' after two wins. You Am I sees a lift to No. 15 with 'The Dollop and The Wallop' after their Hall of Fame moment. RÜFÜS DU SOL moves from 47 to 39 as their tour fuels new energy.

And still, this week belongs to 5SOS. A band that grew up in front of everyone and now stands somewhere untouched. 'Everyone's A Star!' feels like a message the world is repeating back to them!
